Ability Impaired Driver Fined

LINDSAY, Oct. 5. — Bernard Watters, 270 Rubidge St., Peterborough, was convicted of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol and fined $66 by Magistrate E. A. Gee in Lindsay police court Wednesday.

Constables Stan Judson of the Lindsay OPP detachment testified he had found the accused sleeping in a panel truck parked on the south side of Kent St. while on his way to answer a complaint on Highway 7.

The motor in the truck was running and the lights were on and Constable Judson said he ordered Watters to drive the truck to Lindsay Police Station.

Constable Gordon McCartney of Lindsay Police Department told the court the accused staggered in getting out of the truck and had to be helped to the police station.

Originally charged with drunken driving, Watters was found guilty of the lesser charge of driving while his ability was impaired and fined $50 and $16 in costs.

Port Closes

CHURCHILL, Man., Oct. 5. — (CP)—The Port of Churchill was officially closed Thursday when the SS Warkworth sailed for the United Kingdom carrying 346,800 bushels of wheat.

Some 21 cargoes of grain shipped from the port this season totalled about 7,000,000 bushels—500,000 more than last year's record. Last season 20 ships were cleared from the port.

DISTINGUISHED CONDUCT —Pte. The other four were awarded the Military Medal.

Steering Gear Breaks Bus Crashes Pole

LINDSAY, Oct. 5.—A broken steering gear resulted in an Algar Coach Lines bus leaving the highway and crashing into a telephone pole two miles south of Dunsford Thursday morning.

Driver John MacKinnon was alone in the bus and was proceeding towards Bobcaygeon when the steering apparatus failed. Before he could stop the bus, it left the road and sheared off the telephone pole.

The driver was not injured. The bus was damaged slightly.

Charge Constable Negligent In Death

OTTAWA, Oct. 5—(AP)—A coroner's jury Thursday night charged that "negligence" by a Quebec village constable, Marcel Gagnon, was responsible for the death of a 20-month-old baby last August and urged that Quebec provincial police make a fuller investigation.

The verdict was returned after Ottawa's assistant crown attorney, Samuel Lepofsky, charged Quebec provincial police with "lack of co-operation" in providing information to Ontario authorities who ordered the inquest.

The tot was fatally injured last Aug. 12 when run over by a car being backed out of a driveway by Constable Gagnon in the nearby Quebec village of Deschene. The baby died in Ottawa hospital.

Suggest Educationist On Censorship Board

TORONTO, Oct. 5—(CP)—Appointment of an experienced educationist to the Ontario Motion Picture Censorship Board as a step to prevent undesirable movies from undoing the work of the school was urged last night by the Toronto Board of Education.

The school board expressed amazement that, although some films were cut in spots, not one picture was banned outright in Ontario during the year that ended last March 31.

Three Thugs Rob Cafe Owner's Son

HAMILTON, Oct. 5—(CP)—Three thugs robbed the Grange cafe here early today of $2,500 in cash after beating Thomas Hoan, 27, son of the proprietor, who was counting the day's receipts after the cafe had closed.

The three, armed with blackjacks, rushed Hoan in the office and struck him several times. Dazed and bleeding profusely from cuts on his face, he staggered into the kitchen for help after the assailants left.

The thieves entered and left the building by a rear entrance while some customers still lingered in the dining room.

Believe Coal To Play Future Role

CALGARY, Oct. 5 (CP)—Future power developments in Alberta will be mainly through thermal (or fuel) generation, rather than by water, J. A. Harle, professor of electrical engineering at the university of Albert, said today.

He told the annual western meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy coal will likely play the major part in future power projects. He added:

"It is also probable that strip-mined fuel will be the greater source of such fuel, especially if generation at the coal source is exploited. If this approach is faced, it is possible that a greater amount of gas might be available for export in that gas reserves for power purposes could be released.

Not Much Gain

"It is difficult to see where Alberta gains by such gas export in that the province could only gain two or three cents in total revenue per 1,000,000 British thermal units, which would cost after being transmitted for 1,000 miles about 40 cents per 1,000,000 BTU. With coal the total revenue to the province would be nearer 22.6 cents per 1,000,000 BTU exported." (A BTU is the amount of heat required to raise one pound of water at a maximum density of one degree Fahrenheit)

In the course of a lengthy examination of Alberta's power resources, Prof. Harle also said:

"With pipe lines both gas and oil are mobile fuels which can be conveyed by pipe line at lower prices over long distances than can coal; hence if one adopted a purely, unselfish view, Alberta's surplus of these should go to the rest of Canada, less fortunate in respect to the sources of heat."

He said that while hydro development to date in the province has been on a low capital basis, future sites would reflect increased costs.

Teacher Resigns During Investigation

OAKVILLE, Oct. 5—(CP)—R. F. Anderson, 74-year-old teacher at a one-room school in nearby Trafalgar township, Thursday night handed in his resignation at a school board meeting called to investigate the strapping of an 11-year-old boy.

The meeting, held in camera, accepted the resignation but chairman Kenneth Giles said the investigation would continue.

Mrs. Edward Mitchell charged earlier that her son, Bruce, had been strapped about the neck, shoulders and buttocks when he refused to take the strap on his hands.

Thanksgiving Holiday Ends In Tragedy Near North Bay

NORTH BAY, Oct. 6. (CP)—Three persons were killed and four injured, one critically, in a head-on automobile collision Friday night that interrupted a Montreal family's Thanksgiving weekend trip to visit relatives here.

Killed in the smash 18 miles east of here were Reginald M. (Rex) Gosslet, about 36, Montreal beauty supply house president; his daughter, Lynn, 4; and Rodney Palfrey, a youth whose hometown could not be determined by police.

Injured and brought to hospital here were Mrs. Gosslet, who suffered a fractured jaw and head cuts; her son, Kenneth, 18 months, head injuries; Donald Julian, about 20, believed a resident of the Sudbury district, broken leg and fractured skull; James Doyle Wahnapitae, near Sudbury, multiple head cuts and possible skull fracture.

Doyle's condition was described as "very serious."

First On Scene

First on the scene after the crash was Joseph Dashnay, North Bay business man, who had been driving behind the Gosslet car and travelling toward North Bay from Mattawa. As his own car came to the top of a hill, he saw the Gosslet car, a 1950 model, collide with another car.

Dashnay found Julian lying in a ditch and screaming that his leg was broken.

Gosslet was dead at the wheel of his car. His daughter, with him in the front seat, also was lifeless.

Mrs. Gosslet and her baby son had been in the back seat and escaped with injuries.

Went Through Windshield

In the eastbound car, Palfrey was dead, slumped in the back seat. Doyle's face had been shoved through the windshield.

W. Jarek of Guelph, arrived on the scene in time to bring some of the injured to hospital. Harold Quirt, truck driver for The North Bay Daily Nugget, gave similar help.

Gosslet was a former officer in the Royal Canadian Navy. His Second World War service included trips on the dangerous run to Murmansk.

The Gosslets and their children were coming to North Bay to spend the holiday weekend at the home of Mrs. Gosslet's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Mount.

Will Give Larger Loans To Aid Housing

Want To Spur Slackening Production So Make Terms Easier—Howe

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 — (CP) — The government announces it is going to give a transfusion to the somewhat-anaemic housing industry.

To spur slackening production, it is going to give slightly larger loans and easier terms.

Resources Minister Winters—who administers Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the government agency which finances builders—says "special emphasis" will be placed on homes for defence workers."

He announced Friday that the Corporation shortly will boost National Housing Act loans to 80 per cent of an agreed maximum sales price for ordinary civilian homes. At present the maximum loan is 80 per cent of the appraised value based on January, 1950. This step would make possible a larger loan. At present a builder can sell a loan-financed house for whatever he can obtain.

Central Mortgage also will provide housing loans for defence workers in specified areas on the basis of a down-payment of 10 per cent with 25 years to pay off the remainder. This is a new provision under the National Housing Act.

Mr. Winters said the Corporation will reinstitute the rental insurance plan under which a builder may obtain an 80-per-cent loan for multiple dwellings of not less than eight units if he agrees to fixed rentals for each unit for three years.

This plan is expected to prove a big boost for apartments blocks. At present loans for such projects also are based on 1950 values but the builder may charge whatever rent he can get. He will still be able to get a loan on that basis if he cannot agree to fixed rentals.

The areas where the special financing arrangements for defence housing are to apply will be designated by Defence Production Minister Howe. These are expected eventually to include every area where major defence establishments are located.

Details of the new financing plans are to be issued shortly by Central Mortgage and Housing.

Canadians Wrest "Maginot Line" In Three-Mile Gain

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 6. (AP)—American and French infantrymen, charging with fixed bayonets behind flame-throwers, today seized virtually all of bloody "Heartbreak Ridge." The fighting flared up suddenly in the eastern Korea mountains as the Allied offensive in the west ground to a halt—with most objectives secured. In the air, United States jets took on the Reds at 3-to-1 odds. The Americans lost one plane but probably destroyed one Red fighter and damaged two.

There was no new move toward opening truce talks.

The western offensive along a 40-mile front by 100,000 men from nine United Nations gained up to five miles in four days. It was the biggest Allied drive in three months. The Commonwealth Division spearheaded the attack.

The Allies moved into the best positions they have held in the west in a year, and sent patrols reaching out as much as three miles in front of their newly-won hills.

Form Parapet

The new line formed a parapet of defences north of the winding Imjin River.

The long-stalemated battle of Heartbreak Ridge erupted suddenly in a surprise night attack by American and French troops.

Infantrymen of the US 2nd division's 23rd regiment, charging with fixed bayonets, stormed to the top of a 3,000-foot peak. They captured it for the third time in a month.

French troops swept up another slope of the peak with little trouble. Artillery was credited with killing 900 Reds.

The US 38th infantry regiment captured a peak dominating Mundung valley. The US 9th regiment, on the western side of the valley, fought slowly up another tall mountain against stubborn resistance.

UN forces now hold all but the extreme northern tip of four-mile-long "Heartbreak Ridge"—believed to have been a Red assembly area.

(Reuters News Agency reported Friday night that Commonwealth forces—including Canadians—wrested a mountain "Maginot Line" from the Chinese in a three-mile gain.)

Allied patrols operated north of Heartbreak at points more than 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

House Meets Next Tuesday For New Session

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP). — Parliament meets next Tuesday to prorogue one session and to open another.

Members of the Commons and the Senate will meet at 11 a.m. EST to prorogue the session adjourned from June 30 last. They will meet again at 3 p.m. EST to hear the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, formally open the fifth session of the 21st parliament.

Following the opening ceremonies parliament will be adjourned until Friday, Oct. 12 to leave members free Wednesday and Thursday during the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to the capital.

The new session will be asked to deal with a heavy agenda of government business, including measures of national and international scope. Among other things, members will be asked to approve the sending of an army brigade to join the Atlantic Treaty forces being built up under Gen. Eisenhower for the defence of Europe.

Authorize Pensions

Topping the list of domestic legislation will be a bill authorizing the government to pay pensions of $40 a month to all 70 and over regardless of means, provided they have lived in Canada for at least 20 years.

The government in the Commons will face an opposition numerically stronger than at any time since the last general election in June, 1949.

The Progressive Conservatives won three seats from the Liberals and retained an Ontario seat in four by-elections last June to boost their membership to 45. They elected 41 in the federal election. The new members will take their seats for the first time at the forthcoming session.

Excitement Stirs Clarence House As Tour Nears

LONDON, Oct. 6 (CP)—There was an air of excitement about Clarence House, home of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, as the royal couple looked to the last details before their week-end departure for a month-long tour of Canada.

They will take off from London airport for their coast-to-coast tour of Canada and a brief visit to Washington at 12:30 am Monday (6:30 pm EST Sunday) aboard a British Overseas Airways Corporation Stratocruiser.

The royal couple will land at Montreal airport Monday, but the tour will not start officially until the next day at Quebec, just a week later than originally planned. The delay was caused by the King's illness.

They supervised the packing of their luggage, which was sent to the airport after the usual last-minute flurry, Friday.

Buy Birthday Gift

One highlight of the busy day was the arrival of their two children, Princes Charles and Princess Anne, from Scotland where they spent the summer. Among the many duties the Princess and Duke squeezed into their busy day Friday was a visit to a Regent Street store to buy a birthday present for Prince Charles. Just what they got won't be known until the Prince opens it Nov. 14, his third birthday. The event comes three days before the royal couple is scheduled to arrive by ship at Liverpool.

Barring unfavorable weather, the couple will reach London airport about 12:20 am Monday—35 minutes after they leave Clarence House. They will drive to the plane and after a few farewell handshakes, will board the aircraft.

As soon as the Princess and the Duke are inside, the chief pilot will start the aircraft and will take off at 12:30.

Just what the Princess chose for her wardrobe is still a secret but it is expected that green, grey and brown will be predominant shades for the fall tour. There are clothes for nearly all of Canada's varying weather including a mink coat given her by the Canadian government on her 21st birthday.

Guerrillas In Ambush Kill British Commissioner

SINGAPORE, Oct. 6. (AP)—Communist guerrillas today killed Sir Henry Gurney from ambush beside a lonely mountain road on the third anniversary of the day he came here to drive them out of their jungle hideouts. Gurney, 53, was British high commissioner for the Federation of Malaya.

Lady Gurney, accompanying him in a separate car, escaped unharmed because her driver stopped after hearing the gunfire that slew her husband.

Gurney's private secretary, D. J. Staples, was wounded slightly but was able to escort Lady Gurney back to Kuala Lumpur, Malayan Federation capital.

The convoy ran into heavy automatic fire from the Communists. The High Commissioner was killed outright. His chauffeur was seriously wounded.

The armed escort immediately opened up on the Communist attackers.

A government statement said casualties were suffered by the escort, but did not elaborate.

Assumes Administration

The Attorney-General for the federation, Michael Hogan, assumed the administration of the government in the temporary absence of Chief Secretary M. V. Del Tufo. The executive council went into an emergency meeting.

Gurney, a lean and determined six-footer, made a practice of moving boldly along desolate roads and jungle paths to see for himself how the war went.

On this occasion his main escort vehicles temporarily broke down and Gurney decided to probe on ahead.

That was when the guerrillas opened fire from Fraser's Hill road in Pahang State, north of Kuala Lumpur.

Principal Casualty

Gurney's death was the principal casualty of the jungle war. As soon as it was known, Radio Malaya cancelled its light programs and began playing solemn organ music.

Total casualties among British troops since the war began three years ago include only 318 killed. Total casualties among civilians, and special and auxiliary forces, as well as the British troops, are less than 5,000 killed, wounded, and missing. Listed casualties for the Communists are slightly more.

Gurney was in one automobile and Lady Gurney was following in another. Their mobile escort broke down temporarily and Gurney decided to drive ahead alone in his car.

The bushwacking followed.

Biggest Casualty

When Lady Gurney's driver heard the gunfire he stopped.

Radio Malaya cancelled all its light Saturday night programs and began playing organ music, interspersed with announcements of the biggest personal casualty of Malaya's jungle war.

Novel Heroine Admits Murder

PARIS, Oct. 6 (CP)—Madame Sylvie Paul, beautiful heroine of a French novel, has confessed to the "wall murder" of hotel-keeper Jeanne Perron, police announced today.

The announcement, made through the Agence France-Presse, said Mme. Paul killed the 58-year-old hotel-keeper, whose body was found walled up in the basement of her hotel.

In her written confession, as outlined by the police, Mme. Paul, 38, said the older woman had become jealous of her relations with men and even with other women.

Mme. Paul, an expectant mother, was arrested in North Africa and was returned to Paris today.

Mme. Perron, keeper of a dowdy hotel near the Eiffel Tower, disappeared June 9. Her decayed body was found Sept. 11.

Mme Paul left Paris three weeks ago with a North African, Abella Squalhit, who told police he is the father of Sylvie's unborn child. He was arrested two weeks ago but maintained he had nothing to do with the murder.

Sylvie, a slender beauty, became the heroine of a novel without knowing it in 1948. She was seen in court during a minor case by novelist Jean-Louis Bory. He made her the central character in a book called "Fragile," or "The Basket of Eggs." He described her as having the nonchalance of a cat, a beautiful woman with tousled hair and green eyes.

Plan More Atomic Tests Announcement By Stalin

MOSCOW, Oct. 6. (AP)—Generalissimo Stalin disclosed today that Russia recently exploded an atomic bomb in a test and plans more test blasts of "atomic bombs of various calibres." This was the first time the Soviet Union had announced it had exploded an atomic bomb.

Stalin made his revelation in an interview with an unnamed correspondent of Pravda, official newspaper of the Communist party.

Stalin advised American leaders not to "get excited and raise the alarm about the atomic bomb explosion in the USSR."

The Russian leader said Soviet bombs are no threat to American security because the "Soviet Union is not contemplating an attack on the US or any other country whatsoever at any time."

Instead, he said, Russian bomb developments are for her own defence against aggression.

"The testing of atomic bombs of various calibres will be carried out in future also according to the plan for our country's defence against the Anglo - American aggressive front," Stalin said.

Nothing New

(In Vista, Calif., Gordon Dean, chairman of the US Atomic Energy Commission, said "Stalin was only confirming what we already knew."

("But we will watch with great interest any future tests Russia might make," he said.)

Stalin repeated that Russia wants international control of atomic weapons, but charged that an American plan put before the United Nations was a "mockery of control."

Answers Questions

"What do you think about international control in respect of atomic weapons?" his anonymous interviewer asked.

"The Soviet Union stands for the prohibition of atomic weapons and for stopping production of the atomic weapon," Stalin replied.

"The Soviet Union stands for strict international control in Trying To Guess Churchill Plan

LONDON, Oct. 6 —(CP)—The first attempt to plumb the depths of Winston Churchill's recent reference to a "broadly-based" government appears today in the British press.

The Daily Mirror says in a front-page story that one conclusion drawn from the Conservative leader's speech is that one or two Liberals may be offered government posts if Churchill wins the Oct. 25 election.

"Stories are current in Westminster," the pro-Labor newspaper says, "that although the Liberal party is supposed to be going into the general election as a completely independent force, certain of its leaders may be offered—and might accept—posts in a Churchill government, if the Tories won."

The story says this speculation arose from Churchill's speech at Liverpool last Wednesday, in which he spoke of a "broadly-based" government. In the same speech, Churchill promised that in a Tory administration there would be no "dull exclusion of Liberal and independent forces."

Conservatives at first denied, then declined comment, when asked whether Churchill might be throwing out a feeler for some form of national government. The general feeling is that certainly no coalition is contemplated, but that Churchill might be more receptive than Labor has been towards the small Liberal party, of which he was once a member himself.

Tried To Miss Sheep Driver Badly Hurt

PICTON, Oct. 6.—Losing control of her new automobile on an "S" curve near Glenora Friday afternoon, Mrs. Keith VanDusen was critically injured when the vehicle struck a tree.

Co-owner with her husband of three Prince Edward County canning factories under the name Sun Joy Foods, Mrs. VanDusen is general manager of the company.

She was alone at the time of the crash and there were no eye witnesses, but it is believed she swerved to miss a sheep on the road and lost control of the car.

She was proceeding toward Picton along Highway 22 when the car swerved across the pavement and bounced off a tree into a garage on the Jack Buchanan property three and one-half miles east of here.

Mr. Buchanan was unable to release Mrs. VanDusen and she remained pinned in the car until police arrived. The car was a total wreck.

British Jet Liner Service Chops Down Flying Time

LONDON, Oct. 6 (Reuters) — Airline operators all over the world are awaiting with interest the start of Britain's jet liner services early next year.

The record-breaking new Comets of British Overseas Airways Corporation will open a new era in civilian air travel.

They will fly at speeds nearly twice as fast as the piston-engined, propeller-driven aircraft now in general use, and establish a new standard in passenger comfort.

The economical cruising speed of the four-jet Comet is about 490 miles an hour.

First regular services will start from London to Rome and Cairo. Shortly afterwards, routes will be extended to Johannesburg and during the year they will reach out to Pakistan, India and Singapore.

Subsequently, larger - engined Comets will be used to continue the service east from Singapore to Australia and New Zealand, and to establish a trans-Atlantic service from London to New York, with a stop at Gander, Nfld.

The time taken from London to Rome—about 900 miles—will be approximately 2¼ hours, compared with the present five-hour schedule.

The first nine Comets, fitted with De Havilland Ghost jets, have a designed stage length of about 1,750 miles.

The next five are being fitted with the larger Rolls-Royce Avon jet engines, which will increase stage length and performance generally.

These should be capable of travelling from London to New York with a stop at Gander, in about eight hours.

The Comet is a 36-to-44-seater pressurized aircraft designed to fly at about 40,000 feet.

Apart from its advantage in speed, BOAC claims the Comets reduce the fatigue of air travel through absence of vibration.

Flynn Sues Canadian

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 6.—(Reuters) — Erroll Flynn's attorneys Friday night filed a damages claim for $224,000 against a Canadian gold mine millionaire. Flynn claims the Canadian beat him up in a bar-room fight here last March. Flynn charged that the Canadian, Duncan McMartin, "struck him a vicious blow on the side of the head."

Ex-Constables Give Evidence

OSHAWA, Oct. 6 (CP). — Two constables of the now-disbanded Whitby police force, testifying at an inquest into the death of Andrzej Wisniewski of Oshawa, said Friday night that they put in two telephone calls to a Whitby doctor to examine Wisniewski in the Whitby jail.

But, they said, Dr. F. A. Cuddy replied that the man was drunk and refused to come to the jail. Wisniewski died in his Oshawa rooming house three days later on Aug. 1.

Former constable George Dunbar said that he and Bruce Killens, another former constable, were called to a Whitby cafe when Wisniewski and his brother left without paying a $2.20 bill.

Dunbar said that he and Killens tried to persuade Wisniewski to pay his bill and then grappled with him. The 23-year-old man then seemed to have a fit. With the help of bystanders, the two constables handcuffed him and carried him to a police cruiser.

The five-man jury agreed with medical evidence that Wisniewski was subject to convulsions and attached no blame to anyone in his death.

Australian Trip Believed Off

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 7—(Sunday)—(Reuters)—The newspaper Sydney Sunday Sun says today it now was definite that the King will not visit Australia next year.

The newspaper story under a London dateline appeared with the banner headlines "King's Visit Is Off" and "Elizabeth Is To Make Tour With Duke."

Well-informed sources in Australia said Thursday Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will "probably" tour Australia and New Zealand in place of the King and Queen.

Indonesia Closes Doors To Keenleyside After Row

MANILA, Oct. 6—(AP)—Dr. Hugh Keenleyside today confirmed that he had refused to shake hands with a former Nazi bigwig at a Jakarta social function. He said "I still don't like the Nazi collaborator . . . Any better than I did before."

Keenleyside, an official of the United Nations' technical administration, arrived here by plane from Indonesia enroute to Tokyo and Korea.

The Canadian's rebuff of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, financial wizard to Hitler's Reich, has resulted in Indonesia barring Keenleyside's return to that country, and the resignation of Sir Mirza Ismail of India, resident representative of the technical assistance administration.

Finance Minister Yusuf Wibisono of Indonesia said Keenleyside will not be allowed to re-enter Indonesia. He said the Canadian had insulted an official guest of the government.

Keenleyside visited the country in his tour of southeast Asian countries.

He confirmed that he had refused to shake Schacht's hand at a reception given in the Canadian's honor.

"It is quite true," he said. "That I refused to shake hands with Schacht. I still don't like the Nazi collaborator, who worked with Hitler, any better than I did before."

The former Canadian deputy minister of mines and resources said Wednesday night that he did not think a UN official should fraternize socially with a man who represented something the UN was established to oppose.

The Canadian, informed of Ismail's resignation, told reporters today that "he was going to resign anyway."

Pledge Germans Work For Unity

BERLIN, Oct. 6 — (AP). — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer pledged his West German government to work for the unity of all Germans, including those in the lands lost to the Poles and Russians in 1945.

He came to Berlin, an island within the Soviet occupation zone, to fling a challenge directly at the East zone Communists.

The Communists were celebrating the second anniversary of the creation of their East zone government. A delegation of top Soviet officials is in East Berlin to plump the Kremlin drive for all-German unity talks.

Actress Summoned To Give Testimony

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6. (AP)—Actress Barbara Payton has been served with a subpoena to appear as a witness before a grand jury reopening an inquiry into a narcotic informer's slaying.

The blonde film player, just returned from her Minnesota marriage to Franchot Tone after the Tone-Tom Neal fisticuffs, was ordered to appear before the Federal grand jury Oct. 18.

The actress once appeared in court to give an alibi for a defendant accused by the government of complicity in a $1,000,000 California dope ring.

The case goes back to January, 1950, when Abe Davidian and 15 others were charged as members of the ring. Feb. 28, Davidian was shot to death as he slept. Without his testimony, the case collapsed and charges were dismissed.

Bright Leaves Cool Air Thanksgiving

"Heap high the board with plenteous cheer, and gather to the feast," Alice Williams Brotherton wrote in her poem, The First Thanksgiving Day.

Sunny skies, brilliant fall colors, clear brisk October air as Peterboronians set out to enjoy the Thanksgiving day and weekend.

Time has brought an evolution in the manner of celebrating this holiday festival since the first thanksgiving day was celebrated in 1621. Weekend agendas will include motor trips to far-away places and perhaps the last visit of the 1951 season to the family cottage. Or perhaps a quiet family reunion has been planned.

The traditional thanksgiving feast—turkey and trimmings—seems to have lost its popularity in Peterborough during the past few years. City butchers report that they have stocked few turkeys because of a fall in demand. Customers are demanding chickens instead.

Although manners of celebration have changed, the idea behind the initial celebration of thanksgiving day remains a tradition.

The day was first observed by the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth, Mass., following their first harvest in 1621. It was a day of thanksgiving to God for their safe arrival in a new land and for providing them their "daily bread."

Later other colonies in the New England States began setting aside an annual festival of thanksgiving. Gradually it spread throughout the United States until in 1864 President Lincoln appointed the last Thursday of November as national thanksgiving day. Every president since has followed his example.

It is not known exactly when celebration of this day spread to Canada. But it is believed to have been introduced with the coming of the United Empire Loyalists in the decade following the American revolution, 1776.

Since then Thanksgiving day has become and remained a North American festival, with Canadians usually celebrating the second Monday in October.

So whatever it may be: motor trips, cottage visits, or merely raking leaves and putting on storm windows, Canadians are keeping an eye on the weather. Predictions for this district are cooler, with the thermometer dropping from 15 to 20 degrees.

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto today:

Synopsis:

The normal eastward march of weather systems across the continent was retarded this past week by the presence of a hurricane which crept slowly northward along the Carolina and Virginia coasts. Its retreat out into the Atlantic ocean allowed the polar air to finally break through and invade Southern Ontario Friday evening.

The first of a possible series of disturbances along the polar boundary is developing over Missouri this Saturday morning. As it gathers strength and moves toward the Lower Lakes, the rain area north of it will spread into Southern Ontario tonight and Sunday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Sunday:

Eastern Lake Ontario, Georgian Bay and Haliburton regions:

Stole Turkeys For Holiday

Two chastened Minden men will likely choose roast beef for their Thanksgiving dinner this year. Mention turkey and they'll gag. And for a good reason, too.

Friday they were given suspended sentence and each charged $10 court costs, after pleading guilty to attempting to steal a turkey from a Norland farmer. The guilty pair were Brian Todd, 35, a carpenter, and Harold MacDonald, 27, a truck driver.

They were arrested Thursday night by OPP Constable Fred Rawlings, Fenelon Falls. When Constable Rawlings arrived at the turkey farm of William Street, three miles north of Norland, he found the frustrated thieves held at gunpoint by 22-year-old Douglas Street, son of the owner.

Their fall from grace was sudden and unexpected.

One minute they were minding their own business as they drove home from Coboconk to Minden; next, came the ill-inspired impulse to grab a turkey from the Street farm so they could have a Thanksgiving dinner.

An alert dog, guarding the 1,500 turkeys, heard their movements and began to bark. The pair headed for a nearby swamp, but before they could get away they were confronted by young Street, armed with a rifle.

He advised them to stick around until the police came. Meanwhile, Mrs. Street, his mother, telephoned Constable Rawlings.

"Foolishness," was the way Crown Attorney Lorne W. Jordan described the escapade when the sheepish-looking pair appeared in Lindsay Police Court.

STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Seventy-year-old George Glass, 142 Wilson Ave., is still unconscious in Civic Hospital from the effects of coal gas fumes in his home last weekend. Hospital authorities said today his condition is "quite critical." His wife, Louise, 73, was found asphyxiated when neighbors broke into the house Monday night. Mr. Glass was unconscious and was taken to hospital after firemen worked on him for an hour.

Cobourg Loses Court Action Over Cut Trees

COBOURG, Oct. 6 (ENS)—Involving the cutting of trees on his boulevard by Lorne Card, service station owner, in order to provide better access to his premises, the town of Cobourg lost out in its damage action against Card for $900. The municipality claimed the damages on the grounds that the defendant had cut the trees without authority.

Judge M. A. Miller in dismissing the action on the pleadings alone, found that the town, as admitted in the pleadings had no municipal bylaw under which to proceed and that the town had no grounds for litigation as a matter of civil damages.

The town could have proceeded under the act and if successful the case would have resulted in the imposition of a fine of $25 on the accused. Whether this meant $25 per tree or a total fine of $25 is not clear and in any event, since the act was framed in the 1870's, the $25 would definitely be only nominal in view of the value of a tree nowadays as compared to when the act was passed. However, regardless of the success or otherwise a police court action might have been, the finding of Judge Miller was that the town of Cobourg had no grounds for procedure in the civil courts.

The case was the result of Mr. Card having seven trees cut down on his boulevard last spring. Town council took the stand that he was spoiling the beauty of the street and that in addition he had cut down the trees without permission. On motion it was decided to proceed against Mr. Card and a writ was issued.

Eden Criticizes Iran Handling

LONDON, Oct. 6 (Reuters). — Anthony Eden, No. 2 man of the Conservative party, Friday urged on his constituents the need for a combined Anglo-American policy to prevent the spread of the "Middle East disaster."

In his first election speech he told Leamington Spa voters the Labor Government's handling of the Iranian oil crisis was a resounding and humiliating defeat.

It was a disaster whose results might be shared by other Middle Eastern countries unless the free Western nations were united and watchful, he said.

Stalin continued: "American leaders also speak of 'control,' but their 'control' is derived not from stopping production of atomic weapons but from the continuation of such production and in such quantities as correspond to the quantity of raw materials at the disposal of this or that country.

"Consequently, American 'control' is based not on prohibition of the atomic weapon but on its legalization."

Off the east coast, a navy task force lead by the battleship New Jersey Friday moved boldly into Hungnam harbor, 125 miles north of the parallel, quickly silenced Red shore batteries and bombarded Red strongholds. It was the heaviest shelling given Hungnam since UN forces pulled out of the area last December.

The Reds' top commanders, meanwhile, remained silent on Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's two-day-old invitation for them to pick a no-man's-land site for resumption of the truce talks the Reds broke off Aug. 23 at Kaesong.

Maj.-Gen. Robert H. Soule said Saturday his US 3rd division undoubtedly has broken the main Red line northwest of Chorwon, the "Iron Triangle" city 17 miles north of the parallel.

"We penetrated it and forced the Reds to withdraw," he said.

Stock Market Has Hectic Week's Session

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Stock market speculators this week gave the Toronto Exchange the most hectic five days in its 17-year history.

Reports of strikes by several western oil companies produced a rush of speculation that toppled daily and weekly volume records.

Marked interest in Alberta and Saskatchewan developments built up rapidly Wednesday and by the session's close 6,478,000 shares had changed hands. The previous record was set August 27, 1947, when volume reached 6,350,000.

A tremendous final-hour drive Friday that saw more than 2,000,000 shares exchanged pushed the day's turnover to 6,639,000 shares.

Penny issues formed the backbone of trading. Brokers, traders and market observers agreed that it was strictly the public's show. Some brokers confessed surprise and even bewilderment that the public buying should be so heavy in the midst of adverse publicity about speculative stocks.

Producing golds drew a fair share of attention toward the week-end as reports of an imminent statement of government policy drew speculative interest.

Climb Strongly

Base metals climbed strongly early in the week following reports that the United States had raised ceiling prices. Market leaders benefitted most.

Consolidated Smelters jumped $6 while other issues such as International Nickel, Noranda and Waite Amulet posted more moderate gains.

The anticipated gold rush that some observers predicted for Monday failed to materialize. Producing issues climbed strongly at the opening, but lost about half their gains by the close. The Exchange's index showed a net advance of 1.35. Industrials drew most support with market leaders setting the pace. In Montreal papers edged higher.

All sections of the Toronto market climbed Tuesday. In Montreal, industrials strengthened while papers turned mixed.

Post Largest Gain

Western oils were the most active section in Toronto Wednesday, but industrials posted the largest gain for the third consecutive session of advance. Industrials strengthened in Montreal but papers dipped.

Final-hour profit-taking Thursday in Toronto dropped the industrial index more than a point. Western oils formed the only section to record a gain. Papers dipped sharply in Montreal and industrials weakened.

Support in the last hour Friday held the Toronto index from a moderate decline. Western oils were the strongest section. Paper edged ahead in Montreal while industrials eased.

The week opened hesitantly in New York. Mining issues and rails strengthened rapidly, however, for mostly fractional gains. The market rolled ahead Tuesday as the Associated Press average hit its 1951 high of $100.70 for the peak level in 21 years. Steels, coppers, rubbers and rails pushed the market for its third gain Wednesday. Prices drifted quietly Thursday. The upward trend resumed yesterday as steels, rails and motors pushed the average up 60 cents.

Details of the bushwhacking, however, were scant in Singapore.

Gurney was known in the British Colonial Service as a strong man in dealing with disorders. He has been described as "a tough egg who gets things done."

He was appointed British High Commissioner in September, 1948, shortly after the organization of the Federation of Malaya, a semi-independent government set up by Britain in an effort to meet strong postwar demands for Malayan independence.

His main task was to attempt to quell attacks by Communist guerrillas who have ranged through the tin-and-rubber-producing Malayan states since the end of the war.

Before he took the Malayan job he had spent two years as Chief Secretary of the government of Palestine when the Holy Land was under British mandate. His job there ended in May, 1948, when Britain dropped the Mandate and withdrew from the country.

Gurney stepped up the British ground and aerial drive against the Malayan guerillas last December, asserting "the emergency must be brought to an end in 1951."

Lady Astor Plans Tour

LONDON, Oct. 6 (Reuters)—Peppery American - born Lady Nancy Astor will make a speaking tour of the United States next year, it was announced Friday night. Dr. Carleton Smith, director of the National Arts Foundation of New York, said the foundation had issued the invitation.

Big Doings

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 6 (CP) — More than 3,000 University of Western Ontario grads will return to the college's campus for a gigantic three-day "alumni homecoming" this weekend. Featuring Saturday's celebration will be a mammoth parade of students and floats and the Queen's-Western football game.

THE TEN-CAR ROYAL TRAIN that is to carry Their Royal Highnesses on their tour of Canada is seen above at Montreal. Its consist is made up of cars supplied by the Canadian Government, the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. The locomotive seen in the photo is one of 23 that have been assigned to haul the royal train on its run across the continent. Fourteen of these have been supplied by the C.N.R., while nine have been furnished by the C.P.R. The Prince and Princess will occupy two cars at the rear of the train, which are used normally by the Governor General.

4,500 Writers To Cover Royal Tour In Dominion

OTTAWA, Oct. 6—(CP)—The press and other information agencies are throwing more manpower into coverage of the Royal tour than on any news story in Canada's history.

To produce the millions of written and spoken words and thousands of pictures that will tell the story of the tour of Canada and other countries, almost 4,500 newspaper and magazine writers, radio personnel and still and movie cameramen have been accredited to cover the activities of Princess Elizabeth and The Duke of Edinburgh.

Officials of the tour say this is far more than the number on the 1939 Canadian tour of the King and Queen, up to now the high spot of Canadian news coverage from the standpoint of the number of correspondents assigned to the job.

A brigade of 4,200 has been assigned to handle the on-the-spot coverage of the Royal tourists on they many stops in the coast-to-coast trip. Most of these will cover activities in a single community, though many will move from place to place as the tour progresses.

On Royal Train

Another contingent of correspondents will be carried aboard a special press train travelling a little ahead of the Royal train. About 110 will be continuously on the train, while others joining it for regional stages of the tour will bring that total to 150.

The 1939 press train carried between 65 and 90 news-radio-picture personnel at various times.

Some of those on the pilot train this time will travel by special RCAF airlift to keep up with the Royal couple on long air jumps. These include hops from Windsor to Winnipeg, from Saskatoon to Montreal and to and between Montreal and Washington.

Cover All Angles

The Canadian Press, national news-gathering agency, alone has 71 staff members accredited for tour coverage. Four of these are assigned to the press train and the air legs.

All along the routes, special arrangements have been set up to facilitate the distribution of the news copy, radio broadcasts and pictures that will be flowing from the travelling correspondents and those located at specific points.

The telegraph companies will have men aboard the press train to route copy, and extra men will be shifted from place to place along the route to bolster local staffs. The Bell Telephone Company is putting extra phones in several railway stations in Ontario and Quebec. Darkroom facilities are being installed for the press-train photographers at key points.

Communications officials won't even hazard a guess at the wordage that might be turned out by the small army of news writers during the run of the tour. But it's probably conservative to estimate 100,000 words a day from the Canadian, British, American and Australian contingent on the press train.

Have Special Phones For Royal Train

MONTREAL, Oct. 6 (CP). — Special telephone facilities on the Royal train will enable the Royal party to call anywhere in North America or overseas at all major stop-over points across Canada.

Announcement of the special telephone services to be provided for the Royal train during the month-long tour of the Dominion by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, was made yesterday by the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, which coordinated telephone plans for the Royal tour with the other companies comprising the trans-Canada telephone system.

Three ivory-colored telephones have been installed on the Royal train, one in the lounge of their Royal Highnesses' private car, and the others in the private car of the Secretary of State. At all stop-over points of an hour or more, two telephone circuits will be connected with land telephone lines by means of weather-proof jacks on the outside of the two cars.

Try To Force Opening

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6 (CP). — Application was made in Supreme Court Friday for a writ of mandamus compelling the board of school trustees of district 20, at Salmon Arm, to open schools in the municipal district. The action resulted from the school board's decision to ban children of Salmon Arm municipality from the schools, following defeat of a municipal money bylaw last Saturday.

Canadians Attend

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 6 (Reuters).—Two Canadian army officers have arrived in West Germany to watch the United States Army's autumn manoeuvres, the US Army announced Friday. They are Brig. Mortimer P. Bogert, Director General of Military Training of the Canadian Army, and Brig. George Kitching, commandant of the Canadian Army Staff College.

Compromise Bill Passed For Veterans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)— A compromise bill providing free automobiles for blind and maimed United States veterans of the Second World War and the Korean fighting was passed by the House of Representatives and sent to the Senate.

It embodies major provisions of separate bills passed previously by the Senate and House.

The bill would direct the veterans' administration to pay up to $1,600 on the purchase price of automobiles for the veterans who have lost one or both feet, one or both hands or their sight in line of duty.

Ready To Push Seaway Plan

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP). — Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission, said Friday that if the St. Lawrence seaway and power project were referred to it, the Commission would promptly expedite the undertaking.

He told a luncheon tendered members of the joint commission by Ontario Hydro chairman Robert Saunders that the commission had power to deal with specific applications received from the governments of the United States and Canada.

"We have as yet not received any such application," he said. "However, . . . should we receive authority to proceed, we can give assurance that the invitation would be dealt with with the greatest promptness and expedition."

Senator A. C. Stanley, chairman of the US section of the Joint Commission, voiced agreement with Gen. McNaughton's statement.

The International Joint Commission has just concluded a semi-annual three-day executive meeting in Ottawa.

Gen. McNaughton said that the Ottawa talks reviewed US-Canadian administration of the St. John river between New Brunswick and Maine; water pollution in the international portion of the St. Lawrence basin; air pollution over the Detroit river; flood control and water conservation in the Red river basin and control of the Waterton and Belly rivers between Montana and Alberta.

Artist Prepares Sketch Of New Church

An artist's sketch is being prepared of the new Roman Catholic Church that will be built on Wilson Ave., in the block east of Park St. It will be called St. John the Baptist, the name of the parish created last November.

The Rev. Dr. Francis Grant, occupying a temporary rectory, says the plans are being prepared by a Montreal architect and they are well advanced.

Dr. Grant says present plans call for a contract to be let during the winter so work can begin first thing in the spring. Originally it was hoped that the building would be in progress this fall but shortage of materials caused a delay.

Plowing Match To Open At Woodstock

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 6 (CP)— For four days next week John Hargreaves, himself a five-times champion at the international plowing match, will be host to the headquarters of the 38th international match and farm machinery demonstration.

The match, biggest event of its kind in the world, will be centred on the Hargreaves' Alder Grange Farm, about five miles southeast of here. That is, the headquarters will be on the Hargreaves farm and other demonstrations and plowing competition on farms of his neighbors for some two miles around.

Clark Young, of Unionville, treasurer of the sponsoring Ontario Plowmen's Association and also a champion plowman, gave some idea of its growth during the past two years.

He plowed in the match when it was held north of Woodstock in 1921. At that time there were 30 tractor entries. Now, the major portion of the some 700 entries expected will be in tractor classes. Mr. Young said he could see the day coming when horse plowing might be a demonstration rather than a competition.

Largest Ever

The farm machinery demonstration, a big drawing card for the event which has had a daily attendance of more than 50,000 persons, is larger this year than it has ever been. The "tented city" exhibit space has overflowed the 22 acres allotted for it and the extra space has been packed tight with concessions ranging from seven-foot frontage to between 200 and 250 feet.

About 250 companies and exhibitors are booked for space in the headquarters area.

The 38th international has two new competitions to show its sponsors are keeping abreast with modern farm trends. This year for the first time a contour plowing competition will be held. A farm welding competition has taken the place of the horse shoeing contest which used to occupy a place on the program.

Hollywood Tries Tour Of US Popularize Films

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 (AP)—Actors, directors, writers and producers by the dozens today are being dispatched on Hollywood's biggest invasion of the United States.

More than 240 personalities are hitting the road to sell the motion picture industry back to their countrymen.

The campaign, entitled "Movietime, USA," kicks off Monday in the 28 biggest American cities.

The appearance tours will extend to smaller centres throughout the week, but Movietime, USA, will be a year-long campaign to encourage movie attendance.

Fiasco First

I predict that the most frequent question the troupers hear will be "What's the lowdown on Tone, Payton and Neal?"

Coast-to-Coast TV

This week the west coast got not only the baseball telecasts direct from New York, but eastern TV entertainment shows as well. This liberation from the hated kinescope was hailed by critics and public alike.

It is a pleasure to see the better eastern shows and not be subjected to hazy film and uncertain sound. Only fly in the ointment is the timing. Because of the three-hour difference between east and west coast time, most of the good shows appear here from 5 pm to 7 pm Cooks are complaining already.....

1st Thanksgiving Observed In Canada 79 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

Canadians celebrate Thanksgiving day on Monday in observance of a custom that began back in the golden years of Victoria's reign.

Canada, as a self-governing dominion, was not quite five years old when her citizens filed quietly into the churches to celebrate their first Thanksgiving Day — Monday, April 15, 1872.

While the day now marks thankfulness for a bountiful harvest, it was not so with the first Thanksgiving.

The then Prince of Wales, later to become Edward VII, was recovering from a long and serious illness and the government of the young dominion proclaimed April 15 as a day of Thanksgiving for his restoration to health.

History repeats and now after 79 years Canada's measure of Thanksgiving will be the greater for the encouraging reports of the King's condition since his operation and the presence in the Dominion of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. The royal couple are scheduled to arrive from England on Monday and will observe Thanksgiving Day for the first time. Thanksgiving Day is not celebrated in Britain.

At Various Times

Since its first observance, the day has been celebrated in various months, on various days and, at times, for varying reasons. However, for the last 20 years, it has become custom for it to be celebrated on the second Monday in October and officials say there is no reason to expect a change.

Though Thanksgiving first was observed in 1872, it did not become established until 1879. In that year, the government proclaimed Thursday, Nov. 6, as a day of Thanksgiving for an abundant harvest earlier that fall. From then on, it was a harvest celebration day with only a few notable exceptions.

One of those exceptions was in 1887 when June 21 was set aside to mark the 50th anniversary of Queen Victoria's accession to the throne. Again, in 1897, June 22 was proclaimed to celebrate Victoria's diamond jubilee. In 1902, Thanksgiving fell on Aug. 9 to coincide with the coronation of King Edward VII. It returned to its autumnal spot on the calendar in 1903.

Combine Two Days

Following the First World War, parliament adopted a bill combining thanksgiving and Armistice Day. The two were celebrated on the Monday of the week in Which Nov. 11 fell. This practice was followed until 1931 when parliament, acting on protests from veterans' organizations, separated them.

Since then, Thanksgiving has been celebrated on the second Monday of October. An exception occurred in 1935 when a general election was called for that day and Thanksgiving was put off until Thursday, Oct. 23. In 1945, the day was proclaimed as one of Thanksgiving for the restoration of peace.

Prisoners of Reds

LONDON, Oct. 6 (Reuters) — Ninety-three officers and men of the British Gloucestershire Regiment, reported missing after their heroic delaying stand in Korea last April, have been traced to Communist prison camps, the War Office announced Friday night. The Gloucesters' commanding officer, Lt.-Col. James P. Carne, is among the prisoners.

Because of the proximity of the Gulf Stream, frost and snow are rare in the Orkney Islands north of Scotland.

Van Doos Get Nickname

OTTAWA, Oct. 6—The famous Van Doos have earned themselves a new nickname and, like all good regimental nicknames, it was won on the battlefield. The nickname is Shorthairs and resulted from a remark of Brig. Rockingham's after a successful assault on enemy positions by the regiment, supported by tanks of the Lord Strathcona Horse.

"Those Van Doo lads must have short hair today," the 25th Brigade commander remarked. "The tank shells seemed to be just clearing their heads. It was almost too close for comfort but it certainly did the trick."

The battle referred to was the scene of some of the closest tank-infantry support seen by Canadian troops in Korea. A patrol of Van Doos had run into heavy opposition and was temporarily halted on a hill. Aircraft plastered the Chinese dugouts with napalm and high explosives and then artillery laid down a heavy barrage.

But even though shells were still raining down on the hill, when the infantry moved up the Chinese came out of their holes, screaming and firing their burp guns. At this point, the Lord Strathcona tanks opened fire, sending shells just a scant few feet above the heads of the Canadians into the enemy - held bunkers.

10 Buses Chartered For Trip To Trenton

Ten buses have been chartered from Colonial Coach Lines by Peterborough and district groups of people bound for Trenton on Friday, October 12, to see Princess Elizabeth and to join in the Central Ontario welcome. Some of them will likely leave Norwood, Havelock, Omemee and Lakefield.

Buses will also transport school children and others from local communities in this area to stations along the route of the special CNR train that is being made up at Lindsay for Trenton by way of Peterborough.

Farmers interested in a bus trip to the International Plowing Match near Woodstock Thursday, October 11, are requested to notify Henry Batten, Alex Huston, or the office of F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative, by Tuesday. So many buses have been chartered for Trenton on Friday, that the switch to Thursday has been recommended. Some of the local people who have been inquiring about engaging a bus have indicated a preference for Thursday. Mr. Paterson said today the fare is $6.25.

Many Agreements On 2-Year Leases

TORONTO, Oct. 6—(CP)—Gordon W. Hewitt, administrator of Ontario Rent Control regulations, said Friday many landlords and tenants are agreeing on terms of two-year leases, as provided in the Rent Control Law.

If landlord and tenant agree, they need not call in an appraiser to set a rent on the property, the regulations say.

Seven offices have been set up to handle the regulation, and all are flooded with calls asking for information on rent control, he said. The offices are in Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Ottawa, Sarnia, London and Sudbury.

Offices are to be opened in Belleville, Guelph and St. Catharines. In other centres county clerks offices receive and file documents required by the rent regulations.

It Is A Good Thing

It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord.

The Psalmist, close to the land and his people, knew whereof they had their meat and drink, and the well-spring of their hearts. In and out of harvest season, he sang praise unto the Creator and gave thanks. This week-end, by custom and official decree, the people of Canada hold a thanksgiving. The harvest has been plentiful and the year has been kind to us, as a nation and as citizens of it. War looms on the horizon, yet we can be grateful that a major conflict has been averted so far.

* * *

Thanksgiving is not a petty matter of counting one's blessings, or a fleeting thought as one speeds to the country for another week-end. It must spring from the heart and be expressed by more than a movement of the lips. It is a fruit of great cultivation; you do not find gratitude among gross people. If there is in our thanksgiving a secret hope of thereby gaining favours, let it be the hope of the psalmist, sung also in the 92nd Psalm: For, lo, thine enemies, O Lord, for, lo, thine enemies shall perish; all the workers of iniquity shall be scattered.

Conscription And The Canadian Effort

Figures given in a letter printed elsewhere on this page show Canada to be low in the number of men under arms, compared with some other North Atlantic countries: six men for every thousand of the population. This figure jibes with the Minister of Defence's statement early in the summer that Canada has 82,139 men enlisted in its armed services.

Comparisons are not always accurate or valid. For instance, our correspondent sets Norway's armed strength at 10.4 for each thousand of the population. That is equivalent to 35,000 men, but our information is that Norway has no standing army at all. Each year it drafts 22,000 men for nine months' training. These cannot be compared with Canada's full-time 82,139 men under arms. Our correspondent gives no figure for Denmark. According to our latest available figures, Denmark has 23,000 men under arms, and also 30,000 home guard people. This looks like a pretty manful effort for a country with a population of 4,230,000 (U.N. 1949 estimate), but we recall a news item in the Examiner this week that Denmark was making available to General Eisenhower's European command one battalion. Canada is sending a whole brigade group, probably before Christmas. A battalion is made up of about a thousand men; Canada's 27th Brigade will consist of 5,500 to 6,500 men and very extensive equipment. Already, let us remind our correspondent, Canada has a complete brigade group (the 25th) in Korea.

Counting uniformed noses is a haphazard business and not entirely a reliable method of computing a nation's contribution to allied military strength. We could quote national budgets for defence as an indication of the share each country is taking in western defence. Time magazine gave this estimate last February: United States, spending 55% of her budget for defence; Canada 40%; Italy 25% The Netherlands 24%; Portugal 24%; Britain 21%; Denmark 20%; Norway 20%; France 18.6%; Belgium 15; Iceland nothing; Luxembourg, a small sum. According to that sort of reckoning, Canada's defence effort is very large.

As everybody knows, of course, Canada's spending for defence is lagging behind the estimates, which provide about two billion dollars a year, on the three-year re-armament plan that Parliament approved last spring. Nevertheless, Canada has been straining at the program—and a strain it is; $2,000,000,000 a year for defence alone is about the same amount as the total budget as recently as 1949. The total budget that year was $2,176,000,000.

Let us remind people who believe that Canada is grossly lagging in her defence preparations and help to other countries, that as early as last January, Canada had $330 millions worth of planes on order; $96 millions of ships, a program for a 100-ship navy and 40 squadron air force; that it has promised a 7,000-man RCAF contingent, an 11-squadron air force for Europe (many planes and men are already in England), that it has now sent to Italy the complete armed equipment for an Italian division, and has also equipped an entire Dutch division. Let us remind ourselves that it has a brigade group in Korea, and naval forces in Korea and Japan; is sending another brigade group to Europe, and at the same time is embarking on a large Commonwealth air training scheme in Canada.

Should Canada have conscription, to fill the ranks of the reserves, or to swell the active forces? We discussed this matter at length several times last spring; Parliament will undoubtedly consider it at the coming session. We point out that in the last war Canada was able to secure about a million men and women, all volunteers, to serve in the three armed forces. True, conscription was introduced—or compulsory national service—but this accounted for only 100,000 of the total of 1,086,000 who served. Incidentally, that total included 40.6 per cent of the entire male population of Canada aged between 18 and 45. Do these figures not prove that when the need exists and is fully recognized, Canadians will voluntarily come forward to serve?

A Parade of Four-Centers

A special four-cent stamp has been engraved for issue during the tour of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. We highly approve of a new issue to mark the event; during the tour of the King and Queen in 1939 there was also a special stamp issue. But we note with a little pain—which philatelists must also feel—that the Post Office has been splurging on special issues recently. Too many of these detract from something really special—like the princely tour stamp.

In the last four months there have been issued as many four-cent stamps; the new four will be the fifth in the season. There has been the 'old' red four, showing the King's head in traditional profile. Next came the Mackenzie King purple-pink. Then an orange four replaced the old red four; it is of the same design. Now on sale is a large grey four, one of the transportation series marking the centenary of postal service in Canada.

Moderation in the issue of new stamp designs is as virtuous as moderation in other spheres. It is better to err on the side of staid British practice, where stamps have seldom varied from decade to decade, than to follow Russian, Liberian and lesser states' practices, where commemorative issues have come thick and fast on stamp collectors and discouraged their buying of them. Canada must be particularly wary, for seldom are its stamps valued for their beauty. If their value is lost as collectors' items, all is lost.

Twenty-five years ago Canadian postage was conservative and the special 1927 Confederation jubilee issues therefore had special prestige. Already the one-cent 1927 orange is worth ten cents; the two-cent green (Fathers of Confederation) four cents, and the five-cent Laurier ten cents. Increases in values of a hundred per cent. or a thousand per cent in twenty-four years are not to be sneezed at. Yet the Post Office may blow away such beautiful profits in a gust of special issues. It would be a sad day for Post Office coffers if the tens of thousands of philatelists who line up at Canadian post office wickets or write to the general office at Ottawa on the first day of a new issue, should decide that Canadian stamps are altogether too plentifully varied to make the collecting of them inexpensive, profitable and interesting.

Snub In The Face

Forgive and forget. Kiss and make up. The proverbs have a charitable ring. Dr. Hugh Keenleyside of Canada, former deputy minister in the Federal government and now on loan to U.N. as head of a technical assistance commission in Indonesia, offered his hand—the back of it—to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht at a reception in Jakarta. Dr. Schacht is the financial genius whose manipulations during the Nazi regime kept Hitler in power and made his re-armament financially possible. Dr. Keenleyside refused to shake hands with Dr. Schacht and is reported to have said to him: "I know your black record. I shall have nothing to do with you." Dr. Schacht then left the reception.

Good for Dr. Keenleyside! Not for him a mealy-mouthed, flabby-handed acceptance into the circle of the righteous. To forgive and forget is Christian, depending on who is forgiven and what is forgotten. To forgive Dr. Schacht and forget his machinations is to placate the devil. Corneille has a phrase which Dr. Keenleyside may have remembered as his being retched at the ignominy of being presented to the German wizard: "He who forgives easily invites offence."

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mr. Abbott is described by an apologist as "a victim of inflation." Lots of Canadian business men could specify the precise part of his anatomy which is inflated.

General Elections in Britain usually bring forward a few interesting gibes. The latest to reach our ears is a Conservative rumour that Labour intends to nationalize crime, to make sure it doesn't pay.

Sir Thomas More's "Utopia"

By A. C. WARD

(Ed. Note: A. C. Ward is a distinguished English literary critic and the author of "20th Century Literature, 1901-1940".)

FOUR hundred years ago precisely there was published at Louvain for the first time in the English language a small book, written by an Englishman in Latin thirty-six years before, which was to become not only a permanent memorial to its author but also a fertilizing medium for many future thinkers; and, in addition, the source of a word which was to be adopted almost universally and almost universally misinterpreted.

* * *

SIR THOMAS MORE wrote Utopia in 1515-16 when he was about 36, and his friend Erasmus supervised the printing of the original Latin edition in 1516. Since it was translated into German in 1524, into French in 1530, and into Italian in 1548, the book was available in their own languages to the peoples of a large part of the European continent before it appeared tardily in its author's native tongue in 1551. Even then it was prohibited in England, for More, being alleged a traitor had been beheaded in 1535 and his Utopia was still considered a subversive satire.

* * *

IN the interests of clarity historians are prone to over-simplification, and nothing is easier than to over-simplify the religious and dynastic turmoil in which More and others of equal eminence were disastrously caught up. More was at once a conservative and a reformer ahead of his time: in religion he withstood the king's assumption of ecclesiastical supremacy and he has in the present century been canonized by the Catholic Church; in politics he showed sympathetic concern for those who would now be called the under-privileged and has been acclaimed an advocate of communism; intellectually he was a humanist, and as the friend of Erasmus, Colet, Linacre, and Grocyn and of the painter Holbein he is among those upon whom the liberal-minded section of posterity has conferred a kind of secular sainthood. More's Utopia was peculiarly a product of the great Age of Discovery, for it was Amerigo Vespucci's account of his voyages and Columbus's later 'discovery' of America that planted in More's imagination the idea of the island he called Utopia (from the Greek ou topos, no place).

* * *

MORE'S Utopia has certain features of an embryonic novel, though what 'story' there is is slight and somewhat involved and tedious. It introduces actual persons, including More himself and Peter Giles, who was secretary to the municipal body at Antwerp, where they encounter 'a certain stranger, a man well stricken in age, with a black, sunburnt face, a long beard, and a cloak cast homely about his shoulders, whom . . . forthwith I judged to be a mariner'. This fictional character, Raphael Hythloday, is said to have been on Vespucci's last three voyages. Contriving to be left behind 'in the country of Gulike', he ventured thence into other parts by land and by water and at length reached the Island of Utopia, in which are 'fifty-four large and fair cities, or shire towns, agreeing together in one tongue, in like manners, institutions, and laws', governed by King Utopas.

* * *

AGAINST a background of such discontents More poses the institutions of his imagined Utopia. There, an annual interchange between townd wellers and countryfolk establishes a common knowledge of both rural and urban needs and acquirements. Corn is grown only for food, poultry is (prophetically) incubated, and the large centres of population are laid out as garden-cities. Inasmuch as More was greatly perturbed by the profusion of idlers in his own country, it is not surprising that in Utopia everyone, women as well as men, are taught a craft and set to work; but the working day is limited to six hours, and full provision is made for a rational and enlightened use of leisure. Social organization is on a patriarchal basis, and local density of population is controlled by the transfer of any surplus of 14-year-old children in one family group to another having less than its quota: 'the whole island is, as it were, one family or household'. The incurably sick are encouraged to end their lives voluntarily. Women marry at 18, men at 22; and in order that neither should be trapped into marriage with a deformed person, the prospective bride and bridegroom are seen by each other unclothed in the presence of 'a sad and honest matron' and 'a sage and discreet man'.

* * *

'WAR and battle as a thing very beastly' the Utopians detest and abhor, yet they train both men and women in military skill and discipline lest they be required to defend their own country or to aid their friends against invasion and tyranny. Iron is their most precious metal, and to show contempt for gold they use it only for mean utensils and for chains and gyves for their bondmen. More discourses at considerable length upon the Utopians' religion and philosophy as well as upon their system of government: in matters of belief a large tolerance prevails.

Utopia created a new genre in English literature. It has been followed by a number of fables, romances, and treatises of like character: Francis Bacon's The New Atlantis (1626), Samuel Butler's Erewhon (1872), William Morris's News From Nowhere (1891), H. G. Wells's A Modern Utopia (1905). None of these has taken so firm a hold as More's book, and none is so temperately rational.

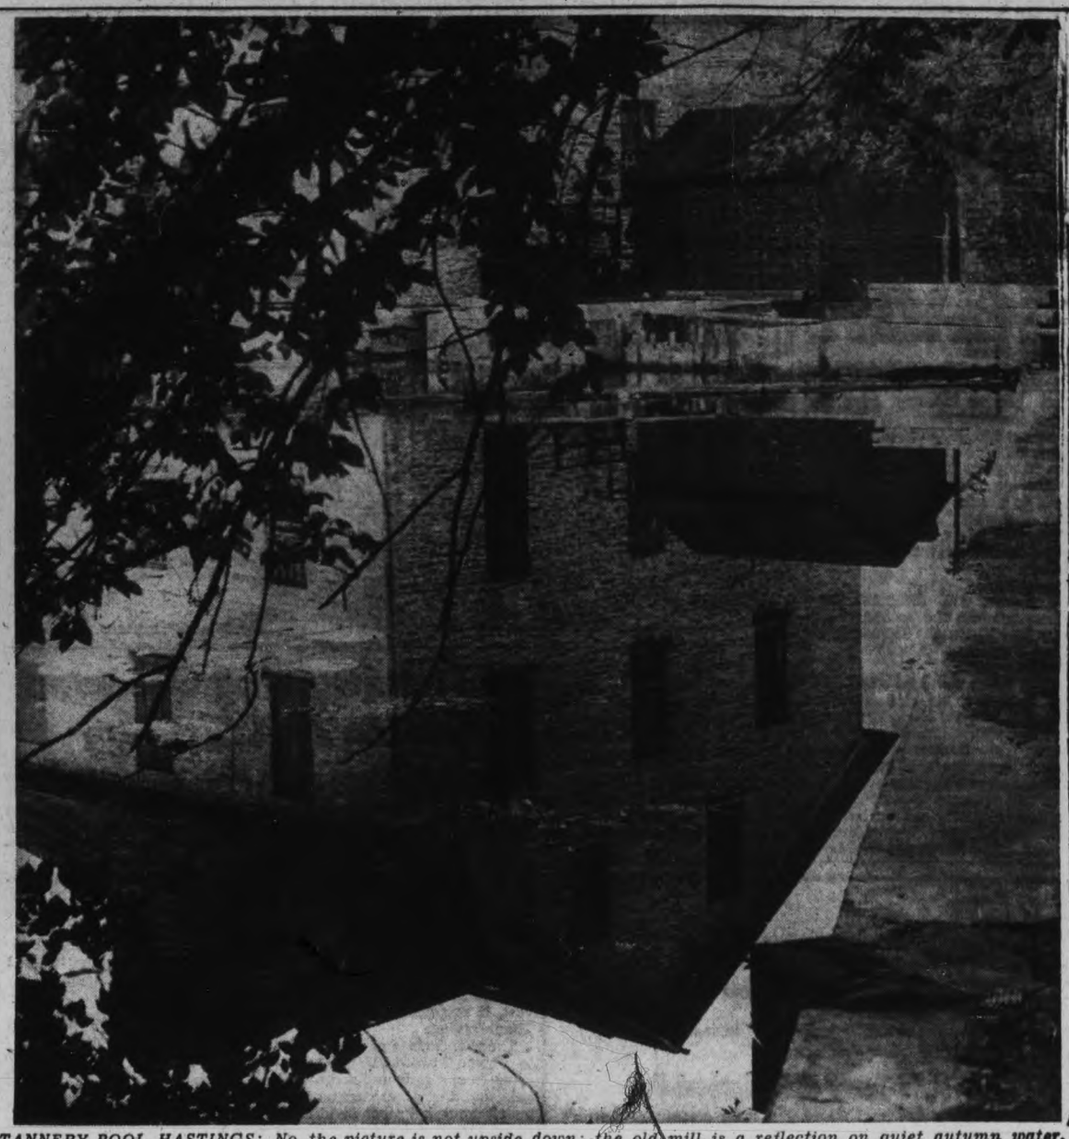
Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The wise men are ashamed, they are dismayed and taken; lo, they have rejected the word of the Lord; and what wisdom is in them? . . . For they have healed the hurt of the daughter of my people slightly, saying, Peace, peace; when there is no peace . . .



We looked for peace, but no good came; and for a time of health, and behold trouble! . . .

Is there no balm in Gilead; is there no physician there? why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered? (Jer. 8: 9, 11, 15, 22.)

* * *

O Lord, the hope of Israel, all that forsake thee shall be ashamed, and they that depart from me shall be written in the earth, because they have forsaken the Lord, the fountain of living waters.

Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved: for thou art my praise. (Jer. 17: 13, 14.)

Letters To The Editor

CONSCRIPTION ANSWER TO DEFENCE?

Sir: Regarding the correspondence concerning conscription, it would be interesting to know if there is conscription in New Zealand, Australia, and South Africa. As South Africa is bilingual, like Canada, they are probably without it.

From the strictly logical standpoint, conscription is the answer to National Defence, for the same reason that people are sometimes conscripted in Canada to fight forest fires. Just how much fire there is in the international situation to-day is anyone's guess, but recent figures give the armed strength per 1,000 of population as France 17.8, Britain 16, Belgium 14.5, Norway 10.4, Netherlands 9.8, Canada 6, U.S.A. 20 plus. So it looks as though Mr. Robb may be on the right track.

The editorial says "Mr. Robb would immediately turn Canada into an armed camp." This is an exaggeration, and to say "We might almost as well exist under a Russian Hegemony" is crazy.

Yours truly,
C. W. HOLMAN.

(Ed. Note: New Zealand's military training act of 1949 provides for a system of compulsory training to meet the requirements of non-regular forces. Men may join the reserve navy or air force as well as the army. All male British subjects resident in New Zealand are required to register at the age of 18, and serve 14 weeks the first year, after which they are posted to territorial units to carry out annual training (20 days a year) for the next three years.

In Australia, beginning next May 1st, all youth of 18 who are British subjects become liable for national service, on a pattern similar to that of New Zealand.

In South Africa, every European 17 years old must register to serve in time of war.)

APPRECIATES PETER PIPER

Sir: I have just finished reading (with much pleasure), Musical Notes, by Peter Piper, and while I am not a musician, I am deeply interested in all the fascinating aspects and angles of the musical subjects.

Which brings me to observe, that I have never seen any letters to, or about Peter Piper in your paper (and I miss very few) and it moves me to voice my own, and perhaps many another voice of appreciation for these articles. May there be many more of them.

As a matter of fact, your editorial page is one of the most interesting parts of the paper, so here's more push to you all in your splendid work.

Yours truly,
RESURGAM.

LIFT LOCK SOUGHT, NOT FOUND

Sir: Last week we had a visitor from Scotland staying with us who was eager to see as much of Ontario as possible in the short time at her disposal. On driving back to Toronto from a trip to Ottawa we were about to pass through your fair city and were extolling the importance of Peterborough as the world famous "Lift Lock City." Our Scottish friend became interested immediately and expressed a keen desire to visit the locks.

We were entering the city via highway No. 7 and as none of us were well acquainted with Peterborough, we began to look for some kind of a sign to direct us. We came as far as George St. without finding one, turned north and followed it to the north end of the city onto highway No. 28, and still found nothing to direct us to the locks. On inquiring of two pedestrians we received only a stony stare and silence.

Finally we gave up, and our friend has now flown back to Scotland without having viewed the wonders of Peterborough's liftlocks. Incidentally, we don't believe her impressions of your city under the circumstances were very favourable.

Is it not high time that Peterborough woke up to the fact of its prime importance as the situation of the famous locks? Have you no chamber of commerce, no city fathers interested in it enough to advertise it as such at least to the visiting tourist? If Princess Elizabeth were to drive up George Street next week, we Torontonians are sure she would never find out what has put Peterborough on the map.

Yours truly,
ROSS KENNEDY.

ON NEWSPAPERS

Sir:
O, for just one journalistic ray of light.
A beacon! that could put to flight the dark
Depressions of these evil days. Would . . . if only
For a little while the papers could . . . put forth
Some news that all is well, and thus, to banish
From my sombre thoughts: that man and all his Work, could land in hell.

FRED HORN.

How Time Flies

OCTOBER 6

1921 The report of Governor Henderson Nesbitt shows that it costs 20 2/5 cents a day to feed prisoners in the county jail.

Potatoes were selling at $2 a bag on the market today; eggs opened at 55c but some were sold at 45c before it closed.

The 14th convention of the Bay of Quinte conference Epworth Leagues is held in George St. Methodist Church.

Miss Clement Atwood, born in Lakefield in 1838 and one of the oldest residents of the city, is dead.

Two car loads of horses have arrived already for the Welsh Brothers rodeo in the Brock St. arena next week.

1941 Some of the patrons of the Warminster cheese factory, north of Warsaw, report an increasing shortage of labour in the district.

Property values in Peterborough are rising; demand is concentrated on houses, but vacant lots are attracting buyers.

Twenty large tents have been erected on the R. T. Lillico farm, highway 28, for the plowing match.

TOO DEAR

"Isn't it just too sweet, dear!" said Mrs. Dobson, trying on a new hat.

Her husband looked at the price tag.

"No, it's just too dear, sweet!" he replied, firmly.

DALTON'S AUTUMN

My own personal opinion about this week-end's holiday weather is that it is going to be cooler, but fine. Hope so, anyway.

Here is a timely thought-provoking editorial from the Sudbury Daily Star:

Every year about this time, editorial writers throughout the country sit down to write words of advice intended to prevent hunters from killing themselves—or others.

We would not be so foolish as to assume that every hunter reads his community newspaper, nor are we naive enough to suggest that it is the hunter who reads this, and similar messages in other newspapers, who gets killed.

The man who packs a gun into the bush is just an average, normal individual. He may be a garage mechanic or the president of an industrial empire, which is just another way of saying that hunting is not restricted to any particular station in life.

The difference is in the way a man handles the weapon he is carrying. The best hunting companion is the man who doesn't fire at moving objects until he has determined whether the object is man or animal. He doesn't swing his gun in an arc without first knowing what is in the line of fire. The truly safe hunter doesn't carry a cocked weapon.

We could run down the entire list of "don'ts" for hunters, but the publication of such a list would be intended purely for the very young. By the time a boy has reached manhood, there is little hope of teaching him gun safety.... but we can always hope.

CGE-ster Dan Sampson who lives five miles east of Warsaw was going home the other night when he saw a wolf on the road ahead of him. He gave his old car the gas and knocked the brute down and stunned it. Still showing the best of its nasty disposition Dan whanged it with a tire iron and sent it where all bad wolves go,—to the Court House on Wednesday for a $25 bounty. It weighed 29 pounds.

Of Bulls and Bears

Now that camps and cottages are, for the most part, closed, we can expect reports to dribble in from rangers and winter caretakers of the destructiveness of bears on the prowl,—screen doors torn out, windows smashed and canvas ripped from canoes.

From Pembroke way comes the tale of a bear that caught a little bulldozer napping in a gravel pit one night. Ruling out the possibility that the bear thought the "bull" part of the machine was something edible, the bulldozer was most certainly in the bear's way. He ripped the seat cushion to shreds, bent any parts that were bendable and distainfully left a large muddy paw print on one of the wheel fenders.

When operator Basil Boyle found the mess next morning his language, say lands and forests men, was strong enough to depopulate Algonquin Park of its total wildlife. Fortunately, the tractor still functions as well as ever.

Afrogging You Won't Go

Bull frogs may not be taken for private or commercial use from Oct. 16 until July 1, 1952, according to a bulletin from the Trent district of the Lands and Forests. And when you do start taking them in season the bag limit is ten croakers per day. This law does not apply to restaurants or hotels which may possess any number at any time, provided they import them or obtain them from private frog farms. This new ruling is a protective measure for commercial frogmen and to provide more natural food for fish and game. A sloppy law protecting frogs was instituted about '46 wherein they were protected in their breeding season of July and August. It was never rigidly enforced, and the population was badly depleted.

A few letters of complaint are coming back from American visitors of the Kawarthas. Their remarks are both courteous and just. M. B. Steitz of Akron, O., draws to our attention the needless cavorting of speeding watercraft at Pigeon Lake the last two weeks of August this summer. It is a nuisance problem that bothers all of us, Mr. Steitz, and nobody appears to have the guts to do anything about it.

We do not object to people having fun in summer any way they see fit, but these outdoor water jockeys that flog up and down crowded waterways every evening and all day Sunday use neither courtesy nor common sense. And the public cry against their antics will soon be so loud that the RCMP will be forced to police the situation. The sooner the better.

Dog Days

Fall is the season for field trials, and beagles will show their mettle on Oct. 20 and 21, meeting at the Fireside Inn at the Chemong Road forks on Highway 7. Saturday's class will handle 13-inch male and female dogs, and on Sunday, the 15-inch class. Good prizes, too, such as an engraved serving tray, merchandise and ribbons in all cases PLUS an engraved cup for the best beast in the 15-inch running class. Lunch at the Inn and a Hard Times party at night. Judges will be J. Shewchuck, J. Tiede, H. Armstrong, H. Heslip and A. Lacey. If you want more dope, contact G. Haig, 3949; or L. Cooper of 632 Lundy's Lane.

The barrage of dawn duck hunters fairly blasted me from my mattress this morning. There was no sleeping in after that. Duck population in the Trent is supposed to be greater than last year and this morning's class—most will survive the first onslaught—disappeared in a hurry to stay put somewhere out of sight until the cold migrating weather sets in. Successful shooting tales are not expected at this time but I am counting on some good stories from the partridge hunters. To start the ball arolling, Jim Gordenier of Marmora bagged a 200-pound bear on Arthur Tompkin's farm; the bear was eating veal on the hoof.

Plain, Honest Thankfulness Dutch Way

By NICK NICKELS

It's Thanksgiving.

Corn in the shock and tasseled cobs. Big fat pumpkins. Harvest moon. Foliage of the woods afire. Turkeys dinners and all the trimmings. A long weekend at the summer cottage. Visits to friends and relatives in far-off places. Giants vs. Yankees at the World Series, a million blaring radios.

Thanksgiving Day has its build-ups.

For the past ten days or more Canadian churches have been preparing the spiritual meaning of Thanksgiving with harvest festivals and harvest suppers so that people everywhere should be mindful of the bounty that their land provides. That they should give their personal thanks for it.

School children have been ingrained with the Thanksgiving story for weeks past, the story of the Pilgrim Fathers' first Thanksgiving. The story of autumn rituals of various Canadian Indian tribes escapes them. They have never heard of Algonquin services in bark long houses that predated the Pilgrim Story by centuries.

Canadian Thanksgiving is a period of whoop-de-do. We pay lip service to it, and that is all.

True Thanksgiving

In the homes of New Canadians you will find the true meaning of Thanksgiving. There is no fanfare and show here. It is a simple and personal family feeling. And all of these people have something to be thankful for.

Down in Otonabee township a couple of evenings ago a reporter visited the farm home of a Dutch family, the De Vries, nine months out from their native Friesland Province.

The house was modest but neat. A simple supper bubbled away on the wood stove as the wife laid the table for the evening meal. Father Witse stamped onto the dark verandah shouldering a sack of freshly-dug potatoes, big ones.

"Zign best," he remarked to his wife as he opened the bag for her inspection. Out of their own garden, too.

Yes, things were good for the De Vries. Food and plenty of it, produced by their own labour, something almost unknown for the past several years in the Old Land.

After supper the family moved into their small living room. They reviewed the happenings of the the day. The children, Hiltje, Janke and Piebe, were elated about their school holiday on Monday.

A holiday for what?

Why, it's Thanksgiving!

Why A Holiday?

The parents were pleased, naturally, to have them home from school, but, a holiday on Thanksgiving Day? They shrugged their shoulders in wonderment at another strange Canadian custom.

Dutch people celebrate Thanksgiving, too. They call it "Dankstond," the Thanking Hour. The De Vries and their friends used to gather at the Calvanist Church in Leeuwarden one evening in autumn and, without special prayers, hymns or harvest decorations of any sort, conduct their ordinary church service.

The parents thought of this and many things. Of four years of Nazi occupation — their farmhouse was within the bounds of an important enemy airfield. They remembered the CBC broadcasts which they listened to on a set installed in the roof of their pig pen. They remembered the kindnesses of Polish prisoners at the airbase who supplied them with Nazi coal and wood and the children with sweets. And the hard times following the war when Witse drove a bus and still was unable to make ends meet.

Unlucky At First

Their arrival in Otonabee township in February was not without its drawbacks. Six weeks at their employer's house waiting for their furniture to arrive from Holland — it was smashed to bits in transit. And then the whole family down with the 'flu for two weeks more. Piebe ran a fork into his foot and required hospital attention. Language was a constant barrier.

They remembered the evening when the surrounding community presented them with household things and cash and the thousand and one kindnesses of their employers.

The De Vries are thankful for many things this Thanksgiving. They say so very definitely. And by saying so they set themselevs apart from their fellow Canadians.

REMEDY FOR FROZEN POTATOES

IN the time of frosts, potatoes that have been affected thereby, should be laid in a perfectly dark place for some days after the thaw has commenced. If thawed in open day, they rot; but if in darkness, they do not rot; and they lose very little of their natural properties.

The water in which Potatoes have been boiled is excellent for Chilblains. The feet or hands should be bathed in the water as hot as can be borne. It will afford immediate relief, and prevent breaking.

Material To Complete Trent Stored Since 1917—Why Not Finish Job?

INSTALMENT VII

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

When a problem resists solution for any considerable length of time it is usually found to have been wrongly stated.

A problem of immediate and abiding interest to Peterborough people seems to have fallen into this unhappy and intractable state.

"What are we to do about the unfinished Trent Waterway?" In some such terms the question is commonly stated. Just as it has been stated and restated parrot-fashion for the last thirty years; that is since the lapsing about 1917 of the construction program of several decades which was marked by magnificent achievement in the building of lift and gate locks, dams, bridges and the digging of canal links.

The job at that time was looked upon as all but completed. But unhappily when the First Great War intervened two locks at the Severn River (Georgian Bay) end of the waterway remained unfinished. The halting of work in the period of war pressure was doubtless a wise and necessary step. According to the general understanding what was proposed was a halt (or temporary cessation of work). Nowhere was it taken to mean the abandonment of a soundly-conceived and well-considered project. Although the building of the two locks was a trivial undertaking compared with what had been done in the earlier construction along the whole Trent route from Trenton, the plans still remain in the dusty pigeon-holes of "unfinished business."

Marine Railways

After 1917, carry-over contraptions known as "marine railways" were installed at Big Chute and Swift Rapids, near Washago, the sites of the projected locks. These clumsy ad hoc devices might well bring joy to the engineering genius of "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines", or rouse to a high pitch the nautical zest of the Swiss Navy for a "Life on the rolling—" rocks. On the mechanism boats may be hauled over a rocky height-of-land, keeping their hulls as dry as the "darling daughter's" celebrated beach-gown that was hung on a hickory limb!

This hoist introduced in the early days of "extra dry" aerial navigation, transports boats of up to 56 feet length 13-5 feet beam and 4-feet draught. Locks all along the waterway accommodate vessels up to 134 feet long; 34-feet beam; and 6-feet draught.

Some of the structures had been built for the Severn locks and material was stored for the completion of the section when work stopped. As one engineer now remarks; "It is a strange sight to see dams and locks sitting out in the forest, high and dry".

Unfinished Business

Kawartha people may well ask themselves; "What shall we do about the unfinished business of the Trent?" If, as there is reason to suspect, the problem is unsolved because it has been wrongly stated, they will doubtless do well, too, to inquire: How shall the Trent problem be re-examined in the light of the Logic of Events since 1917?

Has Kawartha history anything to teach us? Its educational value to us is likely to depend upon the outlook and mode of thought of the historian. Great voices of the past are waiting to speak through Trent history when Kawartha people have the ears to hear them. They can speak only in a dynamic and living history such as we have seldom had through the years in which historical study has been in large part a training in falsehood.

As Mr. John S. Hoyland has pointed out in supporting his thesis "All history is direction". "Genuine historical study is a re-living of truth, a placing of the personality now existent into such a relationship with personalities of the past that the motives, forces and ideals which moved them may move us too. It is a dynamic enterprise, a welcoming into ourselves of the principles which move along time and which in reality never die, though the individuals they have energized pass away".

If Kawartha history means anything to us in a dynamic and directional sense (which need not at all take the form of wishful and pushful thinking of some modern pragmatists) it must surely suggest to us that the Trent Waterway cannot for long remain in a state of suspended animation in which there cannot move toward fulfilment the primary canalization concept of the earliest days: the concept of a waterway linking Lake Huron (Georgian Bay) with Lake Ontario, a route open to navigation throughout, not a rail-and-water route closed to navigation at one end. The people of the Trent must move either forward in the direction of well-conceived objectives or backward toward a deadly desuetude and write an inglorious chapter of futility in the history of the future.

Lessons Of History

Are we alive to the lessons of our history? Are we moved by the "motive forces and ideals" which energized our fathers and grandfathers—or are we betraying the cause which they supported with strong souls, splendid vision and high endeavour? Are we worthy inheritors of "Bright Waters and Happy Lands", or are we better fitted to inhabit a Dead Sea or cul de sac waterway?

The voices of fifty years ago were the vibrant voices of our own home-keeping kith and kin of the Trent and Severn valleys. They spoke with a force that could not be denied. They were the voices of some 30 Central Ontario constituencies and at Ottawa they spoke as one, with thunderous volume: "On with the Trent". They presented the views of some of the largest deputations that ever visited the Capital city. One group, too large to be accommodated within the Parliament Buildings, was received on the lawn by the Prime Minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

If we are alive to the dynamics of history and their values we may well perceive that the Greater Trent of Tomorrow, whose progenitor was the Little Trent of Yesterday calls for revival of the spirit and vision of our fathers. If our project is bogged down because it is wrongly stated in terms which are not mutually understandable today our first job is to re-examine it in all its phases and to re-state it as a living enterprise in which all kinds of people may join on the democratic level.

If we the people of the Kawarthas are ever to become acquainted with each other in a nexus of mutual understanding, our first undertaking must be to come to terms with each other. If our problem of the Trent is wrongly stated is it possible that we can re-examine and re-state its properly so long as we try to communicate with each other in a Babel of terms as we do at present.

Herewith is presented a glossary which are likely to recur in any discussion of the basic relevant interest of the Trent or any other waterway. A glance at this unpretentious vocabulary may remind us of the confused magpie's nest of terms we empty as a common focus of reference when we try to talk with one another.

Plant Some Shrubs Now

By HENRY PREE, NEA

Autumn planting of most deciduous shrubs presents many advantages over spring planting. It concurs with the time when the shrubs are nearly dormant and can be moved without taking a heavy ball of earth.

Although shrubs are dormant in early spring, planting conditions are seldom right and the shrubs become active before the gardener suspects it.

Shrubs transplanted in autumn have the advantage of becoming well settled before the following spring so there is less ill effect from root disturbance.

Lilacs are among shrubs which benefit from autumn planting. Deep preparation of the soil is essential and lime should be mixed with both the subsoil and the soil used to fill back about the roots. As usual, two or three shovelsful of manure, added to the soil is beneficial.

Lilacs are dearer to most gardeners than any other shrub. Their hardiness, vigor and beauty of flower and foliage have made them the most universally planted of all shrubs.

They may be planted as specimens, in a special lilac hedge or border, or combined with other shrubs to serve as a background to flower beds or to form an imposing, tall screen.

Individual preferences will dictate the colors you choose but these should be selected from first-rate varieties only, and there are many good standard sorts included in this classification.

Have the plantings face south where they will receive plenty of sun and fresh air. If the ground slopes, so much the better as good drainage is important.

Opinions differ as to which really are the best varieties of lilac because there are so many good ones. Marshall Foch is proclaimed by many as the finest single lilac. The large blooms are carmine-rose with a pink eye.

Those who admire the reddish shades will find Souv. de Ludwig Spaeth a splendid single reddish purple. For white Madame Florent Stepman finds great favor. Mont Blanc is another fine white. President Loubet is a very deep purple.

President Grevy bears massive trusses of double purplish blue flowers, while President Poincare has extra-choice trusses of a bright violet shade.

To continue the display choose the fragrant Syringa villosa with its pale lilac blooms or the still more fragrant Syringa josikaea (Hungarian lilac) with its dense and deeper lilac panicles. The common lilac (Syringa vulgaris) also is still a great favorite particularly since its fragrance is more pronounced than that of many hybrids.

Here's how to plant lilac, the most popular of decorative shrubs

Gardening Questions

Q—There is a moist shady spot in which we wish to plant a few small shrubs. What do you recommend?—P. H.

A—There are very few shrubs which tolerate both moisture and shade. Drooping Andromeda, leucothoe catesbaei; and Inkberry, ilex glabra; are the better evergreen shrubs, with Bayberry, myrica pennsylvanica; Summersweet, clethra aulifolia; Buttonbush, cephalanthus occidentalis; and Maple-leaf Viburnum, viburnum acerifolium; the best of the deciduous shrubs. Summersweet and Bayberry will require some cutting back every third year.

Q—What sort of soil do lilacs, daphnes, and peonies like best and when can they be moved?—P. W.

A—Lilacs and peonies prefer a rather heavy soil, well-fertilized, while the daphne likes a coarser more gravelly soil. Lilacs and daphnes may be transplanted in early spring or fall, while peonies are divided and moved in early autumn.

PETERBOROUGH TIES UP LACROSSE PLAYOFF BY WINNING SIXTH GAME

Petes Back To Champ Form Overwhelm Vancouver 14-3 Keeping Game At Own Pace

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, BC, Oct. 6.—Once again the scrappy Peterborough Timbermen fought their way back from the brink of Mann Cup series oblivion to keep in the hunt. They trounced Vancouver Combines 14-3 here last night on the Combines' Kerrisdale arena floor before 3,000 fans to force a seventh and deciding game on Saturday. This time the Petes finished much stronger than their speedy opponents. They had a narrow 2-1 first-quarter lead and each side scored once in the close second frame. It was Peterborough all the way after that. The ytossed in four markers without a return in the third chukker and had a big 7-1 edge in the fourth as the Combines collapsed.

The losers and their fans took it hard. Combines played it rough in the last half and their veteran goalie was trying to cut every opponent down in the final frame. The fans held up play 10 minutes when they cluttered up the floor with cushions, programs, paper cups and whatnot in anger at one of the Vancouver players drawing a slashing penalty, shortly after a near free-for-all was quelled. The Petes drew seven of the 13 penalties, which was by far their best average in this BC series to date.

There was little doubt of the issue from the early minutes of play. The Petes were back in their best series form and dominated play throughout. They drew fewer penalties than previously, checked solidly, passed the ball around, and kept play pretty much at their own pace.

The referees warned both teams before the start to cut out the rough stuff, and there was little of that till the latter part of the tilt. Play was rugged enough and fairly fast, but the Petes took the pep out of the crowd after the half-time intermission.

Top Scorers

Nit O'Hearn and Dootch Vitarelli were top snipers for Don Crowe's determined crew, each hitting the twine three times, but Bob Thorpe was dynamite also with two goals and three assists. Russ Slater was another star, going both ways, as he scored a brace of counters. Single goals went to Merv McKenzie, Harry Wipper, Don McPhail and Denny Peterson, as McKenzie and McPhail had an assist each. There wasn't a weak man on the squad over the route, and Wootton was tops again in goal.

The Vancouver markers were notched by Bus Byford, Alec McKay and Jim Swanson, while Sam Sakich had the only assist. They made it a game for two quarters but gradually wilted under the pressure and began to play wildly and roughly as the score steadily mounted. Lee stopped a flock in goal but lost his head in the last quarter and the Petes made him look bad as they scored while he swung his stick at them in anger.

Missed Stewart

They missed Gogie Stewart, a hustler and a player who makes the opposition draw a lot of penalties as he ducks his helmeted head into their sticks. He suffered a fractured jaw in the fifth game. But the Petes are minus an ace, also, in Jerry Fitzgerald, who is coming along well now in hospital after an operation and will probably fly home Tuesday with the team. The refereeing was not the best, but they were fairer than in past performances and now the Combines are complaining and wanting a change.

One Penalty In Period

Combines scored the first goal to wild cheers when Byford took an in-close pass from Sakich and caught a net corner. They pressed for a space till the Petes took possession and slowed it down, Slater being extremely good at holding the ball. They tied it later when Vitarelli's intended pass to Thorpe was screened from the goalie and bounced in. Crowe came close a minute later and the pace stepped up some, being fast, clean and fairly even. But the easterners got the next goal when O'Hearn shook a check with McPhail's quick pass to splash it home. Peterson was gated near the close for playing in the crease, it being the only penalty of the period.

Wootton had to be good early in the second chapter when Combines gave it the old college try. A McKenzie-Thorpe thrust almost paid off and later Powless drove a hot one that Lee caught. McKay got around the defence finally to roll one right into the hemp for Vancouver.

Folka gave a free draw to the Combines, and then Tice, Hurst and Wipper were waved for roughing. Play was fast and even, and all were back when O'Hearn ducked his check neatly to slip in close and whang the apple into a corner of the cage to keep Petes in front. Tice and Hurst went over again near the close for tripping.

McPhail almost had one as the Petes opened it up in the third. Slater scored a swell backhander with two checking players hanging all over him. Lee pulled several nifty saves as the Timbermen really rolled, Vitarelli picked the short side on a solo thrust and almost got another a minute later. They battled back and forth hard, with checking getting rougher, and Vitarelli drew a boarding penalty which the Petes protested hotly. Peterson tallied on a quick breakaway before Dootch got back, and it became rougher right along with the refs letting plenty go. McPhail took a fast pass from Thorpe on an angle run and whipped it in before the gong to make it read 7-2 for the happy visitors.

Thorpe struck fast in the fourth with McKenzie's pass as he sucked the opposition defence to the side. Wipper's hot shot as he rounded defence piled up the count and McKenzie added another from the angle with a whistler the goalie never saw. Swanson was gated for his slash and Slater blasted a hot one in from the side. His follow-through hit Jim Kinna, who started to fight, and before it was over they were all pushing each other around. Cavallin, Kinna and Wipper were given minor roughing penalties for the upheaval. McKay later drew a slashing penalty and the disgruntled fans showered the floor to hold play. Peterson went off next for playing in the crease, and Wipper got back in time to draw a charging penalty. Swanson scored their lone goal of the second half in close from Buchanan. Thorpe got that right back as he faked the goalie out. McPhail and Jenion went off for roughing and Vitarelli took Thorpe's pass to bang it in. The goalie came out trying to cut down O'Hearn but Nit waltzed around him with Thorpe's pass to sink the last marker.

AFTER BEING CUT DOWN — Nit O'Hearn, Petes' defenceman, is seen here lying on the Kerrisdale Arena floor Wednesday night after a hard check by Bus Byford of Vancouver Combines in the Mann Cup fifth fray. Dootch Vitarelli, Petes' captain, is bending over O'Hearn, who was revived shortly and went on to turn in a fine effort in a rousing struggle before a big lacrosse crowd. Petes won Friday night 14-3 on the same floor.

Bantams Trim Brampton, Midgets Out

Peterborough lacrosse bantams will continue down the Ontario playdown trail but the midgets will now fold up for the season.

Friday night at Miller Bowl the bantams decisively defeated Brampton 16-6 to take the home-and-home, goals-to-count, series 28-17. The first game was won in Brampton Wednesday by Peterborough 12-11.

But in the second game the Brampton midgets worked an eight-all tie to win that series 24-20, by virtue of a 16-12 victory in Brampton Wednesday night.

The Peterborough bantams and the Brampton midgets now will enter Ontario championship tournaments next Saturday.

Superior passing and checking by the Petes in the bantams game allowed them to completely outplay Brampton. Ron Jay, Gord MacInnes, Paul Davis, Grant Simmons and Heffernan all scored in the first quarter when the Petes went up 5-1. Heffernan, Simmons, MacInnes and Lagana sent the Petes score to nine at the half while Brampton added another tally.

Brampton enjoyed a brief period in the third quarter and managed to outscore the Petes, 3-2, the Peterborough goals were by Heffernan and Simmons. Heffernan went to the races in the fourth quarter rapping in three goals while MacInnes and Simmons added singles. Again Brampton scored only one goal.

Locals Fade Out

The Petes midgets jolted Brampton in the first half as they went ahead two goals on the round with a 6-0 score. But they faded from therein to allow Brampton to catch up in the third and tie the game in the fourth.

Bob Delahey sparked the Petes but Jim Sutherland and Bloom scored hat-tricks, the other pair going to T. Hunt. Brampton's Robinson was the top scorer, sinking the ball four times.

Lineups—Bantam game: Petes: Heffernan, Davis, Simmons, MacInnes, Pete Heffernan, Lagana, Jay, Floyd, Ferguson, Roberts, Marino, Coombs, Hunt, Forrestal, Trotter.

Brampton—Dixon, Thompson, Peterson, Core, Snyder, Davis, Kendall, W. Thompson, Mullis, Naylor, Miller, Cobean, Carter, Taylor, Flaherty.

Midget game—Petes—Delahey, Hobart, Chambers, Braniff, D. Sutherland, J. Sutherland, Ryan, Tarkington, Smythe, Mullen, Bloom, T. Hunt, R. Saunders.

St. Catharines Wins Softball Crown

OSHAWA, Oct. 6 (CP). — St. Catharines Teepee Chiefs Friday night won the Ontario Amateur Softball Association Senior B championship by beating Oshawa Pedlars 3-1 in 11 innings of the third and deciding game of their series.

The victory gave St. Catharines all-Ontario honors, as Sault Ste. Marie, the northern champions, declined a series with the southern winners.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6.—Man, oh, man, but this Mann Cup affair is enough to drive a man zany. We're up in the clouds one day and deep down in the mine the next. Today we're well up again and thankful that it'll be all over tonight ere the iron nerves disintegrate. Petes beat Vancouver 14-3 here last night to knot up the series at three wins each, and a champion will be declared tonight at Kerrisdale Arena along about 11 bells this time or two a.m. back home. Both teams are grimly determined to take that big final one, so it should be a terrific battle. We can't take much more of this.

* * * * * * *

Actually, it wasn't such a terrific tilt Friday from a fan's point of view, but a honey for Peterborough. They really played top lacrosse, making no mistakes over the route. Gave it all they had with no weak sisters on the club and going all out every minute. Championship lacrosse. If they go the same tonight, no club can beat them. If they don't.... well, these Combines will certain be shooting the works. We can't help calling the Petes on their Friday performance, as there was nothing to it. Close enough the first half, but a waltz after that. Combines and their fans couldn't find anything else to cry about, so they're now down on the referees. Petes have been down on them for a week.

* * * * * * *

A raft of telegrams arrived for the Timbermen Friday and that certainly helped. Good encouraging wires. Some of them were from Mayor Max Swanston, Ken Bundy, Ten Lacrosse Fans, Ike Hildebrand and Don Ashbee, Don McGillis, Jim Wharry, Dr. R. A. Kelly, Harley Keefer, Dave Fester, Al Winslow, Russ Johnson, Mrs. J. Post, Mr. and Mrs. Creighton, Harry Yudin, Eagles Hockey Club, Fred Maybee, The Wiples, Jim Fraser, Empress Hotel, Isadore, Aaron and Morris Black, Dit Clapper and Dave Wilson, CNR office, Induction Motors and some more. Sorry we can't recall 'em all. Mighty nice encouragement.

* * * * * * *

Win or lose, your Peterborough lacrossers are really trying mighty hard. They're up against plenty out here and haven't played their very best at times, but they're certainly hustling now and mighty anxious to get that Mann Cup. If they do, what a celebration afterwards here and at home. If they don't, no one will feel worse than these players. Present plans call for an exhibition game on Monday in Victoria when the series is all over, and then fly home Tuesday if reservations are lined up. We won't wait for an exhibitions, but hope to get out of here Sunday. It's that Mann Cup series we're interested in. Jerry Fitzgerald will likely be ready to fly home with the team as he's coming along okay again after his operation.

* * * * * * *

Combines played it rough in the last half last night when they were well beaten. But the Petes kept their heads and turned in a four-star effort. Just couldn't be beaten on that peak performance. Had the Combines crying again, this time at the refs—though why we don't know. They get all the breaks going. Their fans wept plenty, too, and threw stuff on the floor when a guy drew a deserved penalty. O'Hearn, Thorpe, Vitarelli, McPhail, McKenzie and Wootton were some of the winners' stars but they all went swell. They earned this game strictly on their merits and by that 11-goal margin.

* * * * * * *

Seen shortly before game time Friday, Coach Don Crowe was sizzling. He and Bob Curtin appeared briefly before a CLA meeting to see about a change of referees for the sixth game. And, according to Crowe, the august body of officials said: "Folka and Dickinson are probably the best of a rather sorry lot of referees available now, so we'll have to continue using them." Can you imagine a crack like that by Canadian lacrosse officials in the Mann Cup finals? The best of a sorry lot. What must the rest of them be like? We should be able to concentrate on playing lacrosse in this big series without worrying ourselves sick over sites of games, homer refs and the rest of it. That's for sure.

* * * * * * *

One Vancouver Sun scribe Friday had a lot of guff in about the brave little men carrying the Combines to victory against the giants from the East. Actually, there isn't much overall difference in weights between the two clubs. Several players like Crowe, Powless and McKenzie are bigger but they have several heavier fellows than Vitarelli, Slater, Thorpe, etc. The writer called it "this bloody battle of brains vs. brawn." Later on he admitted: "True, Peterborough has several players who don't rely on viciousness and brute strength alone, such as Harry Wipper, Russ Slater and Denny Peterson. Good smart players all." Mighty nice of him. Did you ever hear such one-sided guff?

Leafs Tie Hornets

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 6—(CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League tied Pittsburgh Hornets 1-1 in an exhibition hockey game Friday night—and were lucky their American League farm club didn't win. Both scores came in the first period. George Armstrong put the Hornets in front but the Leafs came back fast to tie up the game on a tally by Danny Lewicki.

PCVS Juniors Hold Lindsay To 5-5 Draw

Gary Kearns, probably the smallest backfielder in collegiate football in Ontario, led Coach Al MacQuarrie's junior PCVS Garnet and Greys to a five-all tie with Lindsay Collegiate Friday night at Morrow Park.

The wee backfielder plunged, tackled and caught to fill his team with spirit enough to hold the Lindsay squad who controlled the play.

Kearns played a prominent part in PCVS' only score at the close of the second quarter. Quarter Jack Corbett passed to Kearns for 22 yards, Kearns then running to the Lindsay 30-yard line. There Corbett threw to Bill Goodson who scored.

But Corbett and Barry Hollingsworth shared the limelight. Corbett's attempts at passing improved greatly over the previous two games, helped by the catching of Goodson, Kearns and Eastwood.

Hollingsworth, apart from Kearns, gained yardage for PCVS along the plunging line, and played a major part in the defensive play with his long punts.

The front wall, including Keating, Haggart, Parry, Whalen and Walker, with alternates, played far above last Saturday's form when PCVS lost 46-1 to Oshawa CVI. The linemen held when the odds were against them.

Punts by Art Truax, plunges by Maurice Bennock, Sinclair and Graham, kept the Garnet and Grey on guard throughout, but Lindsay found that fumbles can be costly.

Late in the third quarter after Lindsay had pressed PCVS twice to the goal-line but were turned back, PCVS gambled a third down at the 30-yard line and lost. Murray Packer plunged for a first down, followed by Pennock for four yards. Then Packer ripped across standing up for the Lindsay score.

Lindsay threatened but once more. Art Truax broke through into the clear and ran 55 yards before dropped by Harry Hollingsworth at the one-yard line. But the play was called back, Lindsay penalized 15 yards for roughing.

Garnet, Greys Wallop Belleville Collegiate 34-6

Off stride for more than half the game, PCVS senior Garnet and Greys still had time to wallop Belleville Collegiate 34-6 Friday night at Morrow Park.

This game was their third straight triumph this season and was their first game in the Lake Ontario-Bay of Quinte area of the COSSA. But it was also the first time that the opposition has scored upon the impressive collegians, shutting out. Riverdale, 12-0, and Trinity College 29-0.

PCVS' line, which has starred in the previous two exhibition games with stellar blocking and tackling, was only a ghost of itself during the first half of Friday night's game. The wingmen left holes a mile wide and Belleville took advantage, nearly outplaying and outscoring the Garnet and Grey in the half.

A costly fumble, resulting in Belleville's only score, awakened the linesmen in the second quarter and they improved steadily from there on, reaching their peak in the final quarter.

But the star was little Dave Langhorne, the quarterback who is alternating with Bryan Young. His running, kicking and passes sparked the team through the dismal first half and drove the team in the final session.

Langhorne's running with Bus Jensen's plunges, and spurts from Bob Craw and Murray Grafstein, who grabbed a blocked kick and intercepted a pass, both going for touchdowns, were the game highlights.

Ken Allen's bucks through PCVS' line, along with the work of Green and McBrien, held the Bellevfile team together until the last quarter when the game blew up.

A quick kick by Green from the Belleville 15 to Bus Kensen at the Belleville 45 set the scene for the first score. Warren Brown carried twice for 22 yards; then Langhorne bucked to the four-yard line where Jensen went over flying through the air. Langhorne converted.

Two plays later Bob Craw, with one minute to go, intercepted a Belleville forward pass while on the run and went 44 yards in the clear before Belleville realized what had happened. The conversion attempt failed, making the score 11-0 at the quarter.

In the second PCVS were pressing at the Belleville 24 when Dave Langhorne's blockers failed on a pass. Four Belleville tacklers knocked him down, and Ernie Brooks, a middle, took the loose ball and ran 86 yards for the major. Bruce Nickle converted.

Late in the third Langhorne forced Belleville back with his punting. Finally PCVS took possession at the 25-yard line. In three runs Langhorne went the 25 yards to score easily, also converting the point.

Minutes later, a blocked kick recovered by Murray Grafstein a the 20-yard line, placed Langhorne in scoring position. He crossed the line on the first play dodging neatly through the teams

Early in the fourth Langhorne kicked to deadline for a single point. Not until late in the final did PCVS cross again, bu they threatened three times.

Finally, Langhorne at the Belleville 45 passed to Bus Jensen who broke away from three tackler and ran in the clear for 30 yards to score. Before Bileville had time to settle down Murray Grafstein intercepted a pass at the Belleville 30; shifting his way through for the final score, 34-6

George Stallings, the "Miracle man" of baseball, was appointed manager of the National League Chicago Cubs 23 years ago today. Stallings had startled the sports world in 1914 when he piloted Boston Braves from last place in July to the pennant and then beat Philadelphia Athletics four straight in the World Series. He died in 1929.

Rangers Sign Contracts

GUELPH, Oct. 6 (CP).—Manager Frank Boucher announced Friday that all New York Rangers' players have signed their contracts for the 1951-52 season. He also said that the team roster was reduced to 18 when centre Buddy O'Connor was sent down to Cincinnati of the American Hockey League. The 35-year-old O'Connor won the Hart and Lady Byng Trophies in 1947.

Why Do Christians Study Old Testament Teachings?

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD

Why should not all our attention be concentrated upon the New Testament and the life and teachings of Jesus? Why is it not enough to study those portions of the Old Testament that mark the highest development of religion in the Hebrew prophets and poets, and those Acts and Epistles that intepret and stress the meaning and application of the Christian Gospel and the Christian life?

Why should we delve far back into the early history of the Jewish pepole, where life and times were crude, and characters and incidents were not always marked by high integrity and moral enlightenment?

Is is not embarrassing to read of Abraham's serious lapse from truthfulness (Genesis 12:10-20), of Jacob's crookedness and deceitfulness (Genesis 27:18-46), and the Jews' destruction of their conquered enemies (Deuteronomy 2: 34) in an act of genecide with which we can compare Hitler's massacres in countries he conquered?

We may disregard and pass over such things in the Biblical record too lightly. But, if they were all, or even a dominant part of the record, there would be reason to avoid it, and not study it at all.

It is the fact, though, that through and beyond the dark pages so much shines that is not only good, but sublime and prophetic of greater things to come.

Moreover, the darker and unethical things must be seen in their proper perspective. The times were rough and crude, and must not be judged by the highest standards of today; though the peaceable Abraham (Genesis 13: 8, 9) might well sit in judgment upon our twentieth century, marked by deeds, violence and dishonor.

One of my keenest critics sometime ago urged that the bloody and violent record—he spoke of pages in Samuel and Kings—ought to be omitted from the Bible. I do not think so.

Apart from my own instinctive dislike of the censorship and expurgation of great books, I think it is something of the glory of the Old Testament that in its history of the Jewish people, it presents the dark as well as the bright, the bad as well as the good, not only of the people, but even of their greatest heroes. It would be well if we had more of such honest realism today, and if all history were written with similar regard for the whole truth.

It happened that when that particular criticism came to me I was reading the early history of Britain. What impressed me was that in Anglo-Saxon times, many centuries after the early life of Israel, there was a darkness of tribal warfare, violence, and bloodshed, almost entirely unlightened by the faith and idealism that do unquestionably shine through the earliest Biblical record (see Genesis 18:23-33).

It sent me back to those records with an increased sense of their interest and their value in the story of man's life on earth.

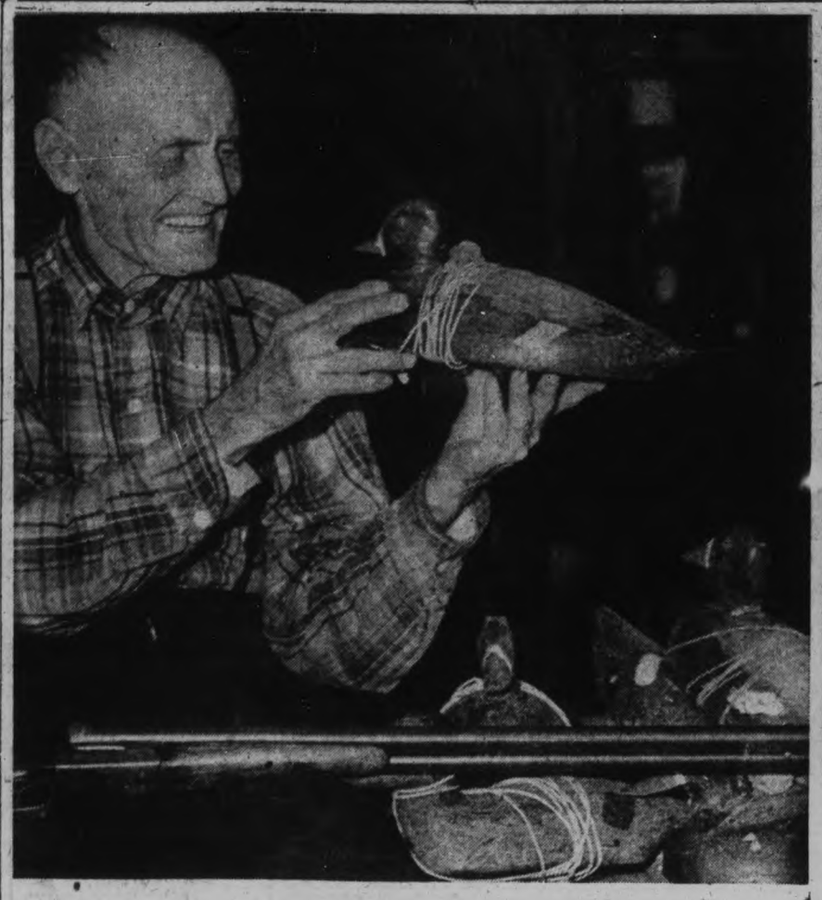
Man, 71, Dies In Jail; Baby Suffocates

Inquest Ordered Into Man's Death; Child Dies In Bed



LINDSAY, Oct. 6—A Lindsay mother found her five months old daughter dead in her crib early Friday morning. A second death occurred at the county jail where a 71-year-old man was found dead in his cell by County Jailer W. H. Stone when he made his early morning rounds.

Mrs. Bert Martin, 34 Patrick St., found her infant daughter Joanisse dead in her crib at 4 o'clock Friday morning.

According to the coroner Dr. Crowe, the baby died of suffocation after pulling the covers over her head.

William McKelvey, an Eldon farmer was found dead in his bed at the county jail. A post mortem was performed Friday afternoon by Dr. Broadfoot and Crown Attorney W. L. Jordan said that an inquest will be held into the death of the 71-year-old man who was awaiting transfer to the Ontario Hospital at Whitby.

He had been committed for treatment by Magistrate E. A. Gee in Lindsay police court last week.

Peterborough May Get New Airport, Company Offers Help

Department of Transport Official Expected To Help Select Site Financing Still Biggest Problem

Peterborough's long hoped-for airport got a shot in the arm this week. It is understood that one of the larger city industries will make a substantial donation for the airport if other firms fall in line. The donation is said to be in the neighborhod of $50,000. City and other officials connected with the impending negotiations would say nothing for publication beyond the fact that plans for the airport were still in their infancy.

It is further understood that a federal Department of Transport official will be coming to the city to help select a site for the flying field.

Three sites are possibilities. One is near Reaboro (on the CNR line seven miles east of Lindsay), a second is the Skyboro site on the Chemong road, and a third on Highway 28 west of the city.

Could Serve Two

The Reaboro site would provide an airport to serve Peterborough and Lindsay as well as the surrounding districts.

When the company which owns the Skyboro field was formed, a good deal of opposition was present in official circles in Peterborough to an airport, and it is understood now that that opposition has been turned to support.

Financing the airport is the biggest problem that would face prospective builders. But with the revival of the air training scheme by the federal government, it is possible that federal aid could be secured.

The twin cities of Kitchener-Waterloo are in the process of building their second airport, and for that airfield, it is understood almost $2,000,000 of government aid was given.

If proportionate government aid were forthcoming for an airport for Peterborough, the mountainous problem of financing would be melted down to a smallish molehill.

The first concerted effort to build an airport for Peterborough was in 1945, when the Canadian Aircraft and Auto Co. Ltd. was formed. Work was started in 1946 on a field three miles north of the city on Highway 7, and before building halted in 1948, a good deal of money was consumed.

Construction expenses were too heavy for the company, and they were forced to stop when one runway was partly finished.

Since that time, the owners have held onto the land, hoping some day that interest would be renewed. However, there is as yet no indication that their site would be the one chosen.

Drivers Hurt In Headon Crash

OMEMEE, Oct. 6—(ENS)—Two men were injured, neither seriously, Friday at 5 p.m., when their cars collided at the top of a hill a mile and a half west of Omemee.

Gerald Nelson, of Omemee, suffered head and chest injuries and minor cuts and bruises. The second man, whose name could not be learned, was a Toronto salesman. He suffered minor injuries.

Both cars were extensively damaged, and both men taken to Lindsay hospital, where the Toronto man was released after treatment. Dr. William Earle, of Omemee, treated the men at the scene of the accident.

Hunters Out For Duck, 60th Shoot For Veteran

Jimmy Dixon, 75, of Keene, got his gun, shells, decoys and canoe ready for today's opening duck shoot on the marshy acres at the mouth of Indian River. He has never missed an opening day in 60 years, he says, and though he has a stiff arm this year from a lingering illness, he still expects to bring down a few.

Duck populations on Rice Lake have dwindled during the past 15 years, Mr. Dixon said. The wild-rice crop is practically killed off but the attraction for ducks still remains the wild celery beds in the centre of the lake.

Jimmy and his friends differ from the ordinary hunters who use blinds. Most of their shooting is done from a canoe.

Blind On Boat

They do fashion a shooting blind, a low platform woven with rushes, under which the canoe may be pushed. The hunter is hidden in his boat from the waist down.

Like most men of his advanced years, Jimmy likes to hark back to the good old days of duck shooting. Rice Lake fed and harbored ducks in millions, then, and it was only a matter for a hunter to take what he needed. These days hunters have to work for them, to take a part bag.

Keene was the central spot for meeting and outfitting in the old days. Hunters came by train, horse and buggy and on foot to take part in the shoot. It created quite a bit of business in the village, and, after a morning of cold sport hunters were able to enjoy a hot dram at Mike Kenneally's hotel on the village corner.

Regardless of the failure of the wild rice crop, the ducks' chief fall food, their numbers are holding their own at a healthy rate, Mr. Dixon thinks.

"Hope I get a brace or two on opening morning, said Mr. Dixon. "It sorta keeps my hand in."

Housing Meeting With Gov't

Next housing committee meeting will likely be next Thursday when A. E. K. Bunnell of Toronto will be here to discuss the government's plan of promotion and assistance.

Opinion is shaping at the city hall in favor of a long term housing plan. Mayor Swanston has been keeping the present project at the top of his thoughts, but approach to this whole problem is changing in breadth of policy. Where should housing development be directed, having an eye on developments of the next ten years?

If the council does not resort to the attitude that the year is in the last quarter, and all business might as well be left to its successors, something may be accomplished in laying down an elastic plan for the future, with particular attention to at least 100 houses in the Premier Frost pattern mentioned this year at London.

Mr. Bunnell is head of the urban planning section of the Ontario department of planning and development.

WON AT BATAVIA

Hugh Stewart produced a two-year-old filly "Stewart's Sister" that won the 2.30 pace at Batavia Downs, N.Y., in 2.15 1/5 Thursday night. In company of older pacers, she was driven to the win by Hugh Stewart Jr.

Jaycee Congress To Be Held Here

Delegates are expected from Ottawa, Arnprior, Kingston, Gananoque, Brockville, Renfrew, Hawkesbury, Cornwall, Prescott, as well as Peterborough.

At the coaching congress various branches will lead the discussion on some particular Jaycee project or problem. Some of the topics will be muncipal affairs, get-out-the-vote campaign, clean-up and paint-up campaigns, public speaking groups, and youth development groups.

Two of the featured clinics are "effective speaking," conducted by the Renfrew branch, and "Canadian municipal affairs," conducted by Cliff Chatterton, national chairman from Ottawa.

A ladies' program and other entertainment have been arranged.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

NEW LAWN

The new City Hall is getting a new lawn. Workmen started Friday morning early to lay sod, and by early afternoon had the whole front area sodded and the side along Murray Street as well. Along Muray Street back from the sidewalk a spirea hedge has also been put in.

GIRLS IN UNIFORM

St. Peter's High School girls have returned to their black-and-white school uniforms, abandoned in the spring for the hot weather. Old Man Weather has played a hot trick on them these few days; yet the girls are being complimented on their smart appearance despite the sun.

Essays On Fair Flood Judges

Children's tickets to the recent Peterborough Exhibition bore on the back of them information about an essay contest for pupils of Grades 7 and 8, and essays from city and rural pupils have been pouring in. Teachers, inspectors and school boards are co-operating in promoting the contest sponsored by the Board of Directors of the Exhibition. The essay subject is "What I Learnt at the Exhibition."

The essays will be judged next week, and prizes awarded thereafter. Prizes are: first, $25; second, $15; third, $10.

Clare Collins announced for the directors today that the following have agreed to act as judges: Miss Lilian M. Wesley, Mrs. Ross Matthews, Miss Alexandra Howson, Norman Crook, W. M. Roache and T. J. Allen.

Gerry Coughlin Heads Foxhound Club

Gerry Coughlin was elected president of the Kawartha Foxhound Club at the season's first meeting on Friday evening. Other officers elected were Herb Routley, vice-president, and Edward Roberts, secretary.

New directors will be William Thompson, Alfred Johnston, David Henderson, William McMann, Frank Millard and Bud Lloyd.

The Kawartha Club have joined the Canadian Foxhound Association and by so doing will be attending many field trials in southern Ontario. Officials say that the Girven Ranch, near Indian River, has been acquired by the Club for field work of members' dogs.

Scott Urges Hunters Be Careful Of Fire

TORONTO, Oct. 6. (CP)—Ontario Lands Minister Scott yesterday appealed to hunters in the province to be careful on this Thanksgiving weekend.

Mr. Scott said that with the opening of the duck and partridge season Saturday there probably will be a record number of hunters taking to forest and field.

"I am appealing to the sportsmen of the province to see that all camp fires are out," he said. "Take extra care while smoking in the bush and practice every rule of safety in the interest of a happy holiday."

TAKEN TO TORONTO

Seven-year-old Lionel Hope, polio victim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hope, RR 7 Peterborough, was taken from Civic hospital to Riverdale Isolation hospital, Toronto, Friday night.

Leaves Turn Gold, Crimson

Thanksgiving weekend in the country will have its usual splashes of gold and red this year. During the past two weeks, the green of summer has been painted over into the annual brilliance of autumn.

The city, too, has its fall beauty spots. Looking north from the Inverlea and Hunter St. bridges, there are great daubs of crimson and yellow lining the banks of the Otonabee.

The same is true of Benson St. hill, and the ring of trees around Nicholls Oval, and of probably a hundred places in the city.

North of the city, the trees changed color two weeks ago in the Bancroft-Paudash lake district, and in the near north — Young's Point, Burleigh Falls, Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon — colors have switched within the past 10 days.

Duck and partridge hunters who open the season today will have some gaudy colors to look at, and the football fans will shiver lightly and declare that it's perfect weather.

MOVE OCT. 13

Its staff will say goodbye to the old city hall Saturday, Oct. 13, weekend moving day. Equipment, records and so on should all be in the new domicile on Monday.

CHAIRMAN HOPING

Ald. E. C. Braund, is hoping to have an early announcement from his committee, possibly next week. He is chairman of the manufacturers' committee whose chief purpose is trying to secure new industries. Several prospects are simmering, although not large concerns.

Shellac Metal Stain Killer Also Waterproof Cement

As a METAL STAIN KILLER—Radiators, railings, etc., coated with orange shellac, will not show old rust bleeding 'hrough into a new paint coat. Copper screens, copper flashings, copper leaders and gutters, should be given a thin coat of shellac annually, to prevent stain from dripping water on the sides of a house.

As a GLUE? It will stick glass to glass, leather to metal.

As a WATERPROOF CEMENT? If you pour shellac into a dish and burn off the alcohol, the residue is a waterproof cement that may be used for such purposes as cementing canvas decks, etc.

As a LACQUER? Shellac may be coloured any shade desired by aniline dyes dissolved in alcohol. After straining, the dye-alcohol mixture is added slowly to the shellac until the desired colour is obtained.

As a LINOLEUM SAVER? Shellac will add to the life of linoleum, makes a perfect surface for its waxing, if this is also desired.

As a LAMP SHADE PRESERVATIVE? A thin coat of shellac makes parchment lamp shades spotproof, readily cleaned, durable.

On CARPETS AND RUGS? Applied to the back of a hooked rug, or of a carpet that is losing its "body", shellac will add greatly to its length of life.

For STICKY BUREAU DRAWERS? Shellac all bureau drawers, both inside and out, to prevent atmospheric conditions from affecting the wood—they will slide like greased lightning Winter or Summer.

On WALLPAPER? Orange shellac will "antique" the wall paper on a screen, or on a room's walls, to a rich, glowing brown of age. White shellac, similarly applied, will leave the colours almost unchanged, but will render the paper spot proof and washable with a damp cloth.

On SUMMER FURNITURE? Shellac will postpone indefinitely their disintegration because of moisture conditions.

Tips On Roof Care

The roof of your home is exposed to all weather—beating sun, drenching, rain, snow and violet wind. Given reasonable care, it will stand up to even the most rugged, conditions. Here are a few suggestions that will add years to the life of any roof.

Keep gutters, downspouts, and roof surfaces clear of fallen leaves, twigs, and other litter so that water will drain freely and will not back up.

Never allow water from a downspout to pour directly onto a roof below; keep the downspout connected to the gutter which drains the lower roof.

Keep trees trimmed to prevent scuffing by branches, or damage by falling limbs. Keep climbing roses and vines trimmed back.

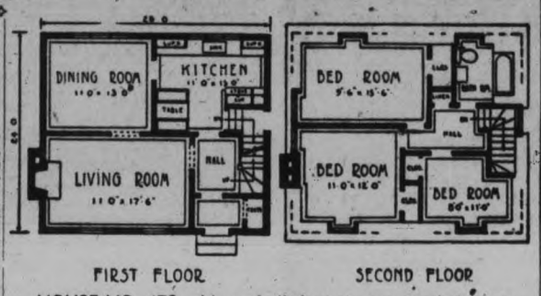
Do not walk on roofing or shingles. When it is necessary for workmen to go on roof, they shuld use walk boards, ladders or other suitable protection.

When it is necessary to remove snow or ice from a valley or roof area, be careful not to damage the roof with whatever tools are used.

Lay 15 Charges

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Police said Friday night they had laid 15 charges of fraud, theft and false pretences against Walter Hunt of Toronto in connection with real estate swindles which might total over $25,000 and date back to 1946. Police said that Hunt's victims, mostly old persons and women, had paid him sums of money as down payments for homes.

Ex-Missionary Speaks To Fellowship Group



CAVAN, Oct. 6 (ENS). — St. John's Fellowship group, Ida, held their October meeting at the rectory, Millbrook, on Tuesday evening, guests of the Rev. A. A. and Mrs. Chote. The business part of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of improvements to the parish hall, Ida.

The president then called on Mr. Chote to make a presentation of a sum of money to Millborne Merton, who is almost completely recovered after a serious accident. He made a reply in appreciation.

The Rev. Charles Richmond, Omemee, then addressed the meeting and told of his experiences in the desert area of Africa where he served as a missionary for 16 years.

His area and many others in that part of the country were badly handicapped because of lack of financial support. Time did not permit him to show films which he took while in the mission field, but hopes to do so in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Chote served lunch and Mr. L. McNeil moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Richmond and the host and hostess.

FIRST FLOOR SECOND FLOOR

HOUSE NO. 473—No embellishments are needed to give this sturdy little home its pleasing character. While it is a simple rectangle (just off being square), sound designing has given it an air all its own. The floor plan is unusually good. It reveals a room layout hard to beat for livability. Don't miss the bright kitchen with its work-easy arrangement of equipment, and the convenient breakfast nook. Upstairs the small hall is a pivot for the three bedrooms, the bathroom and the stairs. The two largest bedrooms have two exposures, and all of them have good closet space. For working drawinngs write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Elizabeth's Trip Omen For Commonwealth

LONDON, Oct. 7—(Reuters)—The Times says today that the flight of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada at the weekend—the first flight by members of the Royal family to a Dominion—provides something more than a date for the collector of "records."

"It is a portent of good omen for the British commonwealth," it says.

"The first introduction of Princess Elizabeth to the Canadian nation cannot be less than an historic event. Wherever she goes she represents the future of the British Commonwealth, and how much of that future may belong to Canada it should be difficult to overestimate . . ."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express says Canada will welcome "Canada's Princess and Canada's Duke," not Britain's, just as the King and Queen were welcomed in 1939, as "Canada's King and Queen."

Pope Receives Canadian Tars

ABOARD HMCS MAGNIFICENT IN THE MEDITERRANEAN, Oct. 6 — (CP). — A reception by the Pope is part of the memories of 234 of the officers and men aboard two Canadian warships now exercising in the Mediterranean.

They left this aircraft carrier and the destroyer Micmac last week to make a pilgrimage to the holy city and be received by the Pope at his summer residence.

Their first stop on arriving in Rome was to assist at mass in the Chapel of the Blessed Sacrament. Father James Noonan of Toronto, the Maggie's Roman Catholic chaplain, celebrated the mass. After lunch they went to the Pope's summer residence at Castel Gandolfo.

Here the Canadians entered a courtyard to join an international group of 2,000 pilgrims. The Pope appeared on a balcony and spoke first in Italian. Then the addressed the visitors from France in their language. After speaking in English to a group of Royal Navy officers and men, the Pope said:

"To the group of Canadian sailors from HMCS Magnificent and Micmac: Your vocation enables you to see a large part of the world. An old proverb has it that he who travels far knows much. This should be true. It is not always so. May this thought be with you in all places at all times.

"All men form the one great human family. It should be your ambition to unite these more closely with the bonds of love and kindness . . ."

Wins Acquittal

KITCHENER, Oct. 6 (CP) — A 15-year-old Waterloo boy Friday was acquitted of a charge of dangerous driving in the death fo Andrew Bender, 73, of St. Clements. He was tried in juvenile court under the Juvenile Delinquents Act.

Land Light Plane Near Top Of Peak

GENEVA, Oct. 6 (AP)—Two Swiss fliers landed a plane on a snowfield near the top of 15,782-foot Mont Blanc Friday in a stunt that hasn't been done for 30 years, but they're returning afoot.

The plane nosed over and twisted its propeller in the landing. Then a gust of wind tossed the plane on its back at the edge of a precipice.

The fliers, Georges Zehr and Jean Darmsteadter, consequently headed down the mountain with Alpine guides.

The two were trying to duplicate the feat of Switzerland's third licensed pilot, Francois Durafour, who landed and took off from the same spot in a First World War biplane July 30, 1921.

An Italian liqueur manufacturer had offered 1,000,000 lire (about $1,600) if they succeeded. Radio Geneva sponsored the attempt.

See New Atomic Tests

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 6 (AP) —The suspicion grew today that within a few days the United States Atomic Energy Commission will order its second series of atomic tests at the sprawling range northwest of here. Nature of the five tests last winter has never been announced. But the explosions were of sufficient strength to break windows in this resort city some 75 miles from the presumed centre of the blasts.

Suggest Appointment

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—The Ontario Milk Distributors Association Friday recommended appointment of a representative of labor to the Ontario Milk Control Board. The Milk Control Board now consists of a chairman, with two votes, and one representative each from producers, distributors and consumers with one vote each. The distributors suggested a labor representative be given the chairman's second vote.

Millbrook Guild Plans Annual Bazaar, Tea

MILLBROOK, Oct. 6 (ENS)—Mrs. T. A. Campbell was hostess for the October meeting of the Guild of St. Thomas Anglican church on Wednesday evening. Preceding the regular meeting at 8 o'clock, the members enjoyed a pot-luck supper served at 7.

The president, Mrs. Fred Lowery was in the chair. She called on the Rev. A. A. Chote to open the meeting with prayer.

The birthday bags, which had been distributed to the members, were called in. Each had been asked to put in as many pennies as she was years old. They were gratified to find $1 bills in some of the bags, although the group does not actually claim any centarians.

The minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. H. A. Turner and the treasurer, Mrs. Campbell reported a balance in the bank.

Final arrangements were made for the annual bazaar, afternoon tea, and home baking sale to be held in the waiting-room on Nov. 3. The junior W.A. will have a table for the sale of homemade articles and of candy.

The president expressed regret in losing a member, Mrs. Fred Hindle who will leave shortly for her new home in Sarnia. Mrs. Campbell made the presentation of a crystal cake plate on behalf of the guild.

The next meeting will be held at the rectory on November 7.

Lopat Proud Of Run Clinching Game

By WILL GRIMSLEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP). — "That was the big one," said lefty Ed Lopat.

You mean the game, won Friday by the Yankees, 3-1, to tie the world series at one-one?

You mean the sparkling five-hit pitching performance that put a damper—temporarily, at least—on Leo Durocher's brash athletes from across the Harlem river?

"Naw, I mean that single of mine in the eighth inning that gave us our third run," said the sandy-haired southpaw from New York.

"I felt better about that hit than I did about my pitching. It was an insurance run. It kept the Giants from bunting on us in the ninth. It was a big one."

Lopat's slashing single scored pinch-runner Billy Martin from second base, and that plus a nice assortment of fast balls and curves gave Lopat his second world series victory.

The curving 21-game winner was the centre of attention in the Yankee dressing room. But out of the heat and steam of the big room under the stadium arose a new and definite respect for the dashing, slashing New York Giants, champions of the National League.

Going To Be Tough

"They're going to be rough," said manager Casey Stengel. "Those fellows play hard, good ball and we're going to have a whale of a series before they're through. They threw some mighty good pitching at us today."

Lopat said he felt good. "I was throwing screwballs, fast balls and curves, mixing 'em up," he said. "I never once felt they'd get to me, but I was sure glad to get that third run."

The Yankees chattered among themselves about Monte Irvin, the Giants' left fielder who slashed out three more hits and stole another base.

Lopat said "I mixed up my pitches to him—a high curve, a low curve and then a screwball but he hit 'em all."

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Bob Christenberry, who was named boxing czar of New York 10 days ago with orders to "clean up" the sport, showed he meant business Friday by revoking Willie Pep's licence and indefinitely suspending featherweight champion Sandy Sadler.

The new chairman of the Athletic commission handed out the drastic penalties for the roughhouse brawl the two staged in their fourth title meeting at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 26. Both violated almost every rule in the book.

At the same time Christenberry suspended Charley Johnston, Sadler's manager, for 30 days and fined him $100 for yelling at Dr. Vincent Nardielo during the fight. Nardielo was the ringside physician. The commission took no action against Pep's manager, Lou Viscusi.

The action against both fighters is effective only in New York. The commission here is not affiliated with the National Boxing Association.

Coach Frank Clair of Toronto Argonauts said Friday night that inside Freddie Black, will miss today's Big Four football game at Toronto with Hamilton Tiger-Cats and possibly the Monday game in Hamilton as well.

Clair said that Black was stricken with the flu this week and will probably not be strong enough to play this weekend. He will be replaced by Bill Ford, former University of Western Ontario Mustangs' player.

At a Hull, Que., plant, a six-ton $12,000 waterproof overcoat is nearing completion, made to order for the gridiron of Toronto's Varsity Stadium, scene of the east-west Grey Cup football classic.

Ordered by the Canadian Rugby Union after Toronto Argonauts defeated Winnipeg Blue Bombers on a mud-covered field last November it will be ready by mid-October—long before the Grey Cup date Nov. 24 when the field at Varsity becomes Canada's most interesting piece of real estate.

Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League Friday announced the signing of Howard (Rip) Riopelle. The winger was bought from Montreal Canadiens who retained the right to repurchase him at the end of the season. Riopelle had two seasons with Canadiens before being sidelined last year by a back injury.

At Lexington, Ky., Good Time, the mighty little pacer, broke a world's record that has stood for 37 years with a fancy 1:57 Friday in the Almahurst free-for-all pace at the Lexington trots. The famed son of Hal Dale-On Time won the pace in straight heats after a rousing battle with Dudley Hanover, the only other entrant.

The old record of 1:58 was set by Directum I at Columbus, O., in 1914. It was tied in 1937 by Billy Direct and in 1946 by King's Counsel, both at Lexington.

At Lexington, Ky., unbeaten Sampson Hanover, from the K. D Owen stable at Houston, Texas, Friday became the fourth fastest pacer of all time in harness racing. The son of Colomite-Irene Hanover, with trainer Frank Ervin in the sulky, turned in a time trial mile in 1:56 4-5, fastest since 1938 when Bill Direct lowered the world's record to 1:55 and Her Ladyship paced in 1:56 3-5. The only other pacer ever to go faster was the fabulous Dan Patch who went in 1:55¼ back in 1905.

St. Louis Crushes Barrie Flyers 11-3

BARRIE, Oct. 6 (CP). — St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League Friday night beat Barrie Flyers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit 11-3 in a pre-season exhibition game.

The fast-skating contest was marred by three fights, all in the third period. Altogether, 15 penalties were handed out—11 of them to St. Louis.

The St. Louis marksmen were led by Witiuk with three goals and Morrison and Pogue with two each, while singles went to Kelly, Sonmor, Finney and Taylor.

The Barrie tallies, all in the final period, were by Whalen, Martan and Savage.

Bruins Get Lund

HERSHEY, Pa., Oct. 6 (AP). — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, taking pre-season training here, Friday night announced the acquisition of winger Pentti Lund, late of New York Rangers. Lund had been turned over to the Cleveland American Hockey League club but the Bruins acquired the right to purchase him when they traded Paul Ronty to the Rangers for defenceman Gus Kyle.

McGill Coach Paints Gloomy Picture

By BARRY WEST

MONTREAL, Oct. 5—(CP)—McGill coach Vic Obeck paints a somewhat gloomy picture for his Redmen's chances in the Intercollegiate Rugby Union this year.

Obeck lost 19 players from last year's squad through graduation or other means. Some of these men were "key" figures in the Redmen's line-up for the last two years.

The McGill coach is hoping that players from the intermediate ranks will be able to fill the gaps. He holds out little hope, however, that his charges will meet with the same success they did last year when they finished on top of the regular schedule. They lost out to the Mustangs of the University of Western Ontario in a sudden-death playoff.

Obeck will be sending out a virtually untried team against University of Toronto Blues, Saturday.

In pre-season games the Redmen beat Sarnia Imperials of the ORFU 16-14 and University of Ottawa 23-0 but Obeck has had a difficult time getting the squad together for full-scale workouts.

Won't Play

Freddy Wilmott, who played with Calgary Stampeders when they captured the Grey Cup in 1949, will not play for McGill this year because of a shoulder separation. Vince Capogreco has decided to take the advice of doctors who suggested he give up the game entirely because of an asthmatic condition. Dick Brooks, towering second-string centre is lost to the team because he failed to pass supplementary examinations.

Added to this is the fact that a leg injury will probably keep speedy Haskell Blauer out of the opening line-up and the reason for Obeck's tears is evident.

Despite these woes, on paper the team still looks a powerful contender in the union. Cecil Finlay, voted most valuable player in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Valley Conference last year, is a half who should be able to fill one of the major gaps. George FitzGerald, also a half, has been showing fine form in the practices and Obeck feels he should be a standout during the regular season. FitzGerald was with Windsor last year.

An unexpected surprise is the return of Terry Rogers to the Redmen line-up. Rogers played with McGill two years ago, and returned to college to take a Ph.D this year.

Durocher Gives Stengel Credit

By JOE REICHLER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 — (AP).—Lippy Leo Durocher, not exactly a green hand at the art of masterminding, credits the Yankees' 3-1 victory over the Giants Friday to some "super strategy" employed by Skipper Casey Stengel.

"You can give two runs to the Yankees and one to Stengel," the magnanimous little manager of the Giants told reporters in the clubhouse.

"But it was Stengel's run that beat us. That forced us to change our game in the ninth. The Yankees won because Stengel made the right move and I made the wrong one."

Durocher, not at all perturbed by the Yankees' triumph which evened the Series at 1-1, went on to prove his point.

"Stengel won the game in the eighth inning when he put in Billy Martin to run for Bobby Brown," he said. "Had Brown been on second when Ed Lopat hit that single, he never would have been able to beat Willie Mays' throw to plate. At that, Martin, a much faster runner than Brown, did not beat Willie's great throw by much."

Greater Importance

The final run, which boosted the Yankees' lead to 3-1, gained greater importance when Monte Irvin, the Series' hottest hitter, opened the top of the ninth with a single. The next three batters went out without advancing the Giants' star outfilder.

"Had the score still been 2-1, I probably would have ordered Whitey (Whitey Lockman) to bunt following Irvin's single," explained Durocher. "Then, with a runner on second and only one out, it might have been different. But as it was, with two runs behind, it was foolhardy to bunt."

Durocher, continuing his new role as the generous and affable who loves everybody, even the Brooklyn Dodgers, heaped praise upon all the Yankees, especially Pitcher Eddie Lopat.

"The Yankees played fine, heads-up baseball and deserved to win," he said. "You could replay this game for the next hundred years and there is no way we can win it. They did everything right.

"They got great pitching from Lopat. He is a great pitcher, He showed me something out there.

"We played all right. Larry Jansen pitched a great game. But it was a case of too much Yankees and too much Lopat."

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, Oct. 6 (Reuters).—Delivery of the first 500 tons of Dutch butter to Canada will start Oct. 12, it was learned Friday. The butter has been specially prepared for Canadian taste.

FIRST IN 30 YEARS—Monte Irvin of the New York Giants steals home safely in the first inning of the first World Series games. The Giant batter, Bobby Thomson, gets out of the way as Yankee catcher Yogi Barri lunges for the sliding Irvin. The umpire is Bill Summers. Irvin's feat, which gave the Giants their second run, was the first Series steal of home since 1921.

See New Goalie Big Gun For Boston Bruins Team

HERSHEY, Pa., Oct. 6—(CP)—Coach Lynn Patrick of Boston Bruins sees the biggest boost for the 1951-52 edition of his National Hockey League club in a new goalie and defenceman.

Jim (Sugar) Henry will be in the nets and Walter (Gus) Kyle will be using his 202 pounds on defence when the Bruins open in Detroit Oct. 11. Henry was obtained from Detroit Red Wings and Kyle came from New York Rangers in a trade for centre Paul Ronty.

"We've got a better club than we had at this time last season," said Patrick, who led the team to a playoff berth last year—his first in the Boston coaching job.

The Bruins wound up fourth in the six-club league last season with 62 points, barely beating out the Rangers for fourth and last playoff berth.

In the post-season action, Bruins won the opener, tied the second, and then lost four in a row to the second-place Leafs, who went on to trounce Canadiens in the five-game Stanley Cup finals.

Other Additions

The Bruins have also added left winger Adam Brown to their roster. He was obtained from Chicago Black Hawks.

The only amateur prospect who has impressed Patrick deeply is Ray Barry, 22-year-old centre, born in Revere, Mass., but brought up in Edmonton.

The Bruins started their pre-season conditioning work without Bill Ezinicki, the aggressive right winger who spent the off-season as a gold professional at a Boston district club. He says he plans to spend the winter touring with golf's foremost money-chasers but the Bruins say he's a perennial holdout.

Patrick has organized three forward lines and two sets of defencemen. Henry became the only goalie in camp when Jack Gelineau, who had 197 goals scored against him in 70 games last season, quit camp and returned to Montreal after refusing to sign a contract that included a minor-league clause.

Milt Schmidt, the League's all-star centre, will pivot the first line with Brown and Johnny Peirson as his wingers. Ed Sandford and wingers Lorne Ferguson and Dunc Fisher form the second line and rookie Barry plays between Vic Lynn and Dave Creighton on the third line. The veteran Porky Dumart will be the spare forward and Ed Kryzanowski has been retained as a fifth defenceman.

Kyle was teamed with all-star defenceman Bill Quackenbush and Haly Laycoe with Murray Henderson.

Zorro, Zebra New Wrestlers As Season Opens

Professional wrestling returns to Peterborough at the Brock St. arena Tuesday night to begin another season of the "grunt and groan" for grappling fans.

This year besides the old favorites and the old enemies will be the Great Zorro, a powerfully-built wrestler who has both a popular and unpopular record across Ontario already. Zorro has been billed as the French Tarzan.

New also this year on Peterborough cards will be the Zebra, a masked man for fans to boo as the opposition try to rip the mask away.

But back this year will be Lord Athol Layton, Mike and Ben Sharpe, Yukon Eric, up-and-coming Johnny Barend, Steve Stanless (former Mr. America), Sonny Kurgis, Bill Stack (Bowmanville's pride and joy) and the Australian champion, Fred Atkins.

Popular Timothy Geohagen, the Irish strongman, has been matched with Lord Athol Layton in the main bout for Tuesday night. The Lord has been earning a questionable reputation lately across Ontario.

Around the main bout are two preliminaries, the Great Zorro meeting Steve Stanlee and Sonny Kurgis tangling with Jack Wentworth.

GALLANT GIRL, 21, SAVES LIFE OF MAN TWICE HER WEIGHT

Miss Andrée de Passillé, of Chicoutimi, Que., averts drowning through courage and remarkable endurance

1. The Recreation Committee of the Saguenay-Quebec Telephone Company had organized a picnic at St. Gédéon Beach near Chicoutimi. During the day, Miss Andrée de Passillé, 21, was swimming back from a little island about 200 feet from shore when she heard frantic cries for help. Some distance away, a young man was in obvious trouble . . . choking and spluttering as he called for aid.

2. Without hesitation, Miss de Passillé swam in his direction. When she reached him he had already gone under once . . . and her attempts to hold him above the surface were at first not successful. Three or four times she was dragged to the bottom by the struggling man . . . and each time they surfaced she screamed for help. Her gallant efforts were not helped by the fact that she weighed 90 pounds — and the man 190!

3. In spite of the odds against her, she managed to have his head above water when a rescue boat arrived. Exhausted and choking, the brave girl fainted . . . but she had succeeded in saving the man's life. To this courageous young Canadian woman we are indeed proud to pay tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award.

Outlook For Fuel Supplies Said Good Across Canada

By The Canadian Press

What's the outlook for fuel supplies this winter?

"Better than it's ever been," says the oil industry. From coal dealers: "Good—but hurry."

A Canadian Press cross-country survey, with winter just around the corner, shows that fuel supplies generally are good for the winter of 1951-52. But the man who burns coal or wood has been, as usual, late in ordering his supply.

There have been price jumps in all fuels since last winter in most sections of the country. The increases are attributed to generally rising costs of production, with some coal dealers blaming freight-rate hikes as an additional factor.

The survey also showed that Canada now has an estimated 900,000 householders using oil as fuel—some 25 per cent of the country's consumers. Conversions from coal to oil in the last 12 months approximate 100,000, and in addition, some 50,000 new installations of oil furnaces have been made.

The oil trade says Canada now can supply from domestic sources one-third of its fuel-oil requirements.

Oil Outlook

What's the outlook for oil over a period of years?

The oil trade, taking an analytical look at the situation, sees nothing less than world war interfering with a continued free flow of oil into householders' furnaces.

They point to the Edmonton-Superior, Wis., pipeline completed this year as a major factor in the best-ever oil picture. For 1,126 miles the "black gold" flows across the prairies—on which the refining capacity has more than doubled since 1947—to the lakehead, whence it is transported by water to Ontario refining plants.

The fuel situation across the country by provinces:

British Columbia, where many persons burn wood and sawdust to heat their homes, is experiencing a critical shortage of those fuels. Serious forest fires this summer forced closing of the forests for prolonged periods. Coal also is short in that province, but oil and coal, gas, used extensively in the Vancouver area, are in "fair supply."

Lots of Coal

Alberta has a good supply of coal — the province's reserves have been estimated at 47,000,000,000 tons—and, of course, has Canada's main petroleum fields. There will be no shortages of those fuels, nor of gas, of which reserves are plentiful. But wood is scarce, dealers report.

Since completion of the trans-prairie pipeline, Saskatchewan house-holders have had no trouble in obtaining oil. Strip-mined coal, too, is available.

Manitoba dealers report the fuel situation—both in oil and coal— "well in hand." Coal prices are up about 20 cent a ton.

Ontario Outlook Good

The Ontario outlook also is generally good. However coal dealers forecast a mid-winter scarcity unless "substantial" orders are placed before the lake-shipping season ends in November. Most of Ontario's coal is imported by water from the United States. As in other areas, Ontario coal and oil prices are higher this year.

Coal, oil and wood are plentiful in Quebec but prices are up. Furnace oil now is 17.9 cents a gallon compared to 16.5 at this time last year. Coal is up $2 a ton—US coal selling at $19.50 a ton and British coal at $20.50.

New Brunswick pays $30.75 a ton, the same as last year, for hard coal and has good supplies. Softwood in that province is readily available but hardwood supplies have been cut by the demand for pulpwood.

Nova Scotia, home of the Maritimes' great coal industry, faces a general price rise. Soft coal is selling for about $17 a ton and anthracite, for about $30. These prices are respectively, 75 cents and $1.50 more than last year. Furnace oil also is up, 1.2 cents to 17.3 a gallon.

Old Habits

Prince Edward Island coal dealers report a drift back to the pre-war practice of householders waiting for cold weather before stocking up on their fuel, but no shortages are anticipated. Prices are approximately the same as last year.

Newfoundland, which pays more than any other province for hard coal—$31.44 a ton—reports a "fair" supply of that fuel on hand. At this time last year, no anthracite was available in Newfoundland.

Years ago ships from Newfoundland's outports brought birch junks—wood billets—to St. John's and sold them for 50 cents a hundred. Such wood now is available occasionally—and at $2.50 a hundred.

It Pays To Be Fashionable This Year Turkeys Cheaper To Buy Than Beef

By The Canadian Press

It's thrifty to be fashionable, this year.

All because of the cost of living, more turkey heads likely will roll this Thanksgiving than ever before. The turkey-and-cranberry sauce tradition will be upheld Monday for practical reasons.

These days, such festive spreads cost no more—frequently less—than the once well-known dish of beef and potatoes, with veal as high as 95 cents a pound in some centres and a sirloin roast of beef sky-high, turkeys at 69 cents no longer are a delicacy.

The federal department of agriculture's summing up of the quality of Thanksgiving turkeys throughout the country is "only fair". So is the quantity, a Canadian Press survey shows.

In Ottawa, butchers expect to run short before the weekend. Quebec doesn't find the same interest in Thanksgiving turkeys as do other parts of the country. There, turkeys are raised primarily for the Christmas market and current killings are few. Those being sold, though, cost from 75 to 79 cents a pound.

Price reports from other points across the country show a range of from 53-60 cents a pound in Regina to 67 cents in Toronto and St. John's, Nfld., high of 85.

Will Not Run

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP)—Leslie Wismer, public relations director of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and present holder of the Toronto Riverdale seat in the Ontario legislature for the CCF, will not run in the coming election, it was learned here Friday. Mr. Wismer said that his job with the Congress does not leave him sufficient time to devote to legislative work.

Arson Squad Begins Inquiry

TORONTO, Oct. 6—(CP)—The arson squad Friday night launched an investigation into a fire that ripped through one room of a house on Church Street in Central Toronto and took the life of Diana Terry, 3.

The fire burned savagely for half an hour. Dan Ladoucer, 23-year-old neighbor, said he tried to get into the room but found the door locked or jammed. After smashing it open, he was turned back by smoke and flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Terry, the child's parents have five other children, all of whom escaped.

Wants No Strings On Research Funds

MONTREAL, Oct. 6 (CP) — Business men should contribute financial assistance for scientific research at university level with no strings attached, Prof. T. K. Sherwood, dean of engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said here Friday.

Addressing a gathering at the opening of McGill University's new $2,500,000 physical science centre, Prof. Sherwood said "scientists are particularly important in the scheme of things because the whole development process awaits on their initial performance."

Viscount Alexander, who officially opened the centre, said "the scientific progress is rapid in our generation. . . But it is our hope that the universities of Canada always will be in the vanguard of the march of science."

Prof. Sherwood is one of six leaders in science and industry who will receive an honorary doctor of science degree at McGill's fall convocation today.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

Little Children And Their Animals

By NANCY CLEAVER

Some little children are afraid of animals. They run to their mother if they see a dog coming toward them. They are fearful of the "great big pussy" who lives at a neighbor's home. It is only by gradual degrees that parents can persuade these timid children to overcome their fear. Sometimes this goes back to a bad scare when the child was very young. But by the time a child is old enough to go to school, usually he has become interested in animals and wants to have a pet of his own.

A very little child should not be left with a strange dog or cat without supervision. A child may "love" an animal so hard that he squeezes it and hurts it. Or the animal may want to sleep, or be left alone to eat his meal. The child may annoy the animal so much, at a bad time, that a usually good-tempered beast may scratch or bite—and who can blame him?

Children are sometimes unwittingly cruel. Sometimes little girls attempt to dress a kitten in doll clothes. They handle the poor little thing so much that it is in an exhausted angry mood. Small boys in their eagerness to teach a puppy tricks, may keep at their little dog until he is stubborn and worn out.

In owning pets, children on a farm are in a much better position than city children. Many rural children have a pet calf or a pet colt. Usually there is a family dog—a collie or some other dog who fetches the cows and has a real place as a watch-dog. A good mouser in a cat is a real asset in a barn. The cost of a generous saucer of milk for a tabby and her kittens, does not matter so much where cows are milked twice a day. There is plenty of space for children and pets to have lots of exercise on a farm. Then, too, there are no near neighbors who dislike pets and are on the lookout for a dog or cat who might stray onto their property.

In a city home, parents should consider carefully whether or not they can afford not only the initial cost of a pet, but the money needed for food, and extra expenses such as the annual dog tax and a veterinary's visit when a pet falls ill. Pets need more supervision in the city, and it is a rather pathetic sight to see a big dog tied up in a small back yard in the hot summer weather.

Most parents realize that a satisfactory pet adds much to a child's happiness. This affection between the child and the pet is a fine thing. But when a child pleads to own a pet, parents also feel that he should be old enough to share in its care. Otherwise the whole burden falls on the parents (usually mother, because she is home most of the time.) But children do need to be reminded that their pet needs regular meals and must be kept clean and well cared for. After the novelty has worn off, the job of feeding a pet is apt to be forgotten, unless a child is reminded of his task.

In a city apartment, parents sometimes buy goldfish as pets or a pet bird such as a canary or "budgie" because they are less care. Some children get a great deal of pleasure from a pet bunny. But a pussy or a dog is the most popular choice for a child's pet.

One small boy wrote in a composition, "My dog Sandy sits down quietly beside me. We both are happy just being near each other." How many children could echo his words!

Describes Work In East Africa

OMEMEE, Oct. 6 (ENS). — An interesting feature of the October meeting of the United Church WMS Thursday evening was an illustrated missionary talk on her work in East Africa by Mrs. C. Richmond, wife of the rector of Christ Church, Omemee.

The program was in charge of Miss C. Connell's group. The president, Mrs. H. Graham opened the meeting with a devotional poem.

The theme, "The Church of the Far-flung Frontiers," was presented by Miss Connell and Miss M. Faulkner offered prayer. Mrs. Zufelt gave a discourse on "The witness of the church in my community." Assisting her were Mrs V. Lang and Miss J. Lamb.

Misses Joan Whitmore and Joan Saulter sang a duet. Mrs. Graham in introducing Mrs. Richmond spoke of her willingness in addressing groups of other denominations. Mrs. Graham, in speaking of what was taught in the mission schools, said they didn't attempt to teach western ways of doing things but aimed only to raise their own African standard of living. A large percentage of the girls took refuge in the mission to escape the sordid life mapped out for them by their parents.

The African's ability to memorize scripture, she said, is much greater than that of the average white. While there were hundreds of thousands of professing Christians, very many of them, she feared, had no depth of conviction, and appeared to drop back into their old ways when they came again under the influence of their tribesmen. To such the gospel teaching had simply been a new and fascinating thing for the time.

Mrs. Lang thanked Mrs. Richmond for her address and for the pictures shown.

The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, after which a social half hour was enjoyed while Miss Connell's group served lunch.

London School Teaching All Phases of Fashion Art

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON—(CP)—Off London's busy Oxford Street within a stone's throw of the salons of Britain's foremost designers, more than 1,000 persons are learning to become the cutters, pattern-makers, embroiderers and fashion stylists of tomorrow.

At the Barrett Street Technical College run by London's county council, more than 400 day pupils and 700 evening students from many countries study the varied arts and crafts that go into the make-up of the well-dressed woman.

Started in 1915, the school turns out yearly many of the skilled crafstmen and craftswomen required to keep the wheels of fashion turning smoothly. Some are later employed by the retail couture houses, but most of the high-grade pupils stick to the wholesale trade.

"There's more money in that line," said the principal—slim, red-haired Miss Gwendoline Hiscocks.

Under an efficient board of directors drawn from the trades concerned, the school teaches all aspects of dress-making, millinery, hairdressing and beauty culture. And for those who want it, the curriculum includes educational subjects such as English, French, history and mathematics.

Inexpensive Course

Fees are small—£16 a year for full-time students who live in London—and pupils are not required to buy the materials with which they work. In a sense, however, they pay their way by turning out beautiful articles worthy of retail sail.

Among such things are intricately-embroidered baby clothes made almost completely by hand—beautiful dresses in silks and organdy embroidered with the perfection in detail possible only to those who love their work. Tiny matinee jackets and bonnets are done in hand-quilting.

Every type of embroidery is taught, from the most minute stitching to machine embroidery and the intricate designs in beading and sequins used by such top men as Norman Hartnell, the Queen's designer. Fashion work includes everything from tailored suits to wedding dresses and gossame lacy undies.

The course also includes a study of historical costume which, in the hairdressing class, includes wig-making. This is especially useful to those intent on theatre work.

The school has many overseas due to bombing of the original building late in the war. It is hoped, however, that reconstruction will be completed this year. New courses may then be added, including instruction in fur-coat manufacture.

Ths school has many overseas members and its present handful of male students includes three former United States soldiers, who came to London during their service, and stayed to learn. Letters are often received from Canadians asking advice on the various trades.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl's Hints About Marriage May Be Cause of His Default

Dorothy Dix

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 16 years old, and for the past ten months have been going with Andy, who is 18. Of course, I knew we were too young to think of marriage, but we did declare our love for each other. Then the other day he said he didn't love me any more. I'm just crazy about him and his change of heart didn't alter my feelings at all. He still telephones me and says he's just mixed up in his own mind. Do you think I could ever win him back? He isn't going with anyone else yet, but I'm heartbroken anyway.

ANSWER: In all probability, your boy friend's change of heart was nothing more than panic at the thought of getting into matrimonial plans too soon. Though you didn't mention it in your letter, you probably did discuss marriage, young as you are, and perhaps you were a little insistent on the subject. If you were, it's just your femininity showing through. Anyway, it was enough to scare Andy. Bide your time and he'll turn up again, all yours.

Your Heart Will Mend

Don't get yourself too distressed about it. If he does decide his feelings for you weren't love, you may feel your heart is broken for a while, but hearts mend almost sooner than anything else, especially with the very young. If all the teen-age hearts that are broken remained in their shattered state, weddings would taper off to a new low level. That old bugbear, statistics, say that only 14 per cent of all married people knew each other before 18. Of course, most of them were in love—with someone else—before that age, so you see with the power of numbers against you, you are more than likely to be in love perhaps twice more before meeting the "one and only." A first love has this advantage over all future heart throbs. It never dies, it never grows old, it never loses its glamor. Right through middle-age and beyond, it can be taken periodically out of the past and shed a few new moonbeams over a monotonous present.

If you do lose Andy, keep your head high, your courage up and set out for the next conquest.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 17 with a serious problem. A few months ago some friends of my parents asked me to write to a boy, 20, in Korea. We corresponded for a while, and then I met a very nice boy here. We have been going steady and hope to be married in a year or so. Now this soldier is coming home. What shall I do? I don't want to go with him but I feel sorry for him and don't want to hurt my parents' friends. What shall I do?

T. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Honesty is the best policy. If you can catch your soldier before he arrives home, write him the truth. Since you have never met, he won't be too disappointed. Why not introduce him to some of your girl friends when he gets home? Or have them take over the writing job for you? Servicemen always enjoy letters, and he'll undoubtedly be glad to make new friends this way. He'll thank you for enabling him to meet new people, and your parents' friends certainly should have enough understanding to realize the situation and not be hurt at your failure to go out with the soldier.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have met a man with whom I am very much in love. He loves me, too, and we have everything in common. One thing upsets me, though. His parents are first cousins and I am afraid this may have an effect on our children.

C. C.

ANSWER: For a complete and authoritative opinion in this case, I suggest you consult your family doctor. He can give you all the angles, which I am sure will give you the confidence to proceed with your marriage convinced of your children's good heritage.

gram two cards were autographed by the members and mailed to two grandmothers, 83-year-old Mrs. E. J. Milne and 88-year-old Mrs. Frank Nichol both life members of the organization, unable to be present.

Plans were made to make an appeal for used clothing and bedding to be sent to the Salvation Army in Cobourg.

The good cheer report presented by Mrs. Alfred Pringle showed that sixteen persons had been remembered during the month of September.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Hastings WA Plan Home Baking Sale

HASTINGS, Oct. 6 (ENS)—The Women's Association met for their quarterly meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe. Group one was in charge of the meeting and it began with a buffet dinner.

Mrs. Metcalfe was in charge of the worship and used as her theme "Christian Stewardship of Time." This was followed by a prayer for the King. The president, Mrs. Oliver, introduced Mrs. Carman Bell, president presbytery WA, who was guest speaker. Mrs. Bell gave a talk explaining many points in connection with WA work and duties of WA members. Two piano solos were played by Mrs. Lewis who came with Mrs. Bell.

The business period followed. Mrs. Oliver reported one WA table cloth as still missing. Reports were given by the different groups. The treasurer reported that $132.72 was realized from the sale of baking held during July. Balance on hand, $310.97.

Motion by Miss K. German and Mrs. G. Faux that the treasurer have power to pay bills without being brought before a meeting.

Nominating committee for the new officers for the coming year are Miss K. German, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, and Mrs. W. Way.

As Mrs. V. McEldowrey had donated a runner for the communion table, it was decided that the secretary should write for prices on symbolic emblems and fringe for the same, and also write to Mrs. McEldowney expressing the thanks of the WA.

On the motion of Mrs. Burnham and Miss K. German, that Mesdames Hess, Metcalfe and Thompson act as a committee to look after a drape for the organ sound box.

Mrs. Oliver reported that Mrs. G. Thompson had received a donation of $10 toward a fund for a stained glass window for the church, the donor wishing to remain anonymous.

The WA are holding a home baking sale on Oct. 13 in the former post office building. Miss K. German moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Lewis and the hostess. The Rev. N. Cole pronounced the benediction.

What's Right?

You are introducing your mother-in-law to an old friend.

WRONG: Introduce her as "my mother-in-law, Mrs. James."

RIGHT: Since it is an old friend, be less formal and introduce your mother-in-law as "Jim's mother."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION: (letter from reader was in Friday's paper (Mrs. R. H.) but there was no room for this last recipe she requested.)

Homemade White Bread
(Quick Method)

Two cakes moist yeast and 1 quart lukewarm water (OR 2 envelopes granular yeast and 1 cup water plus 4 additional cups—all lukewarm), 2 tablespoons white sugar, 2 tablesoons melted shortening, 3 quarts sifted bread flour, 1 tablespoon salt.

Dissolve the yeast and sugar in lukewarm water. (In the case of the granular yeast dissolve it first in the 1 cup lukewarm water with the sugar then add it.) Add shortening and half of the flour. Beat hard until it is smooth, then add the salt and remainder of flour or enough to make a dough that may be handled with ease. Knead until smooth and elastic and squeaky on bread-floured board. This requires about 50 turns and punches of the dough. Place in greased bowl, cover and stand aside in moderately warm place until doubled in bulk and light—about 1½ to 2 hours. Mould into loaves with smooth tops. Place in greased loaf pans, having them half full. Cover and let rise double—about 1 to 1½ hours. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes longer, or until bread has shrunken from sides of pan and is golden. Take from pans, cool on racks, covered. Brush with melted butter if desired. A great improvement to this type of bread is 2 cups fresh wheat germ, added when you add the flour.

Both pepper and large yellow squashes are best baked with skins on; then split, seeds and stringy portions scooped out and the yellow pulp mashed and flavored with butter or cream and salt and pepper. You may rice it or strain if you wish and reheat it, stirring constantly with a little whole or top milk. (4) Julienne Carrots: the term Julienne denotes fine shredding. A commonly served soup is Julienne soup, which is a clear brown stock with very finely shredded carrots and turnips through and green peas and finely chopped beans—all the vegetables being previously cooked separately. Cutting knives with scalloped edges may be bought to give vegetables interesting shapes—and these are called Julienne knives by some dealers. For Julienne carrots, cut carrots in very fine slices then cut these in 1½-inch strips so that they look like half a match stick, or slice them with the scalloped cutter I mentioned. (5) Hearts of lettuces are the inner hearts of head lettuce which are about 3 inches in diameter and very tender. (6) Compote of Stewed Fruits: This is gently stewed fruit in a sugar syrup. The fruit is started fresh and cooked just enough to remove the raw taste and texture. Compote Syrup: Simmer together 2 cups water, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. When boiling add prepared fruits. Suggestions for good combinations at this time of year are peeled and halved peaches, pared and cored pears, stoned and halved plums. Simmer fruits in syrup, as soon as they are tender but not at all mushy, skin out each piece into bowl. The pears will require longer than the other two fruits. When all are tender and skimmed into bowl, carefully pour over leftover syrup and chill. This is a good method with apples, peeled or unpeeled, but add cinnamon, stick or candy to the syrup, and if desired, some grated lemon rind. I hope these answers clear up some puzzles for you. Betty W. Write when more teasers come up.

Who was always kind and true;
Some one I loved with all my heart,
Dear Orrie, that some one is you.
Your heart, the truest in all the world,
Your love the best to recall,
No one on earth can take your place,
You are still dear to us all.
—Deeply missed and never forgotten by wife, Georgina and family.

RADLEY — In loving memory of mother, Mrs. Birdsell Radley, who passed away Oct. 8, 1938.
My thoughts wander as daylight fades
To the land of long ago,
And memory paints the scenes of old
In the gold of the twilight glow.
I seem to see in the soft, dim light
A face I loved the best,
I think of her when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off west.
Ever lovingly remembered by husband and sons, Eric, Earl and daughter Verna.

Public Invited To Inspect New City Hall

The public will be invited to see the new city hall in afternoon and evening period on the last three days of the month. Details have not been completed yet by Ald. Herb Young's reception committee.

Time of these reception hours will likely be 2.30 to 4 p.m. and 7.30 to 9, the evening especially for the men of the city who are working during the day; that is the men and their wives.

The committee would like to provide coffee and cake in the spirit of a housewarming. Sentiment within the committee is that the ratepayers should be encouraged to realize that the property belongs to them and their posterity, and also to take interest in its use and care and appearance.

A separate reception is being arranged for citizens who came from the Old Country, enabling them to meet Mayor Chamberlain of Peterborough, England, who will formally open the building.

General Motors are providing a car for his use while here, and the Bank of Montreal will be host at a luncheon entertainment for him and his party in Montreal, probably just before departure for home.

Jailed 30 Days For $1,029 Fraud

COBOURG, Oct. 6 (ENS). — J. T. Barnes of Port Hope was sentenced to 30 days in jail, dating back to his arrest on September 13, when he pleaded guilty to obtaining $1,029 by fraud from F. M. Sissons of Bowmanville.

The accused informed the court that he had made arrangements to pay back the amount involved. The court was told that Barnes faced another charge in Toronto. The first charge resulted from a car deal.

James Pollock of London was remanded a week in custody on a vagrancy charge while the authorities check his mental health history.

Mike Manchuri, 70 year old inmate of the home for the aged, who was found guilty some weeks ago of wounding a fellow inmate with a jackknife during an argument, was remanded out of custody and directed to return to the institution and behave himself. He was placed on the interdicted list and instructed to stay away from wine.

Magistrate R. B. Baxter said that he hoped the inmates in the home for the aged would leave Manchuri alone and not tease him.

"Stay away from knives, Mike," or it will be penitentiary for you if you come back here on a repetition of a knife episode," warned the magistrate.

50 British Cars Sent Back To Old Country

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Some automobile dealers are reluctant to admit it, but Canada has actually begun exporting British-made automobiles to Britain.

The unusual situation was confirmed in Montreal where an official of Toledo Motors Limited, large importer of British cars, said that 50 of the autos sailed aboard the Empress of France Friday.

The spokesman said they were the first of an estimated 3,500 cars due to be returned to the United Kingdom for sale to car-short Britons.

In Vancouver, meanwhile, one British car dealer contended the reports of $6,000,000 worth of British autos being returned to the UK were part of a "whisper campaign against British cars."

The dealer, Harold Plimley of Plimley Motors, admitted there was a lack of market in Canada for cars but said the Montreal reports were merely rumors. He blamed the tight market on Canadition government credit restrictions.

The Montreal official, who asked that his name be withheld, said the Nuffield Company of England had bought as much shipping space as possible from Montreal to England, intending to take as many Morris and M.G. cars as could be bought back from dealers in Canada.

Sent From Halifax

Austin and some other British car makers were reported planning to ship cars from Halifax.

Indications that the export-in-reverse situation did not apply to all British car makers came from Toronto.

A director of Rootes Motors (Canada) Limited said a market exists in Canada for British cars.

Commenting on the Montreal report, John T. Panks, whose firm distributes Hillman Minx, Humber, Sunbeam-Talbot and Rover, said the cars are "not our cars."

"At the present time sales are slow," he said in a statement, "but they are slow for all makes of cars and many other industries as well."

Expanding Plant

Pranks said Rootes refused to be "stampeded" into withdrawing its stock. "As a demonstration of its faith in the Canadian market Rootes are preparing to move into their $1,000,000 plant in Toronto in November and are expanding their parts depot in Vancouver."

In Ottawa, a Trade Department official said the government has not been advised of the movement reported at Montreal. The official added that it wasn't necessary either.

"Nobody wanted to see this happen," the official said, adding that it was anticipated because of the heavy imports of British cars at the start of the year coupled with credit restrictions which were applied about the same time.

The United Kingdom Trade Commissioner in Ottawa was not available for comment.

Huge Supplies Of Grain May Clog Churches, Halls

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP) — Prairie wheat may be stored in skating rinks next winter.

Huge supplies of grains may even clog community halls and abandoned factories — anything that appears suitable for grain storage may be used.

These were the prospects as Trade Minister Howe, attempting to overcome a critical grain storage shortage Friday empowered the Board of Grain Commissioners to license any kind of building for warehousing—providing it is sturdy enough to hold grain.

He also empowered the three-man board to delay taking inventory on grain stocks at terminal points in an effort to speed up movement of grain to market.

"In the face of the prevailing heavy export demand," said Mr. Howe in a statement, "it is vital to the interests of all Canada that the present large stocks of Canadian grain—particularly millable grades of wheat—be put into export position without undue delay."

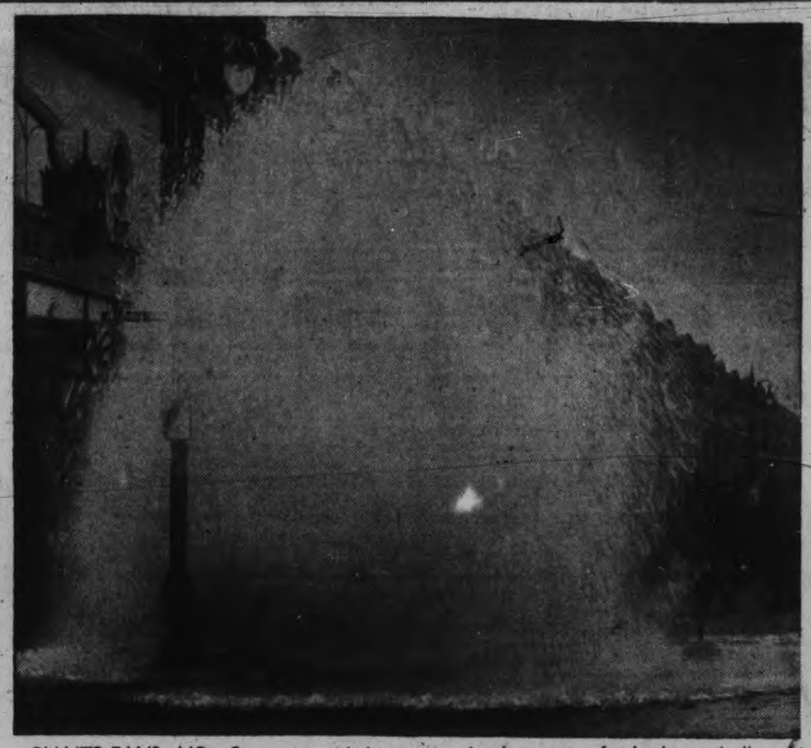
Some Registration

The powers granted the board were issued through an order-in-council under the government's Emergency Powers Act. This was the same legislation used a few months ago to appoint a federal transport controller to untangle a Great Lakes shipping tie-up and help speed grain overseas.

An anticipated speed-up was slowed by a variety of complications. Many elevators were filled with low-grade wheat that could not find a market. A temporary storage problem developed in the United Kingdom, Canada's chief wheat customer.

One consolation to the elevators and Transport Controller Roy Milner was the slowness in movement of grain from farms, easing the transportation situation. Rain and snow have delayed harvesting at many prairie points, but this delay has aggravated the storage problem.

The more wheat and coarse grains remaining on farms by the time the winter Great Lakes freze-up in December the greater will be the need for storage space.



During the Second World War, the storage situation became so acute that even churches were used in some communities for temporary warehousing.

Giants Must Turn On Heat As Series Tied After 3-1 Yankee Victory

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP)—The belief that miracles can go on happening in the Polo Grounds, together with the form chart on world series pitching, sustained the underdog New York Giants today. With curve-baller Jim Hearn (17-9) slated to oppose New York Yankees' fireballing Vic Raschi (21-10) in the third game of the series, Giant manager Leo Durocher can take comfort in the recent of the first two tilts, in which his club broke even.

Both times, the cutie with the curve bested the fellow with the fast ball. When Lefty Ed Lopat threw a seven-hitter to beat the Giants and Larry Jansen 3-1 Friday, it was strictly a turnabout for the dipsy-doodle stuff Dave Koslo threw successfully when he bested Allie Reynolds of the Yanks in the opener.

Not that miracles are needed by this daring, carefree Giant club. Still the bookmakers quote the Yanks at 8-to-5 favorites in the series.

Memories of Wednesday's dramatic pennant clincher still throb in the mind of every Giant. In the chummy old park where they knew their greatest glory, the Giants figure to be an inspired crew.

1951 Hero

Monte Irvin, hitting .778 and edging up on a record with seven series hits, needs no inspiring. He is well on the way to becoming the '51 hero, win or lose.

But the Giants will need a top effort from Hearn, a five-hit winner over Brooklyn in the playoff opener, to guide them past Raschi in this duel of right-handers.

Hearn's sweeping curve and baffling sinker hogtied the Dodger bats Monday in one of his most brilliant moments. Now with four days' rest the $10,000 waiver bargain of '50 is asked to put the Giants back in command.

Manager Casey Stengel has Raschi, with a full week's rest, primed for a super effort. The big fellow beat Boston in his last two starts as he joined the 20-win club for the third straight year. He's 2-1 in series competition, winning the 1950 opener from Jim Konstanty of the Phils.

Minus Outfielders

Each club is minus a regular outfielder going into the three-day stand at the Polo Grounds. Right-fielder Don Mueller, injured in the playoff final, probably won't see any action for the Giants. Hank Thompson, a converted third baseman, is taking his place.

Mickey Mantle, the 19-year-old Yank rookie, twisted his right knee Friday and was carried from the field. X-rays will be taken today to determine the full extent of the injury. Stengel doesn't expect to get any more action out of the kid in the series.

It was a strange accident with Mantle, striding toward a fly ball that Joe DiMaggio eventually caught, falling flat on his face when the knee gave way. Apparently he stepped hard into some small hole.

Important Factor

Mantle's surprise drag bunt opening the game was an important factor in Friday's Yank win over Larry Jansen. Bunting has been a Mantle weakness all season, but daily morning practice finally paid off.

When Phil Rizzuto followed with another bunt single that Whitey Lockman threw wild to first, Mantle scooted to third. He scored easily on Gil McDougald's blooper to short right.

Joe Collins' 310-foot homer into the lower right-field seats with two out in the second was the last run off Jansen. Also the last hit. Also he was the last man to reach base as Larry retired 13 in a row until he departed for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Bobby Brown singled off George Spencer to open the eighth. With Billy Martin running, Lopat helped nail down his own game with a scoring single to centre.

Working easily with his tantalizing slow stuff, screw ball and an occasional fast ball, Lopat allowed only one hit in five innings.

In the seventh Lopat had his only stormy inning. Singles by Irvin and Lockman started things. Willie Mays bunted and forced Lockman at second. When Wes Westrum walked to load the bases Lopat was in a jam.

Bill Rigley, batting for Hank Thompson, lofted a long fly that gave Irvin plenty of time to score. With a chance to break the game open, pinch-hitter Ray Noble popped a foul to Berra.

2 Cabinet Meetings

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP) — The cabinet Friday held two meetings, putting in order its preparations for the opening of the fall session of parliament next Tuesday. There were no statements following the meetings. It is believed the cabinet also gave final approval to an anouncement of government policy on a free market for Canadian gold. The announcement is expected to come today.

Urges Investigation

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (CP) — An investigation of the methods used to set truck rates in Ontario was urged today by H. A. Mann, general secretary of the Canadian Industrial Traffic League. Commenting on an announcement that railway pick-up and delivery rates and truck rates between Ontario and Quebec are being boosted Oct. 8, Mr. Mann said in a statement that it seemed "almost more than a coincidence" that the rates of both railways and trucks should be increased at the same time and to the same extent.

DECORATED IN KOREA—Gnr. Arthur Martin Garaughy, 23, Rosemount, Que., of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade in Korea, was one of four awarded the Military Medal for their courage, devotion to duty and coolness under fire.

QUEBEC DELIGHTED WITH ROYAL PAIR

Ask Parliament For Authority To Start Seaway

OTTAWA, Oct. 9. (CP)—The Government is going to ask Parliament to give it authority to go ahead alone, if necessary, with the development of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project. The Speech from the Throne, read today at the opening of a fall session, said Parliament will be asked to authorize establishment of a Federal agency to deal with construction of the seaway. The proposed agency — probably a Crown company responsible to Parliament—would be "empowered to proceed either with the Canadian share of an international undertaking or a solely Canadian development, as soon as satisfactory international arrangements can be made for the power phases of the project in both countries."

The legislation will mark the first concrete move by Canada to start work on the seaway without United States participation.

The 800-word speech was read in the Senate chamber by Governor-General Viscount Alexander. A few hours earlier, the fourth session of the 21st parliament was prorogued by Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, his deputy.

Pension Approval

The speech said that parliament will be asked to approve a contributory system of $40-a-month pensions to all 70 and over regardless of means.

Provision also will be made to send an army brigade and air force squadrons to join Gen. Eisenhower's integrated force in Europe.

While the speech referred to the cost-of-living problem, it did not indicate that the government plans to introduce price controls at this session. Legislation will be introduced to prevent manufacturers from requiring distributors to resell goods at fixed or minimum resale prices.

Other measures will carry out some of the recommendations of the royal commissions on transportation and arts and letters and science.

The speech referred to the recent meeting between Prime Minister St. Laurent and President Truman to discuss the St. Lawrence seaway.

"The president stated he would support Canadian action to construct the seaway as second best if an early commencement of the joint development does not prove possible," said the speech.

Never Ratified

An agreement for the joint development of the seaway and power projects has been before the United States Congress every year since 1941, but has never

Speech Highlights

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 — (CP) — Following are highlights from the speech from the throne read at the opening of parliament:

A government agency will be created with power to proceed with the $700,000,000 St. Lawrence Seaway, either as a Canadian development or jointly with the US.

Legislation to implement $40-a-month pensions to all Canadians 70 and over beginning next January will be introduced.

The pensions will be paid out of a contributory fund established for the purpose.

Parliament will be asked to ratify the despatch of the 27th army brigade and elements of the RCAF to Europe.

It will also be asked to ratify the invitation of Greece and Turkey to North Atlantic Pact membership.

The government has decided to proceed with the building of a causeway to bridge the straits of Canso between the Nova Scotia mainland and Cape Breton Island.

Legislation will be submitted on radio broadcasting and television, including provisions for a financial new deal for the CBC.

The government will take "every measure" thought effective to counteract inflation "without impairing our free institutions."

New combines legislation will be submitted on the basis of the report of a committee studying combine laws.

Delegates Try Ease Oil Row

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Oct. 9 (AP)—Delegates from the United States and other UN members worked behind the scenes today in an effort to start Britain and Iran talking together once more about their oil dispute.

They sought to avert an open fight before the Security Council over Iran's nationalization of the British-owned oil industry in Iran. The council is scheduled to hear the ailing Iranian Premier, Mohammed Mossadegh, open his country's case Thursday.

Ernest A. Gross, deputy US representative on the Security Council, was reported to have talked with Mossadegh and with Sir Gladwyn Jebb, British UN delegate.

Mossadegh was installed in a suite at the New York hospital. In the hours since his arrival Monday in what his aides called an exhausted condition, these developments have occurred:

1. Nasrollah Entezam, Iranian Ambassador to the US and president of the General Assembly, denied flatly Iran may accept Soviet aid in the dispute.

2. Jebb and others worked on a resolution said to state that Britain attaches great importance to the opinion of the international Court of Justice. Britain has asked the Security Council to call upon Iran to follow a court recommendation for the oil operations to continue pending a settlement.

2 Armed Suspects Hide In Church

TORONTO, Oct. 9—(CP) — Ten bullets failed to flush two armed robbery suspects from the basement of St. Monica's Roman Catholic church here today but when the police, armed with tea gas, entered the pair surrendered.

Robert Harrison, 22, and John Varley, 22, were accused of being the two men who earlier forced two girl employees of a grocery chain store to hand over about $50.

Princess, Philip Charm City Crowds With Casual Attitude

Whisk Through Heavy Schedule On Time; Elizabeth Pleased With Miniature of Quebec Coat of Arms

By DOUG HOW

QUEBEC, Oct. 9. (CP)—In friendly, relaxed fashion Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh moved through old Quebec today, opening their month-long Canadian tour. Theirs was such casual, warm-hearted ease that to cheering crowds they seemed more like any ordinary young married couple than the Empire's heiress-presumptive and her consort. After spending the night aboard the royal train at a siding at nearby Charny, Que., the Royal couple came to Wolfe's Cove, under the ramparts of this capital of French Canada, sharp at 9:45 a.m. and plunged into a rigorous schedule.

At the waterfront, where they were originally scheduled to end an ocean crossing, the crowd was slim but hearty in its welcome. In Upper Town the people came out in droves, cheery and loud in their welcome.

Official Welcome

Quebec's official welcome, from Lieutenant - Governor Fauteux and Premier Maurice Duplessis, was made at Dockside so as to adhere to the original schedule of the tour, postponed a week because of the King's illness and operation. The Royal couple came here by train after ending a trans-Atlantic flight at Dorval, Que., yesterday.

By noon the Princess and the Duke had gone through the lower town greetings, visited the Legislature and met the men who make Quebec's laws; gone to Laval University and the city hall and taken a three-mile drive through crowd-lined streets made picturesque by the autumn leaf-coloring.

Everywhere the Princess and Duke were openly friendly, completely at ease and apparently interested in everything.

Follow Schedule

The ceremony of arrival kept rigidly to schedule, bright with military color, alive with the music of eight RCAF trumpeters and the red-jacketed band of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

The Royal train pulled up to the shed and the Princess came down the platform steps wearing what officials called "an olive green crepe tucked dress with a close-fitting hat to match."

On her lapel was a large silver Maple Leaf. The Prince wore naval uniform with ribbons and medals and carried a sword.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 —(AP)— Tied at two victories apiece, the Yankees and Giants met in the fifth game of the world series today before another capacity crowd of some 50,000.

Southpaw Ed Lopat (21-9) of the Yankees and Righthander Larry Jansen (23-11) of the Giants, opposing pitchers in the second game, won by the Yankees, again were the opposing pitchers.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees shook up his lineup, inserting Johnny Mize at first base. He batted fifth. Joe Collins was switched from first to right field. Gene Woodling was restored to leadoff role. That put six southpaw swingers in the lineup.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants benched Lefty Hank Thompson and inserted righthander Clint Hartung in right field. He batted seventh behind Willie Mays. That gave the Giants eight righthanded hitters.

It was a clear, cool day with little wind.

The batting order:

Plowing Match At Woodstock Largest Ever

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 9 — (CP). —Local county competition today highlighted the opening day of the 38th international plowing match, one hundred entrants took part.

A drizzling rain fell as competitions began. Rain during the week-end put the ground in good condition for plowing, officials said.

Hundreds of spectators, the advance guard of the 50,000 expected by officials to attend each day, began arriving early this morning at the competition site, five miles south-west of here.

They strolled through the "tented city" which houses demonstrators and exhibits. F. A. Lashley, competition manager, said it was the largest ever set up at the match.

He said that a number of entirely new demonstrations would be presented during the three-day contest. A farm pond was being constructed near the headquarters tent and a seed cleaning plant would be operated.

On Thursday, he said, students of Seaforth High School, 40 miles northwest, would put on a farm safety demonstration. The students would show, through the use of regular farm equipment and dummies how easy it is to have an accident and how easily accidents can be avoided.

The regular fire-fighting, plowing, forestry and tree-planting demonstrations would be presented.

As Local Counties Day, today's competition will feature plowmen from Oxford, Middlesex, Perth, Brant, Waterloo, Elgin and Norfolk Counties. Ontario Agriculture Minister Tom Kennedy will officiate at tomorrow's official opening.

Police Hunt Swamp For Hidden Gunman

TORONTO, Oct. 9 — (CP) — Police today searched Humber River swamps for a rifleman who has wounded one man and barely missed another Saturday.

The gunman shot Herbert Sparrow off the roof of a shed. Sparrow, winged in one arm, dodged from tree to tree as he fled for cover, bullets whining around him.

When 15 police officers arrived on the scene, the hidden marksman opened fire on them. He escaped through the underbrush.

Earlier, William Olan, fishing in a boat in the river, also was fired on.

Anglers Have Weird Rescue

CHATHAM, Oct. 9.—Six Windsor sportsmen who rowed out onto Rondeau Bay at Erieau, 15 miles south of here, for an afternoon's fishing Sunday, touched off one of the weirdest rescue tales in the history of a town where rescues are not uncommon. In retrospect it reads like a comedy of errors. But through a raging gale and windstorm on the shallow bay, it took on a much different aspect for the Windsor men and for nine Erieau citizens who took part in various rescue tries. The Windsor men—Kenneth E. Handsor, George E. Guster, Morio Milinceni, Pucant Curti, Ezio Donelli and Roger Bourque—left Erieau in two rowboats at noon.

The bay appeared manageable enough. The Windsor sextette rowed almost across to the far shore—a lonely, uninhabited strip of land—as they fished. Suddenly came the rain and a wind of gale proportions. In no time the bay became a choppy mess. The rowboats filled, but when swamped they were close enough to shore for the Windsor group to make it all right.

Organized Rescue

At about 3 o'clock, people in Erieau saw the men waving their shirts across Rondeau Bay. James Graham, Jr., owner of a 20-foot, open fishing craft, organized a rescue party, including four others. They set out into the heavy seas.

They reached the far shore safely. They had just loaded the Windsor party aboard when their anchor line snapped. Their motor conked out. Their craft was tossed about helplessly. They drifted about 100 yards, coming aground on a small island close to the shore. There they found an empty duck hunters' shack, in which they managed to light a fire and began to dry their clothes.

Meantime, back in Erieau, Graham's father, James Sr., became worried. At 5.30 pm he set out with three others in an even larger fishing craft to find out what had happened. His party located the stranded men — 11 now—and took them aboard. The return trip began.

Chinese Reds Fighting Hand-To-Hand Battles

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 9. (AP) —Chinese Communists, shifted to crucial fronts, today fought fierce hand-to-hand battles with attacking United States troops on western and eastern fronts. US 1st Division Cavalrymen hacked out gains of more than a mile near Yonchon on the western front.

The Chinese, thrown into action on the eastern front for the first time in five months, checked US 2nd Division attacks on peaks near bloody Heartbreak Ridge.

The Chinese shifted east to halt the Allies who have gained up to 15 miles there since the Reds broke off cease-fire talks Aug. 23. Since they broke off negotiations the Reds have suffered nearly 80,000 casualties, by US army estimates, and lost nearly 250 square miles of territory.

Warship Damaged

The navy announced Red mines and shore guns damaged two US warships. Twenty-seven Americans were killed or wounded.

An army communique reported attacking Allied forces in the eastern ridges were held to gains of a few hundred yards—or none at all.

Elsewhere along the front no significant action was reported in an early afternoon communique issued by the Eighth Army.

The Navy announced in Tokyo the US destroyer Ernest G. Small hit a Communist mine Sunday night off the east coast of Korea.

The explosion killed eight sailors and injured 19, the Navy said. In Washington the Navy had reported nine dead, 18 injured.

The destroyer ran into the mine while duelling Communist shore batteries at Hungnam, 130 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

Another American vessel, the minesweeper Firecrest, was hit by Red shore guns at Hungnam Friday, the Navy said. No one was injured.

In Bush 6 Days 2 Boys Found

OSHAWA, Oct. 9—(CP)—Two 14-year-old boys who ran away from home because they "just didn't like going to school" lived in a weather-beaten old tent in the bush for six days before they were picked up by police Sunday.

In their hidden tent, the pair lived on apples, bread, bologna and water from an old navy water bottle. They slept on the bare ground with no blankets.

They will appear in juvenile court in Bowmanville on charges of breaking into Curtis school and theft of a bicycle. Police charge they also stole two small puppies to keep them company in the tent.

The boys were picked up Sunday as they rode along a country road near their hideout.

Safecrackers Tackle 2 Hamilton Firms

HAMILTON, Oct. 9 (CP). — Safecrackers broke into two firms here during the night and escaped with a total loot of $1,000. They were the third and fourth safe-cracking jobs reported in Hamilton since Thursday.

Yeggs smashed their way into a concrete-imbedded safe at the Aberdeen Avenue store of Carrtill's Limited and netted approximately $1,000.

But the safecrackers who went to work on the safe of the Parkdale Auto Wreckers were unable to break into the safe with torches and acetylene tanks.

The equipment was taken from the company's tool shed.

Reds To Deliver Message Soon On Reopening Talks

TOKYO, Oct. 9. (AP) — The Communists will deliver a new message to the Allies Wednesday, presumably their latest word on reopening Korean truce talks.

Tonight they asked Allied liaison officers to pick up the message at Panmunjom, proposed new locale for the talks, at 8 a.m. Wednesday (6 p.m. EST Tuesday).

That is only two hours before the time suggested by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway for a meeting of liaison officers in the Panmunjom area to lay detailed plans for renewing cease-fire negotiations.

The Reds gave no indication of what the message would contain. They sent word of the message to Munsan, advance headquarters of the UN command armistice delegation, where reports circulated that there may be changes in the five-man Allied truce team.

There had been no indication that top Red commanders had drafted their reply to Ridgway's message broadcast Monday night. In it he agreed to renew truce talk in the vicinity of Panmunjom but declined to enlarge the neutral zone as the Communists wanted.

Ridgway also suggested the preparatory Wednesday session of liaison officers.

They met briefly in fog-blanketed Panmunjom today when Allied officers delivered Ridgway's message accepting the vicinity of that Red check point as a site for resuming the negotiations, broken off Aug. 23 at Kaesong.

AP correspondent Robert Tuckman, reporting the possible change in the Allied negotiating team, noted that two members of the delegation recently received new assignments.

Maj.-Gen. Henry I. Hodes was named deputy commander of the US Eighth Army. Rear-Admiral Arleigh A. Burke was expected to leave soon to report to the chief of naval operations in Washington for an undisclosed assignment.

The Munsan report was that one or two members of the negotiating group would be changed.

Believe King's Illness Cancerous Growth

LONDON, Oct. 9 (Reuters). — Doctors attending the King have not disclosed why they had to operate on his lung—and probably never will. But outside medical circles are certain that the purpose was removal of a cancerous growth.

The silence of the Royal doctors on the subject is itself significant as cancer is an "unmentionable" in hospitals here, even when the patient is much more humble than the reigning monarch.

It is probably no accident that the current issue of one of Britain's leading professional magazines the British Medical Journal, has an article on treatment of patients with bronchial carcinoma (cancer of the bronchial system.)

It quotes a paper written by six specialists, including Clement Price Thomas, the surgeon who operated on the King, to the effect that in this disease "pneumonectomy offers the best hope of long survival."

Pneumonectomy is the removal of a complete lung. Medical men believe this was the operation carried out on the King.

Reports Worry New Zealand

AUCKLA, New Zealand, Oct. 9 —(AP)—Prime Minister Sidney Holland, upset about reports that the king may cancel next year's scheduled royal tour of Australia and New Zeland, has cabled London for official information.

"If these forecasts are correct, it appears that we in New Zealand are about the only ones in the dark as to what's going on," Holland said.

Informed sources in London expect the ailing monarch to cancel the tour because of weakness following his recent serious lun operation.

The Sydney Sun reported in a weekend dispatch from London that the king definitely would cancel his tour, and that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburh would make it instead.

Egyptians Celebrating End Of Treaty

Others With Colonial Holdings Worried About Their Dependencies

CAIRO, Oct. 9—(CP)—Crowds shouting "down with England" poured into the squares of Egypt's main cities today to celebrate the government's move to cancel her mutual-defence treaty with Britain.

In Cairo, troops guarded the British and American embassies as demonstrators filled the big Ismailia square.

In Alexandria students delivered fiery speeches to an eager crowd.

Spokesmen of the Nationalist, Saadist, Liberal and Socialist parties announced their parties' support of the government's decision to end the treaty which gives Britain the right to station troops in the Suez zone and share administration of the Sudan.

These opposition parties applauded Monday night's announcement by Prime Minister Mustafa Nahas Pasha, which proclaimed Farouk king of Egypt and the Sudan.

An all-party parliamentary committee was appointed to draft legislation that would end the 1936 treaty, which has another five years to run.

Treaty Obsolete

Nahas Pasha, who himself signed the 1936 treaty, said it was necessary at that time due to the threat from the Axis powers. That treaty no longer exists, he said, and the treaty is herefore obsolete.

However, the pact contains a provision permitting renegotiation of its terms after 10 years. The two countries have been arguing over them since 1946.

Nahas Pasha's bills also would cancel the 1899 treaty which established joint British and Egyptian rule over the Sudan, the wild Upper Nile territory adjoining Egypt on the south. Since the Second World War Egypt has wanted sole control of the Sudan.

(In London, the British foreign office said it would refuse to recognize the one-sided break of the treaty relationship.)

In the British-occupied area along the canal, a British army spokesman reported: "All is quiet and work is going on as usual." He denied reports that British army leaves had been cancelled.

Causes Uneasiness

Egypt's move to shed British influence today caused uneasiness in countries with colonial dependencies.

French newspapers expressed fear that Eygpt's decision to break a mutual-defence treaty —following so closely Iran's expropriation of the British-owned oil indusrty there—might stimulate acts by Moslems against French interests in Africa and the Middle East.

Further rumblings of trouble for Britain was heard in Greek newspapers which cited Iran and Egypt as examples for Greece to follow in dealings with Britain on the Cyprus question.

Suez Action Called Insult To UK

Say Egyptians Plan To Run British Out Like Iranians

LONDON, Oct. 9. (Reuters) —British newspapers today agree that Egypt's abrogation of the 1936 treaty with Britain is an insult to Britain. They urge British lawmakers not to accept it.

The papers also claim Egypt's move—directed to push British troops out of the Suez Canal zone —is direct consequnce of Britain's expulsion from the Iranian oil fields.

"This development will only surprise those who failed to see the implications of the government's Iranian policy," says the Conservative Daily Telegraph.

"In abdicating our position in Iran, we automatically jeopardised our positions throughout the Middle East."

The Telegraph claims that if the Labor government remains in office the British will be kicked out of Egypt as they were expelled from Iran, and then out of every other country in the world where they now have interests and influence.

Mock A-Bomb Raid Staged In Kitchener

Mustang and Harvard airplanes from a London reserve squadron roared over the city, and bombs rockets and smoke canisters were fired from the ground. Rescue and firefighting demonstrations were held in the downtown business section, and troops moved through the streets.

The demonstration was staged by the Civil Defence Association of Waterloo County as the climax of a week-long educational program in Kitchener-Waterloo and Preston on civil defence.

The association intends to compile data on mutual aid among the cities and towns of the county with particular attention to accommodation for evacuees.

Hits Parked Car Driver Blames Horse

A frightened milk wagon horse was blamed by a tractor trailer driver for an accident on Simcoe St. early Saturday morning which caused $375 damage to a parked car owned by Patrick Anglesey, Simcoe St.

Bertron Rowe, who was driving a tractor trailer owned by W. C. Buckingham, of Millbrook, east on Simcoe Street, told police that he looked in his side view mirror while passing the milk wagon and saw that the horse appeared to be frightened.

Rowe said that when he returned his eyes to the street he was unable to avoid crashing into the rear end of the parked car.

Youths Damaged Masonic Property

The Hamilton property on Reid St. now owned by the Masonic Hall Ltd. was broken into on the weekeend and considerable damage caused by flooding. The property is the site of the new masonic temple. The break-in, the second in the past few weeks, is believed to have been by youths who generally ransacked the place. They broke the tap from one of the radiators and when police discovered the break-in, water was flowing from the radiator onto the floor and thence into the cellar. Several windows were broken and also the glass in the front door.

Two Professors Drown In NB

FREDERICTON, Oct. 9 (CP)— Two University of New Brunswick professors drowned Monday and two other professors escaped when a canoe capsized at Oromocto near Fredericton.

Drowned were Harris Videto, 35, Berwick, NS, and Graham Hadley, 35, Fredericton, both associate professors of forestry. Professors Louis Seheult and Edgar Roberts survived the tragic duck-hunting expedition

The men had been paddling from calm water to their hunting area in the early morning darkness when they struck a turbulent stretch of current during windy, rainy weather. The canoe overturned near the junction of the St. John and Oromocto Rivers.

All four were spilled out. Prof Videto who had a heart condition was the first to go under. Prof Seheult swam to shore and obtained a rowboat, but when he returned Hadley had disappeared.

Woman Slightly Hurt As Two Cars Collide

A Toronto woman was slightly injured when two cars collided at Aylmer and Hunter Sts. Thanksgiving Day Monday.

Miss Lemoine West, a passenger in a car driven by Grant W. Smedmor of 75 Mallory Crescent, Toronto, received a cut knee and bruises when Smedmor's car struck a car driven by Howard Bradley of 556 Wolfe St., at the intersection.

Bradley told police constable Claire McGillen who investigated the crash that he was driving west on Hunter St., and was half way across the intersection at Aylmer St. when the light changed to amber. Bradley continued across the intersection. The southbound car driven by Smedmor and Bradley's car collided.

Both vehicles were damaged slightly.

Motor Conks Out

Oliver Vidler worked the boat carefully along the bay shore, taking the long way home in case of more trouble. Sure as fate, his motor — rain-soaked and dirty from the shallow bay water—conked out, too. With 15 men aboard now, the boat was driven ashore three miles from the town.

At this point, the bay is edged by treacherous marsh. Slowly the party made their way through it, at times waist deep in water, occasionally, even up to their necks.

After two miles they hit dry land and the home of Ira Claus. There they stopped to warm up. Then Vidler, owner of the second craft, and Norman Coll, one of the rescue party, set out for Erieau again.

They reached a pier which is across a 70-feet-wide channel from the town and from there signalled with flashlights for help. Meantime, the remaining 13 straggled in.

From the other side of the channel, Charles Pilon set out in his small outboard motor-boat. By now the water was relatively smooth. In three trips he brought all the men back to Erieau. The adventure had begun nine hours before.

M. Cameron Dies Chief Of Cartographers

MILLBROOK, Oct. 9 (ENS).— The funeral service for Maxwell G. Cameron was held Monday afternoon at the Clarry homestead here where he died early Friday morning.

Mr. Cameron was chief cartographer of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys. In writing of him the Ottawa Journal said: "His knowledge of Canada and his enthusiasm to get it mapped was unsurpassed. He was outstanding in the field of the development of mapping from oblique aerial photographs for use in aeronautical charts and in the evolving of the eight-mile-to-the-inch map series of Canada. . . Much of his early work in civil service was done in the field and in western Canada, which he knew like a book. His work was his hobby, and it continued even on his annual vacations, which were usually spent in some part of Canada."

Born In City

Mr. Cameron, who was 62, was born in Peterborough, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cameron. The family home was at the northwest corner of Brock and Reid Streets.

He married Miss Bertha Louise Clarry, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Simpson Clarry, who survives him. He also leaves a brother, Norman C. Cameron of Montreal, two sisters, Miss Alison Cameron of Toronto and Mrs. H S. Carpenter of Regina, Sask. A sister, Mrs. Ernest S. Clarry (Jean), predeceased him in 1930, and a brother, John Hamilton Cameron was killed in First World War.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. W. H. Heustin, BA, minister of Grace Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Rev. A. M. Butler, BA, of St. Andrew's United church. The Rev. A. A. Chote, BA, L.Th., rector of the parish of Cavan, also attended.

The following associates of Mr. Cameron's in the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys acted as pallbearers: B. W. Waugh, surveyor general of Canada; P. E. Palmer, chief of the topographical survey; W. H. Miller, B.Sc., CE, chief of the Bureau of Surveys and Mapping; Col. Baldock, map compilation and reproduction; G. H. Colquhoun, map compilation and reproduction; and G. H. Ney, geodetic survey. A. O. Gammon of the topographical survey department was also present.

Interment was in Millbrook Presbyterian cemetery.

A news dispatch from Ottawa has the following to say of Mr. Cameron's death: "The mapping profession of Canada has suffered a distinct loss in the death of Maxwell George Cameron, chief cartographer of the Surveys and Mapping Bureau, Department of Mines and Technical Surveys. Mr. Cameron had been convalescing from an illness of some months' duration but his sudden passing will come as a shock to his wide circle of friends and acquaintances."

Born in Peterborough, Ontario, on October 6, 1888, he received part of his education at the Collegiate. In 1910 he graduated from the University of Toronto with the degree of Bachelor of Science in engineering.

Mr. Cameron's lifelong association with the surveying and mapping profession began in 1911 as an articled pupil in field survey work. He obtained his certificate as Dominion Land Sudveyor in 1913.

Started Work

In 1929 Mr. Cameron was transferred from field activities to undertake pioneer work in the photogrammetric plotting of maps from oblique photographs, a Canadian development which laid a basis for all modern map production.

In 1936 he was placed in charge of photogrammetric work in the Bureau of Geology and Topography.

Shortly before the outbreak of the last war, he became chief compiler in the Hydrographic and Map Service. The utilization of his wide experience and knowledge enabled him to produce an outstanding series of 219 aeronautical charts which were most urgently required for the Commonwealth Air Training Scheme and other military purposes during the war years.

This series, covering all of Canada, remains an exceptional achievement to his memory in the cartographic field.

His appointment as chief cartographer in 1949 recognized his unusual talents. Unremitting devotion to the development of Canadian mapping charaeterized Mr. Cameron's career. His enthusiasm and energy were counterbalanced by his friendliness, quiet humor, and deep sincerity, which made friends of all with whom he came in contact.

Princess

In the background, a ship's whistle blew steadily and artillerymen fired a 21-round Royal salute. The Princess walked through the shed, along a red carpet and out into the raw October air to inspect a 100-man guard of honor from the Royal 22nd Regiment. Beside her was the Lieutenant-Governor.

Seemed Delighted

As the Princess approached the guard, she chatted with Capt. Guy Gauvreau, its commander. Occasionally she smiled. She seeemed relaxed, like a young girl delighted at the prospect of the fairy-book happenings that lie ahead of her.

In the background, the band played. Photographers snapped shot after shot. The Prince walked along behind his wife, occasionally rubbing his chin.

The inspection took only a few minutes. The whole dockside ceremony took less than 20. Then a cavalcade of sleek, black cars moved to drive up into the city.

Mounties, sailors and soldiers lined the route as they left.

A round of cheers went up as the Royal couple drove past in an open car. The Princess was smiling. The Prince waved. From time to time he leaned over to speak to her as they left Lowertown.

Colorful Entry

Under golden maple trees the Royal couple and their police escort drove before the legislature through a guard of some 200 nurses in uniform.

They entered the 80-year-old legislature buildings passing under a deep blue awning decorated with silver fleurs-de-lis and were met by Premier Duplessis.

A crowd of about 4,000 packed around the legislature entrance to glimpse the Royal couple.

The premier, in morning clothes escorted the Princess into the red-decorated legislature council chamber.

After the Royal couple signed the province's golden book, the first of several in which they will enter their names today, Premier Duplessis presented members of the legislative council, their wives and other provincial dignitaries.

The Princess smiled and appeared at ease as she greeted the legislators. The Duke chatted in a friendly fashion.

Short Ceremony

The ceremony lasted but a few minutes and the Royal couple left the legislature buildings and arrived at Laval University about 12 minutes ahead of their schedule.

There they were greeted by Msgr. Maurice Roy, Quebec's Roman Catholic Archbishop, Most Rev. Philip Carrington, Quebec's Anglican Archbishop and Msgr. Ferdinand Vandry, rector of Laval.

Msgr. Vandry in a brief address of welcome in French told the Princess and her husband the university authorities were "very happy" to receive their visit.

The university rector showed the Princess Laval's charter, signed by Queen Victoria in 1862.

Delighted With Pin

Still ahead of their schedule, the Royal couple was driven over the old cobblestones and across the university courtyard up a hill and just across a square to city hall for the third golden book ceremony.

The Princess and the Duke disappeared under another awning into city hall where they spent five minutes meeting Mayor Borne and other city officials and their wives.

Mayor Borne made a brief address of welcome in English and then spoke in French as he presented the Princess with a miniature of the city's coat-of-arms in gold, silver and platinum.

The coat-of-arms is mounted with a crown studded with seven rubies.

"How gracious" exclaimed the princess when she saw the miniature.

Mayor Borne explained that the gift was in return for a gesture by the town of Hastings, England, to Quebec in 1925.

The town of Hastings that year returned to Quebec city an escutcheon bearing the Fleur-de-Lis of the Kings of France, said Mayor Borne.

Chef Found Dead In Drive

George Chow, 59, a chef at the home of Mrs. R. R. Hall, 396 Downie St., for the past 20 years, was found dead at the side of a car in the Hall driveway early Monday morning.

Edward Robinson, 693 George St., pointed out the body to police when they arrived in answer to a phone call at 7 a.m.

An examination of the body indicated that Mr. Chow had been dead for some time. The ignition switch on the car was still on but the battery was dead.

It is believed that Mr. Chow got out of the car to open the garage doors, and suffered a heart attack when he was on his way back to the car.

Coroner Dr. Herbert N. Young was called to the scene and made a preliminary examination of the body. Constables W. G. Scott and G. Emmons investigated the incident.

A native of Kwang Tung Province in China, Mr. Chow is survived by his wife, still living in China and one daughter, Mrs. Chan of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Mr. Chow was a member of George St. United Church.

Funeral services will be held from the Belleghem Funeral Home at 3 p.m. Thursday. The Rev. A. A. Mathews will officiate.

Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Bus Takes To Ditch Passenger Unhurt

Twenty-five passengers on a Toronto-Peterborough bus were shaken up Sunday morning when the driver took to the ditch to avoid colliding with a car that suddenly turned out in front of the bus. Alexander McKendry, 28, Toronto, told provincial police that he didn't see the Peterborough-bound bus in the heavy rain and turned into the Hitching Post, a mile and a half west of the city. Rather than risk a collision, the bus drievr, Simpson Dawson of Lindsay, ran the bus into the shallow ditch. It went along the ditch for 132 feet and snapped off a mail box before coming to a stop. Damage to the bus was slight and the passengers boarded a second one to complete their journey.

been ratified. It was following defeat of the legislation during the current session of Congress that Canada announced she was ready to go ahead alone, if necessary.

However, it is not expected that work on the multi-million dollar project can begin much before 1953.

The speech mentioned the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada.

Referring to the King, it said: "The public satisfaction at the speedy recovery of His Majesty the King which made possible the resumption of plans for the visit is heartening evidence of the deep attachment of the Canadian people to the Crown."

Parliament was adjourned following the formal opening until Friday to leave members free Wednesday and Thursday during the visit of the Royal couple here.

Referring to one of the country's domestic problems, the speech said:

Check Price Jump

"The anti-inflationary measures already in force have checked the upward trend of prices of goods and services affected by their operation."

The annual $2.50 licence fee on radio receiving sets would be retained, but CBC deficits would be covered by grants voted by parliament. At present, the CBC borrows from the government at interest when it runs into financial difficulties.

The speech gave no hint as to the type of contributions to be levied to finance the $400,000,000 program for pensions to those 70 and over.

Parliament will be asked to approve plans for the sending of armed forces to Europe and also to ratify the entry of Greece and Turkey into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The government plans to go ahead with construction of a causeway to bridge the strait of Canso between Nova Scotia and Cape Breton Island.

First Yankees

Jansen fanned Woodling. Rizzuto slapped a two-and-two pitch to Stanky who gobbled up the easy roller and threw to Lockman for the putout. Berra walked on four pitches. Dark raced behind third for DiMaggio's hot grounder and threw to Stanky who made a nice pickup of the low throw to force Berra at second. The game marked DiMaggio's 50th to equal Frank Frisch's world series record for most games played.

First Giants

Stanky grounded sharply to Brown who threw him out. Dark stroked a line single over Rizzuto's head into left. Thomson raised a high fly to DiMaggio in left-centre. Irvin singled off the left field wall, sending Dark to third and when Woodling juggled the ball Dark continued home and Irvin stopped at second on the error. Lockman swung at the first pitch and sent a soft fly to DiMaggio behind second base. The run is not earned.

One run, two hits, one error, one left.

Second Yankees

Mays galloped in to get under Mize's towering fly in shallow centre. Thomson fielded McDougald's hot smash inside the third base line, then threw wildly past Lockman allowing McDougald to reach second on the two-base error. Lockman was nicked on the left wrist and time was taken out while Giant trainer Doc Bowman examined it. Irvin came in fast for Brown's slanting low liner. Collins rolled to Lockman who flipped to Jansen, covering first, for the out on a close play.

Second Giants

Mays walked on a full count. Hartung hit a one-bouncer to the box and Lopat started a double the pitcher to McDougald to Mize. Browns stopped Westrum's sharp grounder with his chest and threw across the diamond to Mize for the putout.

Third Yankees

Jansen grabbed Lopat's one-bouncer back to the box and easily tossed him out. Woodling walked on four pitches. Rizzuto walked on a full count. Berra hit Jansen's first pitch sharply to Lockman who threw to Dark forcing Rizzuto as Woodling went to third. George Spencer, a right-hander, started warming up in the Giants' bullpen. DiMaggio pumped a single into short left scoring Woodling to tie the score at 1-1. Irvin, playing deep, attempted to make a shoestring catch and kicked the ball halfway back to the infield enabling Berra to reach third and DiMaggio second on the error. Mize was given an intentional pass to load the bases. Montia Kennedy, a lefthander, replaced Spencer in the Giants' bullpen. McDougald walloped a grandslam homer into the upper left field stands, putting the Yankees in front, 5-1. This tied a world series record, first set by Elmer Smith Oct. 10, 1920, for Cleveland and equalled by the Yankees' Tony Lazzeri Oct. 2, 1936. Brown slapped a ground single through the middle of the diamond into centre. Collins flied to Mays in short left-centre.

Third Giants

Jack Lohrke, a righthanded batter, went into hit for Jansen and struck out, swinging. Stanky was an easy out, Lopat to Mize. Dark singled past Rizzuto into centre field. Woodling loped in for Thomson's high fly in short left.

Fourth Yankees

Montia Kennedy went in to pitch for the Giants. Lopat was called out on strikes. Woodling walked for the second straight time. Rizzuto reached out and punched an outside pitch into the lower right field stands, barely inside the foul pole, for a home run scoring Woodling ahead of him. The blow travelled all of 257 feet. Berra popped to Dark in short centre. DiMaggio drilled a single past Thomson into left field. Mize fouled to Westrum behind the plate.

Two runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Fourth Giants

Irvin bounced out, Brown to Mize. Rizzuto moved to his right for Lockman's grounder and got off a quick snap throw to Mize for the putout. Mays sent a high fly to Woodling in left.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Yankees

Thomson came in fast for McDougald's slow bounder and fired across to Lockman for the out. Brown punched a single over Thomson's head into left. Collins went down, swinging. Kennedy deflected Lopat's smash to the box to Stanky who threw to Lockman for the putout.

Fifth Giants

Hartung sent DiMaggio far back for his 425-foot drive in straightaway centre. Westrum's drive to left - centre went for a two base hit when Woodling failed to make a shoestring catch. Bill Rigney, a righthanded hitter, batted for Kennedy. Woodling took care of Rigney's fly in left-centre. Stanky also flied to Woodling in left.

Sixth, Yankees

Spencer became the third Giant Pitcher. Stanky came in fast to field Woodling's roller at the edge of the infield grass and whipped underhanded to Lockman to retire the batter. Rizzuto ripped a single past Thomson into left field. Berra rifled a hit and run single to right sending Rizzuto to third. When Hartung momentarily bobbled the ball Rizzuto continued home. Hartung, who had a possible chance to throw Rizzuto out at the plate, fired to second instead where Berra easily beat the throw to Dark. DiMaggio flied to Hartung near the right field line. Mize dropped a Texas League double behind second scoring Berra to put the Yankees in front 9-1. Mays made a long run for the ball and just missed making a diving catch of it. McDougald bounced to Thomson whose throw to first pulled Lockman off the bag but the first baseman made a swiping tag to retire the runner.

Two runs, three hits, one error, one left.

Sixth Games

Hank Bauer went in to right field and Collins switched to first in place of Mize for the Yankees. Dark grounded out, Rizzuto to Collins. Thomson sent a blazing liner right at Brown. Irvin cracked a line single to centre for his 11th hit of the series. Rizzuto made a nice pickup of Lockman's higher chopper behind the mound and got his man with a quick throw to Collins.

Impartial Study Urged On Seaway Plan

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (CP)—The New York Times Sunday urged the creation of a joint Canadian-American commission to make an "impartial and thorough study" whether the proposed St. Lawrenc seaway and power project would be able to pay its way.

The Times, in an editorial, said that Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada and President Truman should be planning for such a study by a joint commission, "the members of which will be free from sectional bias, instead of encouraging Canada to proceed alone and to take a gambler's chance that the St. Lawrence will meet the economic and military requirements of the North American continent."

The Times commented that "no one knows even approximately how much the seaway and hydro-electric plant together will cost."

Just A Guess

"The latest low estimate of $1,500,000,000 is hardly more than a guess," it said. "Nor does anyone know know how much tonnage will pass through the seaway in 10 years. Estimates vary from 25,000,000 to a fantastic 52,000,000 tons annually. Tolls and tonnage go together, for which reason tolls are as much of an enigma as traffic. If both are inadequate the seaway may never be self-liquidating.

Says 8 Czechs Barred From Canada

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 — (CP) — Columnist Drew Pearson said on Sunday he had received word that eight of the 21 Czechs who fled their country aboard the "freedom train" have been prevented from going to Canada by an "overzealous Canadian security officer" at Ludwigsburg, Germany.

Pearson declared in his weekly broadcast that he received a cable from the "International Rescue Committee, Inc.," telling of the plight of the refugees "who are living in one dark attic room" of a barracks.

He said the cable informed him that "the freedom train is derailed by red tape."

"After an enthusiastic welcome and fine promises and after passing health, labor and United States military intelligence inspection, these patriotic people are defeated by a triumph of bureaucratic routine," Pearson added.

Contacts Envoy

The columnist said he got in touch with Hume Wrong, Canadian ambassador at Washington, and the envoy promised to look into the matter.

Pearson, concluded: "Canada, which has done better than we have, had generously offered to take these refugees because our own quota system and the McCarran act are so difficult. I have also telephoned Munich and learn that the Canadian security officer who derailed the freedom train does not even speak Czech."

(The McCarran act forbids the admittance into the United States of Aliens with previous Communist, Nazi or other totalitarian affiliation.)

In Ottawa, an External Affairs spokesman said he did not know of any applications for Canadian visas by the Czechs nor of any pending. "They would just be considered in the ordinary way and there would be no question of holding them up through special red tape," he said.

Close Identity

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP).—Anglo-French talks aimed at formation of a common front against Communist-led rebels in Malaya and Indo-China "revealed a close identity of views and interest, the defence ministry announced today. The four-day talks were between the French general of the army, Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, and British political and military chiefs.

Will Co-operate

LONDON, Oct. 9 (Reuters).—Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison said at an election meeting Monday night he would grasp the opportunity offered by any real change of views and policy in Russia. "I will not refrain merely because I do not like the internal system of government of the Soviet Union," he told a questioner.

Praises Efforts

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Mrs. William Oatis Monday night praised the United States state department for its efforts to free her husband, an Associated Press reporter, from a Czechoslovak prison. "The reaction of the American press and the American public has been extremely heartening," she said. "And the state department has been working day and night on this case."

10-Cent Increase

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Union negotiations agreed Monday to a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase for 65,000 longshoremen working from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va. They predicted that members of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL) will ratify the new agreement Thursday. The union had demanded 25 cents over the wage of $2 an hour. The union has demanded 25 cents over the wage of $2 an hour. The agreement was reached with the 173-member New York Shipping Association.

BACK TO KOREA? — Hong Kong sources say Communist Gen. Lin Piao, above, original commander of Chinese forces in Korea, has returned to China after six months of military training in Russia and will soon resume command of his Korean army. After commanding Chinese "volunteers" when they first entered the Korean war a year ago, Lin was replaced by Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

Israel Observes Sacred Festival

JERUSALEM, Oct. 9 (AP). — Israel—from the mountains of Galilee to the Red Sea, and from the Jordan River to the Mediterranean coast—will be a silent country tonight and Wednesday.

The silence will come in observance of Yom Kippur, the day of atonement and most sacred festival in the Jewish calendar.

It marks the culmination of 10 days of penitence which began with Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year.

Secular life will be stilled completely from sundown tonight until sundown tomorrow. Fasting will be widespread.

Hundreds of thousands will spend the 24-hour period in synagogues or improvised religious centres. They will recite ancient prayers, eulogize the dead and intone the psalms until a long blast from the ram's horn—the shofar—announces the end of the service.

Israel's 77-year-old president, Chaim Weizmann, will go to one of Jerusalem's synagogues for his devotions. A special ceremony will be held on Mount Zion, in front of King David's tomb.

Reaches Hong Kong

HONG KONG, Oct. 9—(AP)—Archbishop Gaetano Pollio of the Kifeng diocese in Honan province arrived Monday night from Canton. He was expelled by the Communists from Red China, where he spent six months in prison. The Roman Catholic archbishop was accompanied by three priests, the Revs. E. Piccinini, A. Crotti and J. Chessa.

Shoot 7 Guerrillas

TAIPEH, Formosa, Oct. 9 — (Reuters)—A Nationalist Chinese firing squad shot seven Chinese Communist undergound workers Monday, the Ministry of Decence announced today. They were members of subversive organizations in Tao Yuan province, south of Taipeh, the ministry said.

Gasoline Shortage

CANBERRA, Oct. 9 (Reuters). —Australia may have to cut civil air services soon because of gasoline shortages resulting from the Iranian oil situation, Hubert Anthony, civilian aviation minister, said today. Prime Minister Robert Menzies said there was no suggestion of gas rationing because of Iranian developments.

Attlee Faces More Worries Over Suez Crisis

By DON SCHWIND

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee pushed his electioneering in East Anglia today as angry Tories pointed to Egypt and attacked foreign policies.

Egypt's move to denounce the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian pact and make King Farouk master of the Sudan, coming soon after Persia's ouster of British oil men, was profoundly affecting the character of the election compaign.

It focussed attention even more on Labor foreign policies rather than their six-year stewardship in domestic affairs.

Conservative leader Winston Churchill shoe-horned the Egyptian turn of affairs immediately into a political speech over the radio.

"Another blow has fallen upon us even more grave and injurious than that which afflicted us at Abadan," he said in his broadcast last night.

Abadan is the site of the huge refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. Under Iranian pressure the company was forced to abandon it after futile efforts by the government to save the big British investment from nationalization.

Note Heckling

Heckling and shouts of "Abadan, Abadan" traced Attlee's progress through the eastern counties Monday.

It is an area where Attlee's Labor party took a severe beating in the 1950 election, losing 15 seats to Conservatives.

Attlee was parrying "Abadan" shouts before the electors heard the Egyptians were tearing up the 1936 mutual-defence pact and so endangering British control of the strategic Suez Canal.

The Prime Minister moves tonight from the rolling farmlands of Eastern England into industrial Leicestershire. He is making a swing around most spots where the voting will be touch-and-go. He intends to be back in London eight days before the voting Oct. 25.

Churchill was sticking around his own electoral district in the northeastern suburbs of London.

Unfaithful Swain

DENVER, Oct. 9 —(AP)—Mary Wiggins, 29, of Royal Oak, Mich., told police she was preparing to go to bed Monday night when the man she was to marry Saturday walked into her hotel room. He snatched $189 from her hand and fled, she said.

Albert Percy Strode

The funeral for Albert Percy Strode, 631 Donegal St., who died Saturday, was held Monday from the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. H. J. Scuse of St. George's Anglican Church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were George Lustic, Edward Williams, Norman Tutt, Ivan McGowan, Al Devlin, Charles McGillen. Burial was in Little Lake Cemetery.

Miss Mary Coursey

The funeral for Miss Mary Coursey, Cleveland, who died Wednesday, was held Saturday from the Duffus funeral home to Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church.

Requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. G. Gaughan.

Pallbearers were: Patrick Coursey, Patrick Calladine, Jack Coursey, James Harrison, John Giardino, Emmett Gregg. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery, where graveside prayers were said by the Rev. G. F. Sullivan.

May It Please Your Royal Highnesses

Today at Quebec T.R.H. Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh begin their tour of Canada. All Canada awaits them; all Canadians welcome them. May this land a mari usque ad mare please them, and its people delight them as fully as Canadians delight in their visit. The Duke has been briefly in Canada before, as a junior naval officer on shore leave at Halifax. This is the Princess's first experience of the New World. In the press of ceremony and engagements and crowds may she still be able to witness the environment in which the life of this people is cast, and taste something of the real flavour of Canada. Certainly she cannot fail to feel the cordial regard of the millions of people of this realm over which she is destined to rule.

* * *

Canada joins today in the Quebec welcome to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip: bienvenue.

The Boast Of Heraldry

On this page today we publish line drawings of the armorial bearings of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, for we think that these will be of interest to our readers. Heraldry is not widely pursued as a hobby in Canada, but it is a study full of interest. It comes to us from the days when comparatively few people could read, but were none the less intelligent for that; they were fully capable of reading a man's family history from the heraldic decorations which he wore on the embroidered coat which covered his armour in battle. These armorial bearings, or "blazons" as they are more properly called, are still cherished by many families and can be devised by the College of Heralds for those who desire them today.

Many people boast of the possession of a family crest. The crest is simply the part of the blazon of arms which is shown surmounting the helmet; in the case of the Princess, it is a crown, as she is of the royal line. People who boast of a crest, but who are unable to further identify their family arms should be regarded with polite suspicion.

Heraldry, for all its lack of practical use today, is an entertaining historical study. Gray, in his Elegy in a Country Churchyard, gloomily writes:

The boast of heraldry, the pomp of pow'r,
And all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave,
Await alike the inevitable hour:
The paths of glory lead but to the grave.

Very true, but what of it? Neither Gray nor anyone else can offer one crumb of evidence that the boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, and all the other things which he asperses, will not be of considerable importance and value beyond the grave. Meanwhile, we are glad that they are attributes of the royal couple who are Canada's guests at present.

Revolt In The Argentine

On September 28th groups of Argentine's armed forces revolted against the Peron government. By 3:30 p.m. of the same day President Peron announced from the balcony of Government House in Buenos Aires that the bulk of the Army, Air Force and Navy had remained loyal and that the revolt had been crushed. Since that time the outside world has heard little about the "rebellion."

Was it a tempest in the tea-pot of President Peron's mind? Was it a deliberate bit of pre-election stage-craft to rally discontented workers to his side again and at the same time rid himself of several opposing senior army officers, who have now fled the country? It is a common technique of dictators to seize any pretext to rouse the rabble and divert by startling, even violent action, the attention of the populace from grave economic or social conditions. It is a Washington view that the "revolt" was virtually fictitious.

Another view of the situation is possible. An official decree has been published that "all members of the armed forces who rise against the Government will be shot"; and the General Confederation of Labour (a Peronist tool) has called on all workers to rise against the "traitors". "Every worker is now a soldier of law and order." The Labour statement is dangerous to progesses of civil law; that an official decree like this was promulgated indicates that there is something rotten in the state of Argentina.

Most army-officers are anti-Peron, but most of the troops have been indoctrinated with Peronismo. Often the roughest and toughest labourers in factories and on farms are fanatically Peronists; but it is significant that when the country's workers were asked to descend on Buenos Aires and demand the nomination of Madame Peron as Vice-President, they did not come in as many thousands as Peron and Madame had expected, despite the free transportation, accommodation and meals. At that time the Army staff was strong enough to dissuade Madame Peron from accepting nomination for the Vice-Presidency. The elections take place this autumn. Was the "revolt" an affair staged by Peron to rally support and discourage Argentinians from voting against the regime; or was it really a revolt, which might strengthen the opposition vote, and give courage to those who may have discovered in it that the regime is weaker than it seems?

Since there is no free press and free radio in the Argentine, the outside world had little opportunity to know the truth about the uprising.

Economy—It's Wonderful

Not long ago, the United States Congress embarked on an economy drive that resulted, among other things, in the abolition of eighteen chauffeurs' jobs in the General Services Administration. The head of that department then asked the head of the General Accounting Office for a ruling on how to move employees around from one office to another. The ruling was given—use street car, bus or taxicab—and now, apparently, this will be applied to all departments.

Any official who travels this way on Government business must fill out a special form. It is a voucher the size of a bank cheque and not too complicated—but every trip taken must be listed on it, from point of departure to destination, time, date, amount of fare and tip. The vouchers must all be checked and audited, which means a staggering increase in paper work. It is now estimated, according to a Washington report, that it will cost from $3 to $5 to audit and process each monthly travel voucher, which would apparently mount up to many times the sum paid the eighteen chauffeurs.

This is not the only "economy" effected. Since it would be unfair to ask Government employees to finance their own transportation about the capital on Government business, a petty cash fund will be established for each department. A cashier will preside over it, and an official may draw his taxi or bus fare in advance, by filling out the necessary voucher.

This fantastic bit of bureaucratic thinking and procedure somehow reminds us of a story that came out of Ottawa during the war years. With space at a premium, some one came up with the brilliant idea that doing away with a loftfull of old forms in triplicate would release a lot of it. He applied for permission to clean out the loft, and after due delay received this massage: "Permission granted, but make copies first."

Canso Causeway

Natives and friends of the Maritimes in this district will be pleased to know that at long last Cape Breton is to be linked with the mainland. For many generations politicians and Maritimers have urged that a bridge be built, and at the last Federal Elections Prime Minister St. Laurent promised that the link would be made. That promise is now to be implemented.

It will not be a bridge, however. Engineers have objected that a bridge would not stand up to the currents and buffeting of the waves. A causeway will be built to span the three-quarters of a mile gap at the strait of Canso. It is not a vast undertaking comparable with the St. Lawrence seaway or the hydro reconversion now going on in Ontario; it should be completed in three years. Cape Breton's industries, formerly dependent on rail and vehicular ferries, will benefit, and the Maritimes' shipping and rail centres will profit. Newfoundland will be brought one ferry stage closer to the mainland.

Very great primary developments are now in progress all across Canada, as the Montreal Star points out:

> The Maritimes are to get the Canso Strait causeway. Quebec is busy developing Gaspe and opening up the north. The St. Lawrence seaway and power project is perceptibly moving toward actuality. Vast irrigation and water conservation undertakings are going on on the Prairies. Alberta is clanging with the search for still more oil. British Columbia sees a half-billion-dollar aluminum industry rising.

These are putting strains on the financial fabric of the country, but, if the tremendous industrial and capital advances of this decade are continued at a similar rate into the next, today's expansion will seem small by comparison.

An article in our week-end paper boldly says that Princess Elizabeth is a Scot! That inordinate people, having pinched the Coronation Stone, now want to snatch our Princess! Let them know that when she is in Canada, she is a Canadian.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

PROFESSIONAL musicians and choristers of an enquiring turn of mind have long been puzzled by the apparent contradictory nature of indications of speed such as in the chorus "For unto us a child is born" and in numerous other places in the works of Handel. In the instance quoted above the indication is "Andante Allegro". The following extract from a reputable book of reference puts the dilemma in a nutshell: "Andante, an Italian term in musical expression used to indicate a moderate tempo, midway between Adagio and Allegro". Leo Smith, however, comes to the rescue in his excellent little book on the rudiments of music, in which he gives Allegro as "rather quick" and Andante "rather slow", qualifying the latter statement by the following explanation: "In former times the literal meaning of 'going' was applied, and hence, a quicker interpretation of the word was adopted." But even this does not really make Handel's meaning much clearer. Going back to the original Italian meaning of the words we find that Allegro means gay or cheerful, which is the sense attacked to it in the title of Milton's poem, "L'Allegro ed il Penseroso". Andante is the present participle of the verb andare, to go or to walk, hence it means going or walking.

QUITE recently, however, an eighteenth century definition of andante has come to light which clarifies Handelian practice. It is found in "The Muses' Delight", published in Liverpool in 1754 and reads as follows:

ANDANTE. This word has respect chiefly to the thorough bass, and signifies, that in playing the time must be kept very just and exact, and each note made very equal and distinct the one from the other. Sometimes you will find the word Largo joined with it, as Andante Largo, or Largo Andante, which is as much to say, that though the music must be performed slow, yet the time must be observed very exactly. The sound of each note made very distinct and separated one from another.

It would seem, then that the Messiah chorus, which I mentioned at the beginning of my article, should be performed at a lively pace (allegro), but with every note evenly and clearly articulated and in strict time throughout (Andante). Conductors and singers would do well to note this meaning of Andante. Too often one hears this particular chorus take such a spanking that it is quite impossible for any human voice to make each note "very equal and distinct the one from the other".

THE common upright piano, that patient ass of instruments, comes in for more bad treatment than all the other instruments put together. In view of this a new design has been produced by an English firm for use in military canteens and has made its appearance in the Korean theatre of Operations. It should be of use in YMCA's, schools, mission fields, public houses and other places where pianos are apt to take a beating. The designers appear to have thought of everything. Among the innovations are the following. The lid has a double slope like a housetop, so that no drinks can be stood on it. For the same reason the lid of the keyboard has no level part. Some pianos I have met during the war have had so much beer poured down them that they ought to join Alcoholics Anonymous! The woodwork above the pedals is reinforced with brass plates to guard against kicks and scratches. The wood itself is solid oak, with rounded corners, a useful precaution against inexpert removers. Many canteen Chopins have an obnoxious habit of resting burning cigarettes on the keyboard ends and then promptly forgetting them. This is provided for in the new piano; the keyboard ends are made of copper. The ivories are bevelled so that they cannot so easily be pried off. It is stated that the instruments are made to withstand tropical weather; I wonder how they would stand up to the gruelling temperatures of a steam-heated house in this country.

A MUSICIAL friend of mine has been bemoaning the public's ignorance concerning the nature of musical degrees and diplomas. I cannot say that I blame the public; we musicians are strangely reticent concerning the real meaning of those funny little initials that trot along after our names, like a dog after its master. Let us treat university degrees first. Most universities grant two degrees in music, the baccalaureate and the doctorate, and they are abbreviated to B. Mus., Mus. B. or Mus. Bac., and D. Mus., Mus. D., or Mus. Doc. respectively according to the usage of the university. Sometimes the name of the university or its Latin equivalent are given in full or abbreviated form after the degree, such Toronto, Cantab. (Cambridge), Oxon. (Oxford), Dunelm (Durham), and so on. The doctor's degree is higher than the bachelor's degree, and it is not usual to grant the higher degree before the lower degree has been obtained. At Cambridge there is an intermediate degree, Mus. M., or Master of Music. The important thing to remember is that university degrees are all paper-work. They are granted for proficiency in Harmony, Counterpoint, Instrumentation, Composition, History of Music and allied subjects. There are of course exceptions to this general rule. Some universities require proficiency in such things as playing at sight a passage from an orchestral score at the piano, and Dublin University actually granted musical degrees in performance. But by and large the possession of a university degree has little or no bearing on the recipient's skill at any instrument.

IN contrast to this the various conservatories, schools and colleges of music grant diplomas primarily on technical proficiency at an instrument or with the voice. A certain amount of theoretical knowledge is required, and first-rate instruction in all theoretical branches is available, but it is not stressed in the examinations. The most usual diplomas in ascending order of importance are Associate, Licentiate and Fellow. Diplomas are also granted for teaching ability; in this case the standard of performance is slightly relaxed. Here are some of the commonest diplomas in abbreviated form and in full:—ATCM, Associate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music (1886-1946), ARCT, Associate of the Royal Conservatory, Toronto (1946-?). FRCO, Fellow of the Royal College of Organists (London, England), LRAM, Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music. In addition honorary degrees and diplomas are granted on occasion without examination for special merit, such as Hon. FRCM, D. Mus., Hon. Causa, and so on.

Canadian Stamp Centenary

(THE LONDON TIMES WEEKLY)

CANADA celebrates this month the centenary of her first postage stamp, which was of 3d. denomination, and carried the device of "a beaver in its native haunts." Selected copies of this and early Canadian stamps provide the highlight of an exhibit that the King has sent for display at an international philatelic exhibition opened in Toronto on September 21 to mark the occasion. Some of the world's finest collections of Canadian and other stamps competed for high awards in the various classes.

Simultaneously with the opening of the exhibition the Canadian Post Office Department put on sale a quartet of centennial stamps, the highest value of which, 15 cents, will bear a replica of the original 3d. stamp designed by Sir Sanford Fleming in 1851. The other three denominations are to illustrate methods of mail transportation in Canada, ancient and modern.

The subject of the 5 cents is an old-time paddle steamer contrasted with a present-day mail steamship. The 4 cents shows a wood-burning locomotive of 1851 in the lower half, and a streamlined Diesel-electric locomotive in the upper part, while the design chosen for the 7 cents value incorporates both a stage-coach of 100 years ago and a Canadian-built mail-plane of today.

SINCE separate postage stamps were first introduced into the Pitcairn Islands, 11 years ago, upwards of £50,000 has accrued to the island's exchequer through sales to dealers and collectors. Out of this windfall it was found possible to import from New Zealand a prefabricated and fully equipped school house, as well as to engage the services of a whole-time teacher for the rising generation of the descendants of the mutineers of the Bounty. A view of the school buildings appears on a new 8d. stamp which was added to the current series on September 1.

No little historical interest attaches to a companion 4d. stamp, released at the same time, which depicts the famous "Bible of the Bounty." This notable relic of a great event found its way to America about the year 1882, and subsequently came into possession of the Historical Society of Connecticut, by whom it was, in 1949, presented on permanent loan to the governmental authorities on Pitcairn Island. The Bible was used by the patriarch John Adams, last survivor of the Bounty mutineers, to teach the Scriptures to the children of the small community. Thus the two stamps just issued represent different stages in local education.

The signing of the Japanese peace treaty at San Francisco last month was recorded by a special issue of stamps prepared by the Japanese post office in anticipation of the event. Two of them present the national chrysanthemum emblem (2 yen brownish-orange and 24 yen yellow-green), and the third (8 yen) is adorned with the rising sun flag of Nippon.

Following in the footsteps of New Zealand, the colony of Fiji, in the western Pacific, has created an issue of "health" stamps to be sold at a premium in aid of local youth organizations. One, 1d.+1d., shows a group of Fijian boys bathing, while the other, 2d.+1d., illustrates a native Rugby footballer on the point of taking a place-kick. Incidentally, this is the first-stamp design to be based on the Rugby game, though there are many "Soccer" stamps.

The stamps of yet another British West Indian island have gone over from sterling to dollar currency, at the same time undergoing a change of design throughout. This is Montserrat, the 13 stamps of which, ranging from 1 cent to $4.80, share seven designs. These embrace a map of the island, a view of Government House, a plantation of sea island cotton and a "ginnery," tomato picking, a view of St. Anthony's Church, and the badge of the Colony, a classical female figure holding a harp and clinging to a cross. All values have the King's head inset.

Letters To The Editor

PRAISE FOR HOSPITAL

Sir: On the occasion of the opening of our new Civic Hospital a year or so ago I regret to say, I found it impossible to attend.

Having just spent a week in the hospital: I cannot praise the staff, and Nurses and Dr. J. C. C. Dawson too highly. Everything seemed to be done so quietly and efficiently. But the things that impressed me most were the lovely meals. Also, the ward I was in while there.

I would like you to publish this letter, as I feel badly when I read in our papers about the hospital deficit. We needed our new hospital so much.

Wishing the new hospital continued success, I remain,

Sincerely,
MRS. WM. D. WRIGHT.

BRAZIL AND CANADA'S ARMS

Sir: I think your editorial tonight (Saturday) dealing with Mr. Holman's letter about the Robb conscription speech was very sound and sensible. People are going plumb crazy to be big and mighty in arms. I think Canada's contribution to the armed strength of the West is magnificient and the plans as big as anybody, American or Canadian could expect. You took my breath away with the statement that the defence spending (as planned) is alone as big as the total national budget for 1949.

When you were on comparisons, why didn't you compare this effort with Brazil's? That country is almost the same size as Canada but more of its area can be lived in. It has a population of 50 millions. It is a very rich country, especially in minerals. It is next door to the North Atlantic—nearer it than Italy is. How many troops and guns and planes and ships is it sending to Korea and to Europe? None.

Yours respectfully,
KENNETH HOMER.

Butter and Brassieres

(Manchester Guardian)

The production of butter in Australia declined so much in the first quarter of this year that all exports ceased. In the same quarter Australia production of golf balls and brassieres increased by 5,000 dozen and 6,000 dozen, respectively. These facts caused the Australian newspaper, The Bulletin, to comment: "Such is the Australian economy and such is the Australian attitude to life in general that it can be reasonably assumed that nothing much will go wrong so long as the output of golf ball (now 5s each and likely to rise) and brassieres (now averaging 15s each) is maintained." For, as The Bulletin acidly pointed out: "After all, one only eats butter."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

If iniquity be in thine hand, put it far away, and let not wickedness dwell in thy tabernacles. (Job 11: 14.)

❖ ❖ ❖

The thoughts of the wicked are an abomination to the Lord: but the words of the pure are pleasant words.... The heart of the righteous studieth to answer: but the mouth of the wicked poureth out evil things. The Lord is far from the wicked: but he heareth the prayer of the righteous. (Prov. 15: 26, 28, 29.)

After these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come. Therefore said he unto them, The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth Labourers into his harvest....

And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name. And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven. Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy: and nothing shall by any means hurt you.

Notwithstanding in this rejoice not: that the spirits are subject unto you; but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven. (Luke 10: 1, 2, 17-20.)

Professional Cowboy Joins Ranks of Union Members

By JOHN L. WORK

DENVER, Oct. 9—(AP)—The professional cowboy is a rough, colorful and hard-living hombre, a rugged individualist. He also is a union man.

His union has a pay scale ranging up from nothing and a broken arm to earnings like those of a movie star.

This cowboy union is as casual about its affairs as a bucking horse. Most of its business is carried under cowboy hats. Decisions usually are made by telephone.

The Rodeo Cowboys' Association has nominal headquarters in Denver. The RCA has a membership of about 2,500 persons. More than half do nothing for a living but ride rodeo ranges. They work only at RCA-accredited professional shows in the United States and Canada.

Compete In 600 Shows

Last year RCA members competed at 600 accredited rodeos and rode off with more than $2,000,000 in prize money. Divided evenly, that amounts to only $800 for each cowboy, hardly enough to feed his horse, but they keep trying. The money is big at the top.

Bill Linderman, top money-winner in 1950, took more than $30,000 in prizes and perhaps as much again for commercial endorsements.

The RCA lists 10 men in the all-around cowboy class who raked in more than $15,000 in prize money yast year.

Officers are elected each year by the membership. Always they are professional cowboys. Linderman—world's champion cowboy of 1950—is this year's president.

Unorthodox Officials

Such men as Linderman are unorthodox executives. They won't wire letters, except as a last resort. Most association direction is done by telephone.

The RCA keeps track of its cowboy members' points — one point for each dollar of prize winnings—and where they stand on championship ladders.

It pays insurance, in a business which insurance companies fear to touch.

It obtains minimum standards in prize money and facilities, at all approved rodeos. The RCA refuses to approve a show if total prizes are regarded as too low. It may refuse to approve a rodeo where there are poor accommodations for performers' horses.

SEA RESCUE BY LAND—When a small fishing boat went aground at the base of a steep cliff near Fort Bragg, Calif., (left), it took a concerted effort by Coast Guardsmen for the rescue. Three fishermen were trapped on the boat, together with one Coast Guardsman who was injured trying an earlier rescue. At right, the boat's captain, George Lourakis, nears the top of the 600-foot cliff as the others (arrow) begin the long climb on a rope lowered by the rescuers.

Braves Waves Saves 3 Men

KESWICK, Ont., Oct. 9 (CP)—Morley Myers, 23, Monday braved high winds and treacherous waves on Lake Simcoe to rescue three Toronto men from a 30-foot cabin cruiser 400 yards off Jackson's Point.

Ted Maris, Bill Nicholson and James Pierce, were taking the cruiser to Keswick for winter storage when the engine failed. Their plight was noticed by cottagers on the shore and by Myers, who went to the rescue in a rowboat.

When last sighted, the cruiser was 500 yards off shore and still drifting.

Two other cabin cruisers were sunk at their moorings in Kempenfeldt Bay on Lake Simcoe by the storm that swept the area. Six others were beached as $8,000 worth of damage was reported to small boats on the lake.

Elizabeth, Philip Will Be Guests Of President On Washington Trip

By The Canadian Press

Washington has been termed the most beautiful city in the United States. George Washington intended it to be.

The first president was responsible for the original plan for the city, on the left bank of the Potomac 40 miles southwest of Baltimore. It was laid out in a regular pattern to the design of Maj. Pierre L'Enfant, a French engineer. It is dominated by the capitol, home of the Congress.

Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, nearing the end of their Canadian tour, will spend almost two full days in the capital of the United States. They arrive there by air from Montreal at 4 p.m. EST Oct. 31 and leave at noon Friday to pick up the tour of the Dominion where they left off. Then it's down to the Maritimes.

The flight plan from Montreal to the only American city the Royal couple will visit has not been announced but it is likely that the 2½-hour flight from Montreal will be laid out so that the tourists will at least glimpse New York City. For what visitor to North America could resist the lure of Manhattan's towers, seen so clearly from the air?

In Washington, the Prince and Princess will be the guests of President and Mrs. Truman. They won't sleep in the White House for that is undergoing major repairs. Mr. and Mrs. Truman are staying across the street, at Blair House, and it is there that the Royal guests will be put up.

Meet Plane

The President and Mrs. Truman will be on hand at National Airport when the Royal plane lands. The visitors will hardly be on the ground before being whisked to a reception at the Statler Hotel given by Washington press correspondents. At 8 p.m., they will be the guests of the Trumans at a dinner in Blair House.

On Thursday, Nov. 1, the Prince and Princess will visit the home of George Washington at Mount Vernon, located on a high bluff overlooking the Potomac in Virginia 15 miles downriver from Washington. Built in 1743 by George's brother, Lawrence, Mount Vernon was named after Admiral Vernon of the Royal Navy. The house is built of wood painted to resemble stone. The tomb of George and Martha Washington is nearby.

Visit Arlington Cemetery

On the way, they will visit Arlington National Cemetery where lie the country's honored dead. The cemetery is on the Virginia side of the Potomac, at the end of a 1,452-foot stone bridge which connects it with the capital.

Returning to Washington at noon, the Princess and the Duke will receive the ambassadors of the Commonwealth countries and senior officers of their diplomatic missions at the Canadian Embassy. Later, they will be guests of honor at a reception at the British Embassy. In the evening, their Royal Highnesses will be hosts themselves, at a dinner in the Canadian Embassy for Mr. and Mrs. Truman.

The following morning, the Royal visitors will have an opportunity to see more of Washington. A drive about the city is scheduled, and then it's back to Montreal at noon EST and a two-day holiday.

Have Holiday

For Saturday and Sunday, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke will holiday in the Laurentian Mountains of Quebec at an undisclosed spot. They resume the tour at Ste. Hyacinthe, Que., Monday, Nov. 5, stopping for 10 minutes at that town at 9.55 a.m. EST. Then they go on to Drummondville for another 10-minute stop at 10.40 a.m. Levis, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence across from Quebec, will see the visitors for 10 minutes at 1.15 p.m.

Four other Quebec appearances are scheduled—from the observation platform of their train at Montmagny at 2.23 p.m.; 10 minutes at Riviere Du Loup at 4.20 p.m.; 10 minutes at Rimouski at 6 p.m., and 10 minutes at Mont Joli at 6.45 p.m.—before crossing into New Brunswick where the first stop is in the elm-shaded capital, Fredericton.

Before ariving in Fredericton at 10 p.m., EST, Nov. 6, the Royal couple will pass through colorful northern New Brunswick with its lumbering communities and sweeping view of the rugger Gaspe country. In their five hours in the capital, they will visit the University of New Brunswick, Christ Church Cathedral and the Legislative Building.

A 5½-hour stay is scheduled for Saint John, Canada's oldest incorporated city, settled by the United Empire Loyalists in 1783. They are due there at 5 p.m. The Royal party will pas historic Market Slip where the Lovalists landed as they fled the United States.

Enter Nova Scotia

The couple will stay in their train overnight and before moving into Nova Scotia the following morning, will stop for 45 minutes in the raiway hub of Moncton at 10 a.m. and for 10 minutes at Sackville at 11.40 a.m. The brief Moncton program includes a drive to Victoria Park where the Princess will speak in English and French.

They will enter Nova Scotia at Amherst, stopping there 12.05 p.m. at 2.25 p.m., stopping for 10 minutes, and in Halifax, the Maritimes' leading port, at 4.15 p.m.

There, they will be received officially by Nova Scotia in the Red Room of Province House, oldest in Canada, and by the city in front of the city hall. Two tours of city streets are scheduled before departing the following morning for Charlottetown, capital of Prince Edward Island and seat of Confederation.

Premier J. Walter Jones will welcome the Royal couple in the Confederation Room at Province House. A welcome at the city hall will be followed by a private luncheon at Government House and a visit to the Charlottetown experimental farm. In the evening, the visitors will see an amateur hockey game and will be guests at a dinner in the Charlottetown Hotel.

To Board Cruiser

At Charlottetown, the party will board the Canadian cruiser Ontario for Sydney on Cape Breton Island, arriving there at 10.30 a.m. Saturday. They will tour that coal-mining area for three hours, sailing at 1.30 p.m. for St. John's, capital of Canada's newest province, arriving there at 10 a.m. Nov. 11.

Church service at the Anglican Cathedral will be followed by a motor tour of St. John's during which the Princess will place a wreath on the Newfoundland War Memorial. The tour will be continued in the afternoon following an official luncheon and private dinner planned for the evening.

From the capital of Britain's oldest colony and Canada's newest province, the Princess will broadcast Monday, Nov. 12, a farewell message to the Dominion and its people. Then she and the Duke will drive slowly the 21 miles to Bay Bulls, to sail for home aboard the liner Empress of Scotland at 12.30 p.m.

The tour will be over.

PETES WIN SEVENTH GAME 13-7 RETURNING EAST WITH MANN CUP

Civic Reception Wednesday For Canadian Champions, Wootton Most Valuable Man

By CEC. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

Peterborough Timbermen took the Mann Cup and the Dominion senior "A" lacrosse title Saturday night in Vancouver. They downed the battling Vancouver Combines 13-7 before 2,700 fans in Kerrisdale Arena to win the best-of-seven Canadian finals, four games to three, the Saturday struggle being the seventh and deciding one. The Petes proved their greatness by fighting back from the brink of oblivion to capture the last two games. Not since St. Catharines' Athletics did the trick in 1941 has an eastern lacrosse club won the Mann Cup in the west. Orillia won it also in 1935. This is the first Dominion sports championship a Peterborough club ever took.

MOST VALUABLE—Goalie Lloyd (Moon) Wootton of the Petes' Dominion senior lacrosse champions was voted most valuable player in the recent Mann Cup series Saturday in Vancouver to win the Mike Kelly Memorial Shield. The voting on players of both clubs was done by the members of the press and radio present for the series.

Big Celebration

While the champions had a big club celebration Saturday night after the win, their home-coming celebration is slated for tomorrow evening. They are due to arrive around noon in Toronto by air and should be home late in the afternoon, bringing the $2,500 trophy with them. Civic and club officials here are planning a parade and dinner for players and their wives.

Following Saturday's big game, CLA secretary Gene Dopp presented the Mann Cup to Coach Don Crowe. Past president Lyle Barr, of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, previously attempted to speak over the PA system in congratulation of the winners but he was booed down by the sullen crowd. However, some of the fans later cheered the winners, and they gave Moon Wootton a hand when it was announced that he had won the press-voted most valuable player award of the series, the Mike Kelly Memorial Shield.

Mobbed Moon

Wooton was mobbed by his mates at the last whistle and pushed around plenty, but the big fellow grinned widely through the roughing-up episode. The Petes threw sticks and gloves in the air and hugged each other as they realized they fere Dominion champions. Opposing players congratulated them, and Russ Slater and Ed Hamson, ejected a minute before the fray's finish for fighting, hopped out of the penalty box and shook hands with big smiles.

Play was careful and marked with some stiff, close checking the first half of the initial inning, with few close-in shots. Wipper broke the ice at 9.53 with Dugan's pass on the run and a hot, angle shot. Mason followed it up with a backhander of Crowe's shot at the crease edge. Ticehurst got that back in fast from McKay, but Thorpe made it 3-1 from McKenzie on a long pass and blistered side shot. Combines pressed hard in spots but Mann was good. There wasn't a penalty in the period.

A Clean Game

Nor was there one next stanza, despite lots of action. Merv McKenzie pulled through to catch a net corner in 48 seconds. After Swanson got around defence to score with Buchanan's pass, McPhail blazed a high one over the crouching goalie. Wipper added one from Slater on neat in-close combination and Peterson poled home a free toss after an illegal check inside. O'Hearn faked the goalie out of his pads with Slater's fine short pass, and Northop of Combines ended the tallying on a nifty solo right through. Moon was good again as play was fairly speedy and existing, but the Petes had a good edge.

Slater snared a loose ball in the third and ran in from the side to outguess Lee. Combines started to roll and really opened play up, in spite of stiff checking and fine netminding by the Timbermen. Elmer Buchanan fluked one in off Wootton's leg and later Hamson got through for a nice one. However, the Petes slowed it down and held possession often, with Peterson finally counting from McPhail on a snappy all-around thrust.

Finished Strong

Combines spurted to start the fourth, but O'Hearn got the first goal on a breakaway with Vitarelli's long pass. Dugan and Powless nearly clicked as the Petes settled away, and Mason was johnny-on-the-spot again with a rebound to whip home Wipper's bouncer off the goalie. Peterson drew the first penalty of the game, for playing in the crease, and McKenzie drew a cheap slashing penalty to make them two shy. However, the Petes checked like demons till one was back. Browning got it then with Swanson's pass to get a good goal and McKenzie returned to the floor. Wootton stopped one with his throat and was flat for a few minutes, but revived to continue. Peterson pulled a shifty run up the floor and blasted the ball in. Ticehurst got that back from Northop right away, and then Ticehurst went over for slashing. He was back as time ran out and Hamson and Slater tangled to toss a few punches. They were off when the gong ended it. Teams:

stronger. There could be no Vancouver alibis over the finish.

Led In First

As was the case in the sixth contest, the Petes dominated play throughout. They played their best lacrosse of the series in these most important melees. There were no weak members and they gave it all they had for 60 full minutes. Combines drove hard in the first quarter and put on a furious attack, a do-or-die effort, in the third, but the Petes still outplayed them and finished

Petes led 3-1 in the first quarter, had a 5-2 edge in the second to lead 8-3 at the half and held their own in the 2-2 third before stepping out in the thrilling fourth and earning a 3-2 margin to win 13-7. One of the Combines' goals in the third was a fluke, the ball bouncing from the backboards over the net to go in off Wootton's leg as he jumped to smother it. It was a clean tilt with only five penalties coming in the fourth heat, three to the easterners.

Scoring was well spread around by the victors, showing every man was hustling. Denny Peterson led with three markers, two each going to Nit O'Hearn, Curly Mason and Harry Wipper. Singles were notched by Russ Slater (who performed with a big bruise on the wrist), Scotty McPhail, Merv McKenzie and Bob Thorpe. The three replacements did their job well. Slater had two assists, one each going to Arn Dugan, Dootch Vitarelli, McPhail and McKenzie.

Led Combines

Leading sniper for Combines, who didn't go down without a hard fight, was Bert Ticehurst with two. A goal apiece was counted by Archie Browning, Ed Hamson, Elmer Buchanan, Jack Northop and Jim Swanson, as an assist each went to Northop, Buchanan, Swanson and Alec McKay. With Stewart and Webb sidelined with injuries, the Combines used Browning and Northop, high Victoria scorers, as replacements. Walt Lee went good in goal for them but didn't make as many really hard saves as Wooton did. The refereenig wasn't too good but at least better than previously, even though they neglect-

CHAMPIONS OF CANADA—After a tough Mann Cup final series in Vancouver, the Petes emerged Saturday night as senior "A" lacrosse champions of Canada, the first time a Peterborough sports team has ever taken a Dominion title. Back home again and happy over it all. Most happy to have had the opportunity of seeing the Petes' senior lacrossers capturing the Canadian championship and Mann Cup in Vancouver on Saturday p.m. We bundled up our notes and flew out early Sunday, writing the story of the game yesterday in Peterborough. It should be written in Peterborough as this club started in boxla back in 1931 and kept the gutted-stick going right through—apart from time off to fight a war—till today. Three years in the senior "A" bracket and they're Dominion champs, first time a local club ever won such an honor. Our heartiest congratulations to the team and the executive.

* * * * * *

They had to get up off the floor and fight back like champs to do it, winning the final two frays of the gruelling best-of-seven grind against a fast, scrappy Vancouver squad. First time an eastern outfit has won there in 10 years. But (if you don't mind a touch of poker) they had the cards and didn't bluff when the chips were down but played them right to take the pot. Fans there weren't happy but the players shook hands with the victors and no alibis were offered. One Combine ace said to Nit O'Hearn: "What were you guys doing the first five games, just kidding us?" Yes, they didn't play a solid 60-minute game of top lacrosse till the last two, and they were definitely unbeatable then.

Hot Time In Old Town

There'll be a celebration. Plans are afoot today for a parade, dinner, et al, when the boys arrive home late Wednesday aft. They took time off to sail to Victoria Monday for an exhibition there to replenish their depleted funds, and are due to fly east tonight, according to word we received ere leaving. We flew home Sunday with Nit O'Hearn, who had to report to Syracuse for hockey Monday. Jerry Fitzgerald is expected along with the club. We should have the info on Wednesday night's big "do" in tomorrow's paper as Prexy Bob Peirson is due in today to check with Ald. Herb Young and others on it. Players' wives, of course, will be included. The Canadian champs have brought honor to the city and they were a credit to Peterborough in all their actions out west. Various officials there told us that.

* * * * * *

Many more telegrams reached them ere game time Saturday from here to pep them up. The Mayor wired again, as did Hon. Harold Scott, Dr. Herb Young, P. D. Scollard for the Chamber of Commerce, Walt Murphy, Charles Cummer, Ernie Braund, Bruce Sargent, J. K. Hughes, Sid Black, the Burns family, Ed Ryan, Percy Harrison, Danny Hopcroft, Paul Irwin, the "Ten Reliables", Alice and Adele Miller, Doug Miller Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bill Edgar and probably others we missed. It was an inspiration and showed that the folks back home were with their athletes in the big game. And the boys came through in championship fashion. They didn't let any of us down.

Worthy Champions All

We'll name no stars in that final fixture, as they all turned in a stellar performance. Combines' officials said they were the better club, and the best one out of the east since St. Kitts of '41. They gave our city much favorable publicity across the country, and had an eight-column heading over their final game victory in Monday's Globe & Mail. The Combines went down fighting after putting up a strenuous struggle throughout the series, and the rival players shook hands afterward. A good show. Moon Wootton was voted the most valuable player in the series, and he rated it. The Mann Cup was put up in 1910 by the late Sir Donald Mann, builder of the Canadian Northern Railway. It is a solid gold cup worth $2,500 and has been won by some great teams. It is held now by a great team right here.

On the football front, Orfuns broke even over the weekend with Orillia Bombers, losing 11-7 and winning 22-11 in the return tilt. St. Peter's juniors rolled over the Port Hopers 37-0, while SPS seniors took a 16-0 exhibition victory here o'er St. Mike's, a new experience for the locals against their Toronto opopnents. PCVS didn't see action. Next Friday night, Toronto Ryerson plays Orfuns here under the lights. This is a four-pointer in the ORFU senior "B" schedule, and the only time this semester that Ryerson will show against Frank Gnup's local gridders in Morrow Park. We'll get caught up on the football chatter in a day or two.

Orillia Edges Orfuns With Air Attack

Orillia Silver Bombers pulled a surprise upset Saturday afternoon as they edged Peterborough Orfuns 11-7, in the first of a home-and-home weekend series of Senior B ORFU football.

Bombers came from behind to earn the decision in the final quarter of play when a series of completed forward passes from the skilful arm of Jim Milligan brought the homesters to the Orfun 10-yard line; and the smart quarter, who copped individual honors for the day sneaked over the payoff line to give his team a small but vital edge.

Peterborough took an early lead in the first quarter as Chuck Paul's long kicks drove the bombers into their own end and Wilde was rouged behind his line midway in the frame.

Ron Hodson intercepted a Milligan pass late in the frame on the Bomber 45 and after plunging to the 25, Huntley tossed a long forward to Clive Naismith across the line on a beautiful play. Huntley split the uprights to make it 7-0.

Stubborn Defence

Orillia's defence tightened up like magic in the second as the Bombers also took the offensive in a surprise form reversal that bore fruit at the seven-minute mark. A series of passes, as Orillia proved more active in the air, brought Bombers to the Orfuns six where Milligan carried over and White converted from placement.

The teams battled tooth and nail in an even third frame as both opened up on aerial attack, with Orillia holding quite a percentage advantage in the tossing. Orfuns proved superior on ground gains and failure to follow up this advantage, in preference to the air, proved poor strategy. Orfuns had a wide margin on first downs, but penalties proved costly and paved the way for Orillia's first major. While all the boys gave their best, the work of Naismith, Lalonde, Hodson, Huntley, Lynch, Fitzgerald, Beatty, Paul and the McGillis brothers was worthy of special mention, this game.

Charles, Layne End Training For Bout

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9 (AP). — Ezzard Charles, ex-heavyweight champion who wants the crown back, and Rex Layne, who just wants it, ended training today for a 12-round bout Wednesday night at Forbes Field that will do a lot for the winner's prestige if nothing else.

The fight will be televised.

Charles finished up the heavy work Monday with four fast rounds and said he is in much better physical condition than when he dropped the crown to Jersey Joe Walcott in Pittsburgh July 18.

Layne, a young hopeful from Salt Lake City, traded punches with his sparring partners for two rounds and then told his audience:

"I wish I was climbing through the ropes at Forbes Field right now."

Both previously have talked of a win by the knockout route.

Lacrosse Executive Re-elected For Year

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9 (CP). — The executive of the Canadian Lacrosse Association was re-elected at the annual meeting here.

On the executive are: Tom O'Brien, Winnipeg, president; E. H. Lancaster, St. Catharines, first vice-president; W. G. Easterbrook, Vancouver, second vice-president, J. C. McLeod, Owen Sound, third vice-president, and Gene Dopp Toronto, secretary.

Two Shutouts Registered By St. Peter's High Teams Over Port Hope, St. Mike's

St. Peter's High juniors and seniors shut out the Port Hope High and St. Michael's College of Toronto in rugby games on Saturday afternoon at Morrow Park. In the opening game of the Lake Ontario junior "B" schedule Coach Johnny Lynch's junior Saints ran true to form as they walloped the Port Hope High schoolers 37-0.

Two Shutouts

But it took the Senior Saints to provide the football upset of the young season by whipping their annual rivals, St. Michael's College, 16-0, in the second game of the doubleheader.

The senior win came as a shock to the handful of fans who watched the game. Odds at the opening whistle favored St. Mike's as they looked big, experienced and had reserves. On the other hand, the Saints had just a team of seniors (12) and were helped by six juniors. Things looked dismal for St. Peter's.

In the first few minutes the teams tested each other on the ground and in the air. Suddenly St. Peter's broke loose after a short St. Mike's kick, Carl Brioux, St. Peter's most outstanding plunger during the game, carrying first for 25 yards. He then plunged for another first, and jogged another 20 yards on a sleeper play. Jones carried to the eight-yard line where Jack Richardson passed to Frank Farley for a major score. It went unconverted.

St. Mikes' Fumble Costly

In the second St. Peter's cashed in on one of the many St. Mikes fumbles. Hickson recovered the ball at the Toronto 25. Brioux, Jones and Richardson put the ball on the three yard line in three plays. Then Jones went over. Again the convert point was missed.

In the third, St. Peter's after pressing twice finally added a point when Brioux punted. St. Mikes' conceding the point as the Saints linemen pinned the carrier on the dead-ball line.

The final major came in the last three minutes just after Jones intercepted a forward pass. Richardson flipped to Frank Farley for 35 yards, Farley running unmolested over. That ended the scoring at 16-0.

The Junior Game

The experienced line, the broken field running of Bob O'Rourke, the passing of John Hickey and the kicking of Frank McGillen was too much for the Lakeshore grid squad in the junior game.

Too confident of winning, the Saints had trouble in the first half untracking their plays and sighting Port Hope plays but the juniors did score 11 points.

The first touchdown came midway through the first quarter when Bob O'Rourke in two runs carried to the Port Hope 35. There Hickey passed to Terry Fitzpatrick to the 20, Hickey sneaking from there to the two-yard line where Gord Snape went over easily. Hickey passed to Board for the extra point.

Just as the second ended, St. Peter's added their second major score. Snape scampered for 35 yards before being nailed at the five-yard line. Hickey combined again with Ron Board on a forward pass for the score.

From the second half kickoff St. Peter's marched up the field, Frank McGillen and O'Rourke leading. Another Hickey-to-Board pass set the scoring play at the four-yard line where McGillen went over.

Ron Board continued a perfect afternoon by intercepting a Port Hope pass at the 40-yard line, easily covering the distance to score to place the Saints ahead 21-0.

A fumble early in the fourth crushed Port Hope definitely, McGillen grabbing the loose ball at the Port Hope 31. Murray Byrne plunged for five yards, then took a Hickey pass over the centre for the major.

Minutes later Hickey again tossed to O'Rourke on a sleeper play which was good for 35 yards. O'Rourke completed his excellent display by crossing on a dash.

Fitzpatrick started the last major score off when he ran back a short Port Hope punt to the Lakeshore 20. Hickey crept to the seven-yard line, Snape crossing for the score. McGillen ran for the extra point.

World Series Now Tied As Yanks Win 6-2 To Gain Deadlock

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 9. (AP)—Joe DiMaggio's revival aroused New York Yankee hopes today as Lefty Ed Lopat (21-9) faced the Giants' Larry Jansen (23-11) in the fifth World Series game at the Polo Grounds. All square with two victories each after Allie Reynolds' 6-2 conquest of Sal Maglie Monday, the clubs were ready for a rematch of Friday's duel between Jansen and Lopat which the Yankee curve expert won 3-1. DiMaggio, swinging from a new stance after three hitless games, renewed the pride of the Yankees with his two-run homer and single off Maglie.

For the first time in weeks, the Yanks hit like the club that fought off Cleveland and Boston to win the American League pennant. And they did it against the Giants' best.

Public sympathy rained on the 36-year-old DiMaggio in the first three games of his 10th series. He didn't have a hit. Hadn't hit a ball hard in 11 trips.

You noticed the difference the first time he faced Maglie. First a curved strike. Then three balls. A foul liner that missed being a homer by four feet. Another foul liner. And three more fouls before he looked too long at a curved third strike.

Back On Beam

After the game and his 350-foot homer with Bobby Brown on base in the fifth, he said he "liked" that first foul liner best of all. It was the first indication that the jolter was back on the beam.

It is difficult to overestimate the emotional lift DiMaggio can give the Yanks. With "the big fellow" slashing, slumping Yogi Berra started to hit the ball on the nose. Yogi hammered two liners at outfielders before he got his lone hit.

With solid backing of 12 hits, Reynolds was a different pitcher from the fellow who lost the opening game. He had a zinging fast ball and sharp curve that piled up eight strikeouts.

Al Dark, who hit a three-run homer in the opener, slammed three successive doubles to left field. The first meant a run when Monte Irvin singled. But the others meant only men left on base.

Allie had a rocky ninth. A walk to Hank Thompson, Irvin's ninth hit of the series and Bobby Thomson's single produced a run.

Then Willie Mays rapped into his third double play—tying a record he would like to forget. Reynolds was home free.

Best of Series

The Lopat-Jansen battle in the fifth game shapes up as the best of the series. Although steady Eddie beat Jansen in the second game, Larry retired 13 men in succession after early - inning trouble. And the Yanks' chunky "nothing-ball" pitcher gave up only five hits.

The winner of today's game will be in the driver's seat. If the Yanks win, Stengel could gamble on his sixth game with Tom Morgan or Johnny Sain and still have Vic Raschi and Reynolds for the seventh. If the Giants win Leo Durocher can try to get home with Dave Koslo again and save up Jim Hearn and Maglie for the final.

Maglie worked only five innings Monday and should be ready if needed for a seventh game. The barber didn't have his stuff in his first series appearance. Joe Collins singled home Gene Woodling in the first inning to tie it up at 1-1. Reynolds broke the tie in the fourth with a single after Bobby Brown singled and Collins walked.

DiMaggio Clicks

Berra's single preceded DiMaggio's smash into the upper left field seats in the fifth, Maglie's last inning. Sheldon Jones gave up two unearned runs in the seventh on two singles, a walk and an error. Phil Rizzuto singled and Gene Woodling walked. Trying to nip Rizzuto off second, catcher Wes Westrum threw to Eddie Stanky who ran Phil toward third and hit him in the back with a wild throw. Rizzuto scooted home. Gill McDougald's single brought in Woodling.

With the biggest player pool in history—$560,562.87 at stake, the going might get a little rugged in the next few games. Depending on how many shares each club voted, the booty probably will be an all-time high. The winners will slice up $235,436.20, the losers $156,957.46.

The series already is in the Million-dollar class with total receipts of $1,099,141.92. That does not include the $1,000,000-plus from TV and radio.

Syracuse Clubs Cleveland 6-1

LINDSAY, Oct. 9.—A well drilled Syracuse club continued its mastery in exhibition games by walloping Cleveland Barons 6-1 here.

Outclassing the AHL champions in every department, the Syracuse team shot a pair of goals in each period and came within 10 minutes of a shutout for Gordy Bell before Eddie Olson deflected in a long shot.

Amateur Johnny Horvath who has almost beaten out brother Bronco for a regular centre ice job, gave Syracuse the lead in the first by sinking the first and passing to Kenny Hayden for the second.

Mike Nardusizi who opened the second period scoring tallied two more in the third for the hat-trick while Hayden added his second counter in the middle period. Phil Samis, Barons' defenceman, drew three minors and a 10-minute misconduct penalty.

Award Toronto Levys Softball Crown

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP).—Toronto Levys have been awarded the Ontario Softball Association championship.

The Toronto men's softball squad defeated Ottawa Service Supplies Saturday 19-1 in the first game of what was to have been a best-of-three final.

The second game was called off Sunday after one inning of play because of rain. Service Supplies led 3-1 after the single frame.

Supply officials then forfeited the series, announcing they could not make the trip to Toronto for the remaining game or games.

Bull Page Winner But Runs Last Race

A crowd of 15,000 watched Bull Page cross the wire two lengths ahead of Beau Dandy. Dubious was third.

Owner Taylor announced after the race that the young horse would be retired to stud on the national breeding establishment at Oshawa.

Lindsay Ousts Listowel 2-1 In Semi-Finals

LINDSAY, Oct. 9.—Hank Debois' eighth inning double gave Lindsay Merchants a 2-1 victory over the Listowel Legionnaires here in the third and deciding game of the OBA Intermediate B semi-finals. The Merchants, who took the opener 10-1 and lost the second 13-1, now meet Fort Erie or Dresden in the provincial finals.

Righthander Doug Loucks was on second base when Debois came through with two out to break up a 1-1 deadlock. Loucks who spaced four hits, fanned 12 for his 18th win of the season.

The visitors went in front in the third without a hit when, with runners on first and second, catcher Lloyd Tamblyn tossed past second and Grant Bitton scored from first. In the fifth, Lindsay duplicated the play when Listowel's ace receiver from Detroit, Dennis Piscopink, threw over second and Junior West scampered home with the tying counter.

Stu Hicks, and Grant Wickett banged out singles and Loucks potted a double for the only hits besides the playoff blow off MacKenzie, who struck out eight.

All-Star Game Scheduled For Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 9 — (CP) — The best players in the puck-chasing business face off tonight in Maple Leaf Gardens in the fifth annual National Hockey League all-star game.

The encounter between the NHL's first all-star team and the second will be the curtain-raiser of the 1951-52 season.

The star-studded squads were chosen last season in a ballot conducted by the league among sportswriters and sportscasters in NHL cities.

This marks the first time the two teams of stars, strengthened by players from the six NHL teams, have met. Previously, the first and second all-star teams combined to play the defending Stanley Cup champions.

Thus, any member of the cup-winning team who was named to the first all-star club had to play with his own team. Thus, in reality, it was only a partial all-star game.

In four previous all-star games, the "dream-team" won three, from Toronto Maple Leafs, and lost once, to Detroit Red Wings. Proceeds from the game go to the players' pension fund.

First Team

The first team, coached by Joe Primeau of the world-champion Toronto Leafs, will be augmented by subs from the four United States teams.

Dick Irwin, coach of the second team will fill out his bench with performers from the two Canadian clubs—Leafs and his own Montreal Canadiens.

Primeau's six-man starting unit includes four from Detroit—goalie Terry Sawchuk defenceman Red Kelly and wingers Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay. Boston Bruins contributed defenceman Bill Quackenbush and centre Milt Schmidt.

Subs are: Harry Lumley, Lee Fogolin, Al Dewsbury, Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher of Chicago; Frank Eddolls, Don Raleigh, Gaye Stewart, and Reg Sinclair of New York; and Boston's Ed Sandford and Johnny Peirson.

Second Team

Irvin had seven players on his squad to begin with, the selectors reaching a deadlock for centre between Ted Kennedy of Toronto and Detroit's Sid Abel. Chuck Rayner of New York Rangers will tend goal while the Wings' Leo Reise teams up with Jimmy Thomson of the Leafs on defence. Maurice (Rocket) Richard of the Canadiens is right wing and Leafs' Sid Smith is on the left.

Subs are: Gerry McNeil, Doug Harvey, Butch Bouchard, Paul Meger and Floyd Curry of Montreal and Gus Mortson, Max Bentley, Harry Watson and Tod Sloan of Toronto.

Western Gives Athletic Award

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 9 (CP)—A new athletic award has been instituted at the University of Western Ontario.

The award, to be known as "the player of the week" award, is sponsored by Western's campus newspaper, The Gazette. Each week, after the senior intercollegiate football game in which the Western Mustangs participate, newspapermen covering the game vote on the outstanding backfielder and lineman in the game.

Each week, the winning players receive a $10 hat and the end of the season, the Mustang polling the largest number of votes will get a grand prize.

The first winners of the awards are outside wing Doug Merritton McNichol of Western and halfback Ross McKelvey of Queen's University. They were voted the outstanding players in Saturday's intercollegiate opener.

Gazette sports editor, Bob Crighton, journalism student from Toronto formulated the idea, and Gazette reporter Joe Lenard, arts student from Toronto did the contact work.

FIRST IN 30 YEARS—Monte Irvin broke for the plate on Allie Reynolds' full windup on his first pitch to Bobby Thomson in the first inning of the first game of the World Series. Yogi Berra had to reach for the pitch as Thomson fell away and Irvin hit the dirt. The Yankees catcher could not make the tag in time, and Bill Summers called the Giants' outfielder safe. It was the first time a player had stolen home in a World Series since 1921.

Toronto Argonauts Turn Tables Crush Tiger-Cats In 10-0 Tilt

By The Canadian Press.

The Thanksgiving holiday weekend brought startling changes to Canadian senior football. In both the Western Interprovincial and the Big Four Football Unions, second place teams moved into the lead.

Saskatchewan Roughriders went to the top of the Western Conference with twin 25-18 victories, both in Regina, over Edmonton Eskimos Saturday and Calgary Stampeders Monday.

The latter victory, combined with Edmonton's 38-27 loss to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Winnipeg, gave the Riders a two-point edge over Eskimos in the western standings.

Calgary kept their playoff hopes alive Saturday with a hard-fought 18-16 win over Blue Bombers at Winnipeg but the loss to the Roughriders wrote finish to their chances.

In First Place

Two Ottawa Rough Riders' victories over Montreal Alouettes — a 25-13 win Saturday in Ottawa and a 12-9 win Monday in Montreal—put them into a first-place tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats for leadership in the Big Four.

The Tiger-Cats split a home-and-home series with Toronto Argonauts. Saturday in Toronto they steamrollered over the Argos 22-6 but they saw the tables turned Monday in Hamilton by a 10-0 Argo comeback.

Coach Frank Clair of the Toronto Argonauts took a lot of cussing Saturday for dropping quarterback Al Dekdebrun when Nobby Wirkowski, who is taking Dekdebrun's place, tossed two flat passes—both intercepted—within the shadow of the Argonaut goalposts to set up Hamilton touchdown drives.

But the youngster from Miami University completed eight of 11 pass attempts Monday as Argos gave the powerful Hamilton team its first shutout defeat in two seasons.

Crushed Defence

Saturday, the Tiger-Cat line made mincemeat of the Argo defence. But the double Blue team took charge from the beginning on Monday, and although it registered only one touchdown—by Ulysses Curtis—it pushed beyond the Hamilton 15-yard line three times. Four singles and a convert, all by Joe Krol, completed the Toronto scoring.

Ottawa Rough Riders took to the air Monday to score their second straight victory over the ground-attacking Alouettes. A Tom O'Malley pass to Alton Baldwin gave them their first major and a pass interception by Ted McLarty their second. Choo Choo Roberts' placement and Virgil Wagner's converted touchdown rounded out the Montreal half of the 12-9 score.

In the 25-13 game Saturday, Howie Turner got two Ottawa majors and Baldwin and Bob Simpson one each. Wagner and Roberts scored touchdowns for Montreal.

The two losses put the Als in the Big Four cellar, one game behind Argos.

Sarnia Imperials edged back into first place in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union during the weekend with a 20-5 win over McMaster University Marauders in Hamilton Saturday and a 25-6 win over Toronto Balmy Beaches in Toronto Monday.

The winless last-place Windsor Royals took two beatings—a 29-0 shellacking Saturday from Beaches and a 21-5 drubbing from Marauders Monday, both in Windsor.

The Imperials ended two points ahead of the Torontonians. Games played by McMaster, competing in only half the schedule, count four points.

In the colorful Intercollegiate Union, University of Western Ontario Mustangs got away to a triumphant home-field start in defence of their senior intercollegiate title by defeating the Golden Gael of Queens University 24-12. On the same afternoon, Toronto Varsity Blues gave McGill Redmen a 15-7 walloping in Montreal.

A NEW RANGER—Gaye Stewart, left winger obtained by New York Rangers in a deal with Detroit Red Wings, gets in shape as the Rangers train at Guelph, Ont., for the opening of the National Hockey League season. The Fort William, Ont., native now is playing with his fourth N.H.L. club—Toronto and Chicago were previous teams.

Hastings Loses In Finals To Beamsville

HASTINGS, Oct. 8—(ENS)—Beamsville won the OASA junior crown here Saturday afternoon as they defeated Hastings, 10-4, before a good crowd. It was a 2-2 battle for five innings but Beamsville added two more in the sixth and were never headed after that.

Dick West went the route for Hastings, and scattered three hits till the eighth, when the opposition suddenly jumped on him for four successive hits which, coupled with two of eight Hastings' errors, gave them four runs. Jones went all the way for Beamsville, as he gave six hits and was never in serious trouble.

Beamsville, winners of the juvenile OASA Cup the last two years, showed that little extra finish and are worthy champions, while Hastings, in going all the way to the finals, deserve plenty of credit.

THREE-WAY TIE

A mixture of sand trap trouble and a short putt on the final hole landed three players—Cary Middlecoff, Dave Douglas and Dave Ford—in a tie for first place in the $15,000 Kansas City open golf tournament at the end of the scheduled 72 holes Monday.

All three players had 72-hole scores of 278 over the 6,500-yard, par-72 Milburn Country Club course. They will tangle in an 18-hole playoff for the $2,500 top prize money today.

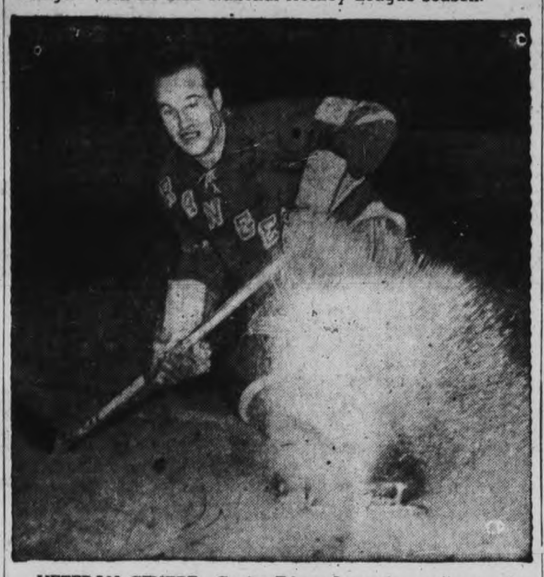
Kitchener Opens Hockey Arena

KITCHENER, Oct. 9 (CP). — Kitchener's new $1,200,000 Memorial Auditorium, built as a civic war memorial, was opened for hockey Monday night as Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League skated to a 7-1 triumph over a strengthened Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen senior team of the Ontario Hockey Association.



A crowd of upwards of 8,000 persons saw the first hockey game in a local rink in more than 15 years.

Former Oshawa General junior star Dick Gamble, with three goals and a pair of assists, paced the Canadiens, who loaned the Dutchmen their Maurice (Rocket) Richard, Elmer Lach and Bert Olmstead line.

Ken Mosdell, Doc Couture, Floyd Curry and Billy Reay also scored for the Canadiens. Bobby Schnurr sank the only goal for the home team, tipping in Mickey Roth's pass.

ON SECOND LINE—Winnipeger Nick Mickoski, on New York Rangers' second line with Don Raleigh and Eddie Slowinski churns to a stop at Guelph, Ont., arena as the Rangers train for their National Hockey League season.

VETERAN CENTRE—Crafty Edgar Laprade, centre on the New York Rangers' first line skates pre-season kinks from his 32-year-old legs as the National Hockey League squad trains at Guelph, Ont. Coach Frank Boucher is leaning heavily on the veteran who is starting his seventh season with the New Yorkers.

Orfuns Outplay Bombers With Versatile Display

The weather was cold but the Orfuns were hot Thanksgiving Day afternoon at Morrow Park. They were so hot that they outplayed Orillia Silver Bombers in the ground, air and kicking departments for a 22-11 victory.

The win was the Orfuns' second in four starts this season and their first over the Bombers. On Saturday the Orfuns lost the first of the weekend pair with the Bombers in Orillia 11-7 in the dying minutes of the game.

Stocky Bill Huntley, who is just working into football shape, practically defeated the Bombers single-handed as he plunged, passed, and ran to lead the Orfuns throughout the afternoon. But he was assisted greatly by the ball-carrying of Ron Hodson, Spike Matthews, and in the late stages, by Jim Conlin.

Field General

Murray Dewart, at quarterback, called a good game for the improving Frank Gnup Orfuns, also sneaking for important yardage several times.

Chuck Paul's lofty punts were most destructive as he forced Orillia back whenever they threatened seriously. Orillia lacked a good punter, especially in the last half when they really needed a kicker.

Milligan, star of the Bombers, who was injured early this year and who is still favoring his bruises, was the standout once more for Orillia. Always a favorite with Peterborough fans for his passing, the Bomber passer lived up to their expectations, both Orillia's majors coming on passes.

But the game was rough as the lines battled for the win. Tempers flew as they smacked back and forth, several fist fights threatened until finally lineman Frank Fitzgerald and the Bombers' MacIntosh traded several blows.

Linemen like Johnny Lynch and Gord Beatty to mention only two, were a little too much for the Bombers, and in the last half were punching holes whenever the backs wanted one.

Starring on the defence were players like Scriver, Trimm, Nickle and Thompson.

The Orfuns pounded down to the Bombers' 10-yard line twice, but didn't cross until late in the second quarter. It came after Ron Hodson ran back a short Orillia kick for 20 yards to the Orillia 20. Huntley, Hodson and Nickle carried to the two where Huntley went over for five points.

Orillia in the final minute of the half then scored on the picture play of the afternoon. Milligan threw first for 27 yards to Wilde. He then tossed another over the line and Hercules Johnson dove, catching the ball inches off the ground.

70-Yard Kick

But the score wasn't tied for long; Chuck Paul looping a kick 70 yards to the deadline for a point to make the score 6-5 early in the third.

Then Clive Naismith, an Orfun end, shared Johnson's glory by catching a 17-yard Huntley pass, running to the one-yard line. Huntley finished the job by going through the centre, making the score 11-5.

Naismith immediately after that score latched on to a Huntley pass which went 47 yards to start another parade. Matthews and Huntley plunged to the three where Matthews crossed.

An incompleted pass over the touch line gave Orillia the ball minutes later on their 25. Milligan promptly passed into Wilde for 47 yards, followed by two more successful forwards which put the ball on the Orfuns 18. After two unsuccessful plunges, Orillia's Milligan again took to the air, passing to Wilde for the score, the extra point being added.

The Orfuns' last touchdown came after a 70-yard march up the field with Hodson, Huntley, and Conlin alternating with the carrying. Conlin finally plunged between the posts for the score.

Huntley colored the game on the convert attempt. With the Orillia line beating through, the ball fumbled, Huntley recovered in time to drop-kick the extra point neatly.

Name Hornsby To Manage St. Louis Browns

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP). — Now that Rogers Hornsby has been chosen to manage St. Louis Browns, 13 of the 16 major league jobs are set for next year.

The unsettled ones are Boston Red Sox, St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates. Of these, the only good bet for a change is at Boston.

Steve O'Neill is reported on his way out as manager of the Red Sox, to be replaced by Lou Boudreau, the former Cleveland pilot, or Pinky Higgins, Louisville manager.

Billy Meyer is said to have a 60-40 chance of returning to Pittsburgh and there's a good chance Marty Marion will be given another try with the Cardinals, who finished strongly.

Situation Clarified

Two managing situations, those of St. Louis Browns and New York Yankees, were clarified on Monday and a third the day before.

Wily Casey Stengel, who has won three straight pennants and is going on his third world series denied a report that he plans to step out of a contract that has another year to run and turn the Yankee reins over to Frank Crosetti.

Hornsby was signed by owner Bill Veeck to a three-year contract as manager of the Browns. Veeck, declining to give details, said the salary was the highest ever paid a Browns' manager.

Brooklyn's Charley Dressen, who saw his team dissipate a 13½ game lead in the final weeks of the campaign, was given assurances over the weekend that his job is safe for 1952.

Size Of Canadian Train Fascinates Elizabeth, Duke

ABOARD THE ROYAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO QUEBEC, Oct. 9 (CP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh made a complete inspection of their train when they boarded it Monday, after arriving from Britain by air.

The Royal couple walked through the 10-car train and talked to each member of the crew. Their tour included the dining and baggage cars.

The Princess and her husband were described as fascinated by the massive Canadian trains and locomotives.

An official announcement said: "The Royal couple had a simple lunch after leaving Dorval and watched the crowds which had gathered at each railway station and along the right-of-way, waving to the gatherings.

"They had a splendid view of Montreal as they crossed Victoria Bridge and of the Richelieu River at Beloeil.

Go Through Train

"After leaving Beloeil, they proceeded through the train, talking to each member of the crew and having the various devices in the cars explained to them. In the kitchen of the dining car Their Royal Highnesses spoke to the chef and his assistants as well as to the steward and waiters.

"At St. Hyancinthe, the first stop was made, the train taking water and the conductor and engineer receiving their running orders. Their Royal Highnesses also took advantage of the brief stop to wave to the people and to have a short walk along the station platform."

The route taken by the Royal train after leaving Montreal, indicated that it would travel down the St. Lawrence south shore, pausing somewhere along the way to Quebec for the night.

Evidently, the train will cross to the north shore by Quebec Bridge, five miles south of Quebec City, for the scheduled arrival in the provincial capital at 9.45 a.m., EST, today.

INSPECTION PARTY—Donald Gordon, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways, and other company officials recently paid a visit to the railway's new line now under construction between Sherridon and Lynn Lake in Manitoba. The line will tap new and rich nickel and copper deposits at Lynn Lake. Mr. Gordon is shown, second from left, standing by the rail line's first marker as he examines a map of the 150-mile route. With him are, left to right, Major J. L. Charles, regional chief engineer for the railway, S. F. Dingle, vice-president of operation; J. R. McMillan, vice-president for the western region, and B. L. Daly, a director of the C.N.R.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The major leagues took the lid off broadcasting and televising baseball games Monday by repealing the rule which allowed home clubs to veto out-of-town broadcasts in cities where games actually were being played.

At a joint meeting in New York of the National and American Leagues, the restrictive rule was repealed and complete control of rights to broadcast and telecast home games was returned to the individual clubs, subject only to the rights of the visiting teams.

By the same action, the two leagues withdrew from any connection with the sale of radio rights.

The action struck a sharp blow to the efforts of the minor leagues, already suffering severe losses in attendance attributed to the "invasion" of their territory by big league broadcasts, to exercise some control over radio and television in their territory.

After a weekend of quoting no world series odds because of the Giants' one-game lead, the Nevada Turf Club at Reno posted the same odds that existed at the start of the series. Those odds favor the Yankees to take the seven-game classic—$17 to $10. If the Giants upset the gamblers' estimate, the payoff is $16 for every $10 bet.

Bulldozer Levelling Site Of Historic Old Saskatchewan Fort Post, Few Records Remain

YORKTON, Sask.—(CP)—Before snowfall this winter, old Fort Pelly, like many landmarks of early civilization in Western Canada, will exist only in the pages of history books or in the memory of old-timers.

Within a few yards of the historic site a giant bulldozer—with no respect for the sentimental past—is slowly uprooting trees and converting the site into a grain field.

Although in historical significance Fort Pelly ranks highest of any, such trading post in Saskatchewan, few records exist.

The fort abandoned in 1912 and many of the journals were left on shelves to decay. A few were carried away as souvenirs by visitors and the remainder were scattered to the winds when the main building was converted to a stable.

The site of Fort Pelly is on a wooded ridge overlooking "the elbow" of the Assiniboine river, five miles south and three miles west of Pelly, Sask.

Chimney A Landmark

For many years after the fort was abandoned a tall lone white chimney stood as a landmark. It fell about 1941 and today the rubble of the chimney and the cellars mark the site. A greater part of the fort was destroyed by fire in the winter of 1942-43.

Although historians have recorded little of the history of Fort Pelly it was established in 1824.

It was started by chief trader Allan McDonell to serve the Plain Crees and Salteaux Indians.

It was the headquarters of the Swan river district from 1874 to 1881 when it was superseded by Fort Ellice.

When Captain Palliser stayed at the fort in October, 1857, he said it resembled "a commodious shooting lodge, similar to those at home in the Highlands of Scotland."

Soon the bulldozer may erase all visible signs of Fort Pelly and the site will go unmarked.

US Golfer Killed By Own Golf Ball

SEATTLE, Oct. 9 (AP) — A Seattle golfer was killed by his own golf club in a freak accident Monday.

Investigating officers said the golfer, E. M. Harrison, 22, died of a puncture wound in the right groin. They said he apparently bled to death while running toward the clubhouse for aid.

Officers said that at the No. 9 tee they found a No. 1 wood with its hollow steel shaft broken. There was blood on the broken piece of shaft.

The officers said Harrison presumably took a hard swing at a ball. The club hit something solid, broke in two and the shaft section struck him in the groin.

Canadian Artist C. W. Jeffreys Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 9— (CP) — Charles W. Jefferys, 82, whose historical illustrations for more than 50 years made history live for Canadians, died Monday in a nursing home after a long illness.

His career had three phases: those of a newspaper artist in New York and Toronto in the days before news photography, of an historical artist whose illustrations found their way into virtually all standard textbooks, and, in later years, of a mural artist of wide reputation.

His last major work was the sorting and arranging of about 2,000 of his drawings and historical notes for publication in the three volumes o fthe picture gallery of Canadian history. The first volume, published in 1942, covered the period from early explorations to 1763. Volume two, which appeared in 1945, extended the history to 1830. The third, brought out last December, spanned the years from 1830 to 1900.

The slight, energetic artist did all his later work at his house in the North Toronto suburb of York Mills, where he had a detached barnlike studio filled with everything from Stone Age implements and medieval armor to pictures and easels.

Did Royal Tour

Born in England, he came to Canada early in life and was educated in Toronto and Hamilton. After starting his art studies here, he went to New York where he studied at the Art Students' League and worked in the art department of the New York Herald. He returned to Canada in 1900.

As an artist for The Toronto Globe, he covered the Royal tour of Canada in 1901. He travelled across the country with the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York (later King George V and Queen Mary) and sent back a picture each day.

To provide the proper setting for his illustrations for school history books and other works, he became an historian, acquiring a knowledge of period equalled by few other artists.

At 68, he designed four panels for an arch at Niagara Falls, Ont., commemorative of the Upper Canada rebellion of 1837-38.

Because of his interest in the preservation of Canadian historical sites, he was chosen as technical adviser at the reconstruction of Port Royal at Annapolis, NS.

For his services to Canadian history, Queen's University at Kingston, Ont., made him an honorary Doctor of Laws in 1934.

He was twice married, to Jean M. F. Adams and to Clara A. B. West, both of whom predeceased him. Five daughters survive.

His body will be cremated after a service Thursday.

Change To Cool Weather Helps Hunters Down Ducks

Many duck hunters who arrived in the Kawarthas on Friday evening were disappointed in the prospects of a good opening-day shoot on Saturday. The weather was almost 80 degrees and many of them slept in their cars by lakeshores and found they required no bedding until after midnight. Then the temperature dropped. Dawn was cool and gray and they took to their pre-arranged blinds and duck boats. Their luck for opening day was extraordinarily good as the ducks, sensing a sudden and sustained change in the weather, stayed about their summer breeding and feeding grounds. They were also joined by many northern ducks that foretold of skim ice on far northern lakes.

All Kinds

Hunters were surprised at the variety of ducks that fell to their guns—mallards, blacks, pintails, bluebills, butterballs and wood ducks. They were also surprised at the skeins of honkers far aloft that wavered south, all weekend. It is indeed an early waterfowl migration season they say.

Sturgeon, Pigeon and Buckhorn lakes attracted many hunters, so many that the birds were constantly stirred up and many flew inland to ponds and small lakes for refuge. In the Sturgeon-Pigeon elbow country Dit Clapper and his hunting pals have leased a large shooting area, including a feeding lake. They had excellent results on Saturday and Monday. Included in this party were Bob McClelland, Dave Wilson, Laurie Mitchell, Ken McDuffy, Les Braund, Art Sowen and others.

Good At Rice Lake

Cool weather drove ducks down to the Rice lake feeding grounds and a group of Bailieboro hunters said they had the best shooting of their lives around the mouth of the Otonabee river this weekend. There was also good shooting in the big swamp at the northwest corner of the lake near Bewdley. A large raft of ducks had gathered on the wild celery beds at the mouth of the river but the birds are unusually wary, observers say.

Partridge hunting was a different story. The birds are in the bush, alright, but the cold rainy weather drove them deep into sheltering swamps. There was some luck but until the weak October sun dries up the woods and brush country, the sport will not be at its best, say experts.

In summing up the opening of the shooting season it can be gathered that duck shooting was excellent but for partridge it was poor.

Can. Champs Arrive Home Wednesday

Lacrosse Team First Here To Win Dominion Title

Peterborough sport fans will have the opportunity to pay tribute to the city's first Canadian championship team Wednesday night when the Timbermen arrive home with the Mann Cup, emblematic of Dominion lacrosee supremacy.

Tired after the seven-game grind for the championship, plus the exhibition game with Victoria and the long plane trip, the Timbermen will not arrive in Peterborough until Wednesday at 8.45 p.m. from Toronto.

After the reception, for the team was handled like a hot potato, James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, today undertook to arrange the welcome.

At noon today, a group of sport-minded citizens, along with several officials from the lacrosse club, met with Mr. Fraser to start the ball rolling.

Parade George St.

The Timbermen will arrive at the CPR station at 8.45 p.m. and a parade of cars, trucks and bands will start up George St. at 9 p.m. to the Armouries where the fans, the city council, and other sports teams such as the baseball, hockey, football and softball clubs will congratulate the team.

To fasten the names and histories of each player in the fans' minds, the Timbermen will be introduced there.

Leading the parade will be the Citizens' Band followed by cars with the club executives and the players' wives. Then will come the truck with the champion Timbermen, surrounded by members of the Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association teams, including the tadpoles, bantams, midgets and juveniles. The CGE Pipe Band will round up the short parade.

Mr. Fraser pointed out that this is the fans' chance to welcome home the Mann Cup team, the third team in Canadian lacrosse history to bring the cup from the West. All will be welcome at the armouries reception.

Mr. Fraser said: "They're entitled to a parade whether they won or lost. The ordinary fan is entitled to cheer the team and I hope there's enough people out to cheer them home."

Given Rings

After the Armouries reception by the fans, the Timbermen will be received by the city council at the Kawartha Room of the Empress Hotel. There the Timbermen will be congratulated by Mayor M. J. Swanston and presented with rings, bearing the City of Peterborough crest.

Ald. Dr. Herbert Young, chairman of the entertainment committee, is in charge of the buffet dinner at the hotel which will be for the city council, the team, the executive and their wives.

Robert Peirson, president of the Peterborough lacrosse club, said the British Columbia, Canadian and Ontario lacrosse presidents complimented the Timbermen Sunday as gentlemen and praised their promotion of Eastern Canada lacrosse in the West.

"They certainly did a great job and didn't let their supporters down," said Mayor Swanston. "By winning the championship they brought the city advertising that can't be bought. Practically every newspaper in Canada carried news on the series."

Lou Vitarelli, coach of the Ontario Junior "A" finalists, summed up the general feeling among the fans, saying "the Timbermen are one of the greatest lacrosse clubs ever assembled and everyone knew it."

Fire Damages Lock St. Home

Fire of unknown origin Monday night caused $450 damage in the home of James Gibson, 795 Lock St. Nobody was injured and most of the damage was caused by smoke.

It was discovered shortly before 9 p.m. by a boarder, John Darrah. He noticed smoke coming up through the floor boards from the basement. When the basement door was opened a rush of smoke came out.

Firemen reported the sub-flooring burnt and the heating pipes of the furnace, as well as the wiring and fixtures, destroyed. To check the flames from spreading upstairs they had to chop two openings in a partition in the living room and another opening in a back bedroom partition.

Harold J. Hatton is the tenant in the upper apartment. His property also received some smoke damage.

WM. H. HENRY

William Henry Honored By McGill 'U'

William Hunter Henry, son of Mrs. and Mrs. V. R. Henry, Dennistoun Ave., received his PhD, in physics at a special ceremony marking Founder's Day and the fall convocation at McGill University on Saturday. Dr. Henry is a graduate of PCVS and Queen's University. During the Second World War he saw service with the Canadian Navy. Since the war he has been engaged in nuclear physics work and assisted in the building of the atom-smasher. Dr. Henry was one of four receiving doctorates in physics. His father is head of physics department at PCVS.

Six distinguished leaders in science and industry also received degrees. Those honored with the degree of doctor of science, honoris causa, included a representative of science and industry in Great Britain, one from the United States and four from Canada, Rt. Hon. Lord McGowan, honorary president and former chairman of Imperial Chemicals Industries; Dr. T. K. Sherwood, dean of engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the Defence Research Board, Ottawa; Jules, R. Timmins, pioneer leader in Canadian mining development; Alphonse Dufresne, Que. deputy minister of Mines; and J. Richardson Donald, consulting chemist and government official, received the honorary degrees.

Associate Chief Justice O. S. Tyndale, chancellor, presided and conferred the degrees. The ceremony was preceded by a procession in which all the graduates, professors, and guests participated.

Governor-General Alexander and Viscountess Alexander attended the degree-granting ceremony. The Governor-General is by Royal charter "visitor to McGill."

McGill University was urged to continue its magnificent contribution to Canadian and international welfare, by fostering the spirit of scientific inquiry at the formal inaugural of its $2,500,000 Physic Sciences Centre.

His Excellency inaugurated the greatly expanded facilities of the university in the fields of physics, chemistry, mathematics, chemical engineering, mining, metallurgy and geology.

Professor T. K. Sherwood reviewed the contribution which science has made to human welfare and progress, in an address delivered after Viscount Alexander officiated at the formal opening.

Hunter Shot From Inside Car

A shotgun blast Saturday afternoon ripped through the side of a car and struck Stanley Pearson, 43, Toronto, in both knees. The accidental shooting took place on a Cardiff township sideroad, on the west side of Paudash Lake.

Pearson who had started out partridge hunting with Frank Grant, 50, Paudash lake, was given medical treatment at the Bancroft Red Cross hospital and Sunday he was taken to Toronto.

It was the first accident reported in the Bancroft district since the hunting season began.

Grant parked the car and got out of the driver's seat. Pearson got out on the passenger's side. Both men broke their shotguns and inserted shells while standing on opposite sides of the car.

Grant then decided to light a cigarette and put the gun on the floor in the back seat of the car. Once his cigarette was alight he reached back into the back seat to get the gun. His action somehow triggered it off and the blast went through the right side of the car and struck Pearson who was still standing there.

It is believed that Pearson will regain full use of his legs after treatment.

OPP Constable Bert Howden investigated.

Three Youths Lost In Bushland

Trio Hunting Partridge; Sleep Night In Bush

Three Peterborough youths spent an unpleasant night in the bush north of Lakefield after they became lost while out hunting Thanksgiving Day. They wandered onto the farm of Ernie Garbutt on the Stony Lake road at 7:45 a.m. today and so ended a seven-hour search organized by provincial police.

The three were Bob Webb, 19, Charlotte St.; Don Spargo, 20, Stewart St., and Herb Bowes, 18, Rubidge St. Monday morning they set out to do some partridge shooting but they got lost in the woods, about three miles east of Lakefield.

When they did not return by midnight provincial police were informed.

Search Organized

A search party was organized by OPP Sgt. Lloyd McClure and the police combed the district during the hours of darkness. An airplane, piloted by Harry Oakman, took off soon after it was light to help locate the youths.

Other groups of searchers were being formed when word was received that the youths were safe. They included volunteers from the city police, utilities and a couple of city industries.

"We walked and walked until we knew we were lost," Bob Webb told The Examiner. "About six o'clock we knew it wasn't any use keeping on so we bedded down for the night. We lit a fire, put some branches on the ground and huddled together to keep warm."

During the night, between naps they could hear motor traffic on the Stony Lake road and at dawn they heard the sound of roosters crowing and dogs barking.

"We put the sun to our backs and walked toward the source of the noise," explained Webb. They finally emerged from the bush at the farm of Ernie Garbutt and had breakfast there.

Wildcats in Bush

None of them felt any easier when Mr. Garbutt said there were wildcats in that stretch of bush But it did confirm their suspicion. Several times in the night they heard something approaching their campfrie, and they fired their .22 calibre rifles in the general direction of the intruder to frighten him off.

Apart from being hungry and a little tired the trio felt no ill effects. Bowes had fallen into a bog and went right up to his waist before his companions helped him out. Consequently he spent a damp, uncomfortable night.

Stole Jewellery, Thief Spotted 183 Miles Away

A Toronto thief Saturday afternoon was the victim of a million-to-one chance — not to mention the sharp eye of a Peterborough merchant.

Today Aaron Shapiro, 25, Kensington Ave., Toronto is in Niagara Falls jail and needing all a sneak-thief's philosophy to convince himself that the fates haven't conspired against him.

Twenty-four hours after he stole a rhinestone watch and necklace from Bowen's Gift Shop, 318 Charlotte St., he was arrested in swanky Niagara Falls hotel with the proprietor of the gift shop, Fraser Bowen, personally putting the finger on him. The Niagara Falls police did the rest and the astonished Shapiro signed a statement admitting the theft.

But how come he was tracked down? Super sleuth work perhaps? Not at all. Just the long arm of coincidence. A hundred and eighty-three miles long to be exact.

On Peace Bridge

By chance, Mr. Bowen was going to Buffalo Saturday afternoon. He was getting his car permit when he recognized Shapiro sauntering over the Peace bridge from the United States side. Mr. Bowen recognized him instantly as the man who entered his store the day before, ostensibly to get a bracelet fixed, but in fact to lift the set of rhinestone jewellery valued at $35.

He noticed Shairo was carrying a shopping bag which naturally led to speculation considering Shapiro's light-fingered touch. At a large Niagara Falls hotel Shapiro booked in. Mr. Bowen buttonholed a policeman and they walked in on the unsuspecting thief who thought he was as safe as a church.

At first the luckless Shapiro denied the Peterborough theft, but later he admitted it and signed a statement saying so.

And the shopping bag, what of it? It contained not the rhinestone set—that had been sold to a Toronto man — but instead two electric razors and a portable radio, all stolen but not at that time reported. Shapiro had been keeping busy in the meantime.

St. Peter's High School Honors Graduate Pupils

The importance of intellectual training coupled with moral training was the theme of the address given by the Rev. J. J. McCarthy of Douro at the commencement exercises of St. Peter's high school Monday night. The exercises were held in St. Joseph's hospital nurses' residence.

Father McCarthy gave two reasons why religion is necessary in education. First, man must know the importance of his life as a preparation for the life to come, and second, religion can curb the unruly passions of mankind and direct the will of the individual towards the good.

Religion As Basis

He advised the graduates to continue to let religion be a bedrock in their pursuit of higher education upon which all secular learning is based.

The valedictory address was given by Robert Fitzgerald, who also won a $100 scholarship donated by the Most Rev. Bishop Gerald Berry for the highest ranking student in departmental examinations who enters university to attain a degree.

The following prizes were presented by Bishop Berry assisted by Miss Dorothy Condon, Miss Mary Cahill and Brian Young:

Prize of $25.00 for second highest ranking in Grade XIII, donated by Mr. John Lynch. Won by Carmel Shaughnessy.

Prize of $20.00 for third highest ranking in Grade XIII, donated by Mr. Peter Moore. Won by Rita Casey.

Sister Lucretia award of $25.00 for highest ranking in Grade XII, donated by St. Peter's High School Alumnae. Won by Eileen Allen.

Prize of $20.00 for second highest ranking in Grade XII, donated by Mr. J. V. McElderry, KC. Won by Clair Hickson.

Prize of $15.00 for highest ranking in Grade XI (a), donated by Mr. F. J. Overend. Won by Rosemary DeNoble.

Prize of $10.00 for second highest ranking in Grade XI (a), donated by Right Reverend Monsignor O'Sullivan. Won by Bruce McColl.

Prize of $15.00 for highest ranking in Grade XI (b), donated by Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick. Won by Teresa Gordon.

Prize of $10.00 for second highest ranking in Grade XI (b), donated by Mr. M. J. Roche. Won by Rosemary McMurray.

Gas Victim G. Glass Dies After 6 Days

Wife Found Dead After Gas Leaked From Furnace

George Glass, 71, 142 Wilson Ave., died in hospital Saturday afternoon six days after coal gas fumes leaked from the furnace in his home, Sept. 31. His wife was dead when they were found Monday, Oct. 1.

Neighbors entered the elderly couple's home shortly before 7 pm Oct. 1 and found them still in bed. Mr. Glass, a veteran harness maker employed by the Great West Saddlery Co. was unconscious.

Mr. Glass was rushed to Civic hospital, where he remained unconscious, except for brief periods of response, until his death Saturday.

The dead man was born in Brantford, son of the late Joseph Glass and Lucy Scott and has lived almost a lifetime in Peterborough. He was a member of St. George's Anglican Church.

He leaves three sisters: Mrs. T. J. Smart (Rose), Mrs. C. Lowes (Clara), and Mrs. A. G. Newton (Nellie), all of Toronto, and two brothers, John, Rochester, and Joseph, Peterborough.

The funeral was held Monday from the Comstock funeral home. The Rev. H. J. Scuse of St. George's Anglican Church conducted the service.

Pall-bearers were W. Armstrong, W. Tyndall, B. Williamson, M. Campbell, R. Crerar, D. Curtis. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

4 Cars Collide Tie Up Traffic

Motor traffic on Highway 28 was tied up for a distance of two miles Monday night when four cars were involved in a collision, two miles west of the city.

A Toronto woman, Mrs. A. Brody, 31, was treated as an outpatient at Civic hospital after sustaining brushburns on the forehead and knees and a bruised chest. Several others were shaken up but did not require medical attention.

Damage to the four vehicles totalled $800.

The traffic tieup began when the eastbound car of Arthur Druce, 66, Rubidge St., was in sideswipe collision with a westbound car driven by Charles G. Harvey, 27, Toronto. The glare of headlights is believed to have confused both drivers.

After the crash both cars veered onto the wrong side of the highway. Druce's vehicle collided with a second westbound car driven by Robert Bennie, 39, York township; in a similar move the Harvey car crossed the highway and collided with an eastbound car driven by Kenneth C. Rappell, 57, Ottawa.

Mrs. Brody was a passenger in the Bennie car and was brought to the hospital at 7.45. pm.

The four damaged vehicles formed an obstruction on the busy highway that lasted about an hour and a half and caused traffic to pile up for a total of two miles. The jam was broken about 9 pm.

OPP Constable James Healey investigated.

LOVE'S ROAD IS ROCKY—Sheppard W. King III, scion of a wealthy Houston, Tex., family reiterated his determination to marry sultry Samia Gamal and adopt the Moslem faith, despite his 72-year-old mother's threat to disown him. "I'm heartbroken, humiliated and shell-shocked," she is reported to have exclaimed. Her 26-year-old, six-foot-three, Marine veteran son retorted: "There is more in life than money."

Want Canada Build Seaway

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—The House of Representatives Public Works Committee was told Monday that if the St. Lawrence seaway and power project is to be built, the United States will be better off if Canada builds it alone.

The opinion was given by Gregory S. Prince, assistant general counsel of the Association of American Railroads. The association long has opposed the seaway. Other opposition witnesses will be heard today.

Prince testified against a new bill to authorize the project. He said if the project could be proved essential to national defence the committee "undoubtedly" would have approved one of the eralier measures.

Prince was asked by Rep. George Dondero (Rep., Mich.) if he thought Canada, as announced several days ago by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, is sincere in its decision to build the waterway alone should Congress continue to reject proposals for joint construction.

Prince replied that was the indication.

Prince said the railroads frankly feel they would be hurt—unfairly—if the seaway should be constructed.

Heavy Traffic Over Holiday

By The Canadian Press

With hearts grateful for the autumn bounties of table and landscape, Canadians Monday celebrated Thanksgiving Day with the traditional turkey dinner, and in many cities, attendance at a football game.

The last big holiday until Christmas became one to remember when Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh landed at Dorval airport near Montreal to start their five-week Canadian tour. Millions listened to a broadcast of the arrival and later read newspaper accounts of the event.

Railways, air lines and bus companies reported heavy holiday travel. Highways were thronged with automobiles and there were a number of bad accidents.

The toll of violent death across Canada during the three-day weekend was approximately 50, a Canadian Press survey showed.

For the holiday, the countryside almost everywhere wore its radiant autumn colors. The weather was warm on the west coast and the prairies but dull and unsettled in most of the east.

In Alberta, many farmers spent the holiday in the grainfields. The temperatures in the high 70s rapidly dried fields recently swept by rain and snow and the grain growers were able finally to start harvesting their bumper crop.

Goes To Europe

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP).—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the Canadian General Staff, sailed for Europe Saturday to make on-the-spot arrangements for the proposed integration of a 6,500-man Canadian Brigade with the North Atlantic Pact defence forces. He said: "We naturally hope its identity as a Canadian formation will be fully maintained and I believe this has Gen. Eisenhower's backing. We will insist on it."

Foil Red Plot For Elizabeth

MONTREAL, Oct. 9—(CP)—The Gazette says today in a news-page story that a Communist plot to throw firecrackers into the path of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip shortly after their arrival here from Britain was foiled by police.

The paper says that the plot, foiled by a combined operation of the anti-subversive squads of federal, provincial and city police squads, was designed to break up the official welcoming ceremony.

It was similar, the paper says, to the distrubance a few weeks ago in Ottawa at opening of the the Atlantic Pact meetings.

The story added police had searched hundreds of known Communists as they left their homes to go to the airport and that the plot was part of a general program worked out by the Communists in Quebec and Ontario to embarrass officials.

In Ottawa, RCMP Commissioner L. H. Nicholson said no report of an incident of this nature has been made to him.

Purchase Brewery

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP).—Canadian Breweries, Limited, of Toronto has purchased Frontenac Breweries Limited of Montreal, it was announced Sunday. Amount of the purchase price was not disclosed. A cash offer made by Canadian Breweries was accepted by the directors of National Breweries Limited of Montreal of which the Frontenac Company is a subsidiary.

Returns To Australia

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9 (AP).—Sister Elizabeth Kenny, famed for her lifelong fight against polio, left by plane Monday for her native Australia. She is returning to Australia to continue taking treatment for Parkinson's disease. She said the "ray transmission" treatment may extend her life. Earlier she said she had only two years to live.

"Difficult Day?.. Take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Science Progresses

For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called 'DISPRIN' and is sold at druggists everywhere.

*MR. F. C. LAMBERT . . .

Do you own some Canada Savings Bonds, Mr. Lambert?
Yes, I have some. I get them through the payroll plan at the Refineries. I've never refused them. In fact, I wish I could afford to buy a lot more of them.

How did you begin buying Bonds?
Because they had the drive at the Refineries. There were the Victory bonds first, and then we continued on.

Have you cashed any of the Bonds?
Yes, I had to cash in a couple on account of sickness. My wife and my mother were in the hospital at the same time. My mother died at the same time that my wife had the baby.

Do you plan to buy a Bond in the next issue?
Oh, yes. As long as they're going. I usually buy two bonds every time they come out.

Have you any particular objective in buying Bonds?
Not necessarily. I own my own home. I figure they're just as good as money in the bank anytime. You can cash them when you want to.

*Frederick C. Lambert lives at 140 Britain St., Saint John, N. B. Employed as a clerk with Atlantic Sugar Refineries Ltd., he is 43 years of age, married and the father of an 18-month old boy. His hobbies include carpentry and candy-making.

51 Fatalities Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Fifty-one persons died violently in Canada during the Thanksgiving weekend.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed that, with highways jammed with holiday-bound motorists, 36 persons died in street and highway mishaps. Four persons were drowned and two died in fires. There was a hunting accident, a tractor accident and two coal field accidents —all fatal.

A series of miscellaneous mishaps accounted for the other deaths.

Twenty-two deaths were reported from Ontario, 13 from Quebec, seven from New Brunswick, three from Alberta and two each from Nova Scotia and British Columbia. One death each occurred in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Of the 36 persons killed in traffic mishaps, six died in a single three-car pile-up near Chicoutimi, Que. Die From Fumes

The bodies of Walter Hicks, 45-year-old Guelph barber and his son Donald, 10, were found in the front seat of an automobile, parked on a sideroad near Guelph. Police said they died of carbon monoxide fumes fed into the car through a rubber hose running from the exhaust.

In Toronto, Chong Dong, 47-year-old waiter, collapsed and died during an argument with a customer. Kenneth Plaxton, 12, of Brampton, was found dead in a field he had been hired to plow and police said he might have had a heart attack or been thrown from his tractor.

ONCE MORE, AN IRANIAN CISIS INVOLVES UN—There is irony in Iran's efforts to prevent the UN Security Council from discussing Britain's complaint in the oil dispute between the two countries. Iran's difficulties with Soviet Russia in 1946 set the stage for the UN's first diplomatic victory and Russia's first major postwar defeat. Now, Iran's ejection of the British from her rich oil fields and her indicated wooing of the Soviet Union could lead to communism's biggest postwar triumph or an outbreak of violence.

IRANIAN AMBASSADOR HUSSEIN ALA (later short-time premier), above, carried Iran's protest to the Security Council in 1946 over Russia's failure to withdraw her troops as promised. Prodded by the UN, the Red Army went home reluctantly and the Red puppet government of Azerbaijan in northern Iran collapsed.

RUSSIA SEES IN IRAN the richest oil producer in the Middle East, the gateway to all Middle East oil (nearly half the world's known resources), a warm water sea outlet, and perhaps a steppingstone to India. Russia will gain Iran's trade if she breaks with the West; there is already talk of a Soviet-Iranian pipeline to the Caspian.

AT ABADAN, Iranian troops guard the world's largest refinery and its docks, just vacated (under strong protest) by Britain, and now producing no oil. Iran's major problem is how to run her oil industry, vital to the economy, without British technicians or normal outlets to Western World customers.

THE UN WILL FIND Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, above, an intense, excitable man. In his dealings with Britain, Mossadegh has been goaded by extremists, both Iranian nationalists and Communists. Presenting Britain's arguments to the Security Council will be Sir Gladwyn Jebb, inset, well known to UN television audiences.

Policeman Stopped Canadian Tourist Taking Photographs Because Of Village Rule

ADAMS, NY, Oct. 9 (AP)—A 60-year-old policeman said Monday he had stopped a Canadian tourist from taking snapshops here because of a "village rule" covering internal security.

Mayor Avon Greenly said he knew of no regulation restricting camera enthusiasts—Canadian or home-grown. But patrolman Dan Thompson said "we have a village rule here."

Adams has no A-bomb plants, navy yards or military air fields. Not even a college football practice field.

Eric Adams of Toronto wrote to a New York City newspaper (Times) last week saying he had been stopped by the policeman from taking pictures here. Adams said he was snapping the "Adams Hotel," "Adams fire department" and other scenes because the name was identical with his own.

"Poor panicky United States," wrote Adams. "The only other time I've had trouble taking pictures was in dictator-ruled Argentina during the war."

Patrolman Thompson told a reporter he had acted after villagers had insisted he "do something" about the picture-taking.

Recommend Changes

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 9 (CP)—The Ontario Command of the Canadian Corps Association Sunday recommended changes in Canada's immigration program to keep the country "predominantly British." Delegates to the command's annual meeting said that under the present immigration scheme the property of British immigrants entering the country was too small. Canada was becoming the "melting pot" of the world.

Allow Sale Of Gold On Free Market

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP).—Canada's gold-mining industry, beleaguered by climbing production costs, has finally obtained the right to sell gold on the world's free markets at higher-than-official prices.

Finance Minister Abbott announced Saturday that the government has decided to drop its ban against free-market sales, but told producers that if they seek premium prices they willl not be eligible for federal subsidies.

The news was generally welcomed by Ontario gold producers but some said that until they were assured of a good market for their gold outside official channels they would stick to the subsidies.

However, the $10,000,000-a-year federal cost-aid scheme, launched in 1948 to assist marginal mines meet increased production costs, comes to an end Dec. 31. Mr. Abbott said there is no decision yet as to whether the scheme will be continued in 1952.

Officially, the price of gold is $35 per fine ounce in United States funds. But unofficial markets have sprung up, mostly in Europe and Asia, where the price is a lot higher.

In such centres as Paris, Bombay and Hong Kong, hoarders, worried lest inflation wash away the value of their currency holdings, have decided to switch to gold, bidding up the ancient standard of value as to as much as $51 per ounce earlier this year.

Publishers Rap Imprisonment Of Wm. N. Oatis

QUEBEC, Oct. 9 (CP)—Czechoslovakia's imprisonment of Associated Press correspondent William N. Oatis was termed today by Canadian publishers a "glaring encroachment" on the principle and practice of news freedom.

Directors of The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news association, at their semi-annual meeting today passed a resolution condemning without reservation "the tyrannical action of the Czechoslovakian authorities" and urged that efforts be continued to bring about release and reinstatement of a newspaper man "whose only offence was to exercise the news-gathering zeal which liberty-loving newspapers have a right to expect from their representatives."

The resolution was moved by D. B. Rogers of The Regina Leader-Post and seconded by Charles H. Peters of The Montreal Gazette.

Oatis was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment on spy charges. The CP resolution noted that there was no evidence to indicate he was engaged in any activities except news-gathering, and stated that assurances of the Associated Press in this regard are fully accepted.

The board, under the presidency of Herve Major, news editor of Montreal La Presse, discussed CP affairs including the new service in French to its members in French Canada, as outlined by general manager Gillis Purcell.

The following transfers of members were reported: Ottawa Journal from T. G. Lowrey to I. Norman Smith; Toronto Globe and Mail from R. A. Farquharson to W. T. Munns; Galt Reporter from Earl Werstine to Allan Holmes; Port Arthur News-Chronicle from Angus C. MacKay to C. B. Binder; Winnipeg Evening Tribune from W. H. Woolnough to Fred S. Auger; Moose Jaw Times-Herald from Roy H. Robichaud to William Telfer; Prince Albert Herald from Allan Holmes to Roy H. Robichaud.

Princess Elizabeth Talks To Queen One Hour After Landing At Dorval Airport

By DOUG HOW

DORVAL, QUEBEC, Oct. 9—(CP)—A boisterous crowd and a transatlantic telephone call shouldered their way into Princess Elizabeth's arrival unexpectedly Monday.

The Princess, reputedly a young lady with a strong will of her own, bowed to strong will of a crowd of Canadian thousands and came out to the observation platform of the Royal train a second time to give them the waves and smiles the people wanted.

The crowd, crying out half-angrily for minutes before, waved, shouted and whistled its thanks.

The transatlantic phone call allowed the Princess to talk to her mother less than an hour after she and Prince Philip landed at Dorval Airport. She was hardly on the Royal train, removing her rich mink coat, before an aide barked four words into a telephone—"Buckingham Palace—the Queen."

In a few minutes, mother and daughter were in conversation.

The two incidents happened in the half hour before the Royal train pulled out of a siding a quarter of a mile from the tarmac where the Royal plane landed.

There were several thousand people massed behind a fence 50 yards from the rear of the train. Between them and the train was a cluster of photographers, roosting on special stands so they could snap the Royal couple shaking hands with officials and then boarding their private car.

The crowd began shouting at the cameramen to "get down . . . get down" some time before the Royal couple drove up in an open car. At times they chanted; at times they shouted. The photographers didn't stir.

When the Royal couple drew up behind a police escort, the shouting didn't die down. If anything, it increased. Irate, irritated voices cried, "get down, get down, we want to see."

It went on as the officials—people like Donald Gordon, CNR president—were introduced, bowed and passed on or chatted briefly with Elizabeth and Philip.

As they climbed the red-carpeted steps to their private car the shouting increased. "Get down, you bums, get down," some voices cried at the cameramen. If they heard, the Royal couple showed no sign of it. They turned, waved briefly and went inside.

That didn't stop the crowd. The people kept shouting at the photographers, "we want the Princess, we want the Princess get down." In 10 minutes, officials came out and quietly arranged to have the photographers ousted.

Then the Royal couple came out, waving and smiling. The crowd cheered.

The heiress presumptive to all the glories of the British Throne, as the crowd was able to see turned out to be a petite, slender young matron with a quick and wide smile, handsomer and slimmer than her photographs indicate and with somewhat the same twisting wave of the hand with which her mother greeted Canada with the King in 1939.

After a couple of minutes, the Princess turned to the Prince and said "it's getting cold, perhaps we should go in."

Then, Elizabeth and Philip went inside for their first Canadian meal. It turned out to be grapefruit cocktail, tomato and lettuce salad, beef tenderloin and maple walnut ice cream with Quebec maple syrup.

Marmora Couple Wed 50 Years

MARMORA, Oct. 9 (ENS).—On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shannon, lifelong citizens of Marmora and members of Sacred Heart parish, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

On October 7, 1901, the couple were married by the late Rev. Murtagh in the old brick church at Marmora, which was later destroyed by fire and replaced by the present stone building.

Mr. and Mrs. Shannon are enjoying good health and have all their children residing close to the parental home.

Mr. Shannon, a member of a pioneer family of Marmora Township, is the son of the late Daniel Shannon and the former Katherine Crawford, who were the original residents of what is still known as the Shannon Settlement.

Mrs. Shannon, the former Sarah Donahue, was born in Teeswater, Ontario, the daughter of the late John Donahue and the former Theresa Mulrooney. She has resided in Marmora since the age of 11.

Four children were born to this union, all living in the immediate area. They are: Mrs. J. A. Paquet (Marion), Deloro; James, William and Thomas, all of Marmora Village. They have seven grandchildren.

A high mass of thanksgiving was celebrated by their pastor, the Rev. J. A. O'Neill, in Sacred Heart Church. This mass was attended by the couple, their children and their families, as well as many friends and well-wishers.

The anniversary dinner at which all the family were present, as well as their pastor, the Rev. J. A. O'Neill, took place at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Paquet.

For 50 consecutive years Mr. Shannon acted as usher and collector in the parish church, and was an active Holy Name member. For many years he was a member of the Village Council and School Board. After retiring from the hardware business, he was for a number of years travelling representative for the Tweed-Steel Company.

Mrs. Shannon was president of the Altar Society for a number of years, and has been a member of the Catholic Women's League since it was established in the parish.

Dorothy Mills Bride Of LAC Thomas A. Griffin

St. George's Anglican church was decorated with white 'mums and fern on Saturday morning for the wedding of Dorothy Gwendolyn Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Mills, of Peterborough, to LAC Thomas Arthur Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Griffin also of this city.

The Rev. E. C. Moore officiated at the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. H. J. Scuse. Mrs. A. Watins played "O Perfect Love" as the bride came down the aisle and during the signing of the register the congregation sang "O Perfect Love." Following the marriage ceremony the bride and groom received Holy Communion.

Given in marriage by her uncle Mr. E. K. Simmonds, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin, appliqued with lace and rhinestones. The long sleeves came to a point over her hands and the bouffant skirt fell in a full cathedral train. Her imported fingertip veil of embroidered tulle was caught to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of bouvardia and pink roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. A. M. Bowser, cousin of the groom. Her full skirted gown was of ice blue satin. The yoke was edged in a soft draping of satin caught with satin and pearl rosebuds. She wore a matching net halo and carried a muff of pink roses and baby white 'mums.

LAC John C. Rogers was groomsman and the ushers were Robert Mills, cousin of the bride, and AC Don Hendren.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Sunday school hall where the bride's mother received wearing a taupe crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother who also received, wore a grey corded silk ottoman dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip. For travelling the bride wore a cinnamon brown suit with forest green accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

On their return they will live in Belleville.

At Park St. Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon, Margaret Mary Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Peterborough, became the bride of Flying Officer H. Arden Clements, of Ottawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clements of Warsaw.

Yellow 'mums and ferns decorated the church for the wedding. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. J. Whan and the music was by Mr. Adam Hawley, organist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gowned in white satin, fashioned with a tight bodice and sleeves coming to points over the hands and a flared peplum over the skirt which fell in a short train. The high neckline was trimmed with seed pearls, to match her cornet which held the veil of white net with embroidered, scalloped edge. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Alberta Whan was maid of honor, wearing yellow taffeta with headdress of roses and lily of the valley and carrying a bouquet of bronze 'mums. Bridesmaid was the groom's sister, Miss Noreen Clements who was wearing mauve taffeta and a floral headdress and she carried a bouquet of mauve and yellow 'mums. The bride's gown was an original design with its bodice fitted and tailored of faille, buttoning high to a neckline edged in tulle with sleeves three quarter length and edged the same. The skirt was a spume of wide flounces of French silk tulle illusion, trailing in the back to form a chapel train. Her headdress was an heirloom calot of lace holding the flaring veil of illusion and her bouquet was of bouvardia with tiny sweetheart roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Attending were Miss Agnes Strickland, maid of honor, Miss Joan Ackerman, Miss Agnes Howson and Miss Mary Howson of Toronto. They were all in frocks of pale green crinkled paper taffeta which were made with square neckline, and fitted bodices with bouffant gored skirts. Princess Wears Blue Suit, Shade Never Seen Before DORVAL, QUEBEC, Oct. 9—(CP)—Smiling, blue-eyed Princess Elizabeth landed at Montreal airport Monday wearing a costume attuned to the misty autumn shades which were part and parcel of the morning's autumn weather.

Her velvet-collared suit was blue and turban-type hat of soft felt, off-the-face, was in the same shade. Excited women spectators immediately tried to decide whether the Princess' frock was "slate" or "teal" blue.

Over her shoulders was a mink coat, swinging in soft ripples as she walked.

She came down the steps from the aircraft smiling brightly, with Prince Philip behind her in the uniform of a Royal Navy officer, and planted her oxford-type tie shoes with high heels firmly on the tarmac. She carried a black calf handbag over her arm.

As the Royal couple drove slowly past the cheering thousands who jammed Dorval airport, some 15 miles west of Montreal, spectators could see the gleam of a three-strand pearl necklace at her throat and pearl button earrings.

From one female spectator came the remark; "Look, that skirt has a slit on each side and it's the new pencil-slim type."

Newspapermen from England said they could never remember the Princess having worn this particular shade of blue. It seemed to merge well with the blue of the uniforms of the air force guard of honor when she inspected the airmen drawn up stiffly at attention.

The Princess' stockings were a copper color, not often worn by Canadian women.

The Princess walked gracefully. She smiled warmly. And, like her mother, she waves a white-gloved hand in a truly regal manner.

Vacillation Between Suitors Shows Lack of Character

DEAR MISS DIX: What can I do to win my girl friend back? I went with her for a year and a half, then a friend of mine told her stories about me that weren't true. She broke off with me, and began to go with him. Last week I met her and we talked for quite a while. She told me why she had stopped going with me, and I convinced her of the falsity of the tales. She says she loves me, not the other boy, but since she is still going with him, she doesn't want to hurt him. He is now overseas, and she promised to wait for him. She is very mixed up, and so am I. What can we do?

ROY

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Apparently the more in love one is, the more gullible one becomes. Love sharpens the blade of suspicion, leaving the lover open to any suggestions of infidelity on the part of the beloved. Of course, the purveyor of disrupting tales is always a "very good and trustworthy" friend, with no desire but to see justice done. The fact that he—or she—is always very handy to offer consolation to the broken heart could be mere coincidence!

Does She Love You?

Since your girl friend, Roy, had so little faith in you that she didn't even give you a chance to explain your side of the story until a year and a half later, perhaps she was not as much in love as you were led to believe. She wasted no time picking your successor, and her present hesitancy in making up her mind between two suitors exhibits a lack of stability that you will do well to consider. Even though you may think you love her a lot now, you don't want to stay on a merry-go-round forever. Instead of trying to win her back, why not concentrate on a new girl with more character?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I met a wonderful boy two months ago and like him very much. About a month ago he asked me to be his steady girl friend and I accepted. He tells me he loves me, but here is my problem. He never asks me for a date. He just says, "I'll be over toworrow night." He doesn't say what time he'll come or anything. I'd like to know what time I have a date. What can I do to make him understand a girl likes to have things definite?

JEANE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your boy friend's fault seems to be that he lacks social graces. He probably hasn't gone out with girls much—if at all—and just doesn't realize what they expect. This is where you must be a very tactful guide. When he says he'll be over the next night, just say casually, "When may I expect you?" Or, tell him you have something to do—perhaps an errand for your mother—earlier in the evening and you would like to know what time to expect him. Just a step in the right direction will give him the idea that you want your plans on a more definite arrangement.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 22 and have been going with a boy for almost a year. I am very much in love with him. When I started dating him he told me he was 22, but recently he asked me to marry him, and admitted he was only 20. I still love him, have met his family and like them very much. Do you think I should hold the fact that he lied about his age against him?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No. I do not! Of course, he should have been frank with you from the beginning, but sensitivity about age is one of the most commonplace of human frailities and easily condonable. The difference in age between you is negligible and should not interfere with your happiness at all.

She said "we should wear our religion inside out." The Master touched the white skin, the yellow skin and the black skin. Let us not start too late to lend ourselves to the Master in the work that we may do."

Mrs. Greenly called on Mrs. Clarence Ferguson, of the Oak Heights WA, who gave a reading entitled "The Hornet's Nest."

A saxaphone trio from St. Paul's United Church comprised of Mrs. Douglas Knight, Mrs. R. F. Joliffe and Mrs. Harold Buttars was heard. These ladies are all members of the Warkworth Community Band. Their selection was "Moonlight Madonna." A hymn and the Mizpah benediction closed the service.

A dainty lunch was served by the lunch committee of St. Paul's United Church and a social half-hour enjoyed.

A paper drive will be held within a week or two, and all people who have old paper of any kind are asked to tie it in bundles and leave it at the church hall.

Refreshments were sevred at the close and the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold McIlmoyle.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Devilled Salmon Casserole For Your Leftover Fish

A promise is a promise and I claim that I try to keep them—I do try but sometimes I slip.

This promise nearly slipped me—I found a little crimpled wad of paper in the bottom of my purse when I emptied it out. It was the Devilled Salmon Casserole recipe that our hostess at Glace Bay had scribbled down for me in a hurry after that never-to-be forgotten lobster dinner.

It is one of her "musts" when she has a steamed or baked large salmon and has some leftover cold, to use up for the next few days' meals.

Canned salmon may be used in place of fresh cold leftover.

In our house today we have to use up leftover Baked Ham from Thanksgiving dinner. That is no punishment though.

However this salmon idea is a good one for your next meat-buying spree. (In our town a 7-pound red Pacific salmon cost me 65 cents per pound, which is much cheaper than most meat of equally high quality.)

Devilled Salmon

One and one-half cups milk, 1½ cups soft breadcrumbs, 2 cups flaked salmon (or lobster or shrimp or crabmeat), whites of 5 hardcooked eggs finely chopped, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1-3 teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne, ½ cup melted butter or margarine. Mix the milk and crumbs and gently mix into the flaked salmon and chopped egg white. Mix together the seasonings and stir them into the melted butter and mix this through the fish mixture. Turn into buttered baking dish, sprinkle with additional buttered crumbs and bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for about 15 or 20 minutes.

Some Maritimers cannot understand how we justify our position as cooks and heads of households when we do not take advantage of such nourishing, flavourful, economical dishes as chowders. I had to stand meekly by and soak up this talk for the only chowder I serve with any regularity is clam. So I dutifully made up the chowder from the recipe that follows and vote them right. It is a right toothsome dish.

Maritime Salmon Chowder

The fish that goes into this should be boiled, so that there is fish stock to provide the first ingredient. Four cups hot fish stock. (Or this may be obtained by boiling the bones, tail and head of the fish if you have had the fishman fillet it for you.), 1 lb. raw or leftover fish—salmon, haddock are best, 1 sliced onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1½ teaspoons flour, 1½ to 2 cups diced raw potatoes, crackers, 3 slices diced, of salt pork. Fry out the salt pork dice in heavy iron frying pan or in Dutch oven, or of course the chowder kettle (!); after about 5 minutes add the chopped onion. Skim out the pork and onion and set aside. In the bottom of pan or kettle arrange layer of fish, then sprinkle this with salt, pepper and flour; arrange next layer of potatoes, scatter over the pork and onions. Pour over the fish stock. Cook slowly, covered, without stirring for about 45 minutes. Have ready in soup tureen about 6 crackers; pour the soup over them, serve as main course with additional crackers.

NOTE: A good addition, my hostess told me, is ½ cup fresh corn or canned corn, and 2 or 3 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, —especially to salmon chowder. It is also garnished with slices hard cooked egg which float on top of the chowder when it is carried to table.

To take a load off horses' shoulders — and their owners' minds — a harnessmaker in Ontario has developed horse-collars with lightweight aluminum hames.

This company is just one of over 1000 in Canada who, by manufacturing aluminum articles, make life easier for everyone who has to carry or clean. Since this is going on all over the world, it means more and more people wanting aluminum. We in Canada are fortunate in having the waterpower to generate electricity to make aluminum for ourselves and the rest of the free world. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Locking Of Gate To Dump Causes Nuisance

North Monaghan Council met on the holiday at the court house. Those present were Reeve Willard Waterman, Councillors Fred Stenson and Lloyd Whittington.

The following accounts were passed: Department of Highways, pool grader, $85.38; printing, $37.75; collecting dog taxes, $4.20; balance of tax collector's salary for 1950, $100.

Herman Killingbeck, sanitary inspector, reported that due to the fact that the gate at the city dump ground is now locked at 5 p.m., trucks hauling garbage and refuse of various kinds, including very large tree roots, have been dumped on the quarter line, which is a side road.

Council's motion requests the city to have this material removed, including the large tree roots.

It is Council's opinion that this nuisance is caused mainly by the city locking the gate at the garbage yard and dump fire at 5 p.m.

The clerk was authorized to order cards and have them placed by Mr. Killingbeck warning the public against dumping on the highway.

Council set the date for the court of revision for the assessment made in 1951 on which taxes will be levied in 1952, on Monday, Oct. 29, 1951, at 2 p.m., at the court house.

The next regular meeting will be held Nov. 1 at 2 p.m. This date has been advanced for the convenience of those who intend to go deer hunting.

Weather Chills Spectators But 10,000 At Norwood Fair

NORWOOD, Oct. 9—(Staff)—The weatherman served up a miserable combination of overcast skies and a bone chilling breeze for Norwood's Thanksgiving Day Fair Monday.

Although the attendance fell short of last year's crowd of 15,000, officials report that over 10,000 paid admissions at the entrance gates and all children were admitted free. Gate receipts amounted to $22 more than last year, because of an increase in the attendance fee.

A parade formed up at Ridge and Colborne Sts. at noon and continued through the village to the fair grounds to start off the afternoon's events.

The Warkworth Community Band and Havelock Pipe Band which will be in Trenton to welcome Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh when they visit the town on Friday, marched in the parade of floats, decorated bicycles and school children.

The fair was officially opened by Hon. Harold R. Scott, minister of Lands and Forests.

"It is appropriate that you should have your fair on Thanksgiving Day," Mr. Scott told the large crowd gathered around the Entertainment Stand, "as it gives everyone an opportunity to exhibit the best that the land produces and express thanks for the blessings received. We are very fortunate that we live in a democracy and can produce these treasures without fear of having them confiscated," said Mr. Scott.

Fence Mending

"Premier Frost has asked me to express his regret at not being able to be here," the minister of Lands and Forests continued. Then in an offhand reference to the coming provincial election he added, "He's pretty busy right now—possibly mending fences."

Throughout the afternoon, the program at the entertainment stand emceed by Tommy Mason of Buckhorn attracted a steady crowd. It was the most sheltered spot on the grounds and the brisk weather ensured a hand-warming round of applause for the contestants in the public speaking, old time fiddlers, square dancing and vocal competition featured on the afternoon program.

The tempting aroma of sizzling hamburgs, hot dogs and mustard the "hurry, hurry, hurry" chant of carny barkers and all the hundred and one things that combine to give a country fair its traditional atmosphere were wafted on the chill breeze and blended with the farmyard noises of livestock waiting to be judged.

There were plenty of games of chance, "your bound to win, just try it, three chances for a quarter," weight guessers, and all the usual sideshow attractions, but business was poor on "midway row."

Weather Blamed

For this, operators blamed the weather. "The people that are here just aren't spending any money," said one, while another offered a more logical reason: "People have to be in a good mood to spend money on games . . . and this weather why I wouldn't be out on a day like this if I wasn't working."

Since most of the exhibits were in on Saturday or arrived early in the morning, the weather didn't affect the exhibits and there were plenty of entries in the various classes.

A heavy track hampered harness racing, but officials in the judges' stand were "satisfied with the turnout" and considered that the times were "very good considering the condition of the track.

Stan Blewett's Victory Hi, who is totally blind, and driven by Arnold Fallis, took the free-for-all race with three firsts and was clocked at 1.48, 1.47 and 1.49.

Dark Mercury, owned by Harry Inglis of Brighton, won all three heats in the 2.24 class, with times of 1.52, 1.50 and 1.51½.

The 2.28 class was also won by one of Stan Blewett's horses. Orval Fallis' drove Gadabout across the finish line ahead of the field in all three heats. Gadabout circled the track twice under two minutes to win the first and third heats at 1.58 1-5 and 1.59 1-3, and took the second with a time of 2 minutes even.

Airliner Crashes

SAN ANDRES TUXTLA, Mexico, Oct. 9—(AP)—At least six Mexicans were reported killed in the crash Monday of an airliner in the "Mexican Alps" in this southern section of the country. Mayor Rafael Escalera Mortera said there were some survivors.

FOR THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES . . . When Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh reviewed Canada's 27th Brigade on the Plains of Abraham, Quebec City, today Defence Minister Brooke Claxton presented Their Royal Highnesses with a set of histories of the Canadian Forces during the Second World War. In this picture a pretty CWAC member is shown opening one of the five morocco leather-bound, gilt-edged books at the inscription page, signed by Mr. Claxton. The books are "Far Distant Ships," the story of the RCN by Joseph Schull, bound in Navy blue; "The Canadian Army, 1939-45," by Col. C. P. Stacey, bound in Army red; and three volumes of "The RCAF Overseas," in Air Force blue, by the RCAF Historical Section.

Actress Wants Sex Appeal Get More Stress

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9—(AP)—Beauteous Rhonda Fleming today pleaded for a return of sex appeal to the women in movies.

"The men have had it long enough," she remarked. She referred to the trend in recent years of displaying male stars in scanty attire while the actresses have become more and more clothed.

"It happens to me in nearly every picture," she said semi-seriously. "I've been opposite such men at Sterling Hayden, John Payne and Glenn Ford. While they go around with bare chests, I am wearing dresses that extend from my neck to my feet.

Chaste Chests

"The rules about showing cleavage are very strict. The result is that most gowns have to be extended almost up to the neck. The only girls who can wear low-cut gowns in the movies are those who are flat-chested and wear pads."

In her current picture, "Golden Hawk," Miss Fleming is dressed as a boy in one sequence. With Miss Fleming's figure, this operation requires no small amount of technical skill.

Shorn Locks

The actress admitted that the women lost some of their sex appeal by their own doing—as witness short haircuts.

"I believe all men think long hair makes women more attractive. I'm certainly going to keep mine that way."

To prove her point, Miss Fleming cited one of her recent pictures—an exception in which she played a hoochie-cooch dancer and displayed as much epidermus as the censors will allow.

Even though the critics hooted at the picture, Miss Fleming reported: "I got more fan mail about it than from any other picture I have ever made."

Folklore, Myths Delight Visitor To Nova Scotia

By KINGSLEY BROWN

HALIFAX (CP)—The boss and I got talking the other day about Nova Scotia's folklore.

Sure, we both know this is 1951, a modern age. But we agreed, too, that times haven't changed much when it comes to folklore.

Folklore and superstitions, especially, are not obsolete, nor a thing of a far and distant past.

Vacationers, tourists and the sceptics find this out every year.

A good part of Nova Scotia's rural population is made up of fisherfolk, traditionally superstitous people. Its rocky, indented seacoast seems to breed myths. And the inhabitants cling tenaciously to them.

Some believe if you turn a loaf of bread upside down you upset a ship at sea. Whistling or spitting on a fishing vessel is considered taboo. And you don't wear grey mittens aboard ship.

A black cat under a basket will prevent a ship from putting to sea. Docking a schooner on the wharf's eastern side practically insures a prosperous season.

In other villages, fishermen believe "gifted" men can "jinx" them. The man, possibly a hostile neighbor, is called a "jonah," although nobody knows why.

At West Jeddore, 40 miles from Halifax on the eastern shore, the curse-maker is known as a "blue bottle." If a man has "it," one of his glances can ruin a day's fishing.

But there's way to wipe out the spell: cut a nick from a cow's ear and burn it.

Vanishing Witches

Witches are losing their popularity. In remote parts of the south shore and Cape Breton, however, "a broom over the door will keep a witch from coming in."

Here are other typical Nova Scotia superstitions:

Cutting a baby's fingernails before it is a year old will make the child a thief.

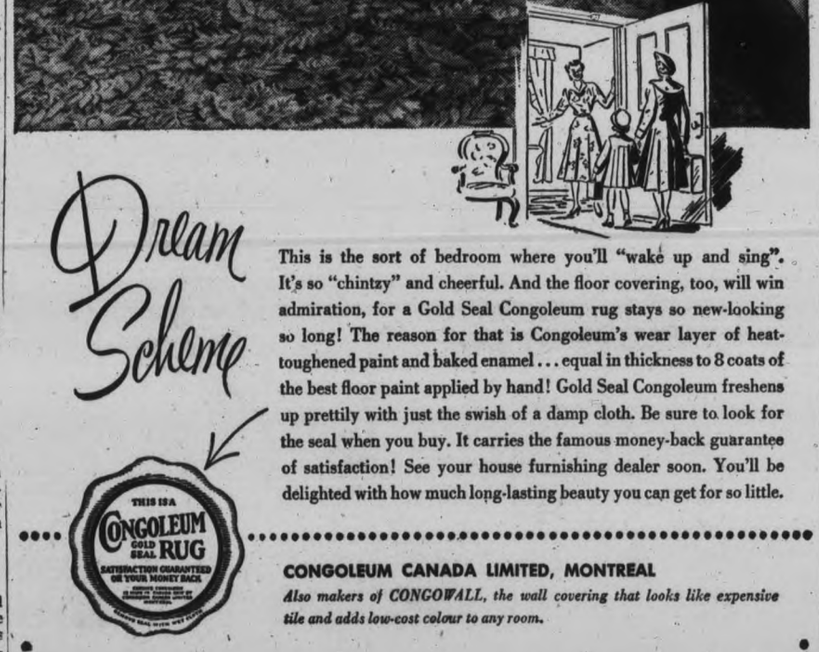
Oxten talk at Christmas and get on their knees.

Sleep with your legs crossed to prevent dreams; look out the window to forget them.

A sick person won't die if his pillow is filled with goose feathers.

They had their cures, too.

You can stop a bleeding wound by covering it with an old beaver hat. Standing a child on newly-slaughtered cow's blood will cure asthma.



Here's a sure-fire method to cure your husband of drinking. Place an eel in a bottle of rum. Then, when it's nearly dead, take it out. If your husband drinks the rum he'll never touch it again!

Second Blooming

WINKLER, Man. —(CP) —For the second time this year the lilac bushes in Ben Remple's garden are showing beautiful white blossoms. An unusually wet summer followed by warm September sun coaxed them out again.

SLIGHT ERROR

MONCTON, NB, was named after General Monckton of the British Army, but the "K" was accidentally dropped in the incorporation charter.

Dream Scheme

This is the sort of bedroom where you'll "wake up and sing". It's so "chintzy" and cheerful. And the floor covering, too, will win admiration, for a Gold Seal Congoleum rug stays so new-looking so long! The reason for that is Congoleum's wear layer of heat-toughened paint and baked enamel . . . equal in thickness to 8 coats of the best floor paint applied by hand! Gold Seal Congoleum freshens up prettily with just the swish of a damp cloth. Be sure to look for the seal when you buy. It carries the famous money-back guarantee of satisfaction! CAIRO RIOTERS ATTACK WESTERN FIRMS

Surprise Attack Takes UN Troops 8 Miles In Drive

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 10. — (AP)—Fifty American tanks led thousands of United States infantrymen on a surprise attack today that smashed eight miles through Chinese lines in eastern Korea. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, in a surprise visit to the front, expressed hope the raid "will be the end of the Heartbreak Ridge fighting." Green Chinese troops turned and ran in the face of the armored thrust. The surprise drive carried the raiding Americans past the village of Mundung, 23 miles north of the 38th parallel and two miles west of Heartbreak Ridge.

The raiders sent the Chinese "running in all directions."

On the ground Americans fought fierce 1,000-man Red counter-attacks and hacked out small gains of their own in two sectors. One US unit was pushed back slightly in the east.

Warm Reception

The tank-infantry task force returned to its own lines by nightfall after slashing up a valley alongside heartbreak ridge. It caught green Chinese troops by surprise as the Reds moved into the front to relieve North Koreans.

"This is very good medicine to welcome them to the front," said Van Fleet, UN ground commander.

Front-line dispatches said the tanks clanked up a river-bed trail prepared in advance by American engineers. On the way they shot up Red bunkers on hilltops near Heartbreak Ridge. A full regiment of infantrymen—about 3,750 men and officers at full strength —advanced on the flanks of the tanks.

Other Americans were involved in heavy fighting elsewhere in the east. One United States 2nd division unit was forced to withdraw from a ridge by a counter-attack of 1,000 Communists. Other 2nd division forces hacked out gains of a few hundred yards.

In the west, US 1st division cavalrymen beat back a 1,000-man Chinese counter-attack in the early-morning darkness, then drove ahead a short distance against deeply-entrenched Chinese.

The smashing armored thrust near Heartbreak Ridge was the deepest penetration of Red lines made by the Allies in the month-long battle among the eastern crags.

Chinese troops were spotted fleeing from one mountain top. Two Chinese concentrations were routed from the valley.

Censorship shrouded the exact location of the valley.

The tanks rumbled out in the early morning fog with little resistance. Chinese opened up with mortar fire, then blasted at the force with artillery. A tank officer said the shells screamed over the attacking force.

Leading Red Bail-Jumper Returned To US

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 10 (AP)—Gus Hall, one of four top United States Communist bail jumpers, was turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation at 3 a.m. today on the international bridge that connects the US and Mexico.

Tom Green of The Laredo Times said he watched five men in an old sedan with Mexican licence plates drive across the bridge. He said one of them appeared to be Hall and the rest "appeared to be Mexican officers."

In Washington, FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover announced that Hall had been arrested.

FBI agents in Laredo and local police refused to comment on the arrest or on Hoover's announcement. Hoover said that Hall, national secretary of the Communist party, will be sent to jail at once, but didn't say where.

Caught In Net

Hall was one of four top US Communists who jumped bail after conviction of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the government.

Green said Hall was not handcuffed, and that the men in the car unloaded some luggage for him.

Hall and ten other top US party leaders were given prison sentences.

The three fugitives and Hall were out on $80,000 bail.

The bail was posted by the Civil Rights Congress.

Since then, a New York judge has banned the CRC's bail fund from acting as bondsman in any case in a New York federal district court.

The US supreme court only last Monday refused to reconsider its decision against the 11 top Communists. That decision upheld the convictions and the constitutionality of the Smith Act, the legislation under which the charges were laid.

Commonwealth Division Praised

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 10 (Reuters)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the United States Eighth Army, today congratulated the newly-formed Commonwealth Division for its part in the recent United Nations offensive action on the Korean front.

In a message to Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the Commonwealth Division, Van Fleet sent "hearty congratulations" to Cassels, his individual brigade commanders and all ranks of the Commonwealth Division for "the highly successful completion of your first major offensive as a division in Korea."

Van Fleet said: "All units acquitted themselves magnificently in a limited offensive which caused great losses to the Chinese enemy opposing."

His message appeared to signal the end of the action which began on the western front Oct. 3 and reached its climax Oct. 8.

Berserk Deer Holds Three Men Captive

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 10 (CP).—A berserk deer, rescued from the Hydro forebay at Queenston Tuesday held two conservation officers and a farmer captive until it was frightened away by a truck.

Game officers Ron Numa and Roy Arbuthnot released the 180-pound deer on the farm of Chas. Wilson. It charged the men.

Wilson jumped to the top of his truck and the two officers shut themselves into a barn. Stones and shots failed to frighten the deer.

Finally Wilson started the truck and backed it against the animal. The deer leaped a fence and disappeared into a peach orchard.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH and the Duke of Edinburgh drove in an open car through Quebec's lowertown waterfront to the Legislature buildings Tuesday to formally start a month-long Canadian tour that will take them from one coast to another. The Princess sits bolt upright while her husband apparently relaxed, leans back in his seat.

Thousands In Ottawa Give Princess Rousing Welcome

OTTAWA, Oct. 10. (CP)—A gracious, Royal Princess came to this capital today and won a gay, Royal welcome. In crisp, regal autumn weather, under a cloudless sky, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived for a two-day stay and met the greatest welcome Ottawa has extended since her parents, the King and Queen, visited the city in 1939. Tens of thousands, in a happy, rollicking mood, turned out to see the Royal couple—at their arrival spot on exclusive Island Park Drive, at a monster reception for the youngsters at Lansdowne Park at a sombre ceremony at the National War Memorial and along the flag-draped streets leading them through the city to Government House.

For a city of approximately 250,000 population, Ottawa put on a tremendous show.

At least 50,000 persons were jammed into uptown Confederation Square for the War Memorial ceremony and an estimated 100,000 others lined the Royal route, cheering and applauding.

The Prinecss was a picture of beauty in blue as she stepped down from the Royal train, bearing her and the Duke from Quebec, at the Island Park siding at precisely 10 a.m. EST to be met by Governor-General Viscount Alexander, Prime Minister St. Laurent and other dignitaries.

Princess' Costume

For her first visit to the capital, she wore this costume:

A pure silk redingote slate-blue coat, with a slate-blue dress and black gloves, shoes and purse. Her hat was black, shiny and close-fitting with two feathers framing her hairline.

The Duke wore his uniform of a Lieutenant-Commander of the Royal Navy.

Capturing the hearts of adults and children alike, the Princess and the Duke waved and smiled from their open limousine in response to the enthusiasm of the throngs as the Royal cavalcade moved through the city.

The capital was bright and festive with flags, bunting and shields of Royal emblems and coats-of-arms.

A great crowd greeted them at the specially-prepared railway siding off the sun-dappled Island Park drive in the exclusive west-end residential area.

It was the same spot where the King and Queen began their visit to Ottawa 12 years ago.

Largest Radar Network Guards Canada and US

SYRACUSE, NY, Oct. 10. (AP)—A network of the largest radar systems ever produced has been installed by the United States Air Force to guard the United States and Canada against air attack, the General Electric Company said today. The company said it had filled the Air Force order for the radar systems and that they were the most complex yet to be turned out.

The installations are the major "posts" in a radar fence for the US and Canada, the announcement said.

GE did not reveal the cost of the systems and said the locations and total number of "posts" were secret.

The company said in a statement that an estimated 400 men were required to operate each installation on a 24-hour basis and that each system could intercept several raids simultaneously.

Some installations have been made in Arctic areas where equipment is housed in rubberized fabric "radomes" supported by air pressure and resembling huge pumpkins, the company said. The radomes protect the installations from wind, snow and ice without hindering operation.

Waives Regulations

Canada, working closely with the United States in perfecting radar and other defence screens along her northern borders, has waived regulations which would have denied Americans the right to participate in these installations.

The government has made public an order-in-council waiving certain provisions of the Radio Act. These provide that radio operators in Canada must be British subjects.

Officers Choose Parley Site

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 10 (AP) —Liaison officers today picked a site near Panmunjom for resuming Korean truce talks.

The spot is six air miles southeast of Kaesong, where cease-fire negotiations first began three months ago today. The talks were broken off by the Communists Aug. 23.

Another meeting of allied and Red liaison officers at Panmunjom was scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday (8 p.m. Wednesday EST).

There was no immediate announcement of when the armistice delegations would re-open their talks—or even whether the time had been set.

Preparations for a meeting of the full delegations were pressed rapidly. The United Nations' truce team assembled in Korea. Allied service personnel went to Kaesong to move equipment left there to the new site.

Thomson Resigns To Lead Liberals

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 — (CP). — Resignation of Walter C. Thomson, Provincial Liberal Leader, as member for Ontario riding was announced Tuesday by Speaker W. Ross Macdonald.

Mr. Macdonald made the brief announcement as the Chamber opened its fall session.

Mr. Thomson is leading the provincial Liberal Party in the Ontario general election November 22. He called upon Prime Minister St. Laurent Tuesday morning, presumably in connection with his resignation.

The new Commons standing: Liberals 184, Progressive Conservatives 45, CCF 13, Social Credit 10, Independent 4, Independent Liberal 4, vacant 2; total 262.

Mr. Thomson, 55, was elected to the Commons in the general Federal election of 1949. He was chosen as Provincial Liberal Leader a year ago to succeed Farquhar Oliver, member of the Ontario Legislature for Grey South.

A lawyer by profession, Mr. Thomson has practiced for years in Toronto.

Civilization Gets Reprieve

Consider Using Atom Bomb In Korea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The use of atomic weapons in Korea was reported today to have been given serious consideration by United States military leaders, but to have been laid aside for the present.

The question of using such weapons was one of the reasons for the recent trip to Tokyo by Gen. Omar Bradley, a well-informed government source said.

Bradley recommended against use of A-bombs at this time because he regarded the prospects for a Korean truce as brighter, said this source.

Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is also the principal military adviser of the President.

At a press conference last Nov. 30, President Truman said there has been active consideration of the A-bomb's use, but that he did not want to see it used because it is a terrible weapon.

Several Considerations

In addition to whatever political policies may have entered the current decision to hold atomic weapons in leash, military considerations probably were involved.

If there is indeed an improved chance for a cease-fire agreement, it might be undesirable to give the Communists a demonstration now of atomic tactics.

Perhaps by coincidence, Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, was making some pretty definite statements on the subject both before Bradley left and after he returned.

A week before the general started for the Far East, Dean said the US has a "very impressive" capability of using atomic weapons "against men in the field, and against military targets." Of the bomb stockpile, he said, "We have many today that are deliverable, a very impressive number."

Must Be Effective

A day after Bradley had returned, Dean said that when a situation arises where the use of any kind of a weapon is justified, "we should give serious consideration to the use of an atomic weapon, provided it can be used effectively from the military standpoint and that it is no more destructive than is necessary to meet the particular situation in question."

The Defence and State Departments undoubtedly mulled over all possible angles that might develop in or from use of atomic weapons in Korea before Bradley went to the Far East.

US Believes Suez Plan Coming

New Defence Proposal For Egypt 'Seen Basis For Pact

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — (AP) — State Secretary Dean Acheson said today the United States believes the new defence proposals expected to be presented to Egypt shortly, "should serve as a sound basis" for settling the current British-Egyptian argument over the Suez Canal and the Sudan.

Acheson in his press conference in effect warned Egypt against cancelling its 1936 defence pact with Britain illegally.

"The United States government believes that proper respect for international obligations requires that they be altered by mutual agreement rather than by unilateral action by one of the parties," he said in a statement.

The Egyptian government served notice Monday that it is cancelling the 20-year Anglo-Egyptian treaty signed in 1936 and an agreement with Britain dating back to 1899 which provides for joint Anglo-Egyptian administration of the Sudan.

Solution Possible

Acheson noted that the new proposals have been under consideration for middle-eastern defence and were to be presented to Egypt "within the next few days." He then added:

"It is the belief of the United States that a solution to the Anglo-Egyptian question can be found through these proposals.

"The United States considers that the new proposal to be presented to the Egyptian government should serve as a sound basis for an agreement which will not only satisfy the interests of all parties concerned, but also contribute to the defence of the free world in which the Middle East plays such an important role."

Acheson declined to say anything about the proposal except that it deals with multi-lateral defence arrangements in the Middle East.

Plans for a middle-eastern defence command were discussed at Ottawa last month by the 12-member North Atlantic Pact Council.

Victoria Has Slight 'Quake

VICTORIA, BC, Oct. 10—(CP) —A moderate earthquake shook the Victoria area about 3 pm Tuesday. No damage was reported.

The tremor was also felt in the Seattle vicinity. It lasted about 15 seconds. Seismologists at the University of Washington said the quake was probably located several miles below Puget Sound.

Seismologists at the Dominion observatory here said a "fairly sharp local shock" was felt here "a few seconds before 3 pm PST."

They said a "wild guess" placed the centre of the shock about 50 miles from Victoria, probably westerly in the Pacific Ocean.

Have 38 Bearskins For Grenadier Guards

PRINCE GEORGE, BC, Oct. 10 (CP)—The Junior Chamber of Commerce here has 38 bearskins ready to present to the King's Grenadier Guards.

It wants to present them at Vancouver to the Guards' honorary colonel-in-chief, Princess Elizabeth.

Chamber members began collecting the bearskins last December when they heard the Guards' tailors were using wolf hides to make their busbies. Bearskins, previously used in the headgear, were in short supply.

Hilliard Clare, Jaycee president, has asked the royal reception committee in Vancouver if the presentation can be fitted into the agenda.

Mossadegh's Illness Handy

Iranians Block Debate In UN Council On Oil Crisis

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Oct. 10 (AP)—Britain today kept trying to get behind-the-scenes agreement for United Nations Security Council action in the Iranian oil dispute. But the ailments of Iran's aged premier, secluded in a New York hospital, appeared to have blocked any council debate this week.

A council meeting scheduled for Thursday was postponed, UN sources said, after the Iranians "indicated" they would appreciate the delay because of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's condition.

Next Monday was seen as a likely date for the meeting.

Britain last week demanded that the council ask Iran to hold up on its nationalization program shutting the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company out of Iran. With grumbling British agreement, the council delayed action until Mossadegh could come from Iran to present his country's side of the dispute.

Mossadegh, who led the nationalization fight, arrived Monday and promptly entered hospital, suffering from what his doctors described as severe exhaustion.

Domestic Matter

The Iranian Deputy Premier, Hussein Fatemi, told a press conference Tuesday night that Iran is willing to talk with the Britons again about the oil question, but that Iran opposes Security Council intervention in what it considers a domestic mater.

Fatemi hedged, however, on the question of whether Mossadegh would walk out if the council starts to debate the British resolution.

One British spokesman said the only place his government would discuss the issue with Mossadegh is on the Security Council floor.

Another British source said a new British resolution for the council was shaping up along a middle course favored by the United States. With US approval of the draft, he said, talks with other Security Council members were expected to last throughout today.

Wild, Armed Crowd Demonstrates Against Suez Army

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 10. (AP)—A wild crowd armed with stones and clubs surged through Cairo's streets today, attacking western business houses in a frenzy of anti-foreign rioting. The outbreak sprang from Prime Minister Mustapha El Nahas Pasha's denunciation of the Anglo-Egyptian treaty and his bid to chase British troops off Egyptian soil. The rest of the Arab world meanwhile joined Egypt in full support behind his plans to drive Britain out of its Suez Canal encampments and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

A British and a French firm and the trucks of Coca Cola and Pepsi-Cola distributors were first targets for attack by shouting mobs.

They also stoned and attempted to storm the big Immobilia buildings in the heart of Cairo. The two buildings, constructed around an open court, house a number of American and British business offices.

Infuriated By Gang

The assault against the Immobilia buildings was touched off by someone who threw a firecracker or some other explosive from an Immobilia balcony into a crowd of orderly demonstrators below.

No one was injured but the loud bang infuriated the crowd.

It swarmed into the courtyard, heaving stones.

The Immobilia contains offices of a number of American firms including The Associated Press and the Superior Oil Company. The British-sponsored Arab News Agency and the big British Imperial Chemical Industries have offices there.

A few minutes after the crowd broke away from the buildings, a group of Egyptians with two policemen knocked on the bolted door of the AP office.

They demanded an office messenger by name and the police marched off with him.

Furniture, equipment and machinery was destroyed at the offices of the British Thomson Houston Company and a French firm. Books and papers were used for a bonfire.

The crowds attacked two trucks one carrying Coca Cola, the other Pepsi-Cola.

"Down with Britain, up with Egypt," the rioters shouted.

Police reinforcements had difficulty dispersing the crowds.

(Reuters News Agency reported that one mob tried to break through a police cordon guarding the British Embassy. Stones were flung before the march was broken up.)

Police reinforcements rushed to the scene of the riots but it was some time before the crowds were dispersed. Then small groups formed and paraded, shouting for cancellation of the Anglo-Egyptian alliance.

Yankees Lead Giants 4-1 At End Of 6th

Giants.... 000 010
Yanks.... 100 003

YANKEE STADIUM, New York Oct. 10—(AP)—New York's back-to-the wall Giants, one game from world series elimination, pinned all their hopes on Lefty Dave Koslo, veteran of their staff, in the sixth series game with the Yankees.

Koslo, who got the Giants off on their right foot, pitching a seven-hit victory here in the opener, was opposed by Vic Raschi. The hulking Yankee righthander was the starter and loser in the third game when he failed to last five innings.

Manager Leo Durocher shook up his batting order, moving Whitey Lockman up from fifth to third and dropping slumping Willie Mays from sixth to eighth. Hank Thompson was back in right field batting sixth with catcher Wes Westrum seventh.

A crowd of some 60,000 braved the cold, windy weather.

The starting line-ups:

Giants—Stanky, 2b; Dark, ss; Lockman, 1b; Irvin, lf; R. Thompson, 3b; H. Thompson, rf; Westrum, c; Mays, cf; Koslo, p.

Yanks—Rizzuto, ss; Coleman, 2b; Berra, c; DiMaggio, cf; McDougald, 3b; Mize, 1b; Bauer, rf; Woodling, lf; Raschi p.

Stanky looked at a called strike, worked Raschi for a full count, then rolled out, McDougald to Mize. Dark watched a third strike go by. Lockman smashed Raschi's first pitch into the lower right-field stands on one hop for an

Kennedy Opens Plowing Match

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 10 (CP).—The 38th International Plowing Match was opened today by Agriculture Minister Kennedy of Ontario. Almost 200 entrants are scheduled for Friday's competition in which classes are limited to plowmen who have already won in other matches.

Tony and Bruce, an 11-year-old oxen team, were on hand for the fifth year. Owner Hubert Carruthers, Eauclaire, Ont., said he broke the oxen to the yoke during the Second World War when he couldn't get a tractor.

Other familiar attractions were back again—the old steam engine, the old thresher, the implement makers' hats and canes.

A new event—welding—has replaced the horse-shoeing competition.

Feature of one of today's classes will be a competition between the two sons of John R. Hargreaves, host for this year's match. The two young men, Ross and Jack Hargreaves, will compete in the class of 43 plowmen trying for top honors in the open class for tractors.

London Jury Acquits Young Constable

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 10 (CP) — A Supreme Court jury today took less than 15 minutes to acquit Cyril Van Elslander, 25-year-old city constable of manslaughter.

Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen, commended the 12-man jury for its dismissal of the charge which arose out of the death of Willie Gee, 68, when struck by a police cruiser driven by the officer May 4.

"I agree with your verdict," Mr. Justice Aylen said, "anything else would have been contrary to the evidence."

Plan Elizabeth To Make Australian Tour

LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP). — Buckingham Palace announced today Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will substitute for the King and Queen on a Royal tour of Australia and New Zealand early next year.

The King is recovering from a lung operation performed Sept. 23. Princess Elizabeth and her sailor husband now are touring Canada.

The palace announcement said the King had arranged the shift in line with a joint suggestion from Prime Ministers Robert Menzies of Australia and Sidney Holland of New Zealand.

Twice the King has planned to tour Australia. Twice illness has forced postponement.

In March, 1948, the palace announced that the King and Queen, with Princess Margaret, would visit Australia and New Zealand in the early part of 1949.

Too Uncertain

Then in November, 1948, it was announced that doctors were concerned about the King's health and had recommended that the tour be indefinitely postponed. In March, 1949, the King underwent an operation to improve circulation in his right leg.

On Sept. 5, 1950, the palace announced the Royal party would make the visit in 1952. At that time, the palace said that the tour would last from January to July. Under the new plan, the Jan. 22 departure date remains unchanged.

Neither Elizabeth nor the Duke has ever visited Australia or New Zealand.

Hunters Meet Bear; Retreat

LINDSAY, Oct. 10.—If the bear doesn't say anything about it, people will never know about the bear that got away from two Lindsay hunters. The hunters aren't going to tell. But the word does get around.

The two nimrods were portaging from lake to lake in the Dorset district. One was loaded with guns and other gear while the second packed the canoe.

As they trudged along the trail the hunter laden with guns was in the lead, commenting on the scarcity of game.

"Nothing, not even a squirrel," he said, turning his head to the hunter with the canoe.

When he looked back at the trail, there was the bear. The hunters excused themselves, and left. So did the bear. After a while—it's not known how long—the two men returned for their guns, baggage and canoe.

Silo Splits, Concrete Crushes New Tractor

BEWDLEY, Oct. 10 (ENS). — A 54-foot silo on the farm of Ed. Dixon, west of Bewdley, split on Tuesday morning, crushing a tractor and damaging silo-filling equipment.

The crash was heard about 5 am, the morning after Dixon and his neighbor, Lloyd Campbell, had been filling the silo with ensilage. Only 15 feet of the silo now stands. Concrete blocks and ensilage are spilled over the ground near the silo.

Campbell's new tractor was left beside the silo overnight, and damage to it is extensive. Both men believe that if they had finished the job of filling the silo, it would have crashed down on them while they worked.

C of C Meets Kawartha Group

District co-operation was the keynote for a meeting of representatives of Chambers of Commerce of the Kawartha area scheduled to be held at the Peterborough office this afternoon.

Bobcaygeon, Cobourg, Hastings, Lakefield, Lindsay, Marmora, Norwood, Omemee, and Port Hope as well as Peterborough Chambers were represented.

James Fraser, Peterborough manager, explained that this meeting is the first of its type and will serve as an initial step in a program of area co-operation.

The specific agenda discussed was plans for the third annual Kawartha resort operators' conference to be held in Peterborough, October 29. The districts chambers were invited to attend this conference.

"With the development of closer co-operation between the chambers in the area, we hope to attain a bigger and better Kawartha district," Mr. Fraser said.

May Charge Driver, No Brakes, No Licence

Charges will likely be laid against Peter King, 453 Mark St., one of the drivers involved in a two-car accident at the intersection of Aylmer and Brock Streets near midnight Tuesday night, police said this morning.

King was driving west on Brock St. and collided with a car driven by Mrs. Mary Sculthorpe, 232 Edinburgh St., who was proceeding north on Aylmer St.

Constable E. S. Niziol who investigated the accident said that the brakes on King's car were in very poor condition and there were no skid marks at the scene of the crash.

Admitting that he did not have a driver's licence, King, who came here from England ten weeks ago, said he was under the impression he would have to live in Canada for three months before he could apply for a driver's permit.

Both vehicles were slightly damaged in the crash.

Lindsay Driver Faces Manslaughter

HAMILTON, Oct. 10 (CP) — Gordon McPhaden of Lindsay yesterday was committed to a higher court on charges of manslaughter and dangerous driving.

A member of the Royal Canadian Navy, Mr. McPhaden was charged following a motor-car accident Sept. 29 that resulted in the death of Mrs. Fred Bailey of Ancaster, a passenger in the car driven by her husband.

A careless driving charge against McPhaden was adjourned indefinitely.

WELCOMES PRINCESS— Premier Duplessis welcomes Princess Elizabeth on her arrival at the Quebec Legislature in Quebec City on Tuesday. The Duke of Edinburgh is still standing in the car on the left.

MORE ABOUT—
Thousands

Now, as then, it marked also the Royal entrance into Ontario from Quebec province.

21-Gun Salute

The thunder of a 21-gun salute from the four-gun battery of the 30th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, rolled through the tree-dotted dales of the winding driveway.

In the official welcoming party was Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, only woman mayor of a major Canadian city.

The 100-yard-long platform was painted red, white and blue.

Flags hung from virtually every house on the driveway.

Hundreds of children — and adults — thronged the barriers holding them back from the arrival site.

As the opening ceremonies of this Capital visit began, the Princess inspected a guard of honor drawn up at the platform.

Members of the Federal Cabinet, the Dean of the Diplomatic Corps, Commonwealth high commissioners, military chiefs, and a host of other dignitaries then were presented.

Throng Sidewalks

People and children were everywhere. They thronged the sidewalks and the lawns and peered down on the Royal arrival from windows and rooftops.

A flutter of mingled cheers and handclapping went up as the Princess and the Duke appeared.

Just 15 minutes after their arrival, the Royal visitors were whisked away in a motor car cavalcade to Lansdowne Park, exhibition and sports centre, to meet a representative group of school children, then to the National War Memorial to place a wreath honoring Canada's war dead and, finally, to Government House to hold a press reception.

As the Princess stepped down from her car, two Mounties stood at each side of the entrance way to form a sort of avenue.

Princess Elizabeth shook hands with Viscount and Viscountess Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent and Mayor Whitton, pausing a moment to chat with the mayor.

A military band played "God Save the King" and the Royal standard was broken out.

A great cheer went up from the thousands in the streets and lining the railway track on both sides.

Flash bulbs flared as cameras recorded the scene.

One group of spectators became irritated when they found the news photographers blocking their way while those on the platform were presented to the Princess and the Duke.

In a repetition of an incident at the arrival in Montreal, the crowd shouted "sit down! Let us see!"

Waves To Crowd

Walking to the cars, the Princess looked across the tracks and waved and smiled to the crowd. The throng responded with another round of applause.

With an RCMP motorcycle escort leading, the cars pulled away at a leisurely—almost walking pace—to carry the Royal couple through the rich, country atmosphere of the Dominion Experimental Farm on their way to the meeting with the school children in Lansdowne Park.

Leaving the farm, the Royal couple toured up Ottawa's picturesque scenic driveway, lined with russet-leaved maples, elms and oaks. The Rideau canal rippled in the brilliant sunshine at the right side of the driveway.

Ottawa's welcome expanded as the tour progressed.

Literally tens of thousands of people thronged the driveway, waving flags, snapping pictures and cheering. Kids were aloft in the trees watching the cavalcade beneath.

Cruisers, jammed with spectators, bobbed on the canal.

The crowd obviously was delighted with the Royal couple.

The most frequently-heard comments were: "Her pictures don't do her justice." "Doesn't he look nice."

At Lansdowne Park, 13,000 youngsters jammed into the tiered seats of the stadium rose to their feet and sang the national anthem as the Royal cars arrived.

The Royal couple emerged from their car on the playing field and the Princess chatted again with Mayor Whitton.

Slight Hitch

The mayor said later the Princess had shown a keen interest in the number of school children in Ottawa and in the fact that 4,000 of those in the stands had come from Ottawa valley towns, many leaving home as early as 6 a.m.

A nosegay of pink carnations and Sweetheart roses was presented to Princess Elizabeth by three-year-old Sheila Hamilton, the sleek and polished daughter of an Ottawa alderman—but not without a slight preliminary hitch.

As the Royal car pulled into the grounds, Sheila burst into tears. Mayor Whitton and the child's parents quickly dried them and the presentation went off on schedule.

Another tremendous round of cheers went out as the Royal car circled the playing field before driving out of the park en route to the National War Memorial on Ottawa's uptown Confederation Square.

Homage to Fallen

There, for a brief period, the tempo and character of this early stage of the Royal visit changed as the Princess and the Duke paid homage to the fallen in two world wars.

While veterans of the two conflicts and of the South African War watched, the Princess placed a poppy wreath at the foot of the towering stone and bronze memorial after observing a one-minute silence.

In the background stood a group of Silver Cross mothers and widows, representing those whose sons and husbands gave their lives for Canada.

On the broad steps leading to the memorial, a 22-man color party flanked a red carpet stretching to the foot of the monument. A veterans' guard of honor was lined on the pavement facing the memorial site.

When the Royal party arrived and the Royal Standard was unfurled, the massed bands of the RCAF, RCMP, and the Royal Canadian Regiment played "O Canada."

Princess Elizabeth, an honorary colonel-in-chief of several Canadian regiments, inspected the guard of honor accompanied by Group Capt. Alfred Watts, Dominion President of the Canadian Legion.

Places Wreath

The inspection completed, the famed trumpeters of the RCAF sounded the sombre notes of The Last Post.

The silence was observed and then while the bands played "Abide With Me," the Princess walked slowly to the foot of the memorial to place the wreath.

As she stepped back, the trumpeters sounded the Reveille. The massed bands followed with "God Save the King."

The Princess then walked to the ranks of the veterans to meet the heads of veterans' organizations and some of the top officers in the Canadian armed forces in the last war. They included Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, former Commander of the Canadian Army overseas, and Air Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner, former chief of the air staff.

The flags, multi-colored drapes and shields bearing Royal Standards and coats-of-arms topped the lamp posts about the jam-packed square.

With the memorial ceremony ended, they were taken along Lady Grey Drive, overlooking the Ottawa River and Quebec Province across its broad expanse, on the way to the Government House press reception.

Market Prices Slip In Afternoon Trading

TORONTO, Oct. 10— (CP). — Noon support weakened steadily as stock market prices slipped in early afternoon dealings.

Volume for the first three hours was 2,901,000 shares. Gold and western oil profit-taking provided most of the turnover.

Constructions continued industrials' strongest section. Gains ranged from fractions to $2.50 jump of Canadian Dredge.

Senior golds dipped sharply. Giant Yellowknife, Kerr Addison, Lamaque, Malartic and Wright-Hargreaves posted losses to 50 cents. Hollinger and Teck Hughes countered the trend for small advances. Juniors declined.

Western oils turned mixed after an early climb to another record high. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian, Collieries, Federal Petroleum, General Petroleum A, Selburn and Trans Empire slipped moderately. Calvan Consolidated, Model Oil, Petrol Gas, and Western Homestead edged upward.

International Nickel and United Keno Hill dipped fractions. New Calumet and Yale Lead added pennies.

SCHOOL TO SEE PRINCESS

The Grove School boys — the entire Lakefield school—is embussing at six a.m. Friday to go to Kingston to see the Princess and the Duke. They will see the ceremonial drill and the Royal couple in the grounds of the Royal Military College at 10:30. Instead of their naval cadet uniforms they will wear school blazers.

SMALL RUBBISH FIRE

A smouldering box of sawdust and rubbish in the apartment house of Dr. H. J. Long at 561 Reid St. resulted in some smoke damage Tuesday night. The house is being renovated and the rubbish, in a cardboard box, was somehow ignited. Firemen said they thought a lighted cigarette butt had set it off. There was also a slight smudge on the floor where the box burned through.

Italy Preparing To Become Major Arsenal For West

ROME, Oct. 10 (AP). — Italy is preparing to become a major arsenal for western Europe's rearmament.

She has the idle industrial potential and surplus manpower to pour out a steady stream of small arms, ammunition, explosives and vehicles.

US experts estimate 25 per cent of the capacity of heavy—or so-called mechanical engineering — industries has been unused since the Second World War.

One said today Italy could turn out a minimum of $600,000,000 worth of weapons annually without any cutbacks in the civilian economy. Other estimates range up to $900,000,000 annual production.

Belgium and France also have unused industrial capacity, but US experts say manpower shortages might limit their contribution.

Financing is the major problem. The United States' "off-shore" procurement program is expected by US authorities here to provide the solution.

Under this program, instead of sending all arms from the US to the western allies, many of the weapons will be purchased in Europe. This will shore up the European economy after the end of foreign aid through the economic co-operation administration.

It will also provide employment and indirectly aid the fight against Communism in western Europe by increasing the property of the industrial workers.

Italy's war plants reached their peak productivity in 1943. After that raw material shortages hurt them severely.

Surveys indicate that 80 per cent of this war industry potential survived allied bombings and ground fighting.

US experts say that, while some retooling would be necessary, most of it is comparatively simple.

Faces Trial For Spying

GENEVA, Oct. 10 (CP). — A young American today faced Swiss federal charges of political spying on behalf of Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.)

The Swiss government accused Charles E. Davis, 24, of Pasadena, Calif., of violating Swiss sovereignty by gathering information about John Carter Vincent, formerly United States minister to Switzerland, and supplying it to McCarthy.

Davis also was charged with leaving his landlady with a bill for more than $100 for telephone calls to the US—one to McCarthy.

His trial is scheduled for Monday.

Davis was arrested last Monday and has since been under treatment in a tuberculosis hospital.

Berra belted a screaming double against the low barrier in right field sending Coleman to third. DiMaggio was given an intentional pass. It was the second time in two days that Giant pitchers purposely passed a batter to pitch to McDougald. Tuesday the youngster crossed the Giants up by hitting a grand-slam homer. McDougald sent a high fly to Mays in shallow right-centre and Coleman scored after the catch. Mays' off-balance throw came in wide of the plate and Coleman scored standing up. Mize lined to Stanky who made a leaping gloved-hand catch.

One runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

Second Giants

Rizzuto raced into the hole behind third to make a nice stop of Thomson's bouncer but his long hurried throw pulled Mize off the bag and Thomson was credited with an infield single. Thompson raised a high pop to Rizzuto near second. Westrum walked on a full count. Mays lined to Bauer inside the right-field line. Koslo popped to Rizzuto behind third.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Second Yankees

Dark took care of Bauer's high infield pop behind second base. Stanky gobbled up Woodling's hot grounder and threw him out. Raschi went down swinging on three pitches.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third, Giants

Stanky sent a long fly to Woodling who made the catch with his back to the screen in deep left. The strong wind blowing in from the outfield to home plate prevented Stanky's long drive from being a home run. Dark walked on four pitches. Lockman bounced to Rizzuto who stepped on second forced dark and threw to first to double up Lockman.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Yankees

Rizzuto fouled to Lockman just outside the first-base line. Irvin came in fast for Coleman's low liner. Berra fouled out to Lockman.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Giants

Irvin walked on five pitches. Thomson rapped sharply inside the third-base line to McDougald who threw to Coleman forcing Irvin at second. The relay was too late to double up the batter. Thompson slashed a single past the diving Coleman into right field, Thomson pulling up at third. Manager Casey Stengel and several Yankees claimed Thomson failed to touch second on his way to third but Umpire Barlick at second base did not agree with them. Westrum smacked into a fast double play, Rizzuto to Coleman to Mize.

Fourth Yankees

DiMaggio flied to Mays in short centre. It was DiMaggio's 198th official time at bat in his 41st world series game, both records. McDougald popped to Lockman on the grass inside first base. Lockman knocked down Mize's torrid smash past first but only slowed up the ball's flight into right field which went for a single. Bauer fanned.

Fifth Giants

Mays lashed a single through the middle into centrefield.

Koslo fouled off two bunts and worked the count to three and two. The third ball to Koslo was low and got away from Berra for a passed ball which enabled Mays to go to second.

Koslo flied deep to Bauer in right, Mays going to third after the catch.

The Yankee infield moved in on the edge of the grass with Stanky at bat for a possible play at the plate.

Stanky flied deep to Woodling who made a fine running over-the-head catch. Mays tagged up and scored easily to deadlock the count at 1-1. Dark walked on a full count.

Lockman topped a little roller down the third base line and outlegged Raschi's hurried throw for an infield single, Dark pulling up at second.

Stengel came out to the mound to confer with Raschi and Berra.

Irvin bounced out, McDougald to Mize.

One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

Congress May Release Some Atomic Data

US Willing To Give Friendly Nations Helpful Non-Weapon Tips

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)— The United States Congress was considering a new proposal Tuesday to strengthen America's atomic defence by making some non-weapon atomic information available to "friendly" nations of the world.

The proposal, made by the Senate-House of Representatives Atomic Committee, would exclude any hot tips on how to design and make atomic weapons.

But it would make available certain phases of still-secret information on the production of "fissionable" materials. Such materials could be utilized by any nation—if it had the know-how—to produce bombs or to apply them to potential peacetime uses, such as industrial power.

In return, the committee said, the United States would expect to get "tangible benefits" which would "substantially promote our own atomic preparedness."

No Details Given

The proposal, involving amendments in the US Atomic Energy Act, did not list the nations nor spell out what sort of "benefits" the United States might expect to get. Committee sources declined to define them.

But the following are possibilities, based upon known developments in the atomic field in other countries:

1. Canada, which has at least one atomic energy "reactor" of more advanced design than any made public so far in the United States, might have certain technical contributions. Combined with American secrets, these might add up to an improved process for making atomic materials for peace or war.

2. Great Britain has two atomic plants under development.

The United States might well be courting some tips on processes in those plants.

3. India has three-quarters of the world's known supply of thorium, a substance which theoretically could be vastly more important to the American atomic energy program than uranium.

It is within reason to conjecture that the new proposal would envision aid to India in setting up an atomic program of her own—in exchange for generous allocations of thorium.

See New Combines Laws Forcing Prices Down

OTTAWA, Oct. 10. (CP)—The Government has unveiled an anti-inflationary weapon for the fall session of Parliament—new combines laws to provide more competition and force prices down. The disclosure came Tuesday as the fourth session of the 21st Parliament was prorogued and the fifth session formally opened. In the Speech from the Throne, outlining the Government's legislature plans, it was indicated there will be no outright price controls.

But the speech said concern of the people over rising living costs is fully shared by the Government and action will be taken to ban the practice by which manufacturers set the retail prices of their products.

The new laws will be based on a preliminary report by a special committee which has been studying combines legislation for more than a year. The report recommended that supplies of goods should be prohibited for "requiring or inducing distributors to resell such goods at fixed or minimum resale prices."

May Work Before Christmas

A government spokesman said such action, creating greater competition among retailers, could push prices down before Christmas if Parliament acted immediately.

Another major disclosure in the Speech was the first concrete legislative move toward construction of the vast, $700,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway as a purely Canadian project if joint Canada-US action is not approved. A Federal agency—probably in the form of a Crown company responsible to Parliament—will be formed to handle details of the project.

It also was disclosed that arrangements have been completed with the Province of Ontario regarding power development in the international section of the St. Lawrence River and the division of costs between the province and the appropriate US authority—probably the State of New York. Ontario cost is estimated at $200,000,000.

Race Cars Smash Events Called Off

COBOURG, Oct. 10—(ENS)—The stock car races on Saturday afternoon got barely started when the participants' manager pulled the cars off and called it a day when the drivers said the track was not suitable for racing.

There were a couple of crackups in a cloud of dust at one end of the track and the rest of the race was cancelled.

Years ago this track, when it was part of the horse show park, was one of the best horse race tracks in Canada but has since deteriorated until it is now in very poor condition.

Traffic Heavy Accidents Few

COBOURG, Oct. 10—(ENS)—Weekend traffic was very heavy over the Thanksgiving holiday but drivers went carefully and no accidents of any consequence occurred.

Friday's warm weather brought many out on the highway until the long lines of cars heading east through Cobourg were almost as dense as on Labor Day. The return traffic last night at times stretched for several blocks bumper to bumper to the traffic lights at Division Street.

Bethany Church Willed $1,000

BETHANY, Oct. 10—(ENS)—Under the will of Miss Annie Bray of this vilage, the United church will benefit by a bequest of $1,000. A cheque for this amount was officially presented to Mansell Wright, treasurer, at the Sunday evening service.

Miss Annie Bray was the daughter of the late William Bray and Sarah Kellett and had lived her entire lifetime in Bethany, being a faithful member of the early Methodist church, later the United church.

In her will certain money was left for charitable purposes at the discretion of her executors, who, in forwarding the $1,000 cheque to the Rev. James Hampson, resident minister of the United church, recommended that it be used towards purchasing a new electric organ. A new organ is much needed for the church and the matter will be dealt with by the board of session at their next meeting.

Certain money from this estate was left to the board of trustees of Fallis cemetery and last year had been used to good effect in building new entrance gates and fence surrounding the property.

Funeral Service Held For Cobourg Plasterer

COBOURG, Oct. 10—(ENS)—Resident of Cobourg all his life, Frederick Lewis Comrie was buried yesterday afternoon in Cobourg Union cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. E. MacGay of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. In his 73rd year, the late Mr. Comrie was born in Cobourg and learned the plastering business from his father, the late Jim Comrie.

Except for the period when he was in the army in the first war, he followed his trade up until a short time ago when ill health forced him to give up his work.

He was married 50 years ago to Ella Davidson, who survives along with a daughter, Rosamund of Cobourg and two sons, Arnold of Cobourg and Harry of Brampton. There are also three sisters, Mrs. Nora Wheeler and Mrs. Bertha Lang of Peterborough; Mrs. Mamie Holdaway of Detroit and a brother, Tom in Michigan.

Pall-bearers at the Legion funeral were Harry Jenkins, Vincent Dawe, Jack McNab, Albert Thorold, Fred Greer and Harry Erskine.

Car Hit By Train Driver Escapes Unhurt

COBOURG, Oct. 10 (ENS).—Charles Quinn of Castleton escaped withtout a scratch when his car was struck by a CNR passenger train Saturday evening at the Kingston crossing. Mr. Quinn was proceeding west and noticed a CPR train coming on the westerly crossing and as he approached the nearby east crossing he didn't see the CNR train until the last moment. He swung sharply but the locomotive caught the bumper and shaved the left side of the car off like a knife. The accident was investigated by Prov. Constable C. Meadows of Cobourg.

Ghosts Beat U of T

COBOURG, Oct. 10 (ENS). — A fair crowd braved bitterly cold weather on Thanksgiving day to see Cobourg Galloping Ghosts defeat U of T intermediates 4-1 in an exhibition game.

The Varsity team tried everything in the rugby book but were unable to get past the Ghosts' touchline except for a booted single in the last quarter. Near the end of the last quarter, U of T worked the ball to within seven yards of the Cobourg goal-line but a spectacular tackle by Garvin nailed the U of T man on Cobourg's one-yard line and removed the danger. Cooper kicked Cobourg's single in the first quarter and Jones booted a field goal for the Ghosts in the second quarter.

Church Observes Thanksgiving

COLDSPRINGS, Oct. 10. (ENS)—The Rev. L. Turner, BA, of Newcastle, was the guest speaker Sunday when Camborne United Church observed their Thanksgiving anniversary services.

Mrs. Wm. Jibb was organist. The choir was assisted by Mrs. Orville McClelland, of Bethel Grove.

The choir gave two well rendered anthems at each service. At the morning service, Mrs. Albert Willis, sang a solo and in the evening a quartet composed of E. Lacey, H. Davey, A. Bowman and W. Jibb sang.

After the evening service Mrs. McClelland was presented with a silver dish for her helpful and willing services.

Guests present for this occasion were from Orillia, Peterborough, Belleville, Toronto, Cobourg, St. Catharines, Westwood, Baltimore, Bethesda South, Plainville, and Port Hope.

Concrete Drain Pipe Be Made In Cobourg

Drainage pipe 6' in diameter will be manufactured and laid along the property. Approximately 15 men will be employed and the convenience of having the plant at the site will eliminate transporting the pipe down from Toronto where the pipe ordinarily is made, it was pointed out by Mayor Jack Burnet. This is one of the preliminary steps towards readying the property for construction of the $13,000,000 ordnance depot.

First Dominion Sporting Honours

The city of Peterborough unites in thanking the local lacrosse team which has, for the first time in history, brought Dominion sporting honours to this city. The contest in Vancouver was a long and in many ways a difficult one. Certain arrangements which would have contributed to the ease of a championship contest had not been completed, and the team had to deal with more than one unfamiliar field of action. There were some disputed rulings, and some suggestion that Eastern lacrosse was a more rugged game than that to which the West has become accustomed. But the Petes emerged at last with a clear win, and the Mike Kelly medal for the most valuable player went to the local goal-keeper, Lloyd Wootton. This is an achievement of which the whole city is proud.

* * *

A city may gain many kinds of distinction, and there are many fields in which Peterborough has won the admiration of the province and the nation. But during recent years sporting distinction has eluded us, in spite of many local attempts to foster sporting enthusiasm and organize winning teams. A good reputation in sports is a fine thing for a city to possess, and the victory of the Petes in the realm of lacrosse may inspire enthusiasm in other quarters. They have added a leaf to the city's laurels.

He Fed Canada's Imagination

Charles W. Jefferys, who died on Monday, exercised an influence upon this country which was undoubtedly great, but which defies calculation. For over fifty years he devoted himself to illustrating the history of Canada, and his pictures are to be seen everywhere. Is there a Canadian who went to school at any time during the past half century who does not bear at the back of his mind some of Jefferys' pictures of Champlain, or Cartier, or the builders of our railways; of Governor Simcoe, of Sir Isaac Brock, of Baldwin, Lafontaine and Mackenzie; of Champlain's wife, of Madeleine de Vercheres, of Lady Simcoe, of Laura Secord? This man peopled the imagination of a nation with historical characters; he provided the background, the costumes and the accessories of our mental panorama of Canadian history. Is not this a remarkable thing, and a great thing, to say of any man?

Jefferys, as an artist, was unadventurous and his draughtsmanship is often stodgy and dull. But there were other qualities which gave his pictures of Canadian historical scenes special value. He was an antiquary, and a man of strong conscience; he would rather produce a dull picture than tamper with a single detail of costume, architecture or human physiognomy. If Champlain was short and stout Jefferys was not the man to make him tall and slim for romantic effect; if Simcoe wore clumsy boots and muddy gaiters when he travelled the dirt roads of Upper Canada, Jefferys would not smarten him up to make a prettier picture; the baggy knees in the trousers of the Fathers of Confederation, and the simple furnishings of the first legislatures were part of Canadian history, and Jefferys would not falsify it.

This honesty gives his pictures a quality of their own, and great value for anyone who uses them. They can be depended upon for historical accuracy. They have given generations of Canadians an historical perspective, and a feeling for period costume and period furniture which would not otherwise have been theirs. Jefferys' pictures are part of the mind of the nation.

Parliament Sits

Yesterday the fifth session of the 21st Parliament of Canada was convened, and Viscount Alexander read the Speech from the Throne—the statement of Government policies to be considered during the session. There were no unexpected proposals of major consequence: the seaway, old age pensions, sending the 27th Brigade to Europe, the North Atlantic Treaty (the admission of Greece and Turkey thereto), the building of the Canso causeway, and a vaguely phrased determination to take "every measure" to counteract inflation "without impairing our free institutions."

Two items of specific interest in the Speech were the mention of new legislation on radio broadcasting and television; and new legislation dealing with industrial and commercial combines. We hope that in any new C.B.C. legislation the Government and Parliament will take the Massey Report recommendations into adequate consideration. The recommendations (and the minority report) are too long to recapitulate here; but both fully recognized the need which the C.B.C. has for stable and greater financial support. In its Combines legislation the Government must be aware that some of the greatest cartels in the western world are operating in Canada. The scope of combines in this country is proportionately much vaster than in the U.S.A. In fact, Canada's economy demands a rather high degree of industrial and commercial cartelization. Whether that degree has been passed and whether the investigation of combines is sufficiently pursued, should be under Parliament's eye.

Of special and pressing interest this session will be the debates on national defence preparations and the ways the hundreds of millions of dollars are being spent. It is a great deal of money; it is the taxpayers' money. It must be used both wisely and efficiently, not extravagantly or haphazardly.

"Get Down, You Bums!"

Crowds who could not see Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip at Dorval, because press photographers obscured their view, shouted angrily, "Get down, you bums, we want to see!" After a time, because of official insistence, the photographers got down.

This newspaper, like other newspapers, values pictures and employs men to get them. We have never had a complaint that a photographer representing The Examiner obscured anybody's vision of anything important, and we hope we never will. But very often, at important affairs we have blushed for the shameless effrontery and unmitigated gall of photographers (many of them representing picture agencies, and many more freelances, so that the newspapers do not bear all the blame) who got between the public and the important people they wanted to see. We too have joined in the cry, "Get down, you bums!"

At the last Liberal convention, when Mr. St. Laurent was chosen to succeed Mr. King, the moment when his election burst upon the new party leader was rendered invisible by a swarm of photographers who leapt upon the platform and cut Mr. St. Laurent from the view of those who had, after all, chosen him to lead them. For perhaps five minutes, nothing but the unpressed trousers-seats of these people could be seen; we yearned for a quiver of arrows and the unerring marksmanship of William Tell to disperse that crowd and release Mr. St. Laurent.

It is necessary and important that photographers should take news pictures of what is important and interesting. It is not necessary that they should behave as though every great event were staged for their personal benefit; it is not necessary that they should hold important people in constrained postures while they take six pictures, where one would do. It is the job of the press and the news agencies to discipline their photographers, and the sooner that is done, the better. Because some day a crowd will not be content to shout; it will attack, and the damage in lenses will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Persia's Suicide

In ousting the British from the oil fields, the Persians have driven out what some of them have considered to be an exploiter and enemy: the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. But they have opened their country to a more ruthless exploiter and more terrible enemy: the Russians. Led by their highly emotional Premier they have been swayed beyond reason and the more astute and responsible Persians already despair of saving their country from economic ruin and absolute Communist domination.

One British observer in Iran reports a conversation between Mr. Levy, who was Mr. Averell Harriman's oil adviser, and a group of Persian negotiators. It shows the fatal blindness which makes negotiation futile:

Levy: "You realize that the British will leave if you make no further concessions?"

Persians: "Yes!"

Levy: "You realize that you will not be able to run the oil industry without the British?"

Persians: "Yes!"

Levy: "And if the industry is idle, you realize that there will be no money in your treasury?"

Persians: "Yes!"

Levy: "You realize that if there is no money in your treasury, there will be financial and economic chaos in Persia?"

Persians: "Yes!"

Levy: (Triumphant by now at the success of his own logic) "And this will lead to the political destruction of your country?"

Persians: "Yes!"

Levy: "Then what are you going to do about it?"

Persians: "We are going to turn out the British."

Thus is revealed the mentality of the men who now direct Persian policy. They have won a Pyrrhic victory against an "enemy"—the British and the Anglo-Iranian company—who were neither malevolent nor despicable. In the wake of their victory follow economic ruin—and the Russians.

Fainting Mohammed

By PHILIP TOYNBEE

A YEAR ago Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh was considered an outlandish and grotesque figure even by a majority of educated Persians. He was the histronic leader of a small and fractious parliamentary group known as the National Front—a group which appeared to have no better policy than one of turbulent opposition to whatever government was in power.

Even on the oil question there were doubts about the position of the National Front, and some Persians claimed to believe that they were paid agents of the British. Mossadegh himself was notorious for his well-timed fainting fits on the floor of the Majlis (Parliament), for his ready tears and for his parliamentary technique of providing and withdrawing quorums according to his fancy. It was said of him by his Persian opponents that he would answer "No!" to every question except one, and that one was "Would you like to be Prime Minister?"

* * *

ONE thing at least has emerged during the last year, and that is that this estimate of Mossadegh's personality and position was a grossly mistaken one. Even a year ago his group was potentially far more formidable than it seemed, in that every one of its members sat for the city of Teheran. Thus Mossadegh had an immediate weapon at hand in the inflammable crowds of the capital.

He has used that weapon often, both before and after coming to power, and he is still using it today. But since his nationalization of the oil industry and his intransigeant attitude towards the British, he has also acquired a far wider popularity throughout the country, even upsetting the hitherto impregnable local dominations of the many and powerful land deputies. A visit to the Persian provinces reveals a wide-spread personal devotion to the Prime Minister which has been a rare phenomenon in recent Persian politics.

* * *

WHAT sort of a man is he? It is a difficult question to answer, because he is a complex and contradictory figure, singularly lacking in self-awareness. On two occasions last month I spoke to him for more than an hour, and each time I left him I found myself possessed by the desire to write an encomium of his character and an endorsement of his policy. In fact, he is almost magically persuasive. He has a captivating and natural courtesy, great personal charm, a sly and self-appreciative sense of humour and an ability to present his case lucidly and convincingly. Although I often asked him questions which might have offended him by their implications, he never raved or became excited. On reflection afterwards I often found his logic unsound and his optimism unwarranted. But I could not consider him either a megalomaniac or a fool.

* * *

I BELIEVE that he sees himself as a cross between Gandhi and Garibaldi. He is an old man, suffering for the meanest of his people, rising from his sick bed to do his duty, although longing with all his heart for the moment when he can lay his duties down and retire into delightful obscurity. Also, he is a militant nationalist, defying the foreign oppressor and freeing his people from the foreign yoke. The picture is too simple and too flattering. I am convinced that Mossadegh enjoys power far more than he knows, and that he will only relinquish it with the most bitter reluctance. There is no doubt at all that he sincerely believes in the policy he has pursued, but he has also greatly enjoyed the limelight involved in his pursuit of it.

* * *

AGAIN it is true that he makes some effort to imitate Gandhi in the comparative simplicity of his life. (His severe little cot looked a great deal less comfortable than my own hotel bed.) He is is not the Cadillac-and-caviar type of Persian millionaire. But a millionaire he is, and he has done no more than others of his class to improve the condition of his peasants at his own expense. As for his sickness, you can feel no doubt of its genuineness when you look into that grey, corrugated, exhausted face. Yet it is a sickness which is not incompatible with a life of frenzied energy. It is a genuine sickness, but it is also a convenient one—and in the case of this strange indiyidual both these things are possible.

* * *

AGAIN, Mossadegh is shrewd as a politician, but devastatingly naive as a statesman. He has constantly outwitted his opponents by the ingenuity of his political tactics, but when he talks about the eventual results of his own policy he is childishly optimistic, childishly blind to the painful facts. The truth is that he is not much interested in what happens after he has achieved his own clear purpose of nationalizing the oil industry.

He would have preferred to have come to terms and to have arrived at a working agreement with the British satisfactory to his own and his country's pride. (And he is at his most convincing when he argues for the practicability of his own proposals for a compromise). But his own fame will rest on his role as a liberator, and the probable effects of his "liberation" disturb him alarmingly little.

* * *

RETROSPECTIVELY, I find that I feel a genuine affection for Dr. Mossadegh and a limited admiration for him. I cannot dismiss him as a hypocrite, but nor can I share his simple-minded self-approbation. He is certainly not a wicked man, or a contemptible one. And I believe that one of the principal reasons for the tragic failure of Britain's Persian policy during the last six months has been our disastrous underestimation of Mossadegh's character, abilities and political power.

Abitibi An Ontario Colony?

(Le Devoir, Montreal)

The Abitibi is a veritable country, although isolated from the rest of the province of Quebec by the Laurentians and the forest. When the Abitibians talk of Quebec—communications are easier with Ontario—they currently say, "Down there." . . The business men of Montreal will make a mistake if they let their Ontario competitors trump their ace. The colony created in Quebec Abitibi is already very commercially productive and is destined to become more so. It already has a population of more than 100,000 souls and this should be doubled or tripled in a short time. It is a future market and the Abitibians, enterprising and aggressive as they are, can hardly be brought to understand the apathy of Montreal which abandons them without striking a blow to Toronto.

LOYALTY IN VERSE

Sir: Just a thought on the present royal visit.

TWO LOVELY PEOPLE

(On the occasion of the royal visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.)

Two lovely people, lovely and royal,
Will sojourn with us for awhile;
Our hearts and homes will be open to them
In buoyant Canadian style.

May the blessing of God be upon them
As they journey through East and West;
Their happiness will be our good pleasure
In this nation so richly blest.

All hail to Elizabeth and Philip,
Who, some day, God willing, will be
Our gracious Queen and fair Consort
Of a realm much endowed and free.

SCHOOL GUARD NEEDED

Sir: Several weeks ago the parents on Brioux and Edison avenues signed a petition requesting a school guard at Lansdowne and Park streets. This is an extremely dangerous crossing for adults as well as children. It was bad enough to have them transferred from Confederation School to King Edward, let alone have them cross this street unguarded and now the police commission has turned it down.

In this particular instance I have three small children, the oldest attending kindergarten at King Edward school. Now each day at 1.00 p.m. I have to take my child to school, leaving a baby in bed having his afternoon nap and cart another 3-year-old with me. This is very inconvenient and I am not the only one doing it. If I don't follow this procedure I take a chance on some accident happening at this corner. If I do accompany her I run a risk of something happening to my baby while I am away, so what am I to do?

Now I ask the Police Commission is it going to cost all that to put some man there who would be glad to earn extra money each week or do they have to wait until some child has lost their life before they will act?

Incidentally, many times I have failed to cross that intersection on a green light only because of cars making their right hand turn, so what chance has a five-year-old got?

"WORRIED MOTHER".

BREACH OF GOOD TASTE

Sir: The behaviour of Dr. Hugh Keenleyside in Jakarta was certainly a breach of good taste. Regardless of the fact, the U.N. has outlawed social relationship with former officers of the Nazi Regime. It would have been extremely nice on behalf of Canada, had Dr. Keenleyside accepted the hand of Dr. Schacht in good fellowship.

The writer of this letter is neither British nor Canadian, he should therefore, mind his own business. On the other hand, your paper and its columns holds no monopoly on your readers views, whether he be European or Anglo-Saxon; therefore, when international reports are published in your paper, or in any other paper, everyone has the right to accept or criticize the articles, the condition warrants.

Dr. Hugh Keenleyside was an invited guest to the reception, in the least, he could have behaved the gentleman. Had Dr. Keenleyside a personal grudge against Dr. Schacht, the reaction would have been entirely different. As it was, Dr. Keenleyside demonstrated the character and hostile attitude of the Canadian people.

There has been considerable controversy in the light of Dr. Keenleyside's conduct. Said a gentleman to the writer recently, "Who do you think of the two persons, possesses the finer qualities?" The answer is obvious.

Regardless of the horrors of war, a newer generation has come into being; therefore, for humanities' sake, us older folk should strive to create better goodwill among men of other nations, rather than slash their throats with the gall of hatred.

Sincerely yours,
A. J. J. STRANGE.

"Go down to the river," she told him, "and look around till you find a pole with a worm on each end."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? (Ps. 27: 1.)

* * *

Say to them that are of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not: behold, your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompence; he will come and save you. (Isa. 35: 4.)

* * *

Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children. . . . For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Iord: walk as children of light: (for the fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness and righteousness and truth;) proving what is acceptable unto the Lord.

And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. (Eph. 5: 1, 8-11.)

Riches Stuck On Wall

The suburban New York doctor did it for a joke.

He was fixing up a new den in his home and he thought it would be fun to paper the walls with worthless securities. He went to a New York City firm specializing in obsolete securities. It is a firm which will buy and sell almost any sort of securities. The doctor bought a batch of supposedly "worthless" bonds for $34. A paperhanger did the decorating. The den got a lot of laughs, but that was all—until a year later.

Then the trustee in bankruptcy of the company which issued the bonds traced the doctor.

"There are several hundred thousand dollars left to pay off first mortgage bond holders," the trustee said. "Will you sell back your bonds?"

"I'll sell," he said, "if I can get them off the wall."

The trustee said that wouldn't be necessary. A few days later a man came out, cancelled every bond on the wall with a rubber stamp and gave the doctor a cheque of $18,000.

The doctor's bonds were a part of a golden treasury of more than a billion dollars held by American corporations for stock and bond holders who can't be found.

Some have forgotten that they own the securities. Others erroneously think them valueless. Still others have inherited them with no idea of their worth. Corporations spend hundreds of thousands of dollars a year trying to hunt these security holders down.

Ontario Sugar Harvest

Beet sugar factories at Chatham and Wallaceburg will begin fall operations on October 9 and 15 respectively, providing adverse weather conditions do not delay beet harvests.

Sugar beets are now being delivered to three of the eighteen outlying points. Growers who deliver to the Chatham factory are expected to begin their harvests the end of this week. Wallaceburg area is scheduled to begin field operations a week later.

Latest estimates of southwestern Ontario's beet crop are 353,000 tons, which is higher than earlier forecasts. If present ideal growing weather continues, company agriculturists say crop figures may be revised upwards again.

Sugar beet growers report an ample supply of field labour.

UK Chiefs Aware Of Red A-Bomb Blast

LONDON, Oct. 10 (Reuters) — British defence chiefs had detailed knowledge of Russia's second atom-bomb explosion from their own intelligence sources long before President Truman announced it, Chapman Pincher, The Daily Express science correspondent, reported Tuesday.

Royal Air Force patrol planes equipped with atom-ray counters detected radio-active particles in clouds drifting away from Russian territory, the report said.

Pincher said that from tests made, British scientists rated the bomb as no more powerful than the first Soviet atom explosion, believed to have had the blast power of about 20,000 tons of TNT — same as the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

Girl 14 Saves Sister In Burning Home

OSHAWA, Oct. 10 (CP)—Earlene Luke, 14, dragged her nine-year-old sister, Carol, from a burning apartment Tuesday night and returned twice to the building in an attempt to save the family pets.

The fire, which apparently started in an overheated stove, forced 12 other persons out of the four-apartment building for the night.

Earlene managed to carry out her canary, Dickie, but Puddles, the family dog, died in the flames. Mrs. Luke was attending a meeting at the time of the fire.

Church Leaders Visit Korea

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP). — Church leaders, representing Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, United Church of Canada and Anglican churches have been invited by the army to visit Korea next month. All are expected to go.

They are to be flown to Tokyo probably by Canadian Pacific Airlines, and then taken to Korea, right into the front lines.

The trip would take about two weeks. During the visit in Korea, the church leaders likely will be invited to take part in a Sunday service with Canada's 25th Brigade.

Church leaders who have been invited are: Roman Catholic Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec City; the Rev. Norman Kennedy of Regina, Presbyterian Church Moderator; the Rev. C. M. Nicholson of Halifax, Moderator of the United Church of Canada and the Most Rev. Walter Barfoot of Edmonton, Anglican Primate of Canada.

Millstone Memory Of First Moonshiner

GODERICH, Oct. 10 (CP). — A large millstone under the picture of its owner, Donald MacDonald, in the Huron county museum here commemorates the county's first moonshiner.

MacDonald settled here in 1846 and set up a mill. Profits were poor and the miller began to make moonshine instead of flour. His whisky was so good that it beguiled two revenuers who came to seize it.

A third agent destroyed the still. The millstone too was broken and part of it was used as a garden ornament on the farm until salvaged recently by H. Neale, curator of the Huron museum.

Coldsprings YPU Holds Meeting

COLDSPRINGS, Oct. 10. (ENS) —"Jonah and his trip to Tarsus" was the topic of the address given by Mrs. A. Robertson, of Havelock, guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Coldsprings YPU.

She ended her address with the challenge to "Reach your hand out for the better things in life."

The meeting was in charge of Miss Eunice Minifie, Fellowship convener. Scripture reading was given by Lois Snelgrove with prayer by Miss Minifie. Bill Little sang a piano solo. Lorene Timlin read a po[illegible] You Will."

Some items were read from the Bay of Quinte paper pertaining to the Coldsprings YPU activities during the summer months. Coldsprings were undefeated champions at the softball tournament held at Roseneath where they were presented with a cup and crests. Following that, at Quin-Mo-Lac, Madoc, where the Presbytery field day was held, Coldsprings was successful in winning the most points for the sports, but were defeated in the second and final ball game. Miss Jean Willis, a member of Coldsprings YPU, was the all-round girl champion for that day, winning the most points.

Robert Turner, president, conducted the business. Ross Timlin invited the YPU to his home for the next meeting, which will be a croquinole party.

Mr. Brown moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Robertson for her address. Recreation was enjoyed.

UK Chiefs Aware Of Red A-Bomb Blast

LONDON, Oct. 10 (Reuters) — British defence chiefs had detailed knowledge of Russia's second atom-bomb explosion from their own intelligence sources long before President Truman announced it, Chapman Pincher, The Daily Express science correspondent, reported Tuesday.

Royal Air Force patrol planes equipped with atom-ray counters detected radio-active particles in clouds drifting away from Russian territory, the report said.

Pincher said that from tests made, British scientists rated the bomb as no more powerful than the first Soviet atom explosion, believed to have had the blast power of about 20,000 tons of TNT — same as the first atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

Girl 14 Saves Sister In Burning Home

OSHAWA, Oct. 10 (CP)—Earlene Luke, 14, dragged her nine-year-old sister, Carol, from a burning apartment Tuesday night and returned twice to the building in an attempt to save the family pets.

The fire, which apparently started in an overheated stove, forced 12 other persons out of the four-apartment building for the night.

Earlene managed to carry out her canary, Dickie, but Puddles, the family dog, died in the flames. Mrs. Luke was attending a meeting at the time of the fire.

Church Leaders Visit Korea

OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP). — Church leaders, representing Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, United Church of Canada and Anglican churches have been invited by the army to visit Korea next month. All are expected to go.

They are to be flown to Tokyo probably by Canadian Pacific Airlines, and then taken to Korea, right into the front lines.

The trip would take about two weeks. During the visit in Korea, the church leaders likely will be invited to take part in a Sunday service with Canada's 25th Brigade.

Church leaders who have been invited are: Roman Catholic Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec City; the Rev. Norman Kennedy of Regina, Presbyterian Church Moderator; the Rev. C. M. Nicholson of Halifax, Moderator of the United Church of Canada and the Most Rev. Walter Barfoot of Edmonton, Anglican Primate of Canada.

Millstone Memory Of First Moonshiner

GODERICH, Oct. 10 (CP). — A large millstone under the picture of its owner, Donald MacDonald, in the Huron county museum here commemorates the county's first moonshiner.

MacDonald settled here in 1846 and set up a mill. Profits were poor and the miller began to make moonshine instead of flour. His whisky was so good that it beguiled two revenuers who came to seize it.

A third agent destroyed the still. The millstone too was broken and part of it was used as a garden ornament on the farm until salvaged recently by H. Neale, curator of the Huron museum.

Coldsprings YPU Holds Meeting

COLDSPRINGS, Oct. 10. (ENS) —"Jonah and his trip to Tarsus" was the topic of the address given by Mrs. A. Robertson, of Havelock, guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Coldsprings YPU.

She ended her address with the challenge to "Reach your hand out for the better things in life."

The meeting was in charge of Miss Eunice Minifie, Fellowship convener. Scripture reading was given by Lois Snelgrove with prayer by Miss Minifie. Bill Little sang a piano solo. Lorene Timlin read a poem, "If You Will."

Some items were read from the Bay of Quinte paper pertaining to the Coldsprings YPU activities during the summer months. Coldsprings were undefeated champions at the softball tournament held at Roseneath where they were presented with a cup and crests. Following that, at Quin-Mo-Lac, Madoc, where the Presbytery field day was held, Coldsprings was successful in winning the most points for the sports, but were defeated in the second and final ball game. Miss Jean Willis, a member of Coldsprings YPU, was the all-round girl champion for that day, winning the most points.

Robert Turner, president, conducted the business. Ross Timlin invited the YPU to his home for the next meeting, which will be a croquinole party.

Mr. Brown moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Robertson for her address. Recreation was enjoyed.

COMING THROUGH—Vancouver Combines Kenny Webb gets plenty of attention from Peterborough Petes' Arn Dugan (left) and Marv McKenzie as he hurtles into Peterborough territory for his only goal of the fifth game of the Mann cup and the Canadian lacrosse championship series in Vancouver. Peterborough goalie Lloyd (Moon) Wootton, beaten on this shot, was a star of the best-of-seven series won by the Petes and Wootton was awarded the Mike Kelly memorial medal as the most valuable player in the series.

NHL All-Star Teams Tie 2-2 In Maple Leaf Garden Show

TORONTO, Oct. 10 (CP). — Most of the great players of modern hockey performed at Maple Leaf Gardens here Tuesday night as the National Hockey League's two teams of all-stars played to a 2-2 tie.

A crowd of 11,445 watched the all-star game, an annual event, and contributed about $16,840 to the hockey players' pension fund.

Actual gate receipts were $25,259.75 but one-third of that amount went for rental of the Gardens.

The second all-star team, coached by Joe Primeau of Toronto Maple Leafs, came from behind with a third-period goal by Kenny Mosdell of Montreal Canadiens to tie the score after the first team coached by Montreal's Dick Irvin, had gone ahead twice.

Both starting teams were chosen at the end of last season in a ballot conducted by the league among sports writers and broadcasters. Alternates for the first team came from United States clubs of the NHL, and the two Canadian teams provided additional players for the second squad.

Howe Stars

Gordie Howe, star right winger for Detroit Red Wings who appeared in his fourth consecutive annual all-star game, scored the only goal of the first period, on a passing play with Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins and Ted Lindsay, a Detroit linemate.

As it turned out, Howe's goal was the only one scored by one of the members of either of the two original all-star teams.

Tod Sloan, high-scoring Toronto right winger, in his first all-star performance, scored a second-period goal on a passing play with team-mates Harry Watson and Max Bentley to tie the score 1-1.

With less than five minutes left in the period, Johnny Peirson of Boston put the first team ahead again, picking the corner on a close-in shot. Gaye Stewart and Don Raleigh, both of New York Rangers, were credited with assists.

Sloan, who stood out for the second team, also helped on the tying goal, setting the play for Mosdell's tally at 9:25 of the third period.

This year's game was the first to pit one all-star team against another. In four previous games the all-stars played the Stanley Cup champions of the previous season. They won three, all from Toronto Maple Leafs, and lost only one, to Detroit Red Wings last season.

Howe's goal in last night's game was his second in all-star play. But Lindsay, who has taken part in every all-star game since it started in 1947, is top all-star scorer with four goals and two assists.

CLIPPER CLIPS BARBER—Joe DiMaggio (No. 5) is greeted in the dugout by his teammates after his fifth-inning home run off the New York Giants' Sal (The Barber) Maglie. The Yankee Clipper's blow, w a man on, was only his second hit in Series. But it was the eighth Series hor he's hit in his career. The Yanks won, 6 and again Tuesday 13-1.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It's just a thought, but wouldn't it be nice if the Petes' senior lacrosse club got an invite to the 1952 Olympics next summer in Helsinki, Finland? Games are from July 19 to Aug. 3, while the winter Olympics will be held Feb. 14 to 25 in Oslo, Norway, next year. Lacrosse may not even be played during the 15th Olympiad, but several countries go in a bit for the gutted-stick game. Peterborough as '51 Mann Cup champions—Canadian titleholders—would be the logical choice from this country. There are a few matters, though, which might crop up. Such as getting all the team together, if a bid came through, proving that all were strictly amateurs, and then getting time off work. Okay, okay, it was just a thought.

* * * * * *

No, Peterborough sports followers will settle for a Dominion senior championship club, the local lacrossers. All of whom, by the way, want to perform for the Petes' Timbermen next season. Plus lots of others, no doubt. Bob Thorpe is settling down in this city, and giving up pro hockey—nor will he likely play amateur hockey this winter, either. Nit O'Hearn will settle here for keeps next spring after one more season in the AHL. Ike Hildebrand intends to continue in pro puck ranks but wants to make his home here and spend the summers in this borough. Ditto with Don Ashbee. Apart from Fitz and Wipper (college chaps), all the others are staying right in this city.

Celebration This Eve

Instead of arriving here late this aft, as first planned, the champs will have a rest in Toronto and come in at 7.45 (not 8.45) this eve at the CPR station. A parade then at eight up the main stem to the Armouries, where players will be introduced to the fans. Everyone welcome. Be on deck to meet them on arrival and view the banded procession. Drop in to the Armouries and meet the bunch. A gala affair. Players' wives and the executive will be along, too. And the minors. Then they adjourn to the Empress Hotel for a civic reception by the Mayor and council members, and a buffet dinner. Rings, bearing the city crest, will be given to the Canadian winners by the city council. A nice gesture and a fitting one.

* * * * * *

Most of the Petes will be on hand, though Ike and Don and Nit are off to the pro puck wars. Fitz may leave them in Toronto for his home in St. Catharines to recuperate from his operation—we haven't heard. The three replacements in the cup series (Merv McKenzie, Don McPhail and Denny Peterson) have been invited to the "do" and will most likely be on hand. The team took time off for a brief rest after the strenuous playoff series and also jogged through to a 15-14 exhibition win—shy O'Hearn and not worrying too much—in Victoria ere flying back east last night, being due in Toronto about noon. But you'll see them tonight to help celebrate their victory in the Mann Cup finals.

His Ludship Unpopular

His ludship, Athol Layton, can't understand why he is unpopular lately in the wrestling rings. He helped open the mat season here last eve and was booed plenty. It might be that his slashing of Whipper Bill Watson recently in Kingston to put him in hospital is the answer. He uses a side-hand slash to the throat and it bothered Tim Geohagen plenty last p.m. in the main bout. However, the final fall went to Layton when he was nearly out with Tim's "Irish sleeper". He flopped back on the Irisher and it was curtains for Timothy. Zorra, the French Tarzan, proved a mighty handy guy with his feet as he beat blond Steve Stanlee in the semi-final, a popular fall with the fans. A hot prelim saw Sonny Kurgis and Jack Wentworth go to a draw.

Victory Hi is an appropriate name for Stan Blewett's horse which has been burning up the tracks in harness horse race meets all over the fall fair district this season. Setting track records is becoming a regular habit with this outstanding blind pacer. A week ago last Friday at Warkworth, Victory Hi broke the record and followed up with a similar performance next day in Port Hope. Did likewise in Madoc the next Wednesday, and came home in front last Saturday at Markham in the record time of 2.07 4/5, two seconds faster than the smashing time set by the same horse a year ago. A remarkable racer with a suitable name.

Wants Series Schedule

TORONTO, Oct. 10 — (CP) — Bill Hanley, business manager of the Ontario Hockey Association, today issued a plea to teams planning on entering any of the associaton's series to get word to him as soon as posible. Deadline for entries is Nov. 1 but Hanley said some groups are anxious to prepare their schedules and get into action. So far about 10 teams have filed entries. The total is expected to run from 150 to 160.

Layton Takes Irish Timothy In Top Bout Of Grapple Card

The "Irish Sleeper" backfired on Timothy Geohagen in the main bout of the pro wrestling show last evening in the Brock Arena, and Lord Athol Layton emerged the victor. With the unconscious hold applied on him, his nibs staggered to a corner and then fell back on Tim, the latter's head hitting the floor so hard he was knocked out. Layton staggered to his feet before the count was up and got the duke.

A fair-sized crowd viewed the lovely three-bout card to open the mat season here. Layton won the main bout with two falls to one, while Zorra, billed as the French Tarzan, took the semi-final over Steve Stanlee. The prelim went to a sizzling draw between Sonny Kurgis and Jack Wentworth.

Lots Of Action

More action was served up in this prelim than in the other two bouts. Wentworth of Alabama, scaling 228 to the Columbus, Ohio, grappler's 226, played it rough from the start. But the other got in some hot licks, also, to keep the crowd yelling as he was the favorite. They kicked, gouged and tossed each other out of the ring between choke holds in hot manner. Sonny even varied the tossing-out procedure by slipping under the ring and nailing his rough rival from the rear. That really tickled the customers. The go ended in a deadlock after 30 minutes.

The Great Zorra of Paris, France, weighing 235, had too much in 24 minutes for 238-pound Steve Stanlee of New York in the semi-windup. The Frenchman, plenty popular, had legs that worked like arms and feet like fists for action. He went in for the "savate" style of French wrestling, using a great variety of kicks, and springing about the ring more like a big, loose boxer than a heavy wrestler. Stanlee was rough and able at times, but stalled plenty in arguing with Referee Bunny Dunlop, and finally was caught coming off the ropes with a timely boot to slow him up. A prolonged airplane spin and slam finished him.

Weight Advantage

Lord Athol Layton, tall 260-pound Englishman, had it over chunky but powerful Timothy Geohagen of Dublin, going 225, in height and weight. And he used his hard side-hand slash to the throat a lot in the main melee. This was the type of blow that hospitalized Whipper Bill Watson in Kingston this summer and kept him out of the ring for more than a month. It made Layton unpopular here. Tim first gave an exhibition of his "Irish Sleeper" to several spectatoss before the final bout commenced.

It took Athol—minus his man Gerald—15 minutes to pin Tim with his "English octopus", like a reverse double leglock, after he threw Geohagen into the hemp and slashed him as he bounced off. Tim was plenty powerful but couldn't cope with that slash, and the referee's warnings failed to stop Layton from using it. It was a lively tussle but the fans booed the winner of the first fall.

Tim Evened It

Tim tore back with a vengeance next round to win in nine minutes as he got his "Irish sleeper" going on the neck sides of his ludship. The latter finally revived to grapple in a daze with an indignant Bunny Dunlop, who revived him. This round was mostly Tim as he lugged his big adversary around the ring handily and chucked him into the ring turnbuckles in the softening-up process before he got his favorite grip for the fall. The other used the odd bit of judo, but also showed some fancy mat work with leglocks and arm grips, as well as rolling holds. They were both in the same rocking chair grip once and mutually agreed to break it. The fans cheered Tim when his hand was hoisted.

The final fall came in just eight minutes when the groggy Layton staggered to the corner with Geohagen riding piggy-back and then fell back on him to black out Tim. Just before that, Tim applied the same hold but it was near the ropes and the strong Layton crept to the safety of the strands where the ref broke it up. He had been slashing at the Irisher, but Tim fought back fiercely in a determined effort to get that pet grip on his nib's neck. He did but it backfired. He was revived by the referee as Layton lifted his own hand in token of victory as boos from the fans showered down upon him.

KNOCKS IT DOWN—Ken Charlton, veteran halfback of Saskatchewan Roughriders, leaps high in the air to knock down an Edmonton Eskimos' pass intended for Jim MacRae (41). Sully Glasser, another Rider pass defender, partially hidden by Charlton, is also in on the play. Riders won the game, played in Regina, 25-18.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Columnist Bill Cuningham, of The Boston Herald quotes Ted Williams as saying he would quit baseball if traded or sold by Boston Red Sox.

In a copyrighted story Tuesday, The Herald says:

"In a telephone call from Princeton, Minn., to New York Tuesday, Williams said he would emulate Bobby Dierr and break with baseball completely and retire to a connection with a manufacturer of fishing tackle if the Red Sox trade or sell him."

The story said Williams had seen articles to the effect that the Red Sox were to be broken up and that he is almost certain to be the first man traded.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., shot a four-under-par 68 to beat Dave Douglas and Doug Ford by four strokes in an 18-hole playoff for top money in the $15,000 Kansas City golf open Tuesday.

Both Douglas, of Newark, Del., and Ford, Harrison, NY, shot even par-72 over the 6,500 yard Milburn Country Club course.

A 10-man United States Ryder Cup team, headed by Sammy Snead and listing two newcomers to the international competition, has been named for the 1951 matches with Britain's best golf pros at Pinehurst, NC, Nov. 2 and 4.

The array of top US stars, as announced by the Professional Golfers' Association of America, included Snead, Lloyd Mangrum, Jack Burke, Jr., Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan, Ed Oliver, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Henry Ransom, Clayton Heafner and Skip Alexander.

The Yankees have hit five home runs in the 1951 world series but none has been as puny as the 257-foot poke little Phil Rizzuto sent into the right field stands against southpaw Montia Kennedy in Tuesday's fifth game.

Even the 33-year-old five-foot-eight shortstop admits that.

"I can see the headlines now. 'Chinese home runs beat Giants,'" Rizzuto said. "But I don't care. It's in the records.

"All I was trying to do was hit to right field. The hit and run was on with Gene Woodling on first. Anyone playing all season in the Polo Grounds should get about six lucky home runs a year."

Rizzuto's drive barely cleared the right field wall just inside of the foul pole.

"It may have been a cheapie but at least I know it would have been a double in most parks," said Rizzuto.

It was the second world series home run for the little scooter. He hit his first in the 1942 world series against St. Louis Cardinals.

FIRST BLOOD—Alvin Dark of the New York Giants sc in the first inning to send his team in front in the fo game of the World Series. Dark tallied on Monte Ir single. Yogi Berri is Yanks' catcher and Al Barlic umpire. The Yanks won, 6-2.

Laurel race track plans to open for 14 days today with cab drivers, bartenders, salesmen and bus drivers pinch-hitting behind the betting windows.

Many of the regular mutuel employees will be on picket lines around the track between Baltimore and Washington.

The pickets were mustered by the American Federation of Labor which is demanding a contract with the track. The track already has a contract, its first, with an independent union representing mutuel employees.

But the track is hiring any who wants to work for $13 a cashing tickets, $12 for sc them, and $10 for checkin betting.

nkees Close In For Kill ter Blasting ltering Giants 13-1

ACK HAND

EW YORK, Oct. 10. (AP)—Flexing their muscles after 3-1 slaughter at the Polo Grounds, the aroused New York ees closed in for the kill today with Vic Raschi primed to Dave Koslo of the Giants in the sixth World Series at Yankee Stadium. Once more Leo Durocher's desperate Giants had their backs to the wall, a most familiar position. Trailing 3-2 in games, they can't afford to lose any more. The Yanks need only one more victory for their third straight world championship.

Durocher chose Koslo, a 31-year-old lefthander, for his do-or-die effort. He gambled and won with Dave against Allie Reynolds in the opening game at the Stadium. Passing up Jim Hearn, the third-game winner, he pinned his hopes on cool Koslo to keep them popping up in the spacious Yankee home park.

In their final Polo Grounds appearance of the season the Giants surrendered meekly to a 12-hit Yankee bombing that included a grand-slam homer by rookie Gil McDougald and a "Chinese" homer by Phil Rizzuto.

Hurt Himself

Larry Jansen, twice a loser in the series, had shoddy backing. Still he hurt himself with four walks and that home run ball to McDougald, the 22-year-old kid from San Francisco who only two years ago was playing class B ball with Victoria in the Western International League.

By the time the Yankees finished touching up Montia Kennedy, George Spencer and Al Cronin, Durocher had to call on a gent named Alex Konikowski, late of Ottawa, to finish. It didn't matter much then to the 47,530 fans most of whom had departed long ago.

Why are the Yanks leading? It's as simple as the batting averages. Of 35 Giant hits, 20 are concentrated in Monte Irvin (.550) and Al Dark (.429.)

Bobby Brown, (.357) is showing his usual October form. Rizzuto (.333) has the most hits of any Yankee, seven. Young McDougald (.316) is hitting in the clutches. And Joe DiMaggio (.238) is making a fine recovery from an 0 for 12 start.

The Yanks have scored 25 runs, the Giants 15. The Yanks have a .247 team average, the Giants .220. The Yanks have five home runs, the Giants two. Add two fine pitching jobs by lefty Ed Lopat and a fine comeback by Allie Reynolds and you have enough reasons.

Lopat was plenty cute Tuesday sprinkling five hits. Only one Giant reached second base against him after the first inning. Irvin ran his hit total to 11, one short of the record, and was robbed of the 12th by Gene Woodling's fine running catch in the ninth inning. Dark's two hits boosted his total to nine. Wes Westrum's double was the only other hit.

Yanks Celebrate

All the Yanks celebrated except Lopat. DiMaggio had three hits, Rizzuto and Brown two each and all the others had one.

Judging from Tuesday's final score, you never would think the Giants once led in the game. But they did, 1-0 at the end of the first on singles by Dark and Irvin and an error by Woodling.

DiMaggio's single following two walks tied the score early in the third. After an intentional walk to Johnny Mize loaded the bases, McDougald unloaded them with a homer into the upper left field seats.

It was the third bases-loaded homer in series history and the first since Tony Lazzeri "pooshed" one up for the Yanks in an 18-4 rout of the Giants, Oct. 2, 1936.

Rizzuto's homer came after Woodling walked in the fourth. Phil reached for an outside pitch by Kennedy and punched the ball into the right field stands, just inside the foul pole at the 257-foot mark.

Two singles plus an error by Clint Hartung set up another run off Spencer in the sixth. Johnny Mize doubled home another.

Four more came home in the seventh when Spencer walked Rizzuto with the bases full, Al Corwin wild pitched Joe Collins across and DiMaggio's double delivered two more.

Quebec Blasts Citadelles 6-1

QUEBEC, Oct. 10 (CP).—Quebec Citadelles, still smarting from their ouster in the Memorial Cup semi-finals last spring at the hands of Barrie Flyers, Tuesday night defeated the Flyers 6-1 in an exhibition game.

The rough game was marked by 24 penalties, including 18 in a wild second period when fights broke out at almost every play. In the third period there were no penalties as both teams steadied down to honest play with Quebec holding a three-goal scoring edge.

Barrie collected 12 penalties including two majors and Quebec also received a dozen, two majors and a 10-minute misconduct among them.

Bruce Cline scored Quebec's first goal in the first period and Doug Mohns got the only goal for Barrie, minutes later to tie it up. From then on Gordie Haworth, Roger Guay, Camille Henry and Labadie scored without a reply.

Princess, Duke Charm Quebec In Whirlwind Royal Visit

By JOHN LEBLANC

QUEBEC, Oct. 10 (CP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh won the hearts of thousands of charmed Quebecers in a whirlwind tour of this ancient capital Tuesday. They begin their visit to Ottawa today.

From the moment they stepped off the Royal train which brought them from Montreal until they pulled out of Palais Station Tuesday night, they were the objects of avid interest and lusty cheers.

Their day began on the waterfront near the cove where the British General James Wolfe landed his soldiers and won Canada for the British Empire centuries ago. There, a boatload of immigrants from Europe caught their first glimpse of the Princess, who some day may reign on the throne of England, and her husband.

Speaking in flawless French, the Princess made a gracious reply to Premier Maurice Duplessis' toast at a State dinner Tuesday night, the most formal function attended by the Royal couple since their arrival in Canada Monday.

Noisy Greeting

Quebec's greeting was a noisy one Tuesday morning. Church bells pealed, ship whistles tooted, trumpets blared out and the crowd cheered. From their meeting with Premier Duplessis and Lieutenant - Governor Gaspard Fauteux at the train, the Royal party drove through the streets to the Legislature.

After meeting members of the Legislative Council there, they drove to Laval University then on to city hall to meet Mayor Lucien Borne and to sign the Golden Book.

But from the point of view of the ordinary citizen, the three-mile drive through the streets that the Princess and the Duke took provided the best opportunity of a close view of the couple. The streets were lined four-deep on both sides at some points.

They attended a reception at the Citadel where they met officers of the Regiment de la Chaudiere of which Princess Elizabeth is Colonel-in-Chief, before going to luncheon with the Lieutenant-Governor.

Makes Inspection

The lunch was followed by an inspection of men of the 27th Brigade in that unit's last parade before going overseas as Canada's North Atlantic Treaty contribution. The crowds equalled the 15,000 school children who saw the Royal couple at the Coliseum afterwards.

Another reception at the Lieutenant-Governor's residence took up the afternoon.

The State dinner was a sumptuous affair at which the Princess appeared in a tiara and diamond necklace and a grey-silver lace and tullee evening gown. The menu with a main course of breast of pheasant was elaborate.

The Princess made a brief reply to her host, Premier Duplessis, who proposed a toast. In it she said that when she put foot on Canadian soil "I knew myself to be not only amongst friends but amongst fellow-countrymen."

Attend Concert

After the 2½-hour dinner, the Royal couple attended a symphony concert and fashion show at one of the city's principal theatres. By that time they had fallen behind in their schedule and their train pulled out at 11.25 o.m. EST, almost an hour behind time.

About 4,000 jammed the area in front of Palais Station and another 3,000 crowded the Concourse when the Princess, the Duke, Premier Duplessis, the Lieutenant-Governor and others arrived. The Royal couple thanked their hosts while the crowd cheered.

QUEEN IS ASSURED—Standing in the doorway of the Royal train, Princess Elizabeth telephones the Queen in London, Eng., to assure the family of the safe arrival at Dorval of herself and the Duke of Edinburgh. At right a porter looks out on the crowd as the train prepares to leave for Quebec Monday afternoon.

OLD CANNON

The bombard was an army cannon introduced about the 15th century which could fire st balls weighing as much as pounds.

Blames Friend In Car Plunge

PORT COLBORNE, Oct. 10 — (CP)—John Kilian, 16, of Buffalo, NY, in court on a manslaughter charge, Tuesday blamed another youth for causing an accident in which two persons lost their lives last month when an automobile Kilian was driving plunged into the Welland Canal.

Kilian said William Olson, 16, also of Buffalo, grabbed the steering wheel, sending the car out of control. Olson and Carl Hoerner, also 16 and from Buffalo, were drowned.

However, James Granton and James Case, Buffalo youths who escaped from the car under water testified at the preliminary hearing that they saw no struggle for the wheel. Granton said that prior to the collision, Olson lurched against the driver.

The magistrate ordered Kilian to stand trial in higher court.

Given 12 Months In Forgery Case

STRATFORD, Oct. 10 (CP) — A. W. Lawrence of St. Thomas was sentenced to 12 months in Ontario reformatory in Guelph after pleading guilty to eight charges of false pretences and three charges of forgery.

Seven of 11 charges involving amounts of money totalling over $200 concerned offences in which Stratford persons were swindled out of cash, shoes, gas and a bicycle, in September. The other four offences occurred in Brantford in August.

Flees To Berlin

BERLIN, Oct. 10—(Reuters)—Karel Doubs, 32, one of Czechoslovakia's leading tennis players, has fled to West Berlin. He intends to emigrate to Canada or Australia. Douba said he was dropped from the national team in 1949 when sentenced to one year's forced labor for "political unreliability."

FIVE ROSES
ORIGINAL ALL PURPOSE FLOUR
is Dependable

"I brought my family up on crisp, country-fresh home-bakings from FIVE ROSES flour, so naturally I use it for all my baking. My little ones —and my husband, too!—can't wait to get into the cooky jar or taste pies made with FIVE ROSES — and when I bake a batch of bread, it seems to be eaten up in a minute! As soon as my little girl is old enough, she'll begin baking with FIVE ROSES — making two generations!"
MRS. WALTER F. HIBBS, R.R. #2, Domville, Ont.

"The first time my husband had lunch at home, he told me "Above all, you are a Blue Ribbon Cook!" Everybody laughed, and my mother explained that nothing was astonishing about it, because she had taught me to bake with FIVE ROSES flour. Believe me — my husband makes sure that FIVE ROSES is used all the time in our home!"
MRS. ARTHUR BOUCHER, 8 St. André St., Rimouski, P.Q.

"I have used FIVE ROSES flour for twenty-five years, and it has never let me down. My husband and friends always compliment me on my cakes, cookies, breads and most anything I bake. I would not like to be without a large bag of FIVE ROSES flour in our home."
MRS. J. EPWORTH, 536A Oakwood Avenue, Toronto, Ontario

"FIVE ROSES All Purpose Flour is my favourite cooking friend. It has never once, in all the years I have used it for baking, let me down. I like to do all our baking and am really proud of the wonderful results this all purpose flour gives. I certainly recommend FIVE ROSES for perfect baking."
MRS. CHARLES A. ROSE, Springhill, Nova Scotia

VOL. CIII. No. 83 WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1951 PRICE FIVE CENTS

Royal Visit To Trenton On Friday

Schedule For Town Starts At 2:30 p.m. Includes Parade

Itinerary and timetable of the royal tour at Trenton Friday was given to the Examiner today by the town clerk's office. It will be as follows:

The royal train will arrive at Trenton junction station at 2:30 pm. Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will be met there by the officials of the town headed by His Worship Kenneth J. Couch and Mrs. Couch and roses will be presented to Her Highness by Mrs. L. McClintock, daughter of the Mayor.

Included in a group of town and county officials which will be present will be members of the council and their wives, heads of municipal departments, the church, Board of Education, hospital, and so forth. This ceremony, it is estimated, will take about eight minutes.

Motorcade

From the station a motorcade will proceed down Front St., along Division St. and onto Dundas St. W., Highway 2, to the RCAF air station. The parade through Trenton will take about 35 minutes and will travel at eight miles an hour.

Driving through the Memorial Gates of the air station, the royal car will come to a stop in front of the dais and Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will be greeted by AVM C. R. Slemon, CB, CBE. The royal guard, already drawn up, will present arms and the royal salute given by the firing of a 21-gun salvo. F/L J. M. Wicken of Victoria, commander of the royal guard, will accompany Their Majesties on an inspection of the guard.

Following this ceremony the main body of the parade, 600 troops led by the RCAF drum and trumpet band, will march through the Memorial Gate onto the square and deploy themselves in V formation. AVM Slemon will read the address of welcome and a colour and presentation party will come forward to the dais.

Presentation Officer F/O Burdette of Summerside, PEI, will hand the station's gift to AVM Slemon who will present it to Her Royal Highness.

The gift consists of four silver keys to the Memorial Gate. They will be enclosed in a seal-lined box of Canadian birdseye maple.

Then will come the marchpast with three RCAF bands from Trenton, Uplands and St. Hubert playing and an aerial salute of aircraft overhead. The royal couple will drive from the parade ground through the gate to the officers' mess where tea will be served and 80 of the 180 guests, presented.

Driving from the mess through a cordon of troops, the royal couple will board a waiting RCAF transport plane for take-off to Malton Airport, Toronto, about 4:30 pm.

Splash, Sabotage

COBOURG, Oct. 10 (ENS)—The stories are starting to come out of the recent duck season opener. A prominent King St. merchant sallied forth with gun, rubber boots and the latest in shooting attire, but he should have worn a diving suit because the first thing he did on arriving at the scene was to fall, gun and all, into the water. He made the return trip attired in a blanket.

Then there was another prominent businessman who wondered why his new rubber boots had sprung tiny leaks and why the shotgun shells sounded so funny when he fired them—incidentally, he didn't wonder why he didn't hit anything, because he doesn't as a rule, anyway. However, on investigation he discovered that some sadistic soul had bored tiny holes in the soles of his waders and had extracted the pellets from his shells. It is understood that he is gunning for the culprit with loaded shells.

Parade Arranged To Honor Lacrosse Champs

The Citizens' band, the CGE pipe band and the Peterborough Fire Department will serenade the Dominion lacrosse champions, the Timbermen, up George St. tonight as the players return from Vancouver with the Mann Cup.

The Timbermen arrived early today in three flights from Western Canada after an exhibition game with Victoria Shamrocks, the Inter-City league finalists, ousted by the Vancouver Combines.

Don Crowe's team proved their superiority in Canadian senior "A" lacrosse by edging the Shamrocks 15-14 Monday night in Victoria.

Met In Toronto

Some of the club executives and the players' wives and girl-friends met the team in Toronto where they rested for the afternoon after the flight east. They will motor by car to Peterborough arriving at the CPR station at 7:45 pm.

Then the parade will be formed and at 8 pm will move up George St. to the armouries.

Leading the parade will be the Citizens' Band followed by the club executives and the players' wives in cars. The Timbermen will be riding behind on trucks followed by the CGE pipe band.

Surrounding the players will be future senior players, the teams of the Peterborough Minor Lacrosse Association, tadpoles, peewees up to juveniles.

Public Welcome

The reception committee, headed by James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, has arranged a public welcome at the armouries. There the team, the executives, sports writers and radio announcers will be introduced to the people.

After the welcome at the armouries, the team will leave for a civic reception by the city council at the Empress Hotel. There at a buffet dinner, the team will receive rings, with the crest of the city of Peterborough.

Land Sold For Taxes Brings County $4,500

Approximately $4,500 was taken in Tuesday at the annual tax sale at the Peterborough county courthouse. Lots on which taxes have not been paid were put up for auction.

Mrs. J. A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer, said the receipts were about the same as other years. The original amount of tax arrears was $7,200 but $2,700 was paid off by the owners before the sale began.

Owners of proyerty that was auctioned of Tuesday have a year to redeem it by paying off their back taxes. Otherwise the deed will be handed over to the new bidder.

Masonic Temple Contract Given Mortlock

Contract for the building of the new Masonic Temple and the remodelling of the house on the Hamilton property on Reid St. was awarded on Tuesday night to Walter Mortlock at a meeting of the directors of the Masonic Hall Ltd. Invited bids were requested and Mr. Mortlock's was the lowest.

Plans call for the wrecking of the west wing on the present house and in its place to build a lodge room with dining room underneath. The stone house which was originally built in 1847 and enlarged by Robert Nicholls, was in 1850 occupied by the Masons of Peterborough shortly after the first masonic lodge was formed. It was then owned by the Odd Fellows and the masons were early tenants. Few changes will be made to the exterior of the fine old home which has stone walls two feet and more in thickness. In the interior the house will be made over into rooms that are necessary in a masonic temple and a smaller lodge room is planned in the second storey of the building.

The entire construction is being done without steel and plans call for completion early next fall.

S. Dummer School Honored For Improvement Award

Since the late 1800's, South Dummer school had changed very little. The bumpy playground was never improved and its fairly steep slope to the north had never been remedied. A year ago this past August, the school trustees of the area looked at South Dummer school and wondered what they might do to better it.

They thought that school should be more than a place where a child learns something and is given 15 minutes off in both morning and afternoon at recess time. Because boys and girls are bound to play in those brief minutes, they should have a safe and proper place to play.

Made Suggestion.

The suggestion for improvement came originally from the teacher, Mrs. Charles Beamish, after discussions with K. O. Birkin, inspector of schools for Peterborough East.

A trustee, John Danford, became infected with Mrs. Beamish's suggestion and spark-plugged the plan at meetings of the trustees. The other trustees, Carroll Cooper, Johnston Blakeley, Lloyd Montgomery and chairman Chester McCracken, did not need much convincing.

And so the trustees went to the people of the school area and sold them the idea. The people responded as the trustees had hoped; they gave their time and money to make South Dummer school a better school.

Almost 700 yards of fill went into the slope at the north. A mound running parallel with the road was levelled. The former United Church property, sold at a nominal sum to the school board seven years ago, became a ball field for the school, and the playground became a proper playground.

Started Lawn.

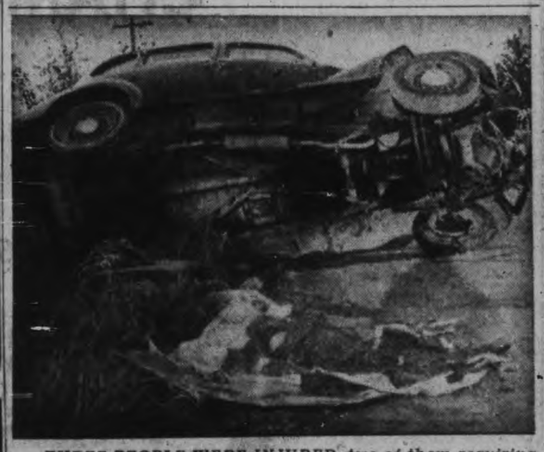
More dirt loads, this time of top soil, went on the 70 by 140 foot lot east of the old brick school. Grass seed completed the job, and this spring the trustees, Mrs. Beamish, and the people of the district, saw the real fruits of their efforts.

This year, as well, the school was entered for the G. K. Fraser trophy for the rural school in Peterborough county with the most improved grounds, and for the H. A. Jackman trophy on the provincial scale.

The Fraser trophy fell to South Dummer school, then the Jackman trophy, the latter given annually by an Owen Sound man; for whom it was named. Two hundred and forty-nine schools competed for the Jackman award.

On Tuesday, some of the people of the school area— from Asphodel and Dummer townships—came to the school to hear their work, and that of the directors, pupils and teachers, praised. It was the first time that a Peterborough east school had won the Jackman trophy.

The trophies were not presented at Tuesday's meeting; they will be awarded at the horticultural society banquets during the winter. But the thought was there.



Scott Speaks.

The Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, was the first speaker. Briefly, he congratulated everyone who had had a hand in the work on South Dummer school.

"We gathered here to show the people of this district that we appreciate what they have done. It is a wonderful thing to represent a riding where the people will go out and do something for themselves," said Mr. Scott.

G. A. Brethen, in 1896, a teacher at South Dummer school, recalled some of his school teacher days as he stood on the wooden platform in a chilly October breeze.

Reeve Rork Ferguson of Norwood told his audience that the people of Dummer and Asphodel were and always will be progressive and a good class of people.

THREE PEOPLE WERE INJURED, two of them requiring hospital treatment, after this accident a mile east of Douro on the road to Norwood. William Condon, 37, Elm St., and his three-year-old son are both in St. Joseph's hospital with injuries received when they were thrown from the car as it somersaulted on the edge of the road. The top of the car and the front seat are shown in the foreground. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

To Produce Power Saws On First Industrial Site Purchased From City

Second Plant Twice As Big Expected To Be Added On Lansdowne St., Firm Connected With Large US Company

Immediate erection of a building for the production of power chain saws by Lemery Distributors Ltd., on property that is being bought from the city on Lansdowne St. west, was announced by Ald. E. C. Braund, chairman of the industrial committee, at the meeting of the finance committee of the council Tuesday night.

"There is every possibility of them growing as big as Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co.", Ald Braund said.

"This is the first company to locate on the land the city bought for industrial expansion," City Clerk Outram remarked.

"That's what pleases me," said Ald. Hugh Waddell.

Second Plant.

"I feel certain that within a year there will be another plant connected with this one and twice as big," was the prediction of Mr. Outram who has been associated with the committee in its negotiations.

The site is on the south side of Lansdowne St., west of Erskine Ave. and the C. P. R. crossing, and in the vicinity of the Kawartha Motel on the north side of the street.

Ray J. Lemery of Lemery Distributors Ltd. is buying an acre of property with a frontage of 136 ft. 6 in. on Lansdowne St., and extending southerly to the C. P. R. He is paying the city $950, and is taking an option on another acre, immediately to the east of the first property, at the price of $8 a foot for its frontage of 192 feet.

Preparation of the deed of sale was recommended to the council in a motion by Aldermen Braund and Waddell.

Assembly Plant.

Lemery Distributors have been agents for the McCulloch power saw. For the present that machine will be assembled at the Peterborough factory, but the future holds promise of manufacture. The McCulloch interestst are combined in a strong industrial organization in the United States, particularly in California. Mr. Outram said that power chain saws were only one of the products. They are also interested in the manufacture of helicopters, have a new design for a motor car, and are widely known for their engineering skills.

Mr. Lemery's letter announced that he had already let a contract with Arnold Steele for a building of modern design and fireproof construction. He undertakes to provide private sewerage facilities for the plant until the city extends its sewer main to that locality.

"Since locating in Peterborough, our firm's business has increased greatly, and there is every indication that it will continue to do so," Mr. Lemery wrote.

9-Room School Advised In Ashburnham

With an estimated overflow of at least 150 pupils next September and 250 the following September at the King George School in Ashburnham the accommodation committee of the Board of Education found that it was necessary to revise its plans for the new school on McFarlane Ave., and increase it to eight rooms and a kindergarten.

K. S. Wightman, superintendent, outlined to the members the expected attendance next year and intimated that while one room is accommodating the kindergarten class this year, when these students move into Grade 1 next September, three classrooms will be required. This is brought about by morning and afternoon kindergarten classes this year at the school and a half day kindergarten in the Mark St. Sunday School hall. The same condition is expected to exist in the kindergarten classes next September.

At present there are 613 pupils attending the King George school while the Queen Mary school which had six more rooms has 724 with all rooms in use.

TB Assoc. Buys Operating Table

Payment of $2,132.75 for a new operating table for Weston Sanitorium was authorized Tuesday night by the executive of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association.

The Peterborough association, with groups in nine other counties, supports the sanitoria in Weston and Gravenhurst, providing financial assistance where provincial government aid leaves off.

The local association is also helping support an occupational therapy officer who teaches TB patients recreational crafts and hobbies.

It was announced at Tuesday night's meeting that Mrs. G. A. Biggs has been hired as secretary for the coming Christmas seal campaign. She reported that a month's work has already been spent on the mailing list.

Money from Christmas seals is the sole source of income for tuberculosis associations in Canada, outside of individual gifts.

The association secretary reported that summer activities had been carried on since the last regular meeting in May. She reported 1,118 pre-employment X-rays were taken by the end of September, June having been the busiest month, when 332 were taken.

Two Cars Collide As One Passes Other

A two-car collision at the corner of Charlotte and Rubidge Sts. at 7 p.m. last night resulted in $200 damage to the cars involved in the accident.

According to police, Morley McGill of Bethany was driving east on Charlotte St., and signalled to make a left hand turn onto Rubidge St.

Haig Kelley of 134 Aylmer St., who was following the McGill car attempted to pass McGill's car on the right side as the two cars entered the intersection.

As he was passing, the two cars collided.

Both vehicles were insured. Constable L. A. Rodreque investigated.

Car Somersaults Father, Son, 3, Injured

A Peterborough father and his three-year-old son are in St. Joseph's hospital with injuries received late Tuesday afternoon when they were spilled out of their car as it turned over near Douro.

William Condon, 37, 472 Elm St., sustained an injured spine, head cuts and body bruises. His son Edward also has an injured back, including a deep gash in it, and an injured right leg.

Both had a restful night and their condition today is "fair."

Kenneth Crowe, 29, London St., another passenger, has a gash on his left leg, and cuts on his forehead and thumb. He did not go to hospital but was treated by Dr. Louis Zacks.

The only one of the four occupants of the car to emerge unhurt was Rosemarie Condon, four-year-old daughter of the driver.

On Sharp Curve

Condon was driving to the home of his mother, Mrs. John Condon, Douro, to get some apples for the family. He rounded a sharp curve on the township road leading to Norwood, a mile east of Douro village, and the car went out of control.

It swung from the right to the left side of the road, went into the ditch, skidded on its top and stopped on its left side. A 1935 model, it was almost completely wrecked. The front and side were bashed in, the canvas top torn off and the seats also torn loose.

The occupants were spilled by the side of the road.

Thomas O'Brien, a nearby farmer, heard the crash and left his job of painting the Douro school to investigate.

He found young Edward lying in the grassy ditch about 12 feet from the car and his father lying on the edge of the road. After helping Crowe to make them comfortable he went for the police.

An ambulance took the injured pair to hospital. OPP Constable Wallace Mohns investigated.

Seeking Aid From Province In Land Deal

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 10 (CP)—Provincial financial assistance to take over land in the Pinery as a Western Ontario recreation centre was recommended at a meeting here Tuesday.

A committee representing interested organizations in London, Rensall, Strathroy, Stratford and Sarnia agreed that at least a portion of the Pinery should become a park.

They also agreed that nothing could be done without provincial financial assistance.

The Pinery is a five-mile section of Lake Huron shore which several district bodies feels should be reserved for the public.

There was some discussion on what portion of the Pinery should be made a park area. Some felt the whole area should become a park—others that only a portion should be obtained.

Decision on an appeal to the government will wait on a meeting of the parks and recreation advisory board of Ausable river conservation authority in Forest on Thursday.

Ausable authority has legal powers to take over the Pinery. It does not, however, have sufficient funds to negotiate a purchase.

Carl Manore, manager, Sarnia Chamber of Commerce showed a letter signed by Charles Jones, commissioner for the Canada Land Company, owners of the Pinery, quoting a $315,000 price for the 4,626 acres comprising the Pinery, and it's five-mile section of Lake Huron beach.

Royal Couple Speak Excellent French

QUEBEC, Oct. 9 — (CP). — French spoken by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, made a big hit in Quebec Tuesday.

It was the talk of a reception for members of the Regiment de la Chaudiere, of which the Princess is colonel, and their relatives.

Archbishop Maurice Roy told a newspaperman that Princess Elizabeth spoke "beautiful French" when he conversed with her during her visit to Laval University.

People attending the reception at the Citadel held by the Chaudiere Regiment, were pleasantly surprised to hear the Duke chatting in excellent French with veterans in the unit.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH ARRIVES IN PETERBOROUGH and is here seen chatting with the Mayor of Peterborough—England—who on Friday, October 27, is arriving in Peterborough—Canada—to open the new City Hall. Mayor G. R. Chamberlain, at left, is wearing his chain of office. Next to Her Royal Highness is the Marquis of Exeter, K.G., Custos Rotulorum of the Soke of Peterborough and Lord Lieutenant of Northamptonshire. The tall gentleman is Lord Irwin, M.F.H., president of the Royal Foxhound Society; it was the Society's annual agricultural show which occasioned Princess Elizabeth's visit some weeks ago to Peterborough, Northamptonshire.

Reporters Angry At Treatment

ABOARD THE ROYAL TOUR PRESS TRAIN EN ROUTE TO OTTAWA, Oct. 10 (CP).—Indignant reporters at a meeting, on this press train, Tuesday night rejected an offer of three tickets for press observers at tonight's big state dinner for the Royal couple at Government House in Ottawa.

They told a press relations officer to send them back to the government "with a stiff note" of objection. The press officer, who said he had tried to get more but was refused said he'd follow their instructions.

The reporters, about 50 strong and representing four countries, met in a club car on their train, soon after leaving Quebec city. There, about 15 reporters got tickets to observe a Quebec government dinner. They wore civilian clothes.

In Ottawa, the three who would be granted admission would have to wear formal clothes, would sit in a small ante-room and, once again, would have to get their own dinners before or after the event.

It took just a few unanimous minutes for the press train to reject that setup. They thought three tickets were too few. Under it all, too, was a current of objection felt by some reporters and photographers to other aspects of the arrangements for the press—too much formality, too many restrictions.

But Tuesday night's action was the first positive kick.

Nobody Wants Controls Used

CALGARY, Oct. 10 (CP)—"I have yet to find anyone who wants controls applied to their own affairs," Hon. George Prudham, federal minister of mines and techincal surveys Tuesday night told members of the Calgary Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He said he did not believe the people of Canada would submit to rigid controls now.

"The vague idea seems to be to apply controls to someone else in other parts of the nation and without getting too close to home," he declared.

To set up a system of price controls in Canada would require an army of thousands of people which would further deplete the labor supply and contribute to higher costs.

"I firmly believe that there is no security possible other than that which we provide by our own hard work, thrift and wise development of our resources. The same economic laws which apply in our personal and business affairs, apply to our civic, provincial and national affairs."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Special-Purpose Menu For Dinner For 10 Persons

This makes a beautiful meal and is easy to serve. Your husband will bless you and love you for the simplicity of his serving problem. No carving tonight. Be ready to hand out copies of the Baked Ham Mountain and Apple Torte Recipe, for you will be asked for them.

Pineapple Juice
Lobster Paste Canapes
Baked Ham Mountains
Brussels Sprouts
Curried Baked Rice
Relish Tray: Celery Hearts, Ripe Olives, Tomato Wedges, Gherkins, Mustard Pickles
Huguenot Apple Torte
Coffee

Directions

Two eggs slightly beaten, 1 cup breadcrumbs, 1 cup tomato juice, ½ green pepper chopped fine, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 2 pounds ground fresh pork; 1 pound ground smoked ham (have the butcher put these through his mincer together, using smoked shoulder if he has no trimmings and lean fresh shoulder pork), 10 large slices of canned pineapple, mashed and seasoned sweet potatoes (requires about 5 medium sized ones). Combine the eggs, breadcrumbs, tomato juice, green pepper and mustard. Add the pork and ham. Mix well, shape into large flat patties the size of the pineapple ring. (This amount will make 12 if you need to make it stretch for that many). Place on greased shallow pan. Place a pineaple ring and a heaping tablespoon of sweet potato mashed and seasoned on top of each patty. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. I don't like what I am going to say next, but if you like it this is one of the places where you could perch a marshmallow about 8 minutes before serving time, and let it melt all over the top.

Curried Baked Rice

I like this because of the flavor primarily and because it is an ideal way to work brown rice into our meals—but the thing that pleases me most is that it is another vegetable than can be added to my file of vegetables that can be baked. Oven meals seem to look after themselves after the initial preparation.

Wash 2 cups brown rice in sieve under running water. Place it in large buttered casserole. Add 5½ cups boiling water, 1½ teaspoons each salt and curry powder and 4 tablespoons butter or margarine. Stir these down into the rice, cover and bake at 300 or 350 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours, or until rice is tender and water is all cooked up.

Hugenot Apple Torte

Add this to your apple file. It will fill a new niche in your dessert repertoire.

One egg, ¾ cup sugar, 2 teaspons each flour and baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup diced mellow sweet apples, very firmly packed, ¾ cup pecans, ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Beat egg and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add flour, baking powder, and salt. Mix until smooth. Add apples, pecans, and nutmeg. Pour into greased and floured 1-quart baking dish. Bake in moderate oven of 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes or until set. Serve hot with whipped cream. THIS RECIPE IS AVERAGE SIZE FOR FOUR OR FIVE PEOPLE. DOUBLE IT FOR TEN.

If absolutely necessary it may be served cold, but is at its best when hot.

Model Meeting Acquaints Rushee

Meeting of the Alpha Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, held Tuesday evening at the home of program convener Miss Mary Clifford, 205 Brock St. was a "model meeting," observed by the rushees now considering accepting invitations to membership.

The Chapter is studying the fourth in a rotated series of cultural programs, set forth by the Sorority, which is on "Happiness." Topic for this meeting was "Self Estimate" and on this Mrs. Iris Sorensen had prepared an excellent paper. She suggested making a simple balance sheet of the debits and credits in one's character and daily living habits to get an accurate estimate of onself.

Discussion then took place, based on statements in the study book concerning happiness. This was led by director Mrs. K. Strasser with all members taking part, expressing and arguing for their own opinions on each point. Such participation is to develop ease and ability to take part in any conversation.

The rushees were told that the programs of the Chapter are Conduct, Expression and Purpose, then Beauty, and then Paths to Loveliness, preceding Happiness. Each member must study the four programs before taking the second degree in Beta Sigma Phi—the Ritual of Jewels, by which they graduate into the Exemplar Chapter.

Serious things are also done by the Sorority. In Peterborough it has contributed $650 to furnishing a room in the new Civic hospital, and it will maintain a trust account for upkeep of the room. There is an international endowment fund for the benefit of humanity and the immediate project is support of two outstanding scientists in cancer research.

The appeal of this organization is to young women who are seeking deeper cultural knowledge and who want, at the same time, to reach out and form ties of friendship that are lasting as well as warm. Outstanding women of the world become honorary members, Senator Iva C. Fallis being a local example. Since it is international, members who move about the world find great comfort in being able to transfer membership. This is fairly easy since there are now 3,500 chapters in six countries.

Annual social events of the Chapter are always delightful. The preferential tea is to be held on Sunday, November 4th, at the home of social sponsor Mrs. Ian McRae, and the banquet which follows will be on November 19th. The Bib 'N Tucker Ball is to be held Friday evening, December 7th at the Empress Hotel and Miss Doreen Gilders is in charge of arrangements.

Tickets on a $50 hamper of groceries have been sold during past months and the draw was made at this meeting. Winner is Mr. Douglas Lloyd of Havelock.

Chapter president Mrs. Ernest McWilliam conducted the business and also addressed the rushees in regard to membership. They were then given pledge cards by Mrs. Helen Ford, and these are to be presented at the second bi-monthly meeting October 22nd at the YWCA.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. H. Goodwin and Mrs. E. Cochrane, social conveners.

Elizabeth's Clothes Driving 150 Correspondents Frantic

QUEBEC, Oct. 10 — (CP). — The Royal tour has barely started, but the job of supplying a change-by-change account of Princess Elizabeth's costumes is quickly driving 150 correspondents frantic.

And it's not only tough on the male members of the contingent covering the Royal activities for press and radio. The dozen or so women in the brigade, several of them fashion experts with a sharp eye out for this big style news, have trouble agreeing on just what the Princess is wearing at any given time.

For instance, Monday the masculine corps of the Canadian press took a quick run-down of the lady correspondents watching the arrival at Montreal's Dorval Airport. The views on the Princess' outfit were that she was wearing either a suit or dress of Edinburgh green, spruce blue, slate blue, teal blue, or some grey shade.

The majority went for a dress of slate blue, so that's the way it was described. The fur coat gave plenty of trouble, too, but it eventually came out as a hip-length mink jacket.

Tuesday the Princess turned up for the official start of the tour in an ensemble that again caused considerable puzzlement. Male reporters, after quick consultations with their feminine colleagues, came up with the information that she was wearing a moss-green velvet — or maybe velveteen — dress with a flared skirt and a short V-neck.

Different Story

But eventually, official word from the Royal entourage described the outfit as follows:

"Olive-green crepe tucked dress.. Short sleeves and soft belt. Olive-green velvet coat. Soft collar and shaped skirt."

To that, the unofficial observers were able to add that Princess Elizabeth had attached a distinctively Canadian touch to her costume in the form of a scintillating diamond clip in maple leaf design, worn high on her left shoulder.

She also had on a hat of matching green felt trimmed with leaves in a lighter green. Her accessories were brown.

A confusing note for the fashion-conscious was added Tuesday by the fact that some reporters described Elizabeth as wearing a green coat, and others the mink jacket. What happened was that some correspondents saw her starting off in green while others stationed elsewhere saw her in the mink after she had made a quick change on the way against the chill of a fall day.

New System

From now on, though, the tour officials promise regular authoritative information on how she is dressed. The authority will be Hon. Mrs. Andrew Elphinstone, the Princess' lady-in-waiting, who will shoot communiques quickly to the press corps.

"But," one officer warned on Tuesday, "don't expect to get the dope in advance. Like any other woman, the Princess often does not know what she is going to wear until she gets down before the mirror."

However, the dress for Tuesday night's state dinner was settled well ahead of time, and here it is—officially:

"Grey-silver lace and tulle evening dress with very full skirt. Star of the Order of the Garter and Ribbon; diamond necklace and tiara."

ANCIENT DEFENCE

DOROTHY DIX

Parents Often At Fault Drive Children From Home

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Please advise me what is best for my 16-year-old daughter. After three days of marriage to a boy she scarcely knew, they separated. Her father had objected to her coming home after ten o'clock and if she was late, he met her at the door with both fists. Dread of such punishment caused her to get married one night rather than come home. She and her husband don't love each other, so they parted and she is now staying at a girl friend's house. She wants to get an apartment with some girls. If she comes back home, my husband will act the same way he did before—beatings and other punishment for every thing she does that is, in his eyes, wrong.

Dorothy Dix

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your daughter's extreme youth should make an annulment of the marriag an easy problem, but one which requires legal aid. If you can't afford a lawyer, see your nearest Legal Aid Society for assistance.

Do You Condone His Acts?

The calmness with which mothers describe the brutal treatment meted out by husbands to their children amazes and exasperates me. While a girl certainly has to observes house rules concerning hours of homecoming and other matters, the punishment for infraction should not be a merciless beating. Physical punishment is an unintelligent approach to discipline. Parents who know no other means of control drive their children from home, either into a luckless marriage or to shift for themselves, then wonder in later years why they get no filial respect from their offspring.

You and your husband—he by his mistreatment, you by condoning it—have forfeited every right to your daughter's love and respect. If she finds success and happiness in life, it will be in spite of you; if she continues the tragic path she has embarked on, you are to blame.

Facing the world alone at 16 is not easy. Her place, at least until she is 18, is at home, but it is up to you to see that she is decently treated. Don't excuse her father's conduct with the explanation that he has an uncontrollable temper; there is no such thing! Everyone has a temper and every decent person has to make an effort to keep his under control. Civilization depends on the fact that most of us succeed.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 23 years old and have been married twice. I have no children by either marriage. I was married to husband No. 1 three years, and to No. 2 for over a year. While still married to my second husband I met Ray, my first, and started going out with him. He told me he still loved me and I knew I loved him, too, so I got a divorce and moved to the town in which he lived. Then he said he didn't want to see me any more. I moved again, this time about 100 miles away and three weeks later he came to see me, again asking me to marry him. Of course I agreed, but he said we'd have to wait until Christmans. I can't see why if he loves me, we have to wait. He seldom comes to see me now, never calls or writes, and doesn't want me to go out at all. Should I wait for him, or have some fun myself?

MAUREEN

ANSWER: Your ex-husband No. 1 is just a sweet consistent character who likes to have his cake, eat it, and maybe keep a few crumbs for pudding. Frankly, my dear, I think he's making a fool of you and you'd better wake up to the fact pronto! You're rather a vacillating character yourself. By 23 you should have some idea of your destination in life which ought to include something more substantial than meandering between one husband and the other. I advise you to stay away from your courting ex for a while, give your mind a chance to settle and see if you can't come up with a better solution to your problem.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 27 years old and am going with a nice young man who wants to marry me. My trouble is with my girl friend. She is a very dear friend, but gets mad every time I go out with this man.. She won't even speak to me for days. I love my fiance but also don't want to hurt my girl friend.

A. J. J.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your girl friend certainly is not worthy of your devotion. Having no boy friend of her own she is simply determined to keep you from having any. Instead of being pleased at your good fortune in acquiring a nice fiance, she is jealously trying to separate you. If you must make a choice between the two, keep the fiance. Believe me, the minute the girl friend acquires a beau, she'll have no compunctions about leaving you alone.

Greeks Look Toward Canada For Help Ease Starvation

OTTAWA — (CP) — People in Greece are looking to Canada for help to avoid starvation and to build shelters.

This is the word from Mrs. George L. Magann, wife of Canada's ambassador to Greece, back home for a brief visit. She said conditions are particularly bad in the Gremos mountains in northern Greece.

"The proud villagers still are doing their best, five years after the end of the war, to change devastation into order, but they have little to work with," she said in an interview.

She described how she visited the war-torn villages, perched in the mountains, by jeep which somehow managed to carry her over roads bordered on one side by rolling hills and on the other by sheer drops of hundreds of feet.

"The bravery of the villagers faced with starvation and lacking any sort of tools to rebuild their homes is astounding," she said. "They live from day to day, submerging their worries in the background and doing their best for the future.

The villages are all burned out. Where's a man going to start? When the men who managed to live through the wars returned they were faced with the charred remains of what once was their homes."

Now they are trying to rebuild, handicapped by lack of materials and tools.

Villages Send Thanks

Mrs. Magann said that every village gave thanks to the Canadians for the food and clothing sent through the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, and she complimented Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova on her work as executive director of the committee.

"Clothing and food are not the only gifts appreciated by the Greeks," said Mrs. Magann. "They put packing cases to good use too. Many of the mountain dwellers make up for lack of wood by ripping the cases apart and using the wood by building furniture and repairing their homes.

"I remember one instance where the villagers couldn't get a case open because they didn't have tools. They finally found something — a soldier's bayonet. Weapons of war are more common than shovels. Every farm house has a rifle hanging on the wall."

DEW—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Martin Dew, who passed away Oct. 10, 1949.

By the valley of rest so fair,
Some time, some day, we know not when
We will meet our father there.

WELLMAN—In loving memory of my dear son, Dave Wellman, whose death occurred on Oct. 10, 1950.

We know he has gone to a better place
It is God's promise saved by grace.

Had No Permit Wired Barn Fined In Court

Monty Buck, a Toronto electrical contractor, pleaded guilty to a charge of wiring a barn without a permit and was fined $15 and $14.10 in costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court this morning.

Fred Hardwick, an inspector of the Hydro Electric Power Commission for Peterborough and district testified that Buck had not obtained a permit to wire a barn on the farm of Norman Mathews, RR 2, Lakefield.

Mr. Hardwick told the court that he visited the property together with the Lakefield area manager and found that energy was being consumed without going through a meter and that the wiring did not "conform with hydro regulations."

"There were no grounds at the barn and a potential of 110 volts three feet from the ground posed a possible fatality if anyone came in contact with the wires," said Mr. Hardwick.

Mrs. Grace Millage Buried In Lakefield

Pallbearers at the funeral of Mrs. Grace Millage, Reid St., Lakefield, were William Tranmer, Harry Nellist, Robert Forbes, Jack Millage and Neil and Ralph Agnew.

The funeral was at the Lakefield United Church Saturday afternoon, the Rev. W. H. Tonge officiating, assisted by the Rev. George Kelly and the Rev. E. W. Rowland. Burial was in Ray's cemetery, Lakefield.

Flower bearers were Glenna Nellist, Irene Agnew, Lois Tranmer, Ina Forbes and Betty and Grace Millage.

Mrs. Millage, the former Grace Podger, died Oct. 3, after a short illness. She was in her 89th year.

Recommend $500 Grant For St. John Ambulance

A grant of $500 to St. John Ambulance Association to defray their expenses in organizing for Civil Defense was recommended by the finance committee of the council Monday night in a motion by Ald. Herbert Young, seconded by Ald. Norman Graham.

It was expected, according to a letter from Gordon Munro in behalf of the Association, that another $500 might be needed in the new year.

Ald J. A. Dewart said: "We have reached the stage in Civil Defense planning where, to get effective work done, we cannot go much further without incurring expense. For instance, sets will have to be purchased for the communications division. Planning is now at the place where it will have to be translated into effect."

Ald. Dewart said that it was amazing the co-operation the defense committee has received.

Mr. Munro's letter outlined the expansion accomplished this year by St. John Ambulance Association.

Classes For Men

"Early this year classes were formed from men enlisted from the city's industries. Fifty-four men took the classes, and 53 passed. From them it is expected that one new ambulance division would be somewhat larger than it should be, and a second unit may be formed."

These men have been trained especially as the nucleus in demonstration for training "civilian personnel" in first aid work, which is the basic requirement for all individuals in any way connected with civil defense.

Permission was obtained from the Board of Education to hold classes in Prince of Wales school, and at the conclusion of the course the class was addressed by the Provincial Commissioner, Col. V. A. M. Kemp. The class was under the direction of Mr. E. G. Baker of Bell Telephone as instructor, and with him were Dr. Calvert and Dr. Fraser.

Expense was $247.75 or approximately $4.40 a man for text books, bandages, splints, etc., plus fees of instructors and doctors. "This figure in future would be more nearly $3.80 to $4 per person," Mr. Munro wrote.

Organize New Class

A new class this fall is expected to recruit 100 to 150 men from industry. Their period of training will continue until spring.

Members of the Civil Defense Committee supporting St. John Ambulance Association in its special work for Civil Defense preparations are: H. T. Cranford, Robert Maybee, James G. Wharry, Harry Pounder, Thomas Lister, Rev. Walter J. Gilling, E. G. Baker and Gordon H. Munro.

"We are terrible short of people trained in first aid work," said Ald. Dewart in supporting the appeal for some financial help from the council for the Ambulance Association's project.

"Civil Defense has not cost Peterborough anything to date," he said. "Government assistance has not yet been clarified. It was proposed some time ago that the federal, provincial and municipal governments would share in the cost of defense work. So far, the Dominion government has undertaken to supply certain equipment for all provinces because in that way they can get it cheaper by larger contracts."

It was likely that some development might be forthcoming during the present sessions of Parliament.

60 New Members Added To YMCA

Canvassers for the YMCA senior membership campaign reported Tuesday night that one-quarter of the 500 quota has been reached.

In addition to a present unexpired membership of 300 in the senior department, the board is hoping to add 500 new and renewal members during the campaign. The teams reported Tuesday 60 new members and 80 renewals.

Stanley Payne is campaign chairman and is conducting a membership race with prizes for the high team and high man.

Division B under Paul Irwin placed first at Tuesday's meeting with a total of 92 points. George Batley's team placed high with 39 points, Batley also leading for the high single award with 23 points.

Charles Cummer's "A" division placed second with a total of 72 points, Jack Franks' team high with 28 points and Gord Minty of Sid Black's team high with 20 points.

Division "C" under J. E. Girven reported 23 points, the high team of Jack Brackenridge with nine points, and the high man, Dave Johnson, with four points.

An active member of George St. United Church, she was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society of the church.

Funeral service will be conducted at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Comstock funeral home by the Rev. A. A. Mathews of George St. United Church. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Jehovah's Witnesses Ask For Parade; Council Balks

"If they'd put on the uniform like the rest of us and fight for their country, I'd be inclined to say yes, but. . . ."

So said Ald. Norman Graham in moving last night that the request of Jehovah's Witnesses for permission to erect a convention banner at Simcoe and George Streets be refused. His motion was seconded by Ald. A. B. Burrows.

"They don't even stand for 'God Save the King'," Ald. Graham declared. The motion carried.

As to their letter for authority to hold a parade on George St. during the afternoon of Saturday Oct. 27, opinion was again opposed to tangling up traffic worse than it is at present.

"I'll take it up with Chief Thompson and see what he says," was the remark of Mayor Swanston.

"I Told You So"

As to the banners, Ald. E. C. Braund took advantage of a needling opportunity. He had opposed the placing of two banners publicizing the special retail business month of October. He said at that time that he did not like the whole scheme, and if banners were permitted by the council for that purpose they would be regarded as a precedent.

"I told you so," he chortled when Mayor Swanston read the letter of petition.

"The business signs are for the good of the whole city," said Ald. J. E. Gillespie, "but these others are just a benefit to Jehovah Witnesses."

"It's for one just as much as the other, and you ought to be consistent," Ald. Braund said. "They're both appealing to everybody."

Not Proper Time

As to the Saturday afternoon parade during the convention Jehovah's Witnesses are holding in Peterborough at the end of the month, Mayor Swanston said: "I don't feel that Saturday afternoon is the proper time for a parade of cars. We've got a traffic problem as it is."

Ald. H. T. Rehill remarked that the council might suggest to them 9 a.m.

"You're going a long way out on the limb by refusing," Ald. Rehill said. "If this request was from any fraternal organization it would be granted?"

Ald. Gillespie: "Are Jehovah's Witnesses a fraternal organization?"

Mayor Swanston said he would see what Chief Constable Thompson thought of a Saturday afternoon parade of cars. "There might be a thousand of them, for all I know. What then?"

Champs Parade No Hot Potato

Planning the lacrosse championship parade was no "hot potato" to the city council, Mayor Swanston commented at the meeting of the finance committee of the council Tuesday night.

"Jim Fraser of Chamber of Commerce asked us if they could take over organizing a parade. We were glad to have them do so. We welcomed any help that was offered. In that kind of public reception, the more taking part the better."

Mayor Swanston said he was not criticizing the phrase in the Examiner's news column, but it might be misrepresentative of the council's readiness to plan the celebration.

"We didn't know the result of the Canadian title series until late Saturday night," His Worship said. "I just want to say there was no ducking it by Ald. Herb Young and his reception committee."

Ald. Young: "We wanted the co-operation of everybody. I was waiting until the President of the Lacrosse Club was available."

"I know that the chairman of the reception committee was working on it Sunday morning," Ald. Hugh Waddell said.

Mayor Swanston remarked that it was a public expression, and the council wanted to give the lead and have everybody in it.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS —By Merrill Blosser

DR. T. W. JONES

Ex-Moderator Dr. T. W. Jones Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL, Oct. 10 —(CP)— Very Rev. Dr. Thomas William Jones, minister of Calvary United Church here and former moderator of the United Church of Canada, died Tuesday after a long illness. He was 64.

Born at Launton, Oxfordshire, Eng., he attended public school there until he was 10 years old and then worked on a farm for six years. At 13, he was a boy-preacher in chapels in rural England, serving without salary and continuing his farm duties at the same time.

In 1910 he came to Canada, under the auspices of the Colonial Missionary Society of the Congregational Churches of Britain, to study at the Congregational College, Montreal, then affiliated with McGill University.

He decided to attempt the full arts course at McGill and to obtain the required matriculation, attended night school in the city's Central Young Men's Christian Association.

In 1912 he became student-assistant to the minister at Calvary Congregational Church, and in 1916 graduated from McGill with a BA degree.

Later that year, he entered military service with the Canadian YMCA, going overseas in December. He was discharged in 1920.

He returned to McGill and was asked to take over the pastorate of Calvary Church. The following year he received his MA from McGill, the degree of Bachelor of Divinity from Congregational College, and was ordained and appointed minister at Calvary Church, where he has been minister ever since.

In 1921 he was appointed chaplain, with the rank of captain, of the 11th Hussars and until his death was a reserve officer of MD 4, Montreal.

From December, 1939, until October, 1941, he served overseas as senior officer of YMCA supervisors.

As moderator of the United Church of Canada from 1946 to 1948, Dr. Jones preached in every centre in Canada and in many cities in the United States and Bermuda.

He represented the United Church of Canada at many church councils in Britain. In 1948 he returned to Europe to attend the Pan-Presbyterian Assembly in Geneva, and served as delegate at the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam.

PIMPLES? TAKE TINOXID TABLETS OF METALLIC TIN

Arthur P. Earle, Born Here, Rose To Presidency Montreal Life Ins. Co.

Born in Peterborough 71 years ago, Arthur P. Earle, president of the Montreal Life Insurance Co., outlined in an interview with a reporter of the Calgary Herald last week the broad scope of his career since he was a junior clerk at $7 a month with the North American Life Co.

Mr. Earle is a son of the late Barton Earle, who was teacher of English at Peterborough Collegiate Institute around the turn of the century. He is a brother-in-law of Mrs. O. B. Earle of River Road, Peterborough. His youngest brother, Rufus, lives in Toronto, and there is also a surviving sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Robert Ashcroft of Kingston.

The Herald story of the youth who climbed into business and financial directorates by way of the actuarial profession follows:

"Arthur P. Earle, president of the Montreal Life Insurance Co., is not very interested in company directorships any more—'unless it's to oblige a friend.'

"In stead, at 71 and, clinically speaking, a sick man for the past 29 years, Canada's dean of insurance men prefers being president and 'boss of the show.'

"The extent to which Mr. Earle means those remarks literally is probably a question for certain younger men to puzzle over.

"But, as he made clear during an interview here Monday, his 'interests' in most of the dozen or so companies of which he is either president or director, go considerably beyond the titles.

"Appointed president of Montreal Life in 1924, he gave up active management of the company in 1945 at the age of 65, only to enter a number of other fields.

"Among the companies of which he is president are the Base Metals Mining Corporation, with operations at Field, Kaslo and on Vancouver Island; Redwater-Piccadilly Petroleums Ltd., El-Penrey Mines and Oils; Donalda Mines Ltd. and Eldona Gold Mines Ltd., Quebec, and the Montreal Memorial Funeral Park.

Uranium Mines

"In addition, he is a director of the La Prairie Brick Co., in Montreal, Quebec's largest brick factory, and the Radiore Uranium Mines Ltd., operating in northern Saskatchewan, to mention only two.

"Actually, Mr. Earle says, he is far from having retired as president of the Montreal Life.

"'I'm still down at the office every day.'

"All this possibly wouldn't sound too surprising, perhaps, if it wasn't for the fact that Mr. Earle has been suffering from diabetes since 1922.

"The discovery and production of insulin in injectable form predated his contracting the disease only by a matter of months.

"His illness did not interfere with his career—it was only two years later that he became president of his company—and he is firmly convinced that the disease need not effect anyone else's career these days, provided the sufferer sticks to his injections and his diet.

"Magazine articles depicting the life of the diabetic as a sort of tragic, tight-rope affair irritate him.

"'Stay on your diet, do what your doctor tells you, remember that temper has the same effect as eating sugar does on your system and you'll be all right,' is his advice.

"Born in Peterborough, Ont., and an actuary by profession, Mr. Earle began his career as a junior clerk with the North American Life Co. at a salary of $7 a month.

"'And I'm still running errands,' he says.

Athlete

"In his youth, he was a well-known distance runner in eastern sport circles and once set a time of 27¼ minutes for the five-mile run.

"Later, he became something of an amateur billiard champion.

"Now visiting western branches of the Montreal Life, Mr. Earle conferred with Calgary branch manager A. W. Clifford during his visit here."

Starlet Refuses To Take Dramatic Lessons

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 10. (AP)—Elizabeth Threatt is a gal who doesn't fit the usual starlet pattern. She refuses to take dramatic lessons and her middle name is Coyote.

Her press agent has named her the triple-threat girl—"she sings, dances and acts," he announces gleefully. The returns are not yet in on his claim, since she is still in the middle of her first picture. Howard Hawks picked her to play the Indian girl in "The Big Sky."

Miss Threatt was a top fashion model in New York, earning up to $900 weekly. She took a financial loss to accept the Hollywood offer.

Worth It

"But it was a new experience and a new challenge," she explained.

Coming to Hollywood, she put her foot down on suggestions that she study up on acting. "I think you can either act or you can't," she remarked. "If a person does not know enough after studying the character he has to portray, all the lessons in the world won't help."

Recalls Bacall

Betty is similar to other Howard Hawks discoveries—such as Lauren Bacall. She is a statuesque five feet nine and a slim 125 pounds. She also has a low-pitched voice, which Hawks wants even lower.

She is heeding Hawks' instructions to get rid of some of her southern accent, but balks at seeding from southern talk entirely.

What about the "Coyote?" She came by it naturally. Her mother who was English, gave her the name of Elizabeth. Her father, a Cherokee Indian, supplied the Coyote.

Want Longer Hunt

Reds Stop Allies Cold After Big Tank Attack

PRESENT CABINET MINISTER — Defence Production Minister Howe (at right) is presented to Princess Elizabeth by Prime Minister St. Laurent (centre) as the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh began a two-day visit to Ottawa Wednesday.—(CP from Capital Press).

Elizabeth, Duke Go Cruising Down River On Colorful Trip

OTTAWA, Oct. 11. (CP)—Princess Elizabeth and her sailor husband went cruising down the river today in as colorful a nautical sight as you could care to see. But their outing on the Ottawa wasn't as rugged as the cruise one of Elizabeth's ancestors had 91 years ago. She and the Duke of Edinburgh sailed for an hour in a big privately-owned power cruiser, the Wausau, which became a "Royal barge" for a day. In 1860, the then Prince of Wales, HRH Albert Edward, went cruising down the same river and got a big kick out of plunging through the Chaudiere Rapids on a large raft of squared pine logs. In 1951 there was nothing that spectacular.

Today there were lavish arrangements for security as 40 to 50 power boats—50 to 75 foot, luxurious motor cruisers — got their instructions of just where they should cruise in relation to the Royal barge.

Dozens of smaller boats got into the act unofficially. Thousands of people watched from the shores, from bridges and from the cliffs overlooking the broad river.

Enjoy Trip

The Royal couple, both happy to get this outing, went down the river on the Ontario side and back up the Quebec side, their boat the centre of a diamond-shaped formation headed by four crash boats of the navy and air force.

Prince Philip, former commander of Royal Navy frigate, watched with a sailor's eye as the Wausau — owned by Col. R. M. Courtney — and her satellites sailed in formation on the waters that separate the high cliffs of the Ontario shore from the low green countryside of Quebec.

Starting at 2.30 p.m., the Royal barge and the four crash boats set forth from a dockside below the Parliament Buildings and cruised downriver, going under the interprovincial bridge connecting Ottawa and Hull and then moving three miles or so down to Kettles Island.

There they swung around and made rendezvous with the other power cruisers. For a while, the Wausau passed through a double line of these cruisers, ranged at intervals across the waters.

Royal Salute

The event was topped off with a Royal salute—an abbreviated one, a short whistle from the accompanying cruisers.

"It is realized," said the committee in advance, "that this is not a proper salute but under the circumstances it will be deemed sufficient for the occasion so as not to subject their Royal Highnesses to undue noise."

It all ended at 3.30 p.m. when the Royal barge landed and the Royal couple were driven back to Government House.

Mossadegh To Take Bow Before UN Council Monday

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Oct. 11. (AP)—Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh meets the United Nations Security Council and a United States television audience next Monday, but the ailing old man will make it brief. The council will hear Iran contend its oil dispute with Britain is a domestic affair, and no business of the UN. The meeting has been twice postponed, first to give Mossadegh time to come from Tehran, then to let him recover from the journey.

But Mossadegh, who weeps and swoons during appearances before his own parliament, plans to speak only for five or 10 minutes to the council. Since his arrival he has been in a hospital under treatment for exhaustion.

After his remarks, his official 40-page statement will be read by his country's permanent representative to the UN, Ali Gholi Ardalan.

New Resolution

Britain brought the dispute before the Council after Iran nationalized the country's giant British-owned oil industry and expelled British oilmen.

British spokesmen said that by tonight they hope to have ready the draft of a new resolution they will ask the Council to adopt.

It will refer to the recent international Court of Justice ruling asking Iran not to complete the oil-nationalization progress, and it will suggest methods of negotiating a settlement.

The Iranian spokesman, Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi, told reporters Iran still is willing to discuss with Britain how to pay off the expropriated company, and still hopes for a settlement.

Trade With Czechs

LONDON, Oct. 11 (Reuters) — Britain will import about £13,000,000 worth of goods from Czechoslovakia during the 12 months ending June, 1952, the Board of Trade announced Wednesday.

FBI Holds 30 In Army Thefts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP). —The Federal Bureau of Investigation today disclosed it has been making wholesale arrests throughout the country in connection with thefts of government property, largely from military installations.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in a statement that 30 persons were taken into custody during the last 24 hours in New Jersey, California, Ohio, Massachusetts, New York and Washington, DC.

These arrests, he said, make a total of 120 persons picked up during the last two months and charged with stealing government property worth $1,000,000.

The articles ranged from raw crude rubber and pure silver to combat boots and blankets. Guns, building materials, and aircraft radio equipment.

The announcement disclosed that those arrested included long-time government civil service, supervisory employees, military personnel, civilian and military police and private citizens.

Blame Hot Pipe

SYRACUSE, NY, Oct. 11 (AP) —Firemen blamed a 70-year-old woman's overheated pipe today for a fire that damaged a two-storey home. Fire Chief Burton Wright said Miss Bessie Washington put her pipe away in a bureau drawer filled with paper. Apparently, he said, the pipe ignited the papers.

Three Canadians Plan To Scour China Seas For Buried Treasure

PORTSMOUTH, England, Oct. 11 (CP).—Three adventure-seeking young Canadians will set out this month to scour the south China seas for Captain Kidd's buried treasure.

The Canadians—Ian Rogers of Toronto and John Fry and Geoffrey Taylor of Montreal—will accompany 11 other blithe spirits in the good ship Lamarna, owned by a Greek sea captain.

The 14-man party will head for China waters and the loot which, legend says, Captain Kidd left behind him. Parchment maps thought to have been among those Kidd smuggled out to a jailer just before his execution will be used in the search.

Experts at the British Museum say the maps look like reasonable facsimiles of ones that might have been used when Kidd was in his heyday nearly three centuries ago.

Fry, 20-year-old former McGill University student, said he came to Britain to study journalism, but decided to join the quest for pieces of eight after meeting members of the party. Apart from the Canadians, there are nine Britons, one New Zealander, and one German.

No definite sailing date has been set. Crew members now are busy fitting out the vessel, owned by Captain A. Coumandareas. Gear includes frogman suits for under-water search and devices for detecting metal objects.

The idea for the expedition followed sale of the maps by the late Herbert Palmer, a collector of Kidd relics. Palmer found the documents in the false bottom of what is said to have been the pirate's sea-chest.

6,000 Men In Europe Before 1952

May Reach Base By November Abbott Announces

PARIS, Oct. 11. (Reuters)—Between 6,000 and 7,000 Canadian troops will reach Europe before the end of the year to strengthen the Atlantic Pact armies, Finance Minister Abbott said today.

The troops, forming the brigade group Canada promised for Gen. Eisenhower's forces, may reach their base in the British zone next month if shipping is available, the Canadian minister told a reporter.

The first of 11 fighter squadrons Canada is contributing to European defences also will be here "in a matter of weeks."

Distance Too Great

Abbott, here for a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's arms co-ordinating committee, said it "would not be terribly efficient" to maintain large Canadian forces in Europe owing to the distance and expense involved.

Greater efficiency, he thought, would result from the concentration on rapid development of forces in Canada.

Abbott described the arms co-ordinating committee, now in session, as "a very practical way of getting down to brass tacks."

"The committee was set up to get a realistic assessment of military requirements and to relate these to the economic possibilities of the various nations."

Filing Writ For $14,000

HAMILTON, Oct. 11 (CP). — An American hockey player's widow is the plaintiff in a writ issued at Supreme Court today in a case involving a claim for $14,000.

Plaintiff is Bernice Holota, of Hamilton, widow of John Paul Holota, a professional hockey player for Cleveland Barons.

Mrs. Holota claims $14,000 under a double indemnity clause which, she says, was included in a $7,000 insurance policy on the life of her husband, taken out with the Prudential Assurance Company.

Her husband died on March 10 as the result of a car accident in Colorado.

While a statement of defence has not yet been filed, the Prudential office here claims the policy contained no double indemnity clause.

15-Year Meat Pact

LONDON, Oct. 11. (Reuters)—A fifteen-year meat agreement was signed here tonight between Britain and Australia. Details will be announced Friday.

Negotiations were based on the British wish to buy all Australia's surplus meat for the next 15 years. This would enable Australia to expand meat production.

Guard Baltic Coast To Prevent Escapes

STOCKHOLM, Sweden Oct. 11 (AP)—Swarms of Communist coast guard and police craft are reported today guarding Poland's Baltic coast to prevent further escapes from the country.

This report was brought here by one of the latest escapees, the engineer of the Polish trawler Helena, the newspaper Aftonbladet said.

The engineer masterminded the escape of himself and three other crew members after locking up the captain and a seaman and taking the Helena to the southern Swedish naval base at Karlskrona where the four fugitives asked for asylum as political refugees.

Several other groups of Poles have escaped from Poland in recent weeks and have been given refuge in Sweden.

BULLETIN

BAGDAD, Iraq—(Reuters)—Iraq has approached the British Government for a revision of existing treaty relations, it was officially announced here tonight.

BOSTON—(AP)—Stockholders of Boston Garden-Arena Corporation voted today to buy a controlling interest in Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League. The Bruins are now owned by Weston Adams.

Russia Cancels Trade Talks With Iran

TEHRAN, Oct. 11 — (AP). — An Iranian newspaper said today Russia has broken off trade talks with Iran, charging lack of good will. There was no official confirmation.

A western economic expert said a break is not unlikely, but that it may only be temporary.

The weekly Tehran-I-Mossavar reported that the talks had been broken off and said this would have an effect on the role to be played by Russia in the Iranian case now before the United Nations Security Council in New York.

The British banned export on such items as sugar, iron, steel, and copper to Iran in retaliation for the Iranian action ordering British technicians out of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company refinery at Abadan. Soviet Ambassador Sadchikov told the Iranians that Russia could step up shipments to Iran under an existing barter agreement between the two countries.

The pact will expire November 10 and talks have been under way for renewing and broadening the agreement.

Iranian-Russian trade has been lagging due to Iran's inability to fulfill its end of the barter deal by supplying rice and cotton.

Must Take Initiative Wedemeyer Warns

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP)—The free world must capture the initiative against the Communists through sustained military rearmament, effective strategic planning, increased psychological warfare and collective defence against a common threat, Lt.-Gen. A. C. Wedemeyer said today.

Wedemeyer, recently retired from the United States army and now a business executive, said in an address prepared for delivery before the American Life Convention that "if we permit the Soviets to retain the initiative in their program of subjugation, intimidation and political banditry, the United States and Canada, too, face ultimate isolation, defeat or even annihilation."

While emphasizing the need for strong land and sea forces, Wedemeyer said Western Allies must capitalize on their technical and industrial supremacy to offset Russia's overwhelming manpower.

Project Shelved

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—(AP) —The St. Lawrence Seaway project apparently was shelved today until some time next year. Chairman Charles A. Buckley (Dem. NY) said no meeting on legislation to authorize the multi-million dollar project will be called until after Jan. 1.

Helicopters Drop US Battalion

Largest Airlift In Marine History Using Tiny Planes

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 11.—(AP) — United States tanks knifed up valleys on each side of Heartbreak Ridge in eastern Korea today in a running battle with Communist artillery and mortars.

Behind the fire of the tanks, the US 23rd Infantry Regiment again stormed the northernmost peak of Heartbreak Ridge. Entrenched Reds stopped the Americans in their tracks.

Other US 2nd Division Infantrymen overran Chinese troops, and captured a dominating peak on nearby Kim Il Sung Ridge.

United Nations troops also seized two other peaks in mountainous East Korea.

East of Heartbreak Ridge a battalion of the US 1st Marine Division was flown to the front in the biggest helicopter airlift in history. Nearly 1,000 Marines landed almost within sight of Red positions without incident.

Hottest Section

In the hottest sector of the western front, the US 1st Cavalry Division renewed its attack north west of Yonchon after mopping up Chinese stragglers in hills captured Wednesday.

Red China's Peiping radio said Chinese troops inflicted 13,366 casualties on UN forces last week. It said nearly 9,841 Allies were killed, captured or wounded in their autumn offensive in the west during the week.

Allied losses for the period have not been announced officially.

The cavalrymen were continuing their offensive Thursday about 25 miles northeast of Panmunjon, where the Communists and Allies talked of re-opening truce talks.

28 Miles North

Thursday's tank strikes up Mundung and Satae Valleys carried the task forces as much as 28 miles north of the 38th Parallel.

It was the second consecutive day a powerful UN tank-led task force had shoved far up the Mundung Valley, west of Heartbreak. The second task force in Satae Valley drove up east of Heartbreak Ridge for the ninth consecutive day.

Both columns returned to their lines at sundown.

Storm Through

The 38th Regiment of the 2nd Division stormed through weakening Chinese resistance on Kim Il Sung ridge. It seized the crest of one of Kim's many peaks.

The beaten Chinese left behind much equipment and bodies of 50 comrades.

South Koreans stormed and captured another hill. The location was not reported.

Eighth Army officers said repeated tank-led sorties up the valleys and gorges appeared to have broken the back of stubborn Red resistance on some of their hill positions.

Egyptians Continue Demonstrations Against UK Troops

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 11. (AP)—Shouting Egyptians, demanding the ouster of British troops from Egypt, today demonstrated against Britain for the second successive day. But this time there was no violence. Heavy police escorts kept order as thousands paraded through Mustafa Kamel Square, then moved on to the larger Ibrahim Pasha Square to hear speakers shout: "Down with Britain. We want the British to get out of our country."

Leading the crowd, Sudanese students at two Cairo universities cried "Down with foreign domination—we want one king, one crown, one Nile."

After streaming past the palace and cheering King Farouk, the crowds dispersed without incident.

Anti-foreign mobs Wednesday smashed British and French business offices, hurled bottles looted from American soft-drink distributors' trucks, and set fires.

Violent Support

The demonstrations are the product of violent public support for the plan of Prime Minister Mustapha Nahas El Pasha to oust British troops from the Suez Canal zone and take full control of the jointly - ruled Anglo - Egyptian Sudan.

Shopkeepers hastily lowered steel shutters as the crowds gathered today.

The huge crowd streamed toward Mustafa Kamil Square to hear speeches delivered from near the statue of Mustafa Kamil, an Egyptian hero.

Kamil led the Nationalist party until his death in 1908, and spearheaded a fight for Egyptian independence from Britain, and obtained a protectorate over the country.

In Washington, State Secretary Dean Acheson suggested that Nahas El Pasha jumped the gun in calling for abrogation of the Suez defence treaty of 1936 and the 1899 accord for Anglo-Egyptian rule of the Sudan.

He told a press conference that the Egyptian government had been informed that a plan for international defence of the Middle East will be submitted to Egypt within a few days. He said the Prime Minister knew this when he presented the legislation calling for Britain's ouster.

Joint Command

Acheson said the plan would provide a "sound basis" for a solution of the dispute between Britain and Egypt, and also contribute to the defence of the free world. The proposals were expected to set up a Middle-East military command apart from the North Atlantic Treaty build-up, and provide for defence of the canal zone by forces of several countries.

Prisoner Freed After Diseased Hands Mended

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11 (AP)—Marshall Morgan, 36, broke the law because his hands were gnarled and twisted by disease, making it hard for him to find honest work. Wednesday, the law turned around and gave him his freedom to start an unusual experiment in rehabilitation.

Surgery mended his hands. Probation officers said his new hands have taken away the bitterness that led him to crime.

The final step in giving him a new chance was taken Wednesday by Judge Fred Neergard. He dismissed an old forgery charge in Bakersfield against Morgan.

The case came to light Monday when Morgan appeared before Judge Joseph Maltby on forgery charges, his latest in a long series of bogus cheque charges. It was then revealed that Dr. Marcus Crahan, county jail physician, had become interested in the case. He sent Morgan to hospital for a series of delicate operations. Diseased nerves were removed and shortened tendons were mended.

Different Man

Probation officers reported that after surgery was completed last month Morgan had undergone a radical personality change — for the better. With this information, Judge Maltby placed him on probation for three years, saying: "This is justice at its finest." Wednesday, with the Baskerfield case cleared up, Morgan was released from jail.

Morgan's hands first began to bother him 13 years ago when he was a pitcher for a Joplin, Mo., baseball team. He had to quit. He couldn't hold other jobs as his hands got worse. So he turned to forging cheques.

Princess Hopes Come Back Soon

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth, just launched on one long Canadian tour, said today she and Prince Philip hope to come back soon.

Speaking particularly of the warm welcome they received in this capital Wednesday, she told a civic lunch gathering it "has made us hope that we may be able to come here again before too long has passed."

"My husband and I will never forget the golden beauty of Ottawa as we have seen it today and Wednesday," she said in a brief speech. "But still more shall we remember the wonderful and inspiring welcome given by its citizens.

"I thank you (Mayor Charlotte Whitton) and them for it, and I am sure I need not tell you how much it has moved us and how much it has made us hope that we may be able to come here again before too long has passed."

Has To Roll Peanut For Losing Ball Bet

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11 — (AP).—The loss of bets on four straight World Series is nothing to sneeze at—but Richard Schroeder did it just the same.

In paying off his bet after the Yankee victory on Wednesday, Schroeder set out, for the fourth year, to roll a roasted peanut across the street in front of his tavern with his nose.

Half way across, he discovered his annual betting companion, Maurice Tebeau, had sprinkled pepper on the street.

With time out for sneezing, Schroeder needed half an hour to complete the trip. Police were summoned to direct traffic through the crowd that gathered.

Princess Elizabeth Said Scared and Shy Bit Overwhelmed By Fuss On Royal Tour

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP)—The Princess is obviously a bit overwhelmed by it all.

She wouldn't be human if she weren't.

Even for a person of Royal blood, long schooled to absorb the triumphs and the tribulations of royalty, this Canadian tour is overwhelming.

So Princess Elizabeth acts sometimes as though she were mentally pinching herself to make sure she isn't dreaming. She forgets to smile. Occasionally she looks hesitant, sometimes even a bit scared, sometimes just shy. She turns to her husband and he grins and she is all right again.

She is a small, young, and—the women say—sweet girl of 25, caught up in an overpowering experience. Tens of thousands of eyes rivet on her hour after hour. Tens of thousands of voices acclaim her. Tens of thousands of mouths talk about her.

Men like Viscount Alexander, whom she's probably held in a teen-ager's awe, greet her with deference.

Daydreams Come True

Mounties, in the red jackets she's probably daydreamed about, surround her. They precede her on motorcycles. They guard her in hundreds. They ride horses. They hold back the tremendous crowds.

In the face of all this spectacle and turmoil, Elizabeth conducts herself with a regal bearing, with dignity and a pleasant, unassuming charm. When she smiles, she has a beautiful smile but some people think she doesn't smile enough at the crowds and there are reports that this information has been passed along to her by her staff.

She tries no flashy methods for appealing to the crowd. When she is driving along in her open car and the people are cheering and she might stand up, she doesn't stand up. She sits and waves to the people with a half-timid wave and her face is white and she looks at times as though this can't all be true.

Not Stuffy

It's not that she's stuffy. She's anything but stuffy. It's just that she's a young woman studying in a strenuous school for one of the greatest jobs in the world.

As for the people who have seen her in the streets, there is no doubt that they like her. They say nice things about her. As for the people who meet her, they say even nicer things.

Mrs. Ross Macdonald, wife of the Commons Speaker, today showed Elizabeth a picture of the Queen taken in Brantford, Ont., in 1939. It hangs in the Speaker's chambers. The Princess looked up at it for a long time, a mixture of pleasure, homesickness and devotion in her eyes. Then she went on with her tour.

After three days, it was already a march of triumph and success.

85 Days On Raft Not Romantic 4 Decide It Might Lead To Murder

VICKSBURG, Miss. Oct. 11 — (AP).—After 85 days of cramped living on a tiny raft, two pairs of young unmarried people agree "life on this raft is not conducive to romance; we're more apt to resort to murder."

The two men and two women said today that a lot of eyebrows have been raised over their 1,800-mile trip from New Kensington, Pa., to New Orleans.

Their raft, mounted on 12 oil drums, has an eight-foot-square cabin. A small inboard motor propels the raft, the Lethargia.

Geraldine Garcia, 24-year-old Boston commercial artist, said her mother objected strenuously to the trip.

Mary Ellin McCrady, 24, of Ann Arbor, Mich., said her mother objected, too.

The trip was billed as a sociological experiment in close-quarter living.

Don Brown, 24-year-old University of Michigan psychology student, made the remark that "life on this raft is more conducive to murder than romance because we have too many different traits."

Think Army Trying To Get Custody Of Atomic Bombs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11. (AP)—The military may be trying to persuade the Administration to give the armed forces custody of atomic bombs now being mass-produced by the Atomic Energy Commission. The belief grew today in the light of an extraordinary meeti[illegible] Wednesday night.

In that session, Defence Secretary Robert Lovett talked at length with Chairman Gordon Dean of the AEC, two members of the Commission, including Dr. Henry D. Smyth, the nuclear physicist who wrote the detailed report on the first nuclear bomb, and the Commission's general manager, Marion W. Boyer.

The full-dress meeting was obviously more than routine. The participants refused to say what was discussed.

While there was speculation that custody of the bomb—denied to the forces three years ago—might have been a major item in the talks, it appeared probable that other matters also were considered. Particularly, there was the recent series of statements by AEC and congressional leaders about the new atomic weapon capability of the United States, statements which caused concern over what officials regard as too-enthusiastic public interpretation of such talk.

Want Military Control

The defence department's atomic conference came at about the time a book was published which reported that the late James Forrestal, first secretary of defence, had recommended to President Truman in 1948 that the military be given custody of atomic bombs.

The book, "The Forrestal Diaries," said Truman decided against that because he did not want "some dashing lieutenant-colonel to decide when would be the proper time to drop one."

In what could have been a forerunners to the present situation, Forrestal wrote that he told Truman:

"The conditions of readiness of these weapons was highly uncertain—that what a civilian might think was ready would be a long way from readiness for battle use."

(The AEC is composed of civilian commissioners, although military men are on its staff.).

Forrestal's diary also said that David E. Lilienthal, first AEC chairman, objected to allowing the military custody of atomic bombs, arguing that the bomb was not just another weapon, but an instrument of destruction "which carried the widest kind of international and diplomatic implications."

Shipping Tie-up Facing US

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11 (AP)—Marine radio operators, angered by reports that the Wage Stabilization Board rejected their wage increase, today threatened a country-wide shipping tie-up.

In Washington, WSB spokesmen denied that a decision had been reached.

Vice-president Philip O'Rourke of the American Radio Association (CIO) said he was informed the board voted down two motions Wednesday to approve a $39-monthly raise.

That raise was granted by shipowners in June to bring the radiomen on a wage par with deck and engineroom officers. It is in addition to a 6.2-per-cent increase already approved by the WSB.

Base pay is $352 a month.

Jobless Father Kills Himself

DETROIT, Oct. 11 (AP) — An unemployed father of four rigged a makeshift "electric chair" in his home and electrocuted himself, police said today.

The body of Chester Dunn, 40, was found by his wife, Eleanor, 37, after she returned from filing a non-support complaint against him.

Patrolman Calvin Gill said Dunn flooded his basement floor three inches deep with water and stripped the insulation from an extension cord.

He taped the cord to his arm at one end and sat on the other. Then, dangling his feet in the water, Dunn threw a switch, Gill said.

Support Weakens On Toronto Market

TORONTO, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Support weakened today in early afternoon Stock Market dealings and prices turned lower.

Trading during the first three hours was the most active in the exhange's 17-year history. Heavy selective western oil, base metal and low-priced gold stocks boosted the turnover to 4,818,000 shares.

Papers took over as industrials' strongest section.

Western oil suport strengthened after a brief noon weakness. A wide list of issues posted unusually large volumes. Flank Petroleum traded 500,000 shares as it climbed 10 cents. Redwater-Piccadilly traded 350,000 in moving up 15 cents. Decalta, Sapphire, Beef Petroleum, Petrol, Federal Petroleum and Calvan Consolidated climbed actively.

Base metals traded irregularly. Barvue climbed 15 cents with more than 450,000 shares changing hands. Callinan Flin Flon and Atlin-Ruffner advanced in heavy dealings. Consolidated Smelters eased while International Nickel and Waite Amulet edged higher.

Gold issues weakened. Seniors showed a majority of fractional declines. Juniors, however, traded actively for small advances. American Yellowknife climbed six cents as more than 300,000 shares traded. El Pen Rey, Duvay, Louvicourt and Aumaque advanced in heavy trading.

Pass 4 Billion Dollar Bill For Army Work

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The House of Representatives today passed a $4,428,357,970 appropriation bill, chiefly for military construction and the Atomic Energy Commission.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

Almost all the money it provides is for construction of barracks, depots and bases in the United States and overseas for the army, the navy and the air force.

The Atomic Energy Commission's allotment is $200,000,000 for work on the big Savannah River, SC, atomic plant.

Little Difference Between Beliefs

EDMONTON, Oct. 11—(CP)—There is little, if any, difference theologically in the various Protestant beliefs, Archbishop Walter F. Barfoot, of Edmonton, Anglican Primate of Canada, said Wednesday.

Archbishop Barfoot, addressing a church meeting, said psychological, social and temperamental factors are the chief reasons for Christian disunity.

He listed the four pillars of belief which Anglicans would require to be maintained in any move toward unity of Prostestant churches in Canada.

They were belief in the holy scripture of the Old and New Testaments, the Nicence and Apostles Creed, the sacraments of communion and baptism and the ministry or order.

He said that only on the last was there any sizable fundamental difference to overcome.

The Christian church was fighting for its life in a pagan world and the most vital need in this fight was the achievement of unity.

Police Catch Two Escapees

HAMILTON, Oct. 11 (CP). — Two escapees from the Galt Training School for Girls were picked up by Hamilton police Wednesday night. The girls — missing for less than 12 hours— were hitch-hiking to Toronto.

Two other girls who escaped Wednesday while being taken to Galt are still missing.

Galt police—"they're dumb" — the girls said. "We walked around Galt all day and passed several officers and they never even stopped us."

Clock Prevents End Of Hearings

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The House of Representatives public works committee lost to the clock Wednesday in efforts to end hearings on new legislation to authorize the disputed St. Lawrence Seaway and power project.

The committee, as a result, is almost certain to delay a vote on the controversial measure until next week. Originally, it had tentatively planned a final vote for Friday.

Arrangements had been made to finish testimony for the bill Wednesday. But the House met an hour early and that forced the committee to adjourn.

Lt.-Gen. Louis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, was in the witness chair when the session ended.

Meantime, Acheson made it plain he agrees with Britain's contention that Egypt cannot legally cancel the existing treaties.

Meanwhile, the Youth Committee of Nahas Pasha's ruling Wafdist Party appealed for calm and condemned yesterday's rioting as a "rash action."

But the Wafdist youths strongly supported the Prime Minister's move to break with Britain.

All classes and all parties continued to back the strong nationalist stand taken by Nahas Pasha.

Ask Early Closing

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP). — Mayor Hiram McCallum today asked Toronto businesses located in the downtown area to be blocked off for the Royal visit to let their employees off at 3.30 p.m. Friday. From that time until 7 p.m., all vehicular traffic will be banned that day.

2 Unions Get Increases At Outboard

Agreements have been signed between the Outboard Marine Co. and their two local unions giving a package increase of 13 cents an hour to the 400 production workers and slightly more to the 80 office workers.

A cost-of-living bonus has also been added to the two contracts.

Local 230, Outboard Marine Workers Union, is the bargaining agent for the production workers and Local 231 represents the salaried employees. For the last month the two unions have been negotiating on a wage-opener clause that was inserted in their 18-month contracts.

Production workers received two cents an hour, now added to their wage rates; plus an 11-cents-an-hour bonus to compensate for the increased cost of living since the contract was signed six months ago. Effective Oct. 1, they have a cost-of-living clause inserted in their contract calling for an adjustment of a cent an hour for each 1.3 change in the official government index.

The minimum starting rate for men in the production unit is $1.24 an hour with automatic progressions within a year to $1.31. And the minimum for women is $1.03 with progressions within a year to $1.12.

Fred Burrett, president of Local 230, said the Outboard workers have received a package increase during the last six months of from 29 to 31 cents an hour.

Salaried workers received a boost of $5.48 a week. This is the equivalent of the two cents an hour given the production workers; plus 11 cents, based on a 43-hour week rather than the 37½ hours that they actually work. The cost of living hit the salaried workers just as hard as their fellow employees, the union negotiators argued successfully.

Local 231 also has an escalator clause inserted in the contract.

The existing contracts which will run until the end of September 1952, both had a wage opener clause effective six months after they were signed.

President Burrett and Lou Dirkin, chairman of the negotiating committee, led the Local 230 negotiators. And President George Sedgwick headed the Local 231 group. Both locals are chartered directly to the CCL.

Civic Luncheon

The city of Ottawa paid court to Elizabeth and Philip with a civic luncheon and sent the Royal couple away laden with gifts for their children.

To the Princess herself, Mayor Charlotte Whitton presented a cheque for $1,000 in Canadian funds, contained in a hand-worked leather wallet, to be used by the Princess for the charities she personally favors.

The luncheon, starting at 12:30 pm EST, was held in the ballroom of the Chateau Laurier Hotel. The guest list of 200 included high-ranking civic officials.

The Royal couple, going to the luncheon after a quiet morning at Government House, were accompanied by Prime Minister and Mrs. St. Laurent.

Wears Red Dress

The Princess's costume for the luncheon was a red crepe dress with a soft draped bodice and full skirt with small waistline. She also wore a long robin red wool coat trimmed at the collar and sleeves with black velvet buttons.

For the Royal children, Mayor Whitton presented a truly Canadian treat—maple sugar in a box fashioned of Ottawa Valley bird's-eye maple and bearing the city's coat-of-arms. The children, the mayor suggested, will expect something to be brought home "from the party".

But that was not all for the youngsters.

Eleven-year-old Eric Goodwin, son of former Mayor Grenville Goodwin who died suddenly a month ago, presented for three-year-old Prince Charles a windbreaker with the first new crest award of the city.

Baby Princess Remembered

For one-year-old Princess Anne, there were two bunny blankets spun from the finest Canadian wool with the Royal infant's Royal coronet. They were presented by Nicole Tardif, 11, daughter of city controller Paul Tardif.

The city patterned its menu as all-Canadian. It included these courses, representative of each of the provinces

Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island Maritime oysters; Cream of peas Quebecoise; Newfoundland salmon en Bellevue; Alberta elk; Saskatchewan grouse; New Brunswick potatoes noisette; Manitoba wild rice; Pacific seasonal salad; Maple bombe Chantilly; British Columbia candied fruits; Ontario cheese fleurons; and coffee.

There was one item missing which had been served at other luncheons and dinners thus far in the Royal tour—cocktails. Board of Control decided that no alcoholic beverages would be served at any function at which the city was host.

In a brief address, Mayor Whitton asked the Royal couple to accept "the warm allegiance of the citizens of Ottawa."

She concluded:

"And may all blessings attend upon Your Royal Highness, His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh, our little Prince Charles and our wee Princess Anne."

Ottawa Swept Off Feet By Storybook Royal Couple

OTTAWA, Oct. 11. (CP)—It's only in its fourth day but the 1951 Royal tour has already swept Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip into the turmoil of a triumphant procession. People are turning out in the tens of thousands, creating the greatest mass spectacles Canada has known since the Royal tour of 1939. More than 350,000 have swarmed into the streets of four cities—three in French-speaking Quebec—to shout acclaim for a young and fascinating couple who might have stepped out of a storybook. If there was any suspicion that Canada's ties to the British throne are anything but strong, this usually reserved and undemonstrative capital shattered it Wednesday.

Unter clear, warm skies, it went overboard.

Today they have a morning to themselves at the home of the Governor-General and then start a new round of functions including a civic luncheon, a boat trip on the Ottawa River, and a buffet supper and square dance at Government House at night. They leave late at night for Eastern Ontario points and Toronto.

Like Human Wall

Wednesday 200,000 people came into the streets, sat on the rooftops, hung from the trees and stood in vast, tight masses. They cheered and waved and shouted. They swarmed through police guards and on to the lawns of the home of Prime Minister St. Laurent. They lined the magnificent Driveway on the route into the heart of the city like a solid human wall for more than seven miles. They packed into Confederation Square for a war memorial ceremony.

They were happy crowds who obviously liked what they saw. They saw a Princess in blue and a Prince in naval officer's uniform who fulfilled all the adjectives that have been heaped upon them.

What Ottawa did, neighboring Hull, Que., did on as warm although not as large a scale when the Royal couple drove there.

Ottawa's first day of greeting consisted of 11 official events that rolled off steadily—but not without incident.

Children's Welcome

At Lansdowne Park, where 14,000 school children shrieked and sang a welcome, three-year-old Sheila Hamilton burst into tears only minutes before she was to present a nosegay of flowers. Mayor Charlotte Whitton helped get her eyes dried in time.

Between Ottawa and Hull, Charles Stein, the man in charge of all tour arrangements, had to run to catch the procession of cars and the crowds laughed as the tails of his formal clothes danced in the sun.

On the long drive through walls of people from the time of arrival at 10 am, a boy broke into the procession and drove along on his bicycle with a tiny puppy yipping in a basket.

There were reports that a car with one of the Princess's bags got tied up in the traffic and she didn't have her powder and make-up at Government House when she wanted it.

Have Good Time

At a government house reception for 250 reporters and their wives, some forgot to bow, some forgot to curtsy but everyone had a good time, particularly the laughing, wisecracking Prince.

The Princess wore a knee-length coat of slate blue figured pure silk over a dress of the same material.

At night she wore a gold evening dress with white lace, a diamond tiara glittering in her hair and a diamond necklace sparkling aruond her throat.

She spoke at the banqeut for the second time that day and her voice went across the country through a CBC microphone hidden in the flowers in front of her.

The Princess praised Canadians for their defences of freedom and called them "the knights errant of our tragic modern world."

In North America, she said, "the most spacious monarchy and the most powerful republic dwell side by side in easy friendship, conscious that the lamp of liberty may burn as true under either form of government."

However, a general headquarters communique said Reds swarmed off one of their ridges in the early morning darkness to hurl a counter-attack at an allied battalion.

There was a rising feeling at Eighth Army headquarters that the battle for heartbreak had gone into its last stages. A series of tank raids reached its height in a day-long attack Wednesday.

Briefing officers said those raids opened the way to breaking the Red hold on two key positions, cracked the Communist defence line and diluted their concentrations of artillery and mortar fire.

Wrong Information Theft Charge Quashed

A charge of theft against John A. McGrath, 880 King George St., was dismissed in police court today at the request of Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw.

McGrath had been charged with stealing parts of a wagon valve from the Department of Transport on the Trent Canal but in asking that the charge be dismissed, Mr. Bradshaw said the officers who made the arrest "had been given wrong information. On investigation they found this man should not have been charged."

6 Oil Sketches Toronto's Gift

TORONTO, Oct. 11. (CP)—Six oil sketches of Ontario scenes today were selected by Toronto Board of Control as the city's gift to Princess Elizabeth. The paintings will be unveiled at Friday's civic reception.

The sketches—variously estimated as worth from $500 to $2,000—are done in oil on canvas over board. Sidney Key, curator of the Toronto Art Gallery, explained that the pictures are called sketches because the artists actually painted them on the spot.

Mr. Key said the board's selection "will probably set up a great howl in the informed circles and among artists generally." But he said he believes the pictures "by and large, are fairly representative of what Torontonians like."

The sketches selected: Manly MacDonald's "Early Spring"; L. A. C. Panton's "Edge of the Clearing"; Herbert S. Palmer's "October Morning"; A. J. Casson's "Still Morning—Yantha Lake"; F. S. Haines' "Passage to Cranberry (Lake)"; and J. S. Hallam's "Winter in Lawrence Park."

Alderville House Destroyed In Night Fire

ROSENEATH, Oct. 11 (ENS). —An unoccupied nine - room house was razed by fire at midnight Wednesday in Alderville, one mile south-west of Roseneath on Highway 45. Cause of the blaze is unknown.

The burning home was first noticed by Mrs. Christopher Marsden, who lives 50 feet away. By that time flames had engulfed the whole house.

Mrs. Marsden telephoned the Roseneath telephone operator who sounded the general alarm in Roseneath, sending 100 volunteers to fight the flames. It was reported the Roseneath fire equipment was not sent because the fire had gained so much headway.

An Alderville landmark for 70 years, the large rambling frame home, owned by Robert Marsden, Christian Island, Georgian Bay, was completely razed in two hours. A small amount of furniture also was destroyed. The building and contents were partly covered by insurance.

The volunteers concentrated their efforts on nearby buildings, a barn and a home, owned by the late William Loucks. They poured water from the Loucks well on the barn roof which was only 20 feet away from the burning house and on the home which was 50 feet away.

Warns Britain Has New Crisis

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Winston Churchill warned today that Britain faces a new economic crisis.

Stumping his own constituency in the general election campaign, the Conservative leader told a rally at Woodford:

"This is the third such crisis in four years, and it comes on top of the desperate remedy of devaluation which their (Labor's) own extravagance and mismanagement forced upon them two years ago.

"We must stop this fall in the value of the money we earn and the money we have saved."

Churchill called for voters to "turn aside from the sterile course of state control and restriction."

At Buxton, applause and some groans greeted Attlee's assertion that housewives today are better off than they would be under a Conservative government.

Speaking at Stockport, Attlee said Labor had been the first government to provide social services for all the people.

Duke Gets Signals Slightly Mixed

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Philip got his signals slightly mixed at Canada's National War Memorial Wednesday, but Princess Elizabeth helped him back on the track.

The Royal couple had placed a wreath at the base of the memorial, when the Duke appeared ready to march down the cenotaph steps to rejoin the escorting party.

As he neared the top step, the Princes murmured "turn around."

The Duke, dressed in the uniform of a naval lieutenant-commander, quickly wheeled about and saluted briskly while the Princess bowed her head in silent prayer.

Mr. Frost To The Voters

A general election in Ontario has been called for November 22nd. There are no new and startling issues before the electorate, but Premier Frost, a wise politician, has seized a favourable opportunity to make his appeal and secure office for his government for another term. The last Ontario general election was on June 7th, 1948, so that the Legislative Assembly has almost a full year's life ahead of it, if it had completed its full span of five.

* * *

Mr. Frost is going to the voters on a personal appeal, to justify his administration. It is the first time that he has gone to the people as Premier; his regime began in May, 1949, following the resignation in 1948 of former Premier Drew, who went to Ottawa, and the caretaker government of the Hon. T. L. Kennedy from October 1948 to the next May. The new Liberal leader, Mr. Walter Thomson, like Premier Frost as head of the Conservatives, is appealing to the electorate for the first time as head of a party. Only the C.C.F. leader, Mr. R. B. Jolliffe, is an old campaigner as party head.

* * *

We see little likelihood of a late frost overtaking the provincial Conservative party. It now has a very heavy majority in the Assembly—53 of the 90 seats. The C.C.F. hold 21 seats, the Liberals 13. Only a major crisis or scandal could wipe out the Conservative majority on November 22nd, and there is little likelihood of either developing.

* * *

Many of the Conservative members hold their seats by substantial majorities; for instance Peterborough's member, the Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, secured a majority of 2,528 over the Liberal candidate in 1948. There were 10,257 votes cast for Mr. Scott, 7,729 for Mr. Charles Elliott, the Liberal candidate, and 5,927 for the C.C.F. candidate Mr. John Morton.

* * *

There is also a sizable number of seats held on small majorities, and most of these are Conservative. It would take very little to unseat at least sixteen Conservatives; for at the last elections sixteen Conservatives won their constituencies by majorities of less than 700. There is, for instance the Sudbury seat held by the Hon. W. S. Gemmell, Minister of Mines, by the uneasy majority of 179; that could quickly revert to the C.C.F. or be taken by the Liberals. It would be a real benefit to legislative processes in the Province if the Opposition in the Assembly were strengthened. There are far too few Liberals and C.C.F.ers there to criticize adequately government policies and legislation. Democratic government withers without criticism.

Peterborough Warrants A New Bus Terminal

Peterborough has become a major bus centre; in fact, the Peterborough division of the Colonial Coach Company includes a wide area between Trenton, Port Hope, Toronto, Lindsay and Ottawa. The focal point of the network of routes and squadrons of buses is a converted old frame house at the corner of King and Louis Streets.

We do not for a moment want to intrude into the company's internal business by suggesting that the present Peterborough building may be inadequate as an office. It is from the point of view of bus travellers and out of civic regard that we criticize the building as a waiting-room and ticket-office. The bus travellers' point of view has some weight. Each week more than 14,000 people use the buses operating in the Peterborough division, and excluding some 200 commuters who go direct to the factories by bus, and some hundreds of other people picking up a bus on the road and jumping off again a few miles down, most of these 14,000 weekly bus travellers pass through, out of or into the terminal. What an anti-climax it is to ride in well-appointed, even luxurious, buses, past good-looking homes, factories and new civic buildings, and end up in the Peterborough Bus Terminal.

From the point of view of the traveller and ticket-buyer, the terminal is too small, too dingy, too draughty, too crowded and too dispiriting. From the point of view of the municipality of Peterborough, the bus terminal is an affront to the city's noble effort to live and look well. A new hospital, a new City Hall, a new Federal Building (in the offing), a City Plan—all over the expanding town business, industry and elected officials and home-owners are adjusting themselves to the new era and providing handsomely for Peterborough's future. The bus terminal looks back to the nineteenth century, like a driving-shed and a toll-gate keeper's hut.

When Colonial Coach assumed most of the bus traffic to and from Peterborough more than a year ago, and the city sold it additional and valuable space, it was generally expected that the company would build a terminal suitable to its and the city's status. Building materials, particularly structural steel, are difficult to get these days, but not impossible. When can Peterborough look forward to a commodious, respectable and even handsome bus terminal? Something as good as the company's Port Hope terminal would be welcome; a building as fine as the Kingston bus terminal might reasonably be expected.

Churchill's Memoirs In The Examiner

On Saturday next, in the magazine supplement which is now a part of our week-end paper, we shall publish the first instalment of the latest volume of Winston Churchill's war memoirs. This section of the great historian's work is called "Closing The Ring." It tells how the Allies, having cleared the Germans and Italians out of Africa, driven them from Stalingrad and halted the Japanese at sea, moved in upon their enemies for the kill. Striking upward through Italy, eastward from Poland, southeast from France, and upon Japan from New Guinea and the Solomons, the Allies closed the ring upon the Axis powers, knowing that victory was certain, whatever bitter hardships and losses might be met with on the road. Churchill's story of the move toward victory is as noble in its conception and writing as his story of the darkest days of the war.

It is not given to many men who have made history to write it themselves. In this, as in so many other respects, Winston Churchill is one man in many millions. And at this time, when his latest volume of history appears, Churchill is still making history; before the end of the month he will either be Prime Minister of Great Britain again, or he will have given his opponents a furious shaking. He is not a man to rest upon his laurels.

We are proud that our readers will have an opportunity to read "Closing The Ring" in the Examiner's week-end paper before the book will be available in its complete form. It is our endeavour to give our readers the best journalistic fare that our number of subscribers can justify, and we feel that a long installment of Churchill's latest book is a very real bargain when offered as a part of our Saturday edition. We know that thousands of our readers will enjoy "Closing The Ring" in the Examiner who might find it difficult or impossible to purchase the printed book; there will be many others who will welcome this, the earliest opportunity, to continue the great Churchill story. We are happy to offer this distinguished work as part of our Saturday paper.

Competition With Royal Tour Ends

Since Monday afternoon Canadians had a public schizophrenia. Their attention was split between two notable and continuing public ceremonies, in each of which princes of their own realms were the star performers. In the newspapers, on the radio, in public chatter and private talk, the World Series vied with the Royal Tour. But the royal purple did have precedence in Canada over the glittering diamond; we proudly note that our front pages had three columns about the princely pair to one column about the Yankee Giants. Nevertheless, it is a relief to readers and listeners as well that the field is now clear for the Tour; the Yankees have won and the Edinburghs no longer have to compete with a ball team.

NOTE AND COMMENT

With lumber the price it is, the once-scorned wooden nickel must now be worth at least ten cents.

Christmas cards are already on sale in some places, so be sure you don't get hold of a handful of Hallowe'en cards, by mistake.

Contesting the South Grey riding with Mr. Farquhar Oliver will be an undertaker. Whichever one wins there can be no doubt as to which will bury the hatchet.

A toy manufacturer in Hackensack, New Jersey, announces that he will make no more penny banks, but only those holding nickels, dimes and quarters. Change that proverb to: "A penny saved is a penny spurned."

The rise in the cost-of-living index suggests that Canadian women have not paid enough attention to Mr. Abbott's advice to cut down "thoughtless" spending. These foolish creatures will go on buying bread, milk, eggs, meat, cheese, family clothing and other things which of course they don't need.

Atomic Panic Reduced

By SEBASTIAN HAFFNER

WHEN the first Russian atomic explosion was announced from Washington in September, 1949, the effect on public opinion in the West was very serious. The new announcement that Russia has made two further experimental explosions—one successful, the other partly successful—has hardly made front page headlines.

This is, of course, partly so because the first explosion meant the breaking of the American atomic monopoly and hence an important change in the world situation, while the second only confirms and develops an existing situation. But there is also another and more significant reason for the difference in public reaction. It is that during the last two years thinking about the potentialities of atomic weapons has generally sobered down, and a sense of proportion has been regained.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR years after Hiroshima and Nagasaki, people remained in a mentally shell-shocked state as far as atomic weapons were concerned. They hardly questioned the idea that a few atom bombs were enough to destroy the war-making capacity of any great power; that a war fought with atomic weapons by both sides spelt the inevitable end of civilization if not of the human race, and that all more orthodox forms of land and naval warfare had become obsolete.

From this general state of mind there resulted two ideas which dominated even serious political and strategic discussion in the early post-war years:

First, that the American monopoly of atomic weapons, while it lasted, constituted an absolute deterrent and provided, by itself, a sufficient balance of power against the Russian land armaments. Secondly, that international control of atomic energy was the essential condition to future peace and, indeed, of human survival.

GRADUALLY, these beliefs were modified in three ways. First, closer investigation has shown that the destructive efforts of the atom bomb, though certainly serious, are not as immeasurable as had at first been thought. The post-war bombing surveys in Germany and Japan proved that many of the "orthodox" air attacks with high-explosives and fire bombs had been more destructive—both in buildings and to human lives—than the atom bomb attacks on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Professor Blackett calculated that it would take at least four hundred atom bombs to do the equivalent of the damage inflicted by "ordinary" bombs on Germany during the Second World War, and this damage had not by itself been enough to defeat Germany. Nor is it easy for any Power to produce and deliver four hundred atom bombs. Even today, probably no Power could guarantee that it is capable of delivering four hundred atom bombs in her stock-pile; (the Russian stock pile is believed to be still far short of four hundred bombs).

The fear of "absolute weapons" revived when the possibility of a hydrogen bomb was revealed. But the hydrogen bomb does not yet exist and it is not certain whether it will come into existence before new defensive developments have made the delivery of any kind of bombs over long distances even more difficult.

HERE is the second reason which has begun gradually to reduce the world-wide atomic panic:

Defensive developments, both in the sphere of radar and of guided missiles have in the last year or two begun to shift the balance between attack and defence of strategic air warfare in favour of the latter. During the last war, air defence was considered to do well if it destroyed between five and ten per cent of an attacking force. Today some unofficial but fairly authoritative American estimates put the probable rate of destruction at thirty per cent. Even this means a rather devastating rate of attrition—every bomber force would be totally destroyed after about three missions—and might go far to offset the greater destructiveness of the bombs carried. However, with the expected full development of the automatically bombing devices to be fired, both air-to-air and ground-to-air, there is a very serious expectation in expert circles that in a few years time the destruction rate will approach a hundred per cent. and that, practically speaking, the bomber will no longer get through. If this expectation proves true, it will mean the end of strategic air warfare whether with ordinary bombs, atom bombs, or hydrogen bombs.

✧ ✧ ✧

A NEW development is working from the opposite starting point in the same direction; that is the new development of atomic weapons for tactical use on the battlefields—small atomic bombs to be delivered by light short-rage aircraft, ground-to-ground missiles with atomic warheads, and atomic artillery shells. Obviously, only a pervert would want to destroy enemy cities and kill enemy civilians if he could win in a war by destroying enemy armed forces; and if at the same time long range bombing of cities becomes hazardous and almost suicidal, with only an outside chance of getting an occasional bomber through at prohibitive costs, there is a double argument for returning to the orthodox method of waging war—i.e. aiming at the destruction of armed forces rather than at the destruction of the civilian rear of an enemy country.

ALL these developments are still incomplete and there is little doubt that if a world war broke out this year or next there would be very large scale atomic attacks on big cities. But if the next few years pass without a world war, it is highly probable that a future war will be fought chiefly on the battlefields again, and it is quite possible that the civilian population in the rear areas will suffer less from bombing than it did in 1939-45.

If this is so, two things follow. The first is that the international control of atomic energy, now anyhow probably impossible, loses some of the urgency it seemed to have five years ago; civilization may survive even the addition of atomic weapons to the national arsenals of sovereign great Powers. The second is that "ordinary" orthodox armaments — first class armies, navies and air forces—will be as important to national security as they ever were before atomic energy was heard of—although their tactics and technique in detail may be revolutionized through the introduction of atomic and other new weapons into tactical warfare.

Letters To The Editor

CRITICISM IN PUBLIC INTEREST

Sir: Replying to George W. Linsdell's letter in which he says I am on the war path on hospital expenses and have nothing to do only write letters, I wish to inform him I write letters to the press only when I consider facts to be in the public interest. When our hospital shows a deficit of $394.00 a day—that is one.

He draws to my attention that the $70,000.00 received for the old nospital is not all in. Why is it not? They enclosed a cheque for $10,000.00 at the time and balance to be paid by June 1st—four months ago. Also, why didn't this $10,000.00 appear in the report a few weeks ago?

I would advise my friend to keep up the good work he is at and give good meals up at the Civic.

OSCAR S. MATCHETT.

FINE SHOW OF FLOWERS

Sir: Being a visitor from Merryville, U.S., to your city, I would like to state, we have travelled quite a long way and in our travels we never saw such a nice array of flowers as there is surrounding a small bungalo on Simcoe St. opposite the Lock Works. We stopped to look at them. They are a mixture of different colours. Lovely zinnias and magnificent showing of salvia between four and five feet high and some beautiful dahlias in the backyard over six feet high. I felt I should express my thoughts where beauty is manifested in the heart of a city. Thanking you for the space this may take up.

(MRS.) SARAH MOORE.

IS RELIGION FOR WOMEN ONLY?

Sir: Some time ago, through the columns of your Examiner, you asked your readers if they still wanted the scripture reading continued. In answer to this, you received many replies, and your scripture reading is still being continued.

What perplexes me most of all, (hence the writing of this letter) is the absence of the human male species in the congregations of our churches. I have attended churches in the vicinities of where I have lived from time to time, and have been astounded at the surplus of women in the congregations. In fact, I have wondered if the church, religion, Christianity, and the construction therein, were meant for women only.

This world of ours is supposed to be a man's world; yet what are they doing for the betterment of humanity?

We get soaring food prices, high taxes, inferior merchandise, and men who are shaken in the administering of justice. In this city of ours there are those who sit behind locked doors, drawn blinds, presumably, thinking they are building character, and forgetting that men before them have built churches. Then there are prosperous ones, who in their own estimation are too big and clever, to listen to a poor parson delivering a sermon. I myself, can gather from the most nervous and tolerant of preachers. If any male citizen thinks I, as a woman, am overstepping the mark by writing this, I would advise him (if I may) to lay hold on the only book which gives us point-blank information as to where wisdom comes from, and read the duties of women in the churches; then consider to the best of his ability through the education he has already received, whether or not the activities of a poor woman would actually be golden in keeping silent when she sees so few men attending church. Yes, men were first called Christians in Antioch; it was a man who wrote the Acts of the Apostles; men have pieced the scriptures together; they have translated; down through the ages men have been martyred, and men have built proper channels wherein to worship. Almost for women only.

Thanking you Mr. Editor and wishing your Examiner every success.

A WOMAN.

Who's Talking?

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Finance Minister Abbott has invited Canadian housewives to cut down on "thoughtless spending" and practise thrift to help curb inflation.

The reaction of many housewives will be, "Look who's talking."

Most Canadians agree that a nation-wide campaign of thrift and self-restraint would do a great deal to cut down rising prices and cure many other problems as well. But they can hardly be blamed if they do a slow burn when the government that has been spending money like an Egyptian honeymooner cautions them against "thoughtless spending."

Housewives who have to think twice before investing in wieners or sausages would like to know how many government departments have got down to the wiener-and-sausage level. The advice would come much better if Ottawa were to give any indication of beginning to economize in non-defence spending. The fact is that most government departments, that have nothing to do with defence, are spending at a faster clip than ever.

Union Executive in Upper Brackets

(Niagara Falls Review)

We can remember—and it is not long ago—how the salaries of some company executives were criticized and pointed to as outrageous and so it was rather startling to note the other day the salaries paid by some of the unions to their top men.

Stan Tobin, president of the A.F.L. Teamsters Union draws down $30,000 a year and is allowed $50,000 in addition for travelling around.

John L. Lewis gets $50,000 and is the highest paid of them all.

James Caesar Petrillo draws only $46,000 a year from the musicians union, but he also gets all hotel, railway and airplane bills paid.

The vice-president of the United Mine Workers earns $40,000 a year and Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers gets only $11,500 and many people will think he is worth more than some of the others who have been mentioned.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Asa in the thirty and ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet; until his disease was exceeding great: yet in his disease he sought not to the Lord, but to the physicians. And Asa slept with his fathers, and died in the one and fortieth year of his reign. (Chron. 16: 12, 13.)

Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it. (Mal. 3: 10.)

Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father? . . . Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: for else believe me for the very works' sake.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do, shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. (John 14: 8, 9, 11-13.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Four officials of a country bank who often played cards in working hours were reported by a customer.

In due course a bank inspector paid an unexpected visit and, peering through a window, found them engaged in a game. Thinking he would give them a scare, he set off the fire alarm bell on the front of the building. He waited a few minutes and then saw the landlord of the public-house opposite running across the street with four pints of beer.

"I guessed it," said the motorist.

"Then, by heck," said the farmer, as he drove on, "guess your way to Calgary."

Trivial Dispute Paralyzes Brewery

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11 — (AP). — A dispute over what both company and labor officials term a trivial matter has paralyzed one of the world's largest breweries.

Approximately 2,300 employees of the Anheuser-Bush, Inc., plant are out of work today while 3,700 more face a possible layoff, all because of a dispute over whether a handful of men should work in the basement or on the fourth floor.

For 10 days company and union officials and Federal conciliators have tried to reach a solution.

The dispute began over the elimination of 47 bottle inspectors. The bottles had been going through two inspections — once in the basement and one on the fourth floor before they were filled. The union and the company decided to eliminate one inspection point— but could not agree on which one.

Turns Out Treasure

PRESCOTT, Ont., Oct. 11 (CP) —A slightly-tarnished brooch bought by a Prescott woman for 25 cents turned out to be a diamond-studded piece of jewelry worth $1,800. The brooch tallied with one lost a few weeks ago near Fort Wellington by Katherine Christie of Toronto.

Kingston Nylons Suspended By Ontario Association For Tossing Series To Petes

All but two players of last season's Kingston Nylons in the OHA senior "B" group of Central Ontario were suspended for at leaast a year at an OHA meeting in Kingston. The meeting found that the coach, the manager and nearly all of the Nylons' players had plotted last spring to throw their group semi-final series, if necessary, to the Peterborough Hockey Club.

This semi-final series was a best-of-five affair, while Belleville and the local Eagles were staging a similar semi-final series. The Petes won their series in four games, defeating Nylons here in the first game, losing the next in Kingston, and taking the next two then in Peterborough and Kingston. Several of the games were marked by close scores. The Petes went on then into senior "A" Allan Cup playdowns, while Nylons defeated Belleville in group finals.

Out For Life

Last night, the OHA executive —with Frank Buckland of Peterborough, and James Sutherland and Lorne Cook of Kingston present—voted to suspend Nylons' coach D. L. McKnight and the club manager, Geo. Patterson, for life. Two of the players, who gave contradictory stories at two meetings, Bud Aiken and Ed Plumb, were suspended for two years. Given one-year suspensions were players: Stone, Murphy, Gerow, Partis, McKeown, Harrison, Watts, Udall, Joyce, Potts, Patterson and Armstrong. Two players, Londry and Catlin—who had not attended a house meeting—drew no suspensions.

As the details were pieced together, nearly all the club attended a house meeting just before the group semi-finals last spring. There, management and players discussed the playdown arrangements and agreed that they did not want to win out, if they could, and have to step up to senior "A" meeting the strong Owen Sound squad in the first Allan Cup playdown round. They decided that, if necessary, they would deliberately drop their series to the Petes, the team they were drawn against in group play. The Peterborough club, of course, was not contacted on this and knew nothing of the conspiracy.

How It Broke

Last August, Coach Patterson decided to operate a Kingston senior "B" club apart from the Nylons, and he made application for the release of six players from Nylons, his son Doug Patterson, Stone, Udall, Joyce, Aiken and Plumb.

The OHA checked into this the following month and advised these players that they must seek transfers rather than releases. During the discussion, Doug Patterson argued that the Nylons had been a club working on a co-operative basis, that they decided club matters by a show of hands among players, and he let it out that they had agreed last spring not to go into senior "A" playdowns, even if it meant losing to the Petes. This prompted further OHA investigation and eventually a number of the players admitted the conspiracy.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Senior "B" football returns to the local scene tomorrow night under the lights at Morrow Park. It's Toronto Ryerson vs. the Orfuns in a four-point ORFU scheduled fixture, first appearance of the Toronto team this autumn semester. Orfuns, who are batting .500 to date in a stiff schedule, have to get in there and take this one to keep in the race, and we think they'll grab the decision. Frank Gnup has been drilling them hard for the Friday fray as it counts the same as two scheduled games. The Ryerson crew realize this, too, so it shapes up as a swell grid scrap, one that the rugby fans will really enjoy.

American Hockey League opens its long season this Saturday, six of the nine teams seeing action. Each club goes 68 times before playoffs. The AHL has interested us the past season or so on account of Peterborough players like Red Sullivan, Ike Hildebrand, Don Ashbee and Nit O'Hearn — latter three lacrosse aces here — are in this circuit, just a step below the NHL. Cleveland Barons are defending champs; other clubs being St. Louis, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Hershey, Buffalo and Providence, the latter playing in Syracuse. It's Eddie Shore's bunch, with O'Hearn in goal. Bob Thorpe won't be playing pro this winter. Schedule runs till March the middle.

Ice Again In The Arena

Doesn't seem so long since they took the ice out of Civic Arena here, but it's back in again for a long season. Two open practices slated for tonight (and bring your own equipment), with Eagles on at seven, and the Oddfellows at 8.30. Ned Vitarelli would like a big turnout of prospective senior "B" puckists for OHA play, and Johnny Godfrey feels likewise about the junior "B" workout right after. These two teamed up a few years ago to form a potent provincial championship defence pair with Legion. While the Petes haven't been on ice yet, they have a meeting of players and executive at 7.30 this evening to talk things over. It won't be long now for puck followers.

Two exhibition football games around and about last gloaming. St. Peter's blanked Lindsay Collegiate seniors 11-0 at Morrow Park. The Saints haven't been scored on so far this season. Grove took a 17-5 exhibition win o'er the junior PCI-ers with some nice play. PCVS passing was good up to a point but not in payoff territory. A double-header is billed for Morrow Park on Saturday aft, starting at 1.15 when SPS juniors meet Cobourg in a Lakeshore "B" fixture. It is followed by an exhibition betwixt Whitby senior "B" squad and St. Peter's seniors. Same day in Oshawa sees the PCVS junior "A" and senior "A" teams in loop action against the Motor Citizens.

Champs Are Welcomed

Petes' champion lacrossers came home last night and received a big welcome from friends, fans and civic officials. Thousands lined the streets to see the band-led parade as players, their wives, executive and council rode to the Armouries. Up there, the players were introduced to a big crowd and received repeated cheers. They adjourned then to the Empress where a civic reception was held and Mayor Max Swanston presented rings to the Mann Cup winners. A fitting tribute to the Canadian senior lacrosse champs. Jerry Fitzgerald came as far as Toronto with the boys but left then for St. Catharines, and Don McPhail left the party there, too, for Mimico. But all the others who had been in the Vancouver series were on deck. They were plenty tired but happy. The celebration was done up brown.

Hockey fans will be shocked at the story today about the OHA suspending Kingston Nylons' officials and players for conspiring to throw the senior "B" semi-finals, if necessary, to the Petes last spring. The Petes, of course, knew nothing of the plot and probably won on their merits, anyway. But Nylons intended to lose—rather than go into Allan Cup playdowns—and the OHA took suitable action. Even though one-year suspensions to most of the players may not seem enough. But these veterans, after being out one or two years, will be pretty much washed up, anyway. Two of them drew two-year suspensions, two were exonerated, and the coach and manager are out of organized hockey for life. So, Kingston Nylons won't be back in our grouping this winter.

Dese, Dem And Dose

Yanks had too much for the Giants, and now we can look for winter....Bill McMaster is going with Wembley Lions in English hockey this season....Central seniors squeezed out a 2-1 school soccer win yester aft over King Edward... Odeon rolled high in the Major Bowling League, and Utilities led in the Mercantile Loop.... Maurice Walsh, no stranger as a hockey ref in these parts, gets an NHL linesman's tryout this campaign; Bill Morrison will do some NHL refereeing....They've finally fixed Nels Stewart's all-time scoring record at 324 goals, the Star says....Nit O'Hearn missed the lacrosse parade but got back to town in time to get in on the tail-end of the civic reception later....Don Crowe said he's accepted an invite to report to Ottawa Rough Riders but would not likely see action this week... The Timbermen's executive deservedly came in for a lot of praise last eve, as they—as well as the players—performed a masterful job....City council and Chamber of Commerce combined well to arrange the "do"....Next big problem for the puckists is what about groupings; after, of course, lining up the players.... Cagers will be getting organized here ere long....At least one of the Petes was glad to alight from the TCA plane and step on terra firma again—the more firma, the less terra.

C'MON FEET—Edmonton Eskimos' leaping Jim Chambers makes a futile bid to escape the clutches of Winnipeg Blue Bomber Tommy Ford in a Thanksgiving Day game played at Winnipeg's Osborne Stadium. Chambers gained 13 yards on this fourth-quarter end run but Eskimos lost to the Bombers 38-27. The official in the background is head linesman Les Ferguson of Calgary.

Central Victors

Central seniors edged King Edward 2-1 yesterday at King Edward Park in a School Soccer League fixture. After some keen play on both sides, Lustic drove a hot one at the KE goalie. It was saved but in clearing the ball was nudged into his own goal by Hill to make at 1-0 at the half. The southenders carried play in the last half but eventually a Central wing brought it down neatly to Kwong Hum, who put one just under the cross-bar. King Edward pressed hard with strong support from their halves and good positional play by the forwards. B. Floyd took a neat pass and carried it up to plant the ball and make it 2-1.

Curtis, Floyd and Phillips were best for the losers, while Sorrie, Findlay and Dunford stood out for Central. Tranter and Patterson were good on the wings, and both goalies were strong. Teams:

King Edward: Phillips, Orr, J. Phillips, Reynolds, Mills, Hill, Rowe, Rose, Floyd, Beggs, Curtis, Waldie, Perry, Howden, Stevens.

Central: Lustic, Matthews, Brown, Craymer, Sorrie, Findlay, Tranter, D. Hum; Lustic, K. Hum, C. Dunford, Kelly, Harrington.

Referee: E. Druery.

St. Michael's Majors Upset Marlies 5-3

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP). — As far as the two Toronto teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series are concerned, things may be different this year.

St. Michael's Majors, who finished in ninth place last season, gave some promise of the switch Wednesday night when they scored a 5-3 upset victory over Marlboros, who finished well up in the junior race.

A big, fast and highly spirited team, the Majors outplayed the Marlboros throughout and held a bigger edge than the score would indicate.

Butch Ratchford scored two goals for the Majors, Murray Costello, Bob Sabourin and Jim Logan getting the others. John Lumley, Don Peart and Jerry James scored for Marlboros.

Barnes Bangs A 376

Odeon hit high pinnage this week in the Major Bowling League at Playfair with a 3547 mark, Clapper's 1143 single being tops in that department. J. Barnes' 846 and 375 were best in threes and singles for individuals. Other good scores were: H. Hill 309 and 762, H. Darling 324 and 755, T. Collins 735, H. Legrow and Jake Wade 731, W. Harris 730, A. Hall 722, A. Caccavella 714, N. Gordon 709, and W. Miller 308.

Six points were taken by Mowry, Plaza, Wood, Bickell, Campbell and Clapper's over Herb's, Brewers, Kawartha, Revenoors, Sun Life and McLeod. Four points went to: Crowley, Lillian's, Examiner, B & E, UEW and Odeon over Selkirk, Kingsmen, Darling, Wonder, Stud. Champs and Cherney's.

Curlers Asked To Apply For Schedules

By HERB MARTIN.

In a short time the directors of the Curling Club will call a meeting for the purpose of drawing up schedule rinks for the coming season. This is always done about this time each year—and it is an important meeting.

The club's objective is 70 rinks, and that means 280 active players. The response, by way of signed applications has been fairly good—many are new players—but there is still a number of last year's players who have not sent in their applications.

If you wish to be attached to a rink, it is essential that you file your application with the secretary. And if you know of any one who would like to curl, have him do the same. The Schedule Committee must be given time to draw up the schedule, but they must also have the material to work with.

Please do not delay this little matter any longer, and contact I. Moore or B. Grant.

FLYING FEET

Measurements of paw marks of an Alaskan brown bear shot in Alberta showed the animal was capable of leaping 18 feet.

St. Peter's Win Grid Game; PCVS Jrs. Lose

Peterborough football teams broke even on two exhibition games Wednesday in and out of Peterborough.

St. Peter's senior Saints won their second straight exhibition 11-0 against Lindsay Collegiate seniors. The Saints have yet to be scored upon, defeating St. Michael's College of Toronto 16-0 Saturday.

In Lakefield, Grove School won its first exhibition game over PCVS juniors in three years when the preparatory school boys slipped Al MacQuarrie's Garnet and Greys a 17-5 defeat.

Hickson, Clarke and Kirkley starred along the Saints' front wall as St. Peter's went up 1-0 in the first, 6-0 at half time, 6-0 still at quarter and 11-0 in the final.

Brioux Led

Carl Brioux again led the Saints with help from John Jones and Jack Richardson in the backfield. Logan was the Lindsay standout.

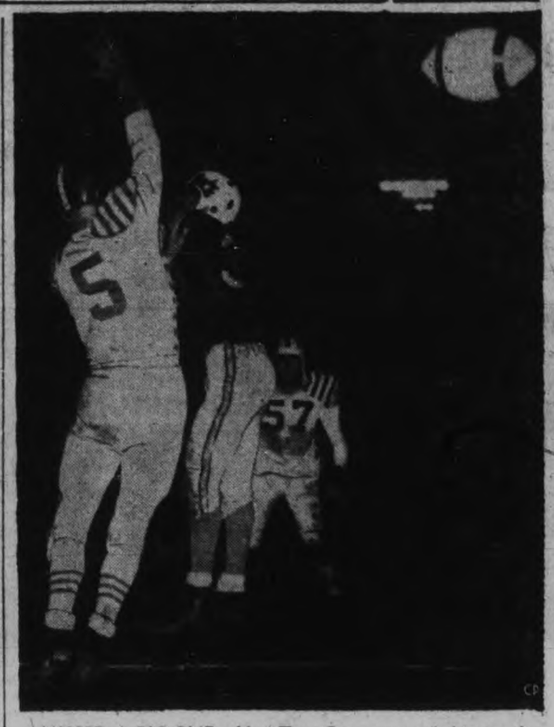
After Maidens and Brioux traded kicks in the first quarter Brioux jaunted for 20 yards followed by Richardson clipping off 35 yards. Brioux then punted for the single point.

In the second quarter after a Logan kick, Richardson passed to Tom Cavanagh for 20 yards. Then Brioux dashed for 15 yards and finally scored on a 20-yard plunge. The convert attempt failed.

Late in the fourth Logan looped a 35-yard punt to John Armstrong who ran the ball back 15 yards Brioux went again in two plunges, the first for 30 yards and the second for 10 yards and the touchdown. Again the convert attempt failed.

Passing Good

Although heavier than PCVS, Grove at times had trouble with PCVS' juniors as they unleashed several successful passing attacks. But each time the drives fell short.



Sportsmanship was featured throughout the annual game, only two offsides and no roughing or holding penalties being called.

PCVS' Jack Corbett starred with his passing while little Gary Kearns kept up his pace by plunging and running, especially on runbacks on Grove punts.

The Garnet and Grey twice held Grove on their three-yard line in the first quarter but Grove's Legate finally went over near the end for a 5-0 score.

Corbett began to pass in the second quarter and had some success but a returned kick caught PCVS napping to send them back. Again a passing attack was started but ended when Corbett left the game with a minor injury.

In the third quarter Grove pressed up the field and Legate again plunged over for a major score. Grove's Boyd made the convert good for an 11-0 score.

MISSED A BIG ONE—Had Tom Casey snared this touchdown pass from :quarterbcak Jack Jacobs it would have meant victory for Winnipeg Blue Bombers over Calgary Stampeders at Winnipeg Saturday night. Instead Calgarys Harry Hood (5) knocked the ball out of Casey's grasp and the Stamps won the game 18-16. Bil Blackburn (57) watches the play.

PCVS started to pass, Corbett throwing, and again the attack fell short in pay territory. But Grove's Boyd added a third touchdown before the quarter ended and also converted for the 17th point.

In the fourth the play was even with Corbett's passing standing out. Finally on the last play of the game Corbett punted (Hollingsworth's arm was hurt earlier in the game)' and Grove fumbled behind the line. Kearns fell on the ball for the score.

Yanks Get Run For Money As Giants Bow 4-3 To Give Them Series

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 11. (AP)—Casey Stengel sits atop the baseball world today with three straight world championships in his first three years as manager of New York Yankees. You can bet your bottom dollar that the grizzled old skipper will be back in 1952 to complete his $65,000-plus contract. And probably 1953 and so on. Unless poor health dampens the fire of this old war horse, he'll be back as long as they want him. Right now, that's probably forever.

Leo Durocher's "miracle men" Giants gave the Yanks a good wrestle before bowing 4-3 in Wednesday's sixth game at chilly Yankee Stadium. But they could not manage another miracle against an aroused Yankee club who took the best-of-seven series, 4-2.

If you looked sharp you could see this coming since Sunday's postponement. Trailing 2-1 in games without a pitcher for the fourth, the Yanks got a terrific break when a 2½-inch rainfall washed out the game.

With Allie Reynolds gaining another day of precious rest, the Indian came back to blind the Giants Monday. Then they rolled the heavy artillery into action for the 13-1 slaughter of the fifth game.

Maybe they were lucky to close it out in six. The Giants outhit them Wednesday 11-7 and staged a rousing finish that all but saved the day.

Bauer Hero

Still Hank Bauer's 400-foot triple cleared the bases with the winning runs in the sixth. That was the ball game, although it took a bit of doing to keep it under control.

Bauer emerged a double hero. His hit won over Monte Irvin's head won the game from Dave Koslo. His sliding catch of pinch-hitter Sal Yvar's sinking liner saved the day in the ninth.

All the credit in the world belongs to the Giants who clawed from last to first in the most exciting playoff series in all baseball history. They never quit when the Dodgers had them 4-1 going into the ninth in the last playoff game. And they never quit Wednesday when they went to the ninth, trailing by that same 4-1 score.

Durocher got a terrific series from Monte Irvin with his .458 average and his 11 hits that tied Davie Robertson's old Giant mark of 1917 for a six-game series.

Ditto for Alvin Dark (.417) who played errorless ball at shortstop and chimed in with 10 hits.

Yanks Hit Better

But in the over-all picture the Yanks hit better .246 to .237, hammered the most extra base hits and home runs and scored 11 more runs. Eddie Lopat came up with a pair of five-hitters. Reynolds came back with a fine effort after losing the opener. And Bob Kuzava was able to hold the fort against that desperate ninth-inning finale by the Giants.

A 1-0 Yank lead in the first inning lasted until the fifth when the Giants tied on Willie Mays' single, a passed ball and two fly balls.

Then came the sixth. With one out Yogi Berra singled to right and took second on Hank Thompson's fumble. Joe DiMaggio was walked intentionally. Johnny Mize walked to load the bases. Bauer hammered a long fly over Irvin's head for a three-run triple and the game.

Knocked Out

Vic Raschi, the eventful winner, was knocked out in the seventh when Johnny Sain, an old National Leaguer from Boston, put down three men in a row after Raschi gave two hits.

The real dramatics came in the ninth when Eddie Stanky singled, Dark beat out a bunt for a hit and Whitey Lockman singled to load the bases. Sain was done and Casey waved in Kuzava.

The lefty got Irvin and Thomson on fly balls to Woodling. Each time a run scored after the catch, closing the gap to 4-3.

With Lockman on second, representing the tying run, Yvara sent the sinking liner that Bauer just did catch on his knees.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Bauer Hero Of Final Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP). — "I caught the ball while on my knees—thank God."

Hank Bauer was all smiles as he explained how he almost failed to make the catch that marked the final out of the world series.

"I lost the ball in the shadow of a light tower," the outfielder explained. "For a while I didn't see it at all. I didn't know I had it until I saw the ball in my glove."

The catch by Bauer was the game-saver. It came at the expense of pinch-hitter Sal Yvars with two out and Whitey Lockman on base in the top of the ninth. Had Bauer failed to come up with the ball, Lockman would have scored the tying run.

As it was, the Yankees ran off the field with a 4-3 triumph, their fourth in six world series games, to give them their third straight world championship.

"Bauer caught it," quipped manager Casey Stengel in the locker room, "but I swallowed it."

It was Bauer, too, who produced the game-winning hit. The bases were loaded and there were two out with the count three-and-two on Bauer when Hank pickled a fat pitch down the middle by lefty Dave Koslo clear to the 400-foot fence in deepest left. The blow went for a base-clearing triple and broke a 1-1 deadlock.

Flyers Crush Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 (CP).—Barrie Flyers Wednesday night rode roughshod to a 9-1 decision over a bolstered Ottawa St. Charles sextette in an exhibition hockey game before 2,000 fans. Ken Collins sparked the Flyers with three goals, while Chuck Wood netted a pair. Fred Pletsch, Don McKenny, Jim Savage and Skip Teal notched one goal each. Gerry Moore accounted for the lone Ottawa tally in the first period.

Is DiMaggio Through With Baseball? Not Even Joe Is Sure Of The Answer

By JOE REICHLER.

NEW YORK Oct. 11 (AP). — Did the ringing double in his last time at bat toll Joe DiMaggio's farewell to baseball?

Not even DiMaggio knows the answer.

The first question reporters put to DiMaggio Wednesday after the Yankees won the world series for the third straight year was:

"Are you coming back next year, Joe?"

The Yankee Clipper who established a record by playing on his ninth world championship club, replied:

"Fellows, I just don't know. I haven't been able to make up my mind."

DiMaggio's teammates who might have sensed that he may never be back at the Yankee Stadium, his baseball home for 16 years, took no chances.

They had Joe autograph their bats, gloves, baseballs and photographs. Several requested and received some of his pet bats.

Tough Decision

This is the touhgest decision DiMaggio has had to make since he joined the Yankees in 1936 as a youngster of 21.

DiMaggio suffered his poorest year this past season hitting .263.

His sub-normal batting, however, did not affect his fielding and base-running. And there were days when he looked to be the old DiMaggio at the plate, too. Like in the fourth world series game when he lashed a home run and two singles.

"We couldn't have won without him," shouted manager Casey Stengel for all to hear. "And we need him next year, too."

DiMaggio wants to keep on playing but only as a top-notcher. His pride won't allow him to plod along as a mediocre performer.

He knows he has slipped—but is not sure how much. That is what is worrying him and what makes him hesitate before making the final decision.

He was a discouraged old man of 36 during the first three games of the series, but he has been acting like a happy kid since he regained his batting eye in the fourth game. After going hitless in his first 12 times at bat, Joe blasted six hits in his next 11. That gave him a presentable .261 world series mark.

It was a teammate, Gene Woodling, who expressed the sentiments of the rest of the Yankees.

"Please Joe, don't quit us," he pleaded. "I need more money to buy shoes for my three childrn."

Offered $15,000 To Lose Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP). — Laraine Day, wife of manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants said Wednesday night Leo was offered $15,000 in a letter if the Giants "manage to lose the next three games."

The movie actress said she persuaded Leo to turn the letter over to baseball commissioner Ford Frick a half-hour before Wednesday's final game of the world series at the Yankee Stadium.

"The letter," she said, "had been on Leo's desk several days along with other unopened mail. Leo opened some of his mail Tuesday night and found this one."

Miss Day said the letter not only promised Leo $15,000 but also contained a threat to herself and their six-year-old adopted son, Chris.

The letter was typewritten on stationery of the Strand Hotel in Atlantic City, NJ, but was postmarked Oct. 6 from Fresh Meadow, NY, on Long Island.

The commissioner could not be reached for comment.

Charles KO's Rex Layne In 11th Round

By JOE BRADIS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11—(AP)—Ezzard Charles is hot on the comeback trail today after knocking out Rex Layne in the same ring where he lost his heavyweight title to Jersey Joe Walcott.

Charles stopped the 23-year-old Salt Lake City, Utah, belter in 2.32 of the 11th round last night in an interesting but unimpressive bout before a disappointing turnout of 6,257 fans at Forbes Field.

Charles weighed 188, heaviest of his fighting career, and Layne 195½. The fight grossed $59,763, including $25,000 for television rights. Temperatures in the low 50s kept down the attendance.

The former champion was far ahead by points when a hard right to the chin in the 11th dropped Layne for a nine count and the referee stopped it.

Just Another Bout

Up until the 10th, it was just another 12-round bout. With seconds running out, Charles opened up with a barrage of lefts and rights and Layne went down. He lay prone on his back as the bell ended the round at the count of eight. His seconds had to haul the Utah strong boy back to his corner.

Referee Buck McTiernan gave Charles seven rounds. Judge Art McGivern scored it Charles six, Lane three, one even. Judge Frank Stipert gave Charles nine, Layne one. The Associated Press showed Charles with five, Layne three and two even.

Charles is virtually assured a promised return match with Walcott but neither Jake Mintz nor Tom Tannas, co-managers of the Cincinnati heavyweight, had anything to say about his immediate future plans.

THE BIG BLOW—This is the scene as Gil McDougald cracked a grandslam home run in the third inning of the fifth series game, at the Polo Grounds. The Yanks' rookie star connected with Johnny Mize on first, Joe DiMaggio on second and Yogi Berra on third, to send the Yanks off to a resounding 13-1 victory, and a 3-2 lead in the series. The blow, off Larry Jansen, was only the third bases-loaded homer in series history. The Yanks took the sixth game 4-3 and the World Series Wednesday.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Jockey Hugh Campbell suffered a possible fractured skull when his mount, Hemjohn, fell during the running of the second race at Long Branch race track Wednesday. Attendants at St. Joseph's hospital in Toronto Wednesday night reported his condition as 'serious.'

As the 23-year-old Toronto jockey lay on the track, Waycross hurdled the prostrate Hemjohn, and stepped on Campbell's head.

Jockey Tony Licata, who rode Waycross which went on to win, said Hehjohn was making his move, racing in front of Waycross when the horse clipped the heels of Carispat. The horses were closely bunched making it impossible to avoid striking Campbell.

Chicago White Sox Wednesday announced a trade involving four pitchers and an infielder for two top pitchers in the Pacific Coast League.

General manager Frank Lane said the Chicago club obtained Marv Grissom and Hector Brown from Seattle Rainiers in exchange for pitchers Marv Rotblatt, Jerome Dahlke, Dick Duffy and Bill Fischer and shortstop Jim Baumer.

At Hamilton, Buffalo Bisons handed their rivals of the American Hockey League, Cleveland Barons, a 3-2 defeat in an exhibition game Wednesday night. Two goals, within 30 seconds of each other in the third period, gave the Bisons the game. Ab Demarco fired home a pass from Grant Warwick and Vern Kaiser clinched it on Demarco's pass.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats may be without the services of their big centre, Jake Gaudaur, when they play the Alouettes in Montreal on Sunday in a Big Four game. Gaudaur, injured in the last minute of play in Monday's game with Toronto, was out at drill Wednesday night but Dr. Cliff Hopmans refused to let him take part.

At Quebec, the Canadian Boxing Federation announced Wednesday it has ordered Montrealer Roy Wouters, Canadian middleweight champion, to defend his title within 60 days. The announcement, by president Wilfrid Samson of Quebec, said Wouters has been challenged by Jimmy Langston of Vancouver, VC. The federation statement said Wouters obliged to put his title on the line at least once every six months, has passed the time limit.

Minneapolis Lakers professional basketball team is going to make a five-game junket into Canada as a preliminary to its National Basketball Association schedule, it was announced at Minneapolis Wednesday night. They go to Windsor Oct. 22 to play Toledo Mercuries. Then they play four games in four nights against Philadelphia of the NBA at Toronto, Oct. 23, Kingston, Oct. 24, Ottawa Oct. 25 and Montreal Oct. 26.

Hockey Follows Hard Baseball's Heels

By JACK SULLIVAN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

With nothing left of the world series but a welter of post-mortems and a dying gasp that will hog a huge chunk of North America's sports pages for the last time this season, the National Hockey League campaign opens tonight on two fronts. For the next six weeks, hockey's only big competition at the gate will be football.

Four of the NHL's six teams officially start the 5½ month, 70-game schedule with face-offs at Montreal and at Detroit. It will be Chicago Black Hawks against Canadiens and Boston Bruins against the Red Wings at Detroit Olympia.

Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions, open defence of the title at home against the Black Hawks Saturday and New York Rangers complete the league's opening ceremonies at home Sunday—also against the Hawks.

Experts Predict

The crystal ball has been tossed around at the various training camps the last few weeks and the experts, speaking for publication, have donated only two of the four playoff spots. The pre-season prognostications go to Detroit 1950-51 league champions, and the Canadiens to finish 1-2 in that order.

The other four—including the world champion Leafs—will settle for fourth place, final playoff spot. But, on past performances and with off-season deals the most reliable order of finish appears to be:

Detroit for a repeat league-championship performance with the Leafs and Canadiens a toss-up for second and Rangers to complete the final four-team playoff picture. The Bruins, who edged out New York by one point for fourth position in the 1950-51 season, and Black Hawks are slated for the also-ran slots.

SNATCH IN TIME—Ralph Toohy (35) of Montreal Alouettes is pulled down by Howie Turner of Ottawa with Alex Carsob (84) wearing face-guard on his way to assist Turner in a game at Montreal. Toohy had just taken a pass from Alouette quarterback Bruce Coulter and would have been in the clear if Turner had not toppled him.

Bolton Named To Leaf Defence

TORONTO, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Hugh Bolton, tall, 22-year-old Toronto-born hockey player, was named Wednesday night as spare defenceman for Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Bolton, a 6-foot, 2-inch rearguard who turned professional last season and divided his services between the Leafs and Pittsburgh Hornets, will round out a defence corps which has been a man short since dashing Bill Barilko disappeared two months ago on a Northern Ontario plane trip.

Jim Thomson, Gus Mortson, Fern Flaman and Bill Juzba are the regular defencemen.

Conn Smythe, Leaf managing director, who made the Bolton announcement after the game, added that he had been impressed with the work of Leo Boivin, 20-year-old defenceman who played last season with Port Arthur West End Bruins. Boivin, who has signed a pro contract and has been training with Pittsburgh, was described by Smythe as "one of the best young defence prospects in years."

18 Records Set In World Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP). — Eighteen records were set, four of them by Joe DiMaggio, and 11 others were tied by the New York Yankees and the New York Giants in their six-game world series.

DiMaggio, who went to bat 12 times before finding his hitting eye, hung up his four marks in the batting department and tied another.

A check of the record book today showed the Yankee Clipper has played in the most series games, 51; played the most with one club, 51 with the Yankees; been at bat the most times, 199 and on a winning club the most times, nine with the Yankees.

He also tied Babe Ruth's record of playing in 10 world series.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Jake Gaudaur, one of Canada's greatest scullers of a half-century ago, died at his home near Orillia, 14 years ago today. Gaudaur, a world champion for five years and winner of numerous races against the world's best oarsmen, was 79 when he died.

Press Enjoys Reception With Princess

OTTAWA, Oct. 11—(CP)—The Princess and her Prince met the press Wednesday and both had a delightful time.

Princess Elizabeth chatted with a number of newspapermen, showing more than a passing interest in their work. And Prince Philip, in smiling good spirits, injected a few wisecracks into his conversation with reporters.

The occasion was a press reception held in the big tent room at Government House where the Royal couple are staying as guests of Governor-General and Viscountess Alexander during their Ottawa visit.

Introduced Separately

The newspapermen and their wives were introduced separately by Paul Paradis, president of the parliamentary press gallery. And the Princess had a word for each, seeking the names of the newspapers for which the reporters worked and what they did in Ottawa.

When Dillon O'Leary, Ottawa representative of the Vancouver Sun met Prince Philip, he identified himself and his newspaper. The Prince, cocking a twinkling eye on O'Leary's somewhat brilliant necktie, cracked:

"That must be the Vancouver Sun you're wearing!"

Robert Taylor of the Toronto Star, told the Duke that in Toronto he would see the biggest picture of himself ever, hung on the side of a Toronto building.

The Prince replied that he wouldn't be looking forward to it because his pictures "are bad enough life-size."

FAMOUS PURCHASE

The trinkets which the Dutch explorer Peter Minuit in 1626 gave the Indians for what is now Manhattan, were worth about $24.

Arrive Too Soon Officials In Dither

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip drove up to Canada's Parliament Buildings Wednesday expecting to find Prime Minister St. Laurent waiting on the steps.

But he wasn't there.

The fact was the Princess and the Duke were 10 minutes early arriving on the hill from their visit to Hull, across the Ottawa River from the capital.

Frantic officials telephoned the Prime Minister's home, found he was on his way, then quickly rounded up Commons Speaker Doss Macdonald.

The Speaker made it to the door as the Princess and her husband came up the big stone steps at the main entrance.

With the Prime Minister still missing, the Speaker began conducting the Royal couple on their tour of the Parliament Buildings.

NOTED SPORTSMAN — Recently promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel, Joe Lamb, former National Hockey League player and outstanding golfer, is to be posted to Kingston, Ont. Col. Lamb, a native of Sussex, NB, had been transport officer at New Brunswick Military Headquarters in Fredericton. He is also a veteran of the Second World War.

Amputee Veterans Get Special Greeting

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth selected amputee veterans for special attention Wednesday in a ceremony at Canada's National War Memorial.

She spoke to each one of the crippled veterans forming a thin line at one corner of the memorial site and asked each how he was faring.

Grizzled Thomas Thompson, who lost a leg last year as a result of a war wound suffered in France in 1915, told reporters later: "I wished her a happy journey through Canada. I know she'll have it, too."

Howard Slater, of Arnprior, Ont., who lost a leg in Holland in 1944, nodded agreement.

"Believe me, she was beautiful," he added. "She's a grand girl."

Struck By Car Napanee Woman Dies

KINGSTON, Oct. 11 (CP). — Mrs. Elizabeth McGinn, 86, died in Hotel Dieu Hospital here Wednesday from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile on Tuesday night near her home in Napanee, 25 miles east of Kingston.

The car, driven by Claud Victor Purdy of Kingston, struck Mrs. McGinn while she was crossing the road with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Ruttan, to attend evening service at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church in Napanee.

Msgr. E. M. Lacy of St. Patrick's church administered last rites in the ambulance as Mrs. McGinn was rushed to hospital here, suffering from severe head injuries and a fractured left leg.

Political Leaders Wooing Housewives Of Britain

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

LONDON, Oct. 11—(AP)—Several hundred middle-aged men are desperately wooing more than 17,000,000 Englishwomen.

It's votes they want, not kisses. Women outnumber their menfolk in almost every British constituency. Most of the "floating voters" —without definite political convictions—are supposed to be women.

So it's the women who are expected to decide in the Oct. 25 election whether Britain has a third try at Socialism or hands over the helm to Winston Churchill and the Tories.

The housewives and shopgirls have become the most powerful political force of the country.

Labor party chairman Alice Bacon began courting the housewives in the first words of the Socialists', election campaign—her opening address to the Labor rally at Scarborough:

"Never underestimate the importance of women . . . the result of this election is in the hands of women."

Feminine Touch

The Conservative party is directing much of its propaganda towards the housewife. It has asked candidates' wives to go into the homes and shopping centres to add the feminine touch to the campaign.

Prices, housing, rationing, Churchill's personal appeal as a wartime leader, and dozens of other reasons—emotional and personal as well as political—will sway the women of Britain in making up their minds.

But talks with many of them made one thing quite clear: it's their domestic problems more than anything else which influences them.

It may well be that the price of meat and the supply of eggs will turn out to be the deciding factors.

Dank But Cheery

BRISBANE (Reuters) — Dank Island, 80 miles off the North Queensland coast, is for sale and the only thing wrong with it is its name. A tourist resort before the war, brokers claim the island is a cheery place with a hotel, dance hall and cottages.

Boat Driver's Death Ruled Accidental

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP) — Death of veteran powerboat driver Frank Smith, 53, of Kingston, killed Sept. 4 when two racing boats collided at the Canadian National Exhibition, was accidental, a coroner's jury decided Wednesday night.

The jury attached no blame in Smith's death. The powerboat driver died a few minutes after his motorboat was hit by a craft driven by George Fulford, Jr., of Brockville, during a race on Lake Ontario.

EARLY ENDING

Says Research Hampered By Lack Of Men

TORONTO, Oct. 11 — (CP).— Medical research is handicapped by the difficulty of keeping trained research men in their work, Dr. Lennox G. Bell, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine, University of Manitoba, said today.

In an address to the American Life Convention, an organization of American and Canadian life insurance companies, he added:

"Universities cannot afford to employ them as full-time investigators, and the average man feels that he cannot exist on the salaries paid to research workers in most academic institutions. Therefore, just at the height of his usefulness and the full development of his skill, the research worker is obliged to turn to other fields."

Dr. Bell emphasized that while many great discoveries may have appeared accidental, they stemmed from continuous and extensive research work.

He thanked life insurance companies for their aid to medical research and said that as recently as 1947 their contribution of $600,000 to research on heart disease represented nearly one-third of the total spent on such research in both the United States and Canada.

The president, Mrs. Randel Ellis, presided where the main item of business was whether or not they would form a hockey team now that the season was over for softball. Barbara Brooks and Virginia Ellis were appointed a committee to procure a coach. Plans were then made to contact persons interested in the surrounding district—Warsaw, Norwood, Marmora, Nephaline Mines—with a view to getting a representation from each place to meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Adams on Oct. 27 to form a league and draw up a schedule for the season. The girls feel confident that an all-girl hockey game would prove a good attraction.

NOT SNOWDRIFTS, BUT "MOLD-DRIFTS"—This model "town, built on a large culture plate by GE engineers of Nela Park, Cleveland, Ohio, was left for a few days in a warm, humid atmosphere. Mold began to grow—the same kind Mama sometimes finds on stale bread. But a small germicidal lamp was left shining on the model. No mold grew where the lamp's ultraviolet light shone, but in the shadows cast by the buildings and trees, green and white mold grew rapidly and quickly. The effect was the same as in late winter, when snowdrifts in the shadows remain unaffected by the sun. So the "snowdrifts" in this picture are really "mold-drifts".

Philip Wowing Canadian People With Keen Wit

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 — (CP) — You'll be hearing Philip stories popping up allover the place any time now.

The Prince is terrific. The women are saying it with stars in their eyes. The menfolk are saying it, too, because they think he's a good guy.

He turned loose his wit—fast becoming celebrated even in the infant stages of the Royal tour—at a reception for the press Wednesday and the results were devastating.

But the reputation of this rugged, handsome, laughing Prince was abuilding before that.

People on the Royal train are still talking about an incident that happened Monday as the train moved through the Quebec countryside and unexpectedly came to a halt in a small village.

Several hundred people were out. There were no plans for a reception but the first thing they knew Philip was delivering an impromptu speech in French that wowed the inhabitants.

Then he wowed them again by engaging in rounds of talk. He talks pleasantly and with great curiosity.

All through the tour so far reporters have seen him repeatedly cracking jokes, laughing and doing a great deal to help the Princess—for she appears to be much more nervous and taut. Time after time he turns to her and says things and she relaxes and smiles.

Wednesday, at the press reception, as they moved along the lines shaking hands, Philip's wit was exploding all over the place.

He met Dillon O'Leary and asked him what paper he represented. Mr. O'Leary said it was The Vancouver Sun. The Prince glanced at Mr. O'Leary's rather vivid tie, a smile came to his face and he cracked, "Isn't that the Vancouver Sun you're wearin?"

Along the line a woman said how brave the couple was to meet so many people. "Oh," smiled the Prince, "they're worse than anybody else."

*MRS. CONSTABLE...

... Mrs. Constable, have you been a purchaser of Canada Savings Bonds?

Yes. I've bought bonds every year.

What led you to buy them?

Well, it really began back in the wartime days. At that time I was working in Toronto and I began putting some of my pay into War Savings Certificates. Then, as my work improved and my pay increased, I added the increase to my purchases.

What was uppermost in your mind when you made these investments?

Savings. I have always felt it was important to have cash put by for things you might need later on. I like to pay cash for everything. Paying up for things on a time payment plan seems to me like "mortgaging" your income.

Have you had any occasion to use the savings that have accumulated in Canada Savings Bonds?

Yes. Some time ago the plant where I work was moved to the outskirts of London and the question of getting to and from work became a problem. Because I had bought Canada Savings Bonds in past years I was able to buy a car and the problem was solved. I paid cash for it too.

How did you buy your Canada Savings Bonds?

Through deductions from my pay at the office. I have seen so many people get behind with things just because they have no regular system of saving that I have an extra appreciation of this method. You know . . . I always remember the depression days when so many people found themselves in difficulty because they had not saved regularly.

Do you expect to buy the new Canada Savings Bonds?

Yes. I will be signing up for them as I always do.

NOW BETTER THAN EVER

Canada Savings Bonds — 6th Series — mature in 10 years and 9 months from date of issue and bear ten 3½% coupons. The first coupon matures 1 year and 9 months and is payable on August 1st, 1953; subsequent coupons come due August 1st yearly thereafter until maturity. If cashed before August 1st, 1953, simple interest is paid at 2% per year, calculated monthly. If held to maturity the overall yield is equivalent to 3.21% per year. The limit for holdings in any one name is $5,000 in the 6th Series. The bonds are cashable at full face value, plus interest at any time at any bank in Canada. They are registered in the owner's name. They are non-assignable and non-transferable.

Mrs Dorothy Constable lives at 81 Blackfriars St., London, Ontario, and is one of more than a million Canadians, who have invested regularly in Canada Savings Bonds. She is assistant to the personnel manager of Somerville's, in London, Ontario. She is a member of the Highland Golf Club, Vice-President of the Business and Professional Women's Club and Secretary-Treasurer of the Personnel Association of London. She finds time in her active business life for many community activities and teaches a Sunday School class. She has no particular hobbies but when time permits likes to swim and take it easy in the sun on a sandy beach. She has one sister now living in Montreal.*

35,000 Watch Woodstock Plowing Match

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 11 (CP)—Thirty-five thousand persons turned out in bright autumn sunshine to watch the international plowing match at which 190 plowmen fashioned what a Missouri competitor called the most "artistic" furrows he had ever seen.

The plowmen competed in six tractor-plowing and three horse-plowing classes. There was also a contour-plowing competition.

Leo Drake, of Memphis, Mo., a state and national level plowing champion, said that Canadian plowmen "really do works of art."

"The way they pat those first furrows with their hands and put them up is really something. We don't have anything like that in our matches."

Mr. Drake, the lone United States entrant, came out 11th in an open tractor-plowing class.

Study Exhibits

Besides the plowing match, the hundreds of spectators who walked up and down the corridors of the "tented city," saw exhibits of the latest types of farm machinery. There was a seed cleaning plant in operation, a demonstration farm pond, and a welding contest.

The Ontario Lands Department put on demonstrations of fire fighting, high cut plowing, farm safety and plowing with oxen.

The match will continue today and Friday.

BRITONS MUST DECIDE on Oct. 25 whether to continue a six-year experiment in socialism or return to a modified version of free enterprise. But the campaign now underway includes other issues, as indicated by the above caricature sketches of the two major standard-bearers and their followers. Attlee's Labor Party hopes to sell itself as a peace party, with the opposition labeled "warmongers". Churchill's Conservatives, on the other hand, hope to sell voters on a shift toward free enterprise, with less government coddling. The Conservatives charge Attlee's government with responsibility for set-backs in Iran, Egypt and elsewhere on the foreign policy front.

Vice-President Deisher Resigns, Split On Policy

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP) — A Toronto paper says today that Walter M. Deisher, vice-president and general manager of Avro Canada Limited since it was formed in 1945, will resign in the near future.

In a newspage story, the newspaper predicts an "impending shuffle" of top management as the result of "internal strife, political interference and government indecision."

The newspaper says John M. Berry, 52, Avro's director of manufacturing since Oct. 1949, "quietly dropped from the company several weeks ago following a protracted period of bitter disagreement on production policies."

It was predicted that Mr. Deisher would retain a company directorship and would be replaced by an official as yet unnamed.

(Officials of Avro Canada could not be reached immediately for comment.)

Too Short Notice

The "strife" is said to have begun when the prototype CF-100 was put into mass production and to have arisen because the attempt was made, under government orders, at too short notice and before the necessary engineering problems had been solved.

(In June, 1950, Avro was commisioned to prdouce one aircraft a month. In October, the number was increased to five and later to 25.).

The newspaper says:

"An entire new production structure has been created, splitting responsibility for Avro's defence functions straight down the middle. Air-frame and engine production are now two separate projects with explicitly defined and well-understood objectives."

Mr. Deisher, a pioneer of Canadian aviation, directed the production of Finch, Cornell and Fort trainers at Fort Erie, Ont., during the Second World War.

Mr. Berry, a veteran of 16 years with General Motors Corporation in Britain, the United States and Japan, was Canada's wartime director of automotive and tank production.

DiMaggio has been with the New York Americans ever since, except for three years spent in the Army. Still an impressive figure at bat and in centre field at 36, this could be DiMag's last World Series. It is his 10th, which ties Babe Ruth's record. The catcher is Wes Westrum of the Giants, the umpire, Joe Paparella.

RCAF Seeks Recruits In Many Trades

For the second time in the past month, a mobile RCAF recruiting unit has moved into Peterborough for a two-day campaign at the armouries.

A one-man team, F/O L. J. Hubbard, Toronto, formerly of Calgary, accepted men Wednesday and today for the ground and air crews as well as women for various ground duty.

Women Needed.

Women are urgently needed by the RCAF for such trades as meteorological departments, tailors, supply technicians, dental assistants, fighter control operators, clerks, aircraft control assistants, medical assistants and safety equipment workers.

Women applying should have at least Grade 10 education or its equivalent, be between 18 and 29 years and be single.

The intake for women is full for the next two weeks but is open for the week of October 29.

For immediate intake there are openings for ground crew for men between 18 and 39 years, unless they are veterans or tradesmen. For air crew the men must be 18-24 years, single and have junior matriculation education or its equivalent. Veteran pilots and air crew are accepted if under 35.

At the armouries F/O Hubbard is interviewing the candidates, giving them a classification test, and instructing them for further information such as birth certificate, education proof, marriage and discharge papers.

Those who pass the classification test are supplied with transportation to Toronto to complete their enlistment.

Warns Civil Servants Simplify Terribly Complicated Language

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Oct. 10 (CP)—The gentlemen of Whitehall have received another awful warning—gobbledygook will get them if they don't watch out.

So says Sir Ernest Gowers, ardent guardian of the King's English. In a new effort to deflect civil servants from what he calls "pompous and flabby verbosity"—gobbledygook for short—Sir Ernest has prepared a 146-page guide to plain writing.

Entitled "ABC of Plain Words," the new publication takes up where Sir Ernest left off three years ago. In 1948, at the request of the treasury, Sir Ernest published a pamphlet on plain writing which sold 250,000 copies and brought the treasury a £6,500 profit. But literary weeds still flourish in the Whitehall garden.

Sir Ernest, an old Whitehall man himself, says official correspondence continues to be burdened with such flabby phrases as "optimum beddage" and "appropriate committee." Too many civil servants say lower-income brackets when they mean poor people, use "backlog" to signify arrears when it can properly refer only to a piece of wood at the back of a fire, and reveal in such horrid words as "essentiality," "reposition" and "hospitalize."

Sentences such as "the position regarding this matter is that owing to the fact that two claims were made by two claimants of the same name some confusion arose" might well go through the wringer and come out like this:

"Confusion arose because there were two claimants of the same name."

Sir Ernest also advises his former colleagues to refrain from begging, envisaging, deeming and adumbrating; hopes they will be tender with bottlenecks, deadlines, ceilings, targets; and says anything the word "disassociate" can do, "dissociate" can do better.

Reading ABC encourages a sense of humility. Nobody who skims through it will ever feel the same again about phrases like durance vile, tender mercies, conspicuous by its absence, stone upturned, acid test, psychological moment or speculation was rife—shop-worn sayings which stand blushing in a corner reserved for cliches.

Life not worth living? It may be the liver! It's a fact! If your liver bile is not flowing freely your food may not digest . . . gas blasts up your stomach . . . you feel constipated and all the fun and sparkle go out of life. That's when you need mild, gentle Carters Little Liver Pills. You see Carters help stimulate your liver bile till once again it is pouring out at a rate of up to two pints a day into your digestive tract. This should fix you right up, make you feel that happy days are here again. So don't stay sunk, get Carters Little Liver Pills. Always have them on hand. Only 25c from any druggist.

"am I the forgotten woman?..."

"I'm 5 feet 4, weigh 125 pounds—apparently that's about average. Yet I can't find a suit or coat that fits me. If it fits up here, it's wrong down there. Or vice versa. Have the fashion experts forgotten about me—or do I need redesigning?"

"NO!" says Lou Larry,
one of Canada's foremost fashion authorities.

"You are actually the 'PERFECT CANADIAN TYPE.' Research shows that the average Canadian woman is between 5 feet, and 5 feet 4 inches tall. But she has been trying to get into clothes designed for tall fashion models. That's why we developed our famous PERFECT CANADIAN TYPE—for five feet four and under, without alterations. It provides high fashion for the average Canadian woman, as she is built, and gives her that taller, slimmer look. The PCT label is available at the leading fashion shops shown below. Come in and prove it to yourself. You'll see that you're by no means 'forgotten'."

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CIII. No. 84 — THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1951 — PRICE FIVE CENTS

THE MANN CUP CAME TO PETERBOROUGH with the city's own Canadian Champion lacrosse team at a civic welcome on Wednesday evening. Thousands of citizens lined George St., to watch and cheer the large procession and, as many as were able, crammed into the Armouries afterwards to witness the official welcome. During a private buffet supper, as guests of the city council, players and their wives wound up an evening of ovation. In the LEFT photo, team captain "Dootch" Vitarelli, Left, and goalie "Moon" Wootton, Right, most valuable player in the series, flank president of Peterborough Lacrosse Club Robert Peirson who holds aloft the gold Mann Cup. Peterborough's Population Tops 37,000 New Assessment Shows

Total Assessment Passes $40 Million; People Continue To Move From Centre To Outskirts Of City

Peterborough's population now exceeds 37,000, as reported to The Examiner today by Assessment Commissioner E. J. Davis. The gain for the 12 months ending Sept. 30 was 476 bringing the total to 37,192, as compared with 36,716 a year ago. Mr. Davis remarked that the assessment roll for 1952 is not a census, but his department prepares a population statement from the information obtained in the course of house-to-house valuation of properties as the basis of the tax rate next year.

Population gains by ward were counted in Claraday, the West and Ashburnham; with declines in the south, centre and north, indicating a centrifugal movement, from the centre outward.

South ward lost 179, Centre 84 and North 55. Claraday leads in sectional growth with 336; Ashburnham has an increase of 281 and the West Ward 177.

With more exact definition these population facts are as follows: Claraday Ward, all south of Lansdowne St. east to the river . . .5,718 residents as against 5,382 last year.

South Ward, from Lansdowne St., north to Sherbrooke St., 8,674, and last year 8,853.

Centre Ward, Sherbrooke to McDonnel, and east from the river to Bethune: 2,230, and last year 2,314.

West Ward: from Sherbrooke to McDonnel, west of Bethune, 7,395, and last year 7,218.

North Ward: all north of McDonnel St.: 7,491 as against 7,546 last year.

Ashburnham: all of the city east of the river, 5,684 population, and last year 5,403.

The 45-piece band will be under the direction of Bandmaster Gerald Routly and will be accompanied to Trenton by Captain J. D. Sharp, CO of the corps.

Last weekend, the members of the band were guests of the Ottawa 1 corps. Sunday afternoon they presented a concert in the citadel and assisted with the music in the two services. Monday they toured the city and presented a concert in the Glebe Collegiate. Chairman for the concert was Walter Dinsdale, MP, from Brandon, Mnaitoba, and bandmaster of the Brandon corps band.

If the weather grounds the royal plane, the troops may line the streets for a second time when the Princess returns to the train.

While some Peterborough troops line the street, a gun crew will man one of Cobourg's 33rd Medium Regiment's 25-pound guns. It will be one of four used, others from Cobourg and Lindsay, for the Royal Salute. The guns will fire the 21 rounds at five-second intervals.

3 Parties To Hold Nominations For Candidates

Nomination meetings for both Progressive Conservative and CCF parties have been announced; date of the Liberal party meeting will be announced Friday.

The three parties will have candidates chosen more than a month before the provincial election November 22.

The PC nomination meeting is set for next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Legion Hall. Speakers will be the Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture; Senator Iva Fallis; Gordon K. Fraser, MP, and the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests.

The CCF meeting will be the following Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Knights of Columbus Hall. Names of speakers for this meeting have not been announced.

Executive of the county Liberal Association met today after press time, and were to set a date for their nomination meeting.

None of the candidates who entered the 1948 election—Mr. Scott (PC), Charles Elliott (Lib.), John Morton (CCF)—have publicly indicated that they will stand again, but it is almost certain that Mr. Scott will run and his opponents of 1948 seem to be strong possibilities.

Calgary Artists Show Paintings

The work of four Calgary painters will open as an exhibit at the Public Library today.

The painters are G. Arnold, G. Mihalcheon, R. Kiyooka and R. Spickett.

The display in Peterborough is part of an Ontario tour exhibition of the paintings and this is the first city in which they will appear in the province.

They will be on display until Oct. 31 and from here will be sent to Oshawa. Other centres included in the tour are Toronto, London, Hamilton and Windsor.

Girls, Boys Programs Begin At Library

Saturday morning programs at the boys' and girls' department of the public library will begin Oct. 13.

Miss Lillian Wesley, department librarian, said this morning that the program will include crayon classes starting at 9.15 a.m. At 10.30 story hour groups will be conducted—one for school children and one for pre-school children.

Withdraw Arson Charge

A charge of arson against Mrs. Muriel Cameron of Hamilton in connection with a fire at 160 River Road, the home of James English, last May was withdrawn in Police Court Tuesday morning by Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw.

Lacrosse Team Comes Home Thousands Welcome Players

It was a royal reception. Peterborough is not included on the Royal tour but the city greeted their home-coming Timbermen Wednesday night with a spontaneous, happy crowdfelt welcome straight from the hearts of thousands that would have done justice to the Royal couple. Toronto gets football fever every fall when the Queen City plays host to the Grey Cup final. Barrie went hockey wild last spring when the Flyers won the Memorial Cup, but Monday night was Lacrosse Night in Peterborough.

By winning the Mann Cup, emlematic of senior Canadian lacrosse supremacy, the Petes brought Peterborough its first Canadian team championship and the town went all out in showing its appreciation.

Youngsters waving lacrosse sticks almost as big as themselves mobbed the cars carrying their heroes—Moon Wootton, Harry Wipper, Red Creighton and all the other champs who arrived at the CPR station in a motorcade from Toronto at 7.30.

George St. Lined

Thousands lined both sides of George St. from the station to Murray St. as the 1951 Mann Cup champions were paraded to the Armouries in an open truck. There they were welcomed by Mayor Max Swanston and introduced to the thousands of cheering lacrosse fans who jammed the building and balconies to capacity.

"This is a grand night for Peterborough," said Mayor Swanston in welcoming the team. "This occasion gives the people of Peterborough and district an opportunity to welcome a team that has brought honor not only to themselves but to the city of Peterborough as well."

James M. Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who headed the reception committee, had a Herculean task getting the parade organized at the station.

Amid showers of confetti, jostling well-wishers eager to congratulate the champs and general confusion, Mr. Fraser finally got the players together in the station waiting room for a briefing, then lined up the parade with the assistance of city and provincial police.

The parade was held up for a few moments when it was found the players would not be allowed to ride on the fire truck as originally planned because of a Fire Department regulation.

At 8 o'clock the parade moved off up George St., led by Kerman Beatty mounted on a brown horse.. The Citizens' Band was next, followed by a fire engine bearing the Mann Cup, then came club executives and some of the players' wives in open cars, followed by the CGE Pipe Band and finally the victorious Champs in a streamer decorated truck flanked by the senior lacrosse players of future teams, who now play on junior, pee wee and bantam teams.

Peterborough Lock Pays Increased Cost of Living

Due to the increased cost of living index as announced by the Dominion Government last Thursday, The Peterborough Lock Mfg. Co. Ltd. increased all hourly rates by four cents per hour effective October 8. This, plus a three cent increase which was put into effect on July 9 gives a total of seven cents increase during the last three months.

At the signing of the contract on April 23, 1951, the company granted a 12-cent increase. Therefore, the total increase received by the employees this year to date has now reached 19 cents an hour.

The wage clause in this contract grants an increase of one cent for each 1.3 rise in the cost of living index above 179.7. The contract signed for a period of one year remains in effect until April, 1952.

If the cost of living index changes during the fourth quarter a future adjustment will be made on the first Monday following the publication of the index by the Dominion Government in January, 1952.

The increases as outlined above have also been given to all salaried employees of the company.

Town Constable Hollywood's New Discovery

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 (AP)—The hottest new male discovery in Hollywood is the town constable of Crockett, Calif.

The law enforcer, recently resigned, is named Aldo DaRe. At least he thinks that's his name; he was born with it, but his bosses have been toying with a new handle.

He has been tentatively tagged John Harrison, the names borrowed from the two sons of his boss, Harry Cohn. But now this is talk of calling the boy Aldo Ray.

"If they do change it, I'd like to keep my last name," said DaRe, who seems amused rather than indignant about the whole thing. "I never have liked Aldo."

Perhaps his general unconcern about his name change is because the whole course of his life has been altered in the last year. A year ago, he was a small-town boy whose aim was a career in politics.

Hollywood Magic

Aldo, 25, is the eldest of seven children of an Italian-born sugar refinery worker at Crockett, a town of 5,000 near San Francisco. His advent to the movies is one of those tales which preserve Hollywood's magic.

Columbia Pictures were seeking football types for a grid epic with John Derek. Failing to find talent in Los Angeles, the filmsters invaded the San Francisco area. Aldo's brother, an ambitious lad, saw a small notice in a newspaper about their search. He talked Aldo into driving him across the Bay to try out for it.

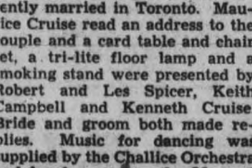
The brother was passed up but Aldo spellbound the talent hunters and won the role as a wisecracking footballer. He made a hit with preview audiences and was awarded the plum role in "The Marrying Kind" opposite Judy Holliday, the incumbent Oscar winner.

Enforced Law

But between the two pictures, Aldo almost gave up an acting career to become a law enforcer. "I was running for constable in the primaries when I did the football pictures," he said. "I won the election and when I went home I was pretty fed up with Hollywood. Then I ran in the final election and won by a pretty good plurality. I thought I was through with acting for life."

He served as constable for eight months. Although he was the only law officer for the community, he made no arrests in that time. His duties largely concerned the peaceful policing of drunks. Living such a life, he added 30 pounds to his normal 190 and started thinking more seriously about Hollywood. After he took a test for the Holliday film, the studio suggested that he resign his job. He did.

Newlyweds Honored



BEWDLEY, Oct. 11—(ENS)—Many friends attended a presentation and dance in Campbellcroft hall recently in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Orrill, who were recently married in Toronto. Maurice Cruise read an address to the couple and a card table and chair set, a tri-lite floor lamp and a smoking stand were presented by Robert and Les Spicer, Keith Campbell and Kenneth Cruise. Bride and groom both made replies. Music for dancing was supplied by the Challice Orchestra and lunch was served. Mr. and Mrs. Orrill will live in Toronto.

Kingston Seeks TCA

KINGSTON, Oct. 11—(CP)—Application will be made to the Department of Transport to permit Trans-Canada Airlines to make this Eastern Ontario city a stopping point. TCA has indicated there is sufficient air traffic to warrant a regular service to Kingston. The planes could use the Norman Rogers airport, three miles southwest of the city.

Princess Ignores Exploding Bulb

OTTAWA, Oct. 11—(CP)—An exploding photographer's flash bulb went off with a report like a gun Wednesday a few feet from Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip as they were inspecting the public archives.

The Princess, somewhat startled, looked up quickly. Then she smiled. The Duke, standing by her side, looked at the photographer and said:

"What did I tell you."

But he smiled too.

Then he and the Princess went on looking around.

The photographer, R. J. Handley of The Hamilton Spectator, approached the Princess and apologized as she left the room. He explained that he had a transparent safety glass over his reflector, so there was no danger from flying glass.

"Oh, that is all right," said the Princess. "It's quite all right."

Then as if to reassure him that she meant it, she gave him another Royal smile.

The incident occurred as the Royal couple were inspecting old documents of French Canada.

CCF Pledges Housing Priority

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP) — If the CCF forms a government in Ontario after the Nov. 22 election, all non-essential building will be stopped, E. B. Jolliffe said Wednesday night.

The CCF leader addressed a meeting at which Lloyd Fell, member of the last legislature, was chosen again as party candidate in Toronto Parkdale.

Mr. Jolliffe said that if the government can find money for $600,000,000 hydro expansion and for the St. Lawrence seaway, it can find money for housing.

In the CCF leader's own constituency, York South, the Progressive Conservatives held a nomination meeting and chose Reeve William Beech of York township as candidate.

At other meetings, two lawyers, Louis Herman and Everett Lane, were chosen by Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Herman will contest Toronto St. Andrew, currently held by Labor-Progressive J. B. Salsberg, and Mr. Lane was chosen to run in Toronto St. David, represented since the last election by William Dennison, CCF.

Commit Youth In Bride's Death

COBALT, Oct. 11—A 22-year-old Temiskaming chef was Wednesday committed for trial for the strangulation murder of his petite brunette bride Sept. 15.

Magistrate Camille Boulieu presided at the two-day preliminary hearing at Ville Marie, 10 miles southeast of here.

Gerald Ryan was arrested after he had phoned police and reportedly told them that he had murdered his 17-year-old wife, Rosemarie. She was found on the floor of the bathroom in their tiny Temiskaming apartment.

In her hands she clutched the wedding gown which she had worn just two months earlier.

Ryan sat woodenly throughout the two-day hearing in a packed courtroom, staring at a desk before him while more than a dozen witnesses were called. Isobel Webb, a fellow employee of the cafeteria where Ryan was chef and his wife a waitress, said an argument broke out between the couple during a party the night before the murder.

When Leslie Kirgan, a cook, stepped between the couple, Ryan threw him to the floor and clutched his throat, witnesses said. Following the party, they were heard in a violent argument.

Blame Careless Smokers

TORONTO, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Careless smokers were responsible for almost 39 per cent of the 4,773 fires which occurred in Ontario during the third quarter of 1951, the Ontario fire marshal said Wednesday. Total fire loss was $4,377,062. Seventeen persons died and 108 were injured in the fires.

Stock Exchange Plans To Close Early

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP). — The Toronto Stock Exchange will close two hours early on Friday, at 1 p.m., and will remain closed Saturday, because of the visit here on those days of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

There have been no Saturday sessions since May. They were to have been resumed last Saturday, but were postponed one week to give a long week-end with last Monday's holiday for the Canadian Thanksgiving. Now they are postponed for another week.

Defence Program Hitting Industries

BY FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

In the United States, as in Canada, some industries are being hit as the country advances on its defence program.

The economy as a whole is operating at record, or near-record levels, but, in the words of the National Association of Purchasing Agents of the United States:

"Much of our civilian production capacity appears unsuited for conversion to present defence requirements, and this area of our industrial economy is beginning to suffer from lack of orders or from shortages of restricted materials for orders on hand."

And Manly Fleischmann, US production administrator, says some casualties are possible among civilian manufacturing firms next year because of acute aluminum and copper shortages.

Inflation Menace

At the same time the United States is faced, as in Canada, with a situation where inflation, or high prices, is a menace; but where any marked deflation, or drop in prices, if it were possible, would also likely be a major disaster, resulting in business failure and unemployment.

So both countries have to go along trying to control inflation; but knowing that it must remain, probably for a long time to come.

As Arthur A. Smith, vice-president of the First National Bank, Dallas, Texas, said recently:

"No one now living ever will see the American dollar again buying what it did in 1940. We have gone quite a distance down inflation road and we can go much further—and likely will."

And James E. Shelton of Los Angeles, president of the American Bankers' Association, says that restraint on inflationary credit may be needed more than ever before as defence spending expands.

A PROUD MOMENT—This is a proud moment in the life of Sheila, daughter of Ottawa alderman Wilbert Hamilton who has just presented a bouquet to Princess Elizabeth shortly after the Royal couple arrived in Ottawa Wednesday. Sheila burst into tears just before she made the presentation. Mayor Charlotte Whitton is seen at the left.—(CP from Toronto Telegram).

Will Ring Bells

TORONTO, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Toronto has a reputation as a city of churches and Mayor Hiram McCallum wants Princess Elizabeth to know about it. He appealed Wednesday to all churches possessing chimes to play them as frequently as possible during the visit of the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Too Few Facts, Magistrate Dismisses Bootleg Case

Basing his defence on the claim that he "seldom ever goes to a beverage room" and that he "buys a little extra during the summer to have for the winter," Robert Williams of 340 Armstrong Drive pleaded not guilty in police court Wednesday to a charge of keeping liquor for sale.

Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed the charge on the grounds that "all the facts as such" did not justify a conviction.

A second charge of unlawful possession of liquor obtained on a permit other than his own was also dismissed.

The crown introduced four 12-pint cases and ten 24-pint full cases of beer, two 12-ounce bottles of whisky and two 26-ounce bottles of wine seized by Constables Douglas Farthing, C. Boyer and G. Emmons who searched Williams' home on a warrant the night of October 5.

A bag containing the six bottles of beer was also admitted as evidence.

Constable Farthing testified that he was watching William's house the night of September 27 and saw a man knock on the door about midnight. The man entered the house and came out about three minutes later carrying a brown paper bag.

The man left in a car and Constable Farthing pursued the car along Charlotte St. and arrested the driver, Murney Hall of 48 Rutherford St. on a charge of unlawful possession when he found the bag containing six bottles of beer in Hall's car.

Constable Farthing had been detailed to watch the Williams house and had seen people entering and leaving the house late at night on the evenings of September 26, 27 and 28.

Questioned by William's defence counsel Robert Carley, Constable Farthing admitted that there was no street sign at the south end of Armstrong Drive and since the houses were poorly numbered, it was possible that the people were simply asking directions.

Hall admitted obtaining the confiscated beer from Williams but denied that he paid for the beer or made any specific promise to pay for it or replace it.

Old Friends

Both men said they had been friends for some time and that Hall had simply asked if he could have a few bottles of beer as Hall said he had a cold and wanted a drink before going to bed.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw pointed out that it wasn't "necessary to prove the handling over of money if your worship feels there was a sale."

However in dismissing the charge, Magistrate Philp said that neither the traffic in and out of the house nor the amount seized was sufficient for a conviction. "In any event," said Magistrate Philp the accused has given an explanation and stated it is not unusual to have this amount in his home.

The amount seized by the officer was only six pints and evidence has been given that the men were good friends, said Magistrate Philip.

Needless to say, most of the money earmarked in my Personal Planning programme for savings will go straight into Canada Savings Bonds. Next Monday give a helping hand to yourself and your country . . . buy Canada Savings Bonds at "My Bank."

Wants United States To Buy More Goods From Canadian Industries

TORONTO, Oct. 11 (CP) — Charles Sawyer, United States secretary of commerce, today advocated more American purchases in Canada, and named aluminum as one of the items which might be bought here in greater quantity.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the American Life Convention, an organization of American and Canadian life insurance companies, he said his own department is urging that each of the three defence services place $100,000,000 worth of contracts in Canada during the current fiscal year.

It has, for instance, been suggested, he said, that Canada "take over a substantial portion of the manufacture of jeeps on the ground that this would relieve pressure in the United States and provide an alternative source of supply in case of atomic attack."

He supported the St. Lawrence seaway and power project and stated that if Congress does support a new bill which has been introduced on the matter, "it will in my opinion be of tremendous help economically and from the standpoint of the defence of the whole North American continent."

Must Change Ways

Of the present state of Canadian-American trade, Mr. Sawyer said in part:

"Our exports to Canada during the first six months of 1951 amounted to $1,400,000,000, while our imports were $1,100,000,000. This deficit on the merchandise trade account cannot, if not made up in other ways, continue for a great length of time without serious economic consequences, and serious defence difficulties for both nations. . . .

"One problem is what to buy. Many of the materials we need and are getting from Canada are in short supply in Canada also—copper, lead, nickel and zinc."

Mr. Sawyer quoted from testimony which he gave last Feb. 7 to the House of Representatives subcommittee on monopoly, in which he said:

"All the information which has come to the national authority and other bureaus of my department indicates that the demand, both civil and military, for aluminum, will far exceed any present available supply—including everything which Canadians as well as Americans can supply. We should get all the aluminum we can, as fast as we can, as cheaply as we can, and from wherever we can."

Mr. Sawyer added:

"Any idea that we should try to promote the domestic (United States) aluminum industry and hold back the same industry in Canada is contrary to the recent agreement (for co-ordinated defence production), contrary to the national interset from the standpoint of defence, and certainly contrary to the interests of both Canada and the United States."

Giving an example of handicaps to trade, Mr. Sawyer said that in the United States there is a great shortage of frit, a granulated cobalt enamel-like coating for metal signs, whereas in Canada it is plentiful. He added:

"The sign makers of America would like to make the signs and ship them to Canada for coating. However, when the signs re-enter the United States, tariff requirements provide that they be taxed at the full value, not just the value added in Canada."

In Service For Men Women Who Served

Sir Sam Hughes Branch, Lindsay, was host to 200 veterans from the surrounding district for a very impressive and unique ceremony on Monday. At this meeting past zone commander's badges were presented to four well-known and deserving Legionnaires by the provincial president T. A. M. Hultz. The four men so honored were the Hon. L. M. Frost, Prime Minister of Ontario; Col. R. I. Moore, KC, Crown Attorney of Lindsay; Rev. Robertson, past zone commander of district "F"; Major Ewart Jones, past district commander of district "F." Each spoke briefly of their past association with the Canadian Legion and the many memories they have gathered through the years as members and past zone commanders.

The main speaker of the meeting was the Hon. Arthur Welsh, secretary of the provincial government (better known to veterans as "Tiger"). He chose as his talk, "Civilian Defence." Mr. Welsh is well versed on this subject as he is the head of the civilian defence in Ontario. He particularly stressed the part the Canadian Legion is expected to play in this urgent matter "The veterans," he said, "are the fourth line of defence for our country." They will be our auxiliary police, firemen and men of morale. All present agreed with "Tiger" Welsh and hoped that they would be called on to fulfill their duties as veterans.

Mr. Frost and the Provincial President, T. A. M. Hultz, exchanged views on the chances of the Ontario Command approaching the provincial government with problems dealing with the Provincial Government at any time, in matters that they can possibly deal with. Mr. Hultz assured Mr. Frost that the Legion welcomed the opportunity and that they appreciated his offer.

Branch 67 proved to be a very capable host to their many comrades from the district and the busload from Peterborough left Lindsay feeling that the night was well worthwhile.

A meeting of the Dart League was held on Thursday, but due to a small turnout, very little was accomplished in the way of picking team captains. G. Smith was appointed temporary chairman and Knobby Clark was returned as secretary-treasurer. Another meeting of this league will be held on Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. on the top floor to pick team captains and deal with other pertinent business. All interested in this league are invited to attend and it is promised that it will be over in time for you to attend any other activities that you may have planned.

The billiard tournament is still in the making, but the shuffleboard and cribbage will be well under way at this time. Any enquiries into these activities should be directed to the following: billiard tournament, Jimmy Dunslow; shuffleboard, George Gimblett; cribbage, Frank Bell.

Don't forget, veterans, the Canadian Legion is in service for you. Come up any time and have a talk with our secretary manager and find out how this very fine organization can be of help to you.

All members of the Canadian Legion please remember that Oct. 15 is the general meeting. Your attendance at this meeting is required to help the Legion deal with the business on hand.

3 Children Burned

CALEDONIA, NS, Oct. 11 (CP) —Three young children burned to death yesterday when fire raced through the unused barn in which they were playing. Victims of the blaze were Annie, 1, Carolyn, 3, and Gary, 6, children of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Armstrong. The blaze was believed caused by the children playing with matches in old hay in the tinder-dry barn.

Too Much Box Office

MOSCOW, Oct. 11 (Reuters)—The Communist youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda Wednesday criticized the directors of Leningrad "Houses of Culture" for promoting evenings of western dances in order to boost box office receipts. The paper said: "They sacrificed their programs of mass cultural work and arranged open evenings for dancing the fox trot and the tango—sub-music with blaring saxophones—for the benefit of the box office."

Chosen Candidate

HENSALL, Ont., Oct. 11—(CP)—Thomas L. Pryde, winner of two previous elections, Wednesday night was chosen by the Progressive-Conservatives as candidate for Huron riding in the provincial election in Ontario Nov. 22.

Four Official Runs For Car Coattails Wave In Breeze

OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—Here are delights from Wednesday's royal tour activities in the capital:

Prince Philip has an eye like a hawk.

He was walking along a Commons corridor when he spotted the VC ribbon on the coat of Philip Konowal, who won the medal in the First World War. He now works on the Commons staff.

Philip broke away from his group and went over and chatted. Then he turned to Ross Macdonald, Commons Speaker, and asked: "How did that man get here? He was a mile away a short time ago."

He apparently had spotted Konowal at Hull's city hall.

One of the biggest Union Jacks in the world was unfurled for the Royal couple. The flag, measuring 30 feet long and 40 feet wide, stretched over five stories of the downtown Holden Building Some 300 yards of material went into its making.

The crowd between Hull and Ottawa got a big kick out of one impromptu scene.

Charles Stein, the man in charge of arrangements for the tour, got out of a car in the procession and before he knew what was happening the procession swung on without him.

The people laughed as he went running down the street, the tails of his formal dress flying after him.

Prince Philip showed shrewd understanding of the life of a newspaperman. He asked three women at a Government House press reception whether they were correspondents. He was speaking to Mrs. Foster Barclay, Mrs. George Kitchen and Mrs. D'Arcy O'Donnell—wives of Canadian Press staff writers.

"No, we are correspondents' wives," they replied.

"Oh," remarked the Prince, "then you're the ones who keep them in line."

P.S.—Their husbands, tied up with tour coverage, couldn't make the reception.

A young boy in Hull was foiled by police when he broke through the ranks and ran toward the Royal couple to obtain their autographs.

Police not only nabbed the youngster before he could voice his request, but they also temporarily confiscated his camera. Police were under instructions to keep cameramen at a distance from the Princess.

The Commons, adjourned until Friday, nevertheless found some members of parliament in their seats today.

They stood and applauded as the Royal couple inspected the chamber briefly. A pyramid of giant and baby white chrysanthemums was placed on the clerk's table for the occasion.

Shelve Plan

TORONTO, Oct. 11 — (CP) — A move to expropriate Woodbine race track here and convert the property into lots for apartment houses has apparently been shelved. One of Canada's most beautiful tracks, Woodbine was threatened with expropriation when it refused to give up part of its land to permit connection of two streets as a means of allevfating an east-end traffic bottleneck.

Gift Painting

TORONTO, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Toronto is going to give Princess Elizabeth a painting as a gift—and it will cost about $2,000. But just what picture it will be won't be known until after members of board of control visit Toronto's art gallery today.

State Dinner Menu Secret

OTTAWA, Oct. 11 — (CP) — Canadians may not learn much about the posh state dinner their government put on Wednesday night for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

There weren't any correspondents in the top-drawer guest list of 102 persons at Government House, and even the menu was kept secret.

After a day of striving to find out what was being served to the Royal pair, correspondents covering the tour were told Wednesday night—shortly before the guests picked up their knives and forks—that officials of Government House had decreed the bill-of-fare would not be made public.

Government House is the residnce of Viscount Alexander, who as Governor-General, acted as the official host for the State dinner. No reporters were on hand, because of a situation they regarded as inadequate for covering the event.

Officials of the tour while the Royal visit press train was heading from Quebec to Ottawa Tuesday night, offered three tickets for press radio observers on the basis that they get into white tie and tails, and sit foodless in an anteroom off the dining chamber.

A meeting of correspondents told a press relations officer to send the tickets back to the government with a stiff note of protest.

Will Do Share

PARIS, Oct. 11 (CP)—Canada's Finance Minister, Douglas G. Abbott, said Wednesday the Dominion will do "her full share" towards Western defence. Abbott, representing Canada at a meeting of the 12-member arms- co-ordinating committee of the North Atlantic Pact powers at Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe, told a press conference: "The vast majority of people in Canada are satisfied that the vast expansion of defence production since the Korean war began is necessary and inevitable."

Production Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Th United States defence production administration has settled tenatively on the figure of about 950,000 automobiles as the production ceiling in the first quarter of 1952—a cut of some 13 per cent from present output. Officials disclosed that the decision was made yesterday. It revises earlier plans to cut production to approximately 800,000 passenger cars and station wagons because of the shortage of alloy steel.

LANDMARK FIRE—Raging flames destroy the Saeger Mill, along the old Lehigh Canal, in Allentown, Pa. The fire was so intense it could be seen for 20 miles. The 60-year-old landmark was demolished in less than an hour.

Red Germans Show Desire To Meet Bonn Unity Terms

BERLIN, Oct. 11 (AP).—East Germany, prodded by the Russians, declared itself willing Wednesday night to meet most of West Germany's conditions for national unity elections.

The Soviet zone parliament adopted in special session a resolution saying it accepted "the greater part" of the Bonn Republic's conditions.

The resolution contained one large catch—a comment that the Western proposal for international controls of national election should be "discussed in common." To do that, the east proposed to appoinnt a delegate to meet with one from Bonn as soon as possible. West Germans pondered the new approach with some skepticism.

But the approach was by far the most tempting bait yet held out by the east, which is striving to get some kind of unity talks under way before West Germany is committed finally to partnership in West European defence.

The Russians showed how eager they are for such strategy to work by sending their top diplomatic men in Germany to the special session.

A few hours later, however, the western allies and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced in Bonn an agreement on one step toward West Germany's assumption of a defence role. They ordered their experts to begin drafting immediately a "peace contract" to replace the occupation statute for West Germany.

East German Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl told the parliament his government wants to discuss the Western conditions, but not with Adenauer. He charged Adenauer sought "war and revenge" rather than German unity.

Adenauer has declared a unified Germany must include Silesia, Pomerania and West Prussia, lost to Poland and the Soviet Union in 1945. To the Eastern Communists, this is heresy.

The East German resolution did not say which West German points are acceptable and which are not.

Ontario To Give Princess Brooch

TORONTO, Oct. 11. — The provincial crest as a brooch, wrought in platinum and gold, and encrusted with diamonds, rubies and emeralds, will be presented to Princess lizabeth at the state dinner in Toronto Saturday night as a gift from the people of Ontario.

The brooch, in a black velvet lined silver box, and the province's gift to Prince Philip, a cigarette box of native Ontario silver, were previewed by the press at Queen's Park Wednesday.

The brooch was fashioned by Ontario craftsmen of Ontario platinum and gold, Premier Frost said. Ontario is the world's greatest platinum producer, and ranks high in silver production.

WI's Will Buy Tractor For Greece

OTTAWA, Oct. 6 (CP).—The plight of a war-ravaged Greek village has moved the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario to extend a helping hand.

At its recent convention at Fort Frances, members of the 1,466 Women's Institutes of Ontario heard Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova tell the story of the mountain village of Mesovouno.

"Ten years ago all the men in the village were shot by the Nazis for hiding arms," said the executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada. She told of visiting the village six weeks ago while touring Europe. There she met the widows who after years of living in refugee camps had returned to re-build their village.

"They returned to fields covered with thistles, stones and mines" she said. Dr. Hitschmanova mentioned that a tractor would help them to clear fields and would make plowing easier.

The result: the Institutes' president, Mrs. R. G. Purcell of Fort William, has pledged her Institutes to raise enough money to buy a community tractor for Mesovouno. The cost—approximately $3,000.

WHEN a relative or friend names you in his Will as Executor of his Estate, the time will come, (if you survive him), when the problems of administering his estate will be all yours to worry about.

If you are a busy man or inexperienced in estate administration, you will find that the many details and problems involved will be more than you can handle with justice to the estate, the heirs, or to yourself.

Should you find yourself in this position, appoint The Royal Trust Company as your Agent to administer the estate with you. This would relieve you of practically all the work and annoyance and much of the responsibility.

Conversely, in consideration for the friend you might appoint in your own Will, be sure to name The Royal Trust Company as Executor of your estate to act alone or with a friend as Co-executor.

DOROTHY DIX

Love Comes Later, But Good For Friendly Dates First

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a girl 18 feel discouraged if she doesn't have a steady boy friend? I recently graduated from high school and have a job as legal stenographer. I am considered pretty and have lots of girl friends, but I am lonely. My girl friends date boys whether they care anything about them or not, but I can't do this. If I do, I am miserable for the entire evening. Also, most of my friends have been in love time after time. I've never even had a case of "puppy love." I want to fall in love, but I can't.

Dorothy Dix

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: While discrimination in the choice of boy friends is very desirable, don't carry your aloofness so far that boys will think you're disdainful of them. The theory that men flock to the cold-hearted beauty who cares nothing for them was a favorite theme for novels at the turn of the century. It is not, however, the way for a modern miss to catch a man.

Study His Interests

We like people who like us, who are interested in us and our activities. That is true of almost everyone! If you want boys to like you, cultivate an interest in masculine activities. Learn to understand, and participate in, sports. Bring out your own talents, especially in music, that appeal to boys, and see how quickly a spark of enthusiasm brightens their eyes. That's your first step!

When the boys do come a-calling, don't expect each one to have all the attributes of your Prince Charming. An ordinary looking lad may, upon further acquaintance, blossom into the one and only. Love at first sight is encountered more often in theory than in actuality, so don't expect too much from a date. A pleasant, well-mannered boy can provide a nice evening out, with good companionship. For a starter, that's all you need.

As for love, that, I assure you, will come. Many girls have waited longer than you to fall in love, and have never regretted the delay. It's much better to keep Cupid waiting than to rush into marriage with the first boy that give you heart flutters, then live to regret it the rest of your life.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 16 and have been married for a year to a 31-year-old man. He is jealous of me and won't let me go anyplace except our room. I am frightened of him as he continually threatens to kill me, or scar me so that no one else would ever want me. My sister raised me, and I could go back to her but he says if I do he will kill us all.

E. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You certainly need someone to look after you. If your sister can take you back, I think you'd better go. You can disregard your husband's threats. A bully who could sink so low as to threaten a 16-year-old-girl wouldn't have the gumption to swat a fly. You need the help of your sister or an older relative to straighten out your trouble. Seek it as soon as possible.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are a neighborhood of about eight girls between seventh grade and sophomore year. We all come from very suitable homes, but two of the girls are ruining our parties by petting. There are always chaperones at our parties, but when they leave the room, these two girls take advantage. When they begin to neck, the rest of us go.

THE GANG

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If these friends spoil neighborhood parties by improper behavior, I think the chaperones should be informed. After all, older people are present to assure a good time for all. If possible, exclude these girls from all parties until they get the idea that their actions are not meeting with unqualified approval.

Princess Elizabeth Brings Message From Queen Mary

OTTAWA, Oct. 1—(CP)—Princess Elizabeth said Wednesday that her grandmother, Queen Mary, follows the fortunes of Canada "with pride and unflagging interest."

She spoke in handing over to Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, chairman of the board of trustees of the National Gallery, the embroidered carpet made by the Queen Mother and purchased by the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire for $100,000 raised through a subscription campaign.

Quen Mary, said the Princess, has "many happy memories" of her visit to Canada in 1901 with the late King George V as the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York.

"She gained then an affection and admiration for this country which is as strong now as it has ever been," she added.

Text Of Address

Text of the Princess' brief address follows:

Mr. Prime Minister:

You have asked me to hand into the keeping of the National Gallery the embroidered carpet which my grandmother, Queen Mary, has made with her own hand and which is lasting evidence of her unrivalled skill and artistry. I am very glad to do this, and I know that my grandmother will be most happy to think that Ottawa is to be the final home for her work.

For my grandmoher has many happy memories of her visit here in 1901. She came then with the late King when they were the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, and she has asked me to tell you that the 50 years which have passed have done nothing to dim the brightness of this memory in her mind.

She gained then an affection and admiration for this country which is as strong now as it has ever been. And today she follows the fortunes of Canada with pride and with unflagging interest.

This carpet belongs to Canada through the generosity of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, whose enterprise and patriotism have contributed to so many good causes.

I am very pleased that the carpet is to find its home here in Ottawa, because I know that you will value it, not only as a work of art but also as a personal link with my father's house.

It is, therefore, with great pleasure, Mr. Massey, that I hand it into your keeping.

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS ROCCHI, the bride formerly Catherine Ryan, who are now honeymooning in Nassau, Bahamas.—(Roy Studio Photo)

Catherine Ryan Weds Hamilton Man

At St. Peter's Cathedral on Monday morning Rt. Rev. Monsignor P. P. Butler said the nuptial mass and performed the marriage of Mary Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ryan, 364 Brock St., to Mr. Francis Rocchi, son of Mrs. A. Rocchi and the late Mr. Rocchi of Hamilton.

Pastel baby 'mums and roses decorated the altar table. Mrs. Robert Aman played the wedding music and Miss Helen Hajnik sang during signing of the register, Gounod's "Ave Maria."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in ice blue with cathedral train and her veil of ice blue tulle was caught to a Juliet cap of the satin. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Miss Gertrude Ryan and the bridesmaid Miss Frances Ryan, sisters of the bride. Their dresses were of silk tulle, the skirts in alternate tiers of white and ice blue, and they wore matching boleros and bonnets of ice blue velvet. Each carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses and cornflower 'mums.

Groomsman for his brother was John Rocchi and the ushers were D'Arcy and Walter Ryan, Carlo and Joseph Rocchi, brothers of the bride and groom.

At the reception afterward at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, the bride's mother received in a gown of steel grey lace and crepe and wore a hat of grey feathers with pink ostrich plume and a corsage of pale pink roses. The groom's mother was gowned in plum colored crepe and wore grey accessories and a corsage of cream roses.

Leaving to honeymoon at Nassau, Bahamas, the bride wore a wool suit in heavenly blue shade, a pale yellow hat with bird of Paradise feather and navy accessories.

The couple will live in Hamilton on return.

Mark St. Mothers Hold Annual Tea Show 10 Layettes

The Baby Band Mothers of Mark St. United Church held a very nicely arranged afternoon tea Wednesday. It was convened by Mrs. K. Armstrong with Mrs. K. Hopcroft and Mrs. C. Ferguson assisting, and held in the Sunday School hall.

On the tea table was an embroidered linen cloth and triple candelabra held pink tapers complementing the deeper shade of snapdragon in the centre bouquet. Mrs. F. Samis and Mrs. A. E. DeNure were presiding.

The quartette tables for guests were each centred with marigolds. Hostesses at these tables were Mrs. S. Craig, Mrs. F. Hopcroft, Mrs. H. Green, Mrs. H. Hamley, Mrs. W. Sanderson, Mrs. A. Worsencroft, Mrs. E. Toms, Mrs. E. Manley, Mrs. W. Beggs and Mrs. P. Cooper.

Plates were being replenished by Mrs. Roy Wood and Mrs. L. Agnew and Mrs. Roberts were assisting in the kitchen.

Customers at the home cooking table kept busy the attendants, Mrs. L. Rowland, Mrs. E. Bromley, Mrs. R. Russell and Mrs. D. Toms. Bags of home made candy were sold by Mrs. W. Parnell.

Most interesting feature of the tea was the display of work done in the past year. On each of ten small tables was arranged a complete baby's layette. Some little sets were pink, some blue and some white, and the embroidery and handwork on soft flannelette garments was as prettily and carefully done as mothers do for their own babies. All will be given away however, about three being sent overseas for needy children and the rest distributed in the city through the Salvation Army and Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. A. Coleman and Mrs. A. Downer were in charge of the display.

President Mrs. H. Guppy received the guests, some of whom came from Havelock. She was assisted by the minister's wife, Mrs. B. S. Morwood, and Mrs. Don Smith was taking tickets.

A nursery where the very young guests spent tea time was in charge of Mrs. M. McFadden, Mrs. G. Davis and Mrs. E. Aitchison.

Canadian Nurses Key Figures In Defence Plan

The reputed horrors of ABC warfare — atomic, bacteriological and chemicals—will present nothing that Canadian nurses are not already capable of handling, the president of the Canadian Nurses' Association said at the Institute for Registry Personnel held in Hamilton last week. Pretty, dynamic Miss Helen McArthur of Toronto addressed registry officials from all parts of Ontario in the opening of the annual institute.

Even the much feared injury from atomic radiation speedily mends, she said. Miss McArthur has studied under eminent American specialists who examined the aftermath of Hiroshima.

She revealed that specially trained crews from the Federal Government would spread across Canada this fall to instruct in specialized methods for civic defence in a community. The private, registered nurses under the institute would become key figures in civil defence because of their mobility.

Dr. K. S. Berndhart, professor of psychology, University of Toronto, spoke to the conference on "The Psychology of Personnel Management," giving a very detailed and comprehensive instruction on this topic.

Other topics for the three-day institute included a discussion of records building, led by Miss Alma Reid, director of nursing at McMaster University; also "Public Acceptance Means Effective Service," given by Mr. R. A. Willson, personnel manager of the Studebaker Company of Canada, who said that only when service was made to measure can the service be called effective.

Miss Edna Moore, director of public health, spoke on "Public Health." Miss Elsie Jones, superintendent, and Miss Lillian McKenzie, surgical clinical supervisor of the Wellesley division of the Toronto General Hospital, used as their subject, "A Team Plan for Nursing Service," which proved to be a definite workable plan in this time of shortage of nurses throughout the province.

The Registry Institute oversees some 2,800 private, registered nurses throughout Ontario.

Perfect Weather For Autumn Tea Pleases HS Assoc.

With perfect autumn weather for their autumn tea Wednesday and a splendid crowd of guests to accept their hospitality, the ladies of Central Home and School Association were well pleased. Proceeds of the tea will be used to provide further equipment for the school and treats for the pupils.

It was also a pleasure to see presiding at the tea table the three teachers who retired from the staff in June, Miss S. Bennett, now of Port Hope, Miss J. Buck, and Miss E. Richardson. Also pouring tea was the pricipal's wife, Mrs. D. T. Crawford.

Mrs. S. Hayman, who convened the tea had chosen as the tea room hostesses Mrs. S. Redout, Mrs. E. Vance, Mrs. S. J. Rowe, Mrs. D. Craig, Mrs. J. A. Cochrane, Mrs. E. R. Castle, Mrs. E. Endicott, Mrs. B. Scarlett, Mrs. R. Bick, Mrs. F. Scully, Mrs. W. Caldwell, Miss L. Esplen, Miss M. Brock, Miss C. Donald, Miss R. Lewars, Miss Palmer, Miss A. Stout, Mrs. E. Scott, Mrs. R. A. Fitchett and Miss E. Dix.

The table and room decorations were done by Mrs. H. Shimer and Mrs. W. Caldwell whose lovely cloth of golden color rayon on linen was on the table. The table bouquet was of tall pink roses and yellow pom-pom 'mums, and the tapers were in blending shades of yellow.

Other decorations in the room seemed to be outdone by the heavily laden table of beautifully iced cakes, tarts, pies and other home baking as well as some canned goods. Mrs. A. H. Smedmor was in charge and her assistants were Mrs. L. Brown, Mrs. F. Hocking, Mrs. W. Sorrie, and Mrs. E. G. Baker.

Throughout the tea hours there was a background of soft music, played by Mrs. D. Munro, and by ex-pupils of the school, Misses Carol Garside, Margaret Martyn and Shirley Pritchard.

Mrs. L. Horning, association president, was assisted in greeting the guests by the past president, Mrs. S. Malsch. Treasurer Mrs. W. Davidson was taking the tickets.

Mrs. R. Philp took charge of the nursery, and was assisted there by Misses Doreen Cameron and Lorraine Gunn.

The unseen battery of workers who kept plates replenished and a supply of cups and saucers included Mrs. A. Barber, Mrs. W. Guppy, Mrs. W. Gunn, Mrs. F. Sargent, Mrs. W. J. Armstrong, Mrs. L. Raper, Mrs. J. Callaghan, Mrs. G. H. Lang, Mrs. P. Finlay, Mrs. H. Tranter, Mrs. W. E. Conway, and Mrs. R. Kelsey.

Harvest Decorations Sell At St. James' Class Tea

Thanksgiving and harvest was the theme followed throughout when members of the Ever Awake Class of St. James United Church Sunday School decorated for their tea Wednesday. The finished effect was outstanding and added very greatly to the guests' pleasure.

The tea, held after a lapse of five years, was such a great success that it is likely to become an annual event. The home baking, candy and apron tables were completely sold out and only several small items remained on the novelty table.

Then, unexpected sales were made of the vegetables which had been donated by Mr. John Kitney for a decorative corner display of the harvest products, which was flanked with sheaves of wheat. A silver horn of plenty filled to overflowing with grapes and fall fruit was also sold.

Centrepiece on the tea table was a hollowed out pumpkin half filled up with grapes, apples, pears which had a handle entwined with bittersweet tied with ribbon. Many speculative eyes considered this for Hallowe'en entertaining to start soon. The table setting was finished with golden yellow tapers, a hand-made ecru lace cloth and silver tea service.

Narrow streamers in the autumn colors, shading from brown to yellow, were wound around pillars and stretched between each to mark off a tea room in the Wesley Hall basement auditorium, and branches of colored leaves hung from each post. The quartette tables within had each a centrepiece of golden bittersweet and snow white berries.

Credit for the attractive decorating scheme goes to the committee of Mrs. S. R. Morman, Mrs. Arthur Bryan and Mrs. Clifford Brown.

Class president Mrs. Clare Jones received, assisted by Mrs. Huston McCormack, wife of the new minister. Mrs. Garnet Towns was taking the tickets.

Tea was poured by Mrs. George Hewitt and Mrs. E. M. Davis. Hostesses in the tea room were Mrs. Ross Rutherford, Mrs. Lorne McMurchy and Mrs. Arthur Bryan. Those serving were Mrs. S. R. Morman, Mrs. B. Callan, Hrs. H. Rolufs, Mrs. F. Parsons, Mrs. B. Dewar and Mrs. Roy Tully.

The tea was in charge of Noel Monks and those assisting with replenishing were Mrs. W. McCullough, Mrs. Wm. Anderson and Mrs. Robert Laws.

Home baking was in charge of Mrs. Sam Watson and Mrs. Jack Bailey. Mrs. Edward Maudsley and Mrs. Don Carter were at the candy table, Mrs. Earl Wright and Mrs. James Kelly sold novelties and Mrs. Robert Stewart the aprons. Mrs. Earl Carle took charge of selling the vegetables.

Seven tables of court whist were played during the first part of the evening. Later Mrs. Carr read an address of good wishes from the assembled guests and Mrs. Pritchard, Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Kinsman carried in a prettily decorated basket well laden with gifts and placed it before the prospective bride who unwrapped the attractive parcels and thanked everyone for their kindness.

In a candlelight ceremony at Trinity United Church Saturday evening Beulah Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Blackmore, became the bride of Mr. Glenn Rolls Tate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Tate all of Peterborough.

The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon performed the marriage and Mrs. Gordon was the soloist. Before the ceremony she sang "The Lord's Prayer" and during the signing of the register, "I Love You Truly." Mr. Donald Kennedy presided at the organ. Candalabrae at the altar were flanked by white 'mums.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon velvet with matching jacket and a velvet headdress to which her fingertip veil was caught with clusters of orange blossoms and she carried a white velvet fan with white starlight roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Attendants were her sister Mrs. June Roberts as matron of honor, Mrs. Barbara Moncrief and Miss Marion Grant as bridesmaids and Diane Kellar of St. Catharines as flower girl. Mrs. Roberts wore a velvet cocktail dress in tan shade and the bridesmaids similar dresses in autumn green, with shoes to match. The flower girl was in gold velvet, instep length. Their hats were of matching velvet with contrasting plumes and the attendants carried velvet muffs with clusters of yellow rubican 'mums and the flower girl a bouquet of the 'mums.

timid little letter came h the mail asking if I ever about party menus.

s surprised because I think mes that I write about en- ing too much in this work- world. But I love folks so that I would rather die a than save my money s it is!) and sit alone with a bank book in one hand lone cup of tea in the other t a soul to speak to.

pe the prospect of such a e scene is slim. It sure is onth, for I am social con-venor of the Press Club annual bridge party, and have taken on about half of the sandwiches to make—the colored and fancy ones—for two hundred people.

You folks take on big-scale jobs like that too. I know you do for you write to me about it. So I thought you might be glad to know what quantities to buy for a big crowd, and what amounts of fillings to prepare.

Here is what I am going to do for my share of the sandwich-making.

Pinwheel Sandwiches

Three packages Baumert cream cheese, I cup chopped stuffed olives, well drained, ¼ lb. butter. Mix these all together until well blended, then add enough mayonnaise to make them spread easily. Cut sandwich loaf that is very fresh in long ½-inch slices. If possible have the bakery do this for you. Cut off crusts. For this type of sandwich cut each long slice in two. Spread each piece with the filling and roll up like jelly roll. Fasten with toothpick. Roll tightly in wax paper. Line these up on a tea towel and when all are made wrap in tea towel. Wrap in Turkish towel, sprinkle it with water. Store 12 hours. Slice in pin wheels when ready to serve.

Ground Pork in Coloured Bread

To form, the foundation filling for three loaves of sandwich bread I roasted a 5-pound fresh pork shoulder, chilled it and cut it up in strips and put it through the grinder. To this I added 2 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ lb. soft butter and 1¾ cups genuine mayonnaise. For any additional moistening it needed I used cream.

For Variety you could add an 8 oz. jar of sweet pickles and their vinegar, and omit some of the mayonnaise and cream. This was enough filling for three sandwich loaves. Each was a different colour: green, pink and yellow. We used these and the pinwheels as the top sandwiches on the plates, plus a little parsley.

Cheese And Almond Filling

(Enough for one loaf—I used very fresh cracked wheat.)

Two cups, well-packed, grated old cheese, ½ cup milk, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon white pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, dash cayenne. Melt cheese in top of double boiler. Stir in eggs and milk which have been beaten together. Stir well. Add remaining ingredients and cook until eggs are set, stirring. Remove from heat, and stand in pan of cold water and beat with rotary until cold. Stir in 1 cup chopped blanched almonds, and if desired I tablespoon each chopped sweet red and green peppers.

General Notes

When a large quantity of sandwiches are to be made, the loaf of sandwich bread may be sliced lengthwise, making just 6 or 8 long slices instead of 40 small pieces of bread to spread. Butter should be in the filling to eliminate one of the spreading operations. If you insist on spreading the bread with butter, spread only one side. This prevents bread from becoming soggy if sandwiches are held a long time.

British Styles Invade Paris In Autumn Fashion Swap

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON—(CP)—In an unusual spirit of tit-for-tat Britain and France stage a cross-Channel clash of fashions.

While Paris moved in on London with the biggest combined display of French haute couture shown here since the Second World War, a British manufacturer tackled the Paris market.

At the invitation of London's international wool secretariat, 22 leading Paris designers gave 66 examples of the possibilities of glamor in wool. French mannequins swayed down a flower-decked aisle of the Savoy hotel in clothes valued all told at about £35,000.

Fashion buyers and writers saw fabulous styles that have been photographed and talked about in many cities since their July preview. Modified versions of these and other Paris designs will form the basis of hundreds scheduled to be manufactured in British wools this winter.

At about the same time as the Savoy show, a British manufacturer started an attempt to woo the salaried Frenchwoman with tailored wool dresses selling from £5 to £10. This sounds like carrying coals to Newcastle, but Leslie Berker, 48-year-old chairman of a 12-acre factory in Plymouth, wasn't daunted. After a dress show in a big Paris department store, (Au Printemps) Berker said he sold more than £1,000 worth of dresses in two days.

There To Stay

"We're the first firm—British, French or American—to sell dresses in bulk on the French market," said this one-time Birmingham engineering apprentice. "And we're there to stay."

Dresses produced by this firm come originally from the pen of Norman Hartnell, the Queen's designer. Aimed primarily at the Frenchwoman who can't afford to buy the more striking Paris models, the British dresses remain at a reasonable cost despite an import duty of 52 per cent.

One example is a straight-skirted dress in raspberry and black check with three-quarter cuffed sleeves, panniered pockets and coat front. This would compare in elegance and simplicity with many of the dresses worn under capes and coats of exaggerated style as shown by Paris designers in London. Fundamentally, most French designs are basically plain, eccentricities of design being detachable to allow for practical reproduction.

These British dresses are seen in some quarters as the first factory-produced articles to challenge the supremacy of the little French dressmaker who is the mainstay of most working French wardrobes.

BENNETT—In loving memory of my dear brother, William, who passed away Oct. 12, 1944.
In God's care.
—Lovingly remembered by his sister Bonnie and family.

LUSTIC—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Maude Lustic, who passed away October 11, 1933.
You often times said we'd miss you,
Those words have proven too true,
We lost our best and dearest friend
Dear mother, when we lost you.
—Ever remembered by son and daughter-in-law Clare and Berniece, grandchildren Shirley, Doug, Don and Linda.

LUSTIC—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Maude Lustic, who entered rest eighteen years ago, Oct. 11, 1933.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made,
A wonderful worker, loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright,
Loved by your friends and all you knew
A wonderful mother, that mother was you.
—Sadly missed by her son Frank.

McCALL—In loving memory of Mrs. Ross McCall, who passed away Oct. 11, 1945.
What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In heaven, that happy life.
—Ever remembered by her husband and daughter.

NORTHEY—In loving memory of Robert Millan Northey, who went to rest Oct. 11, 1947.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own,
And day by day I miss him more,
As I walk through life alone.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more
In heaven, that happy life.
—Ever remembered by his wife Georgie, daughter Isabelle and son-in-law Harry.

Report Headway In Reopening Of Truce Talks

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 11 (AP) —United Nations' and Communist liaison officers met twice today and the Reds reported they made headway toward re-opening truce talks.

They scheduled another session for 10 a.m. Friday (8 p.m. EST Thursday).

The fact that another meeting was scheduled was interpreted as meaning the liaison officers failed to reach final agreement on resumption of negotiations, which the Reds broke off Aug. 23.

Both UN command and Red sources announced the third session.

The report of progress came from Red sources at Panmunjom, Communist check point where liaison officers are holding their meetings.

Communist reporters said the Red liaison staff reported the two teams agreed on most "technical arrangements" for a meeting of armistice negotiators near Panmunjom.

Neutrality Agreement

Liaison officers apparently still had to settle on a neutrality agreement for Panmunjom site.

The Communists have insisted that the truce negotiators themselves should decide on the boundaries of the neutral area, and the conditions for jointly enforcing it.

The UN command takes the stand that liaison officers should draft the neutrality agreement and the truce envoys ratify it.

Communists want a large neutral zone reaching from the old site at Kaesong to Munsan, headquarters of the allied truce team. The UN wants the zone to cover only the immediate area which lies between Kaesong and Munsan.

The two sessions of liaison officers today lasted 3¼ hours. Meetings were held in a large tent erected by the Communists across the highway from four houses that make up Panmunjom.

The sessions apparently were held in much the same atmosphere of cordiality that marked yesterday's meeting.

Peterborough's

The gains in population in Clarandaday, Ashburnham and the West reflect the expansion of housing development, Mr. Davis commented.

Moving Out

"Almost every day we are also having people ask us to take tenants off their assessment record, because rooms and other parts of houses have been vacated, and the owners are now occupying the entire dwellings themselves," he said.

Total taxable realty was moved up in value from $34,044,465 to $35,216,613, an increase of $1,172,148.

Business assessment has been slightly increased from $5,243,675 to $5,315,490, an advance of $71,815.

Total taxable assessment is now $40,532,103, as against $39,258,140. That increase is $1,243,963.

Two pithy facts in this 1952 assessment roll are that Peterborough's population for the first time exceeds 37,000, and likewise that its total assessment (including business) has crossed the $40,000,000 line.

How is business assessment determined?

Merchants are assessed for business at 30% of their property assessment.

Doctor, lawyer and other people of the professions are assessed for business at 50% of their property.

Assessed 60%

Industries are assessed for business at 60% of their property assessment.

And, on the business assessment they are taxed at the full levy, 50 mills or whatever it may be. They pay the property tax plus the same levy on their business assessment.

In the professional category where the tax for business is on 50% of the property assessment, an example might be cited in Peterborough Clinic Ltd. at Charlotte and Reid Streets. They pay their property tax, and on 50% of their property assessment they pay a further tax at the full levy of 50 mills or as the rate may be.

Canadian General Electric Company may be mentioned in the industrial classification. They pay the property tax, and the same rate for business on 60% of the property assessment.

James Fraser Carries Protest To CPR Officials

James Fraser, manager, and Don. Kingdon, assistant, of the Chamber of Commerce, are in Toronto today interviewing CPR officials regarding the new CPR Peterborough - Toronto time schedule that went into effect Sept. 30.

Today's visit climaxed a survey project conducted by the chamber among businessmen of the city to find out if the new schedule was going to prove convenient. The three controversial time changes listed in the questionaire sent out were the morning and afternoon trains leaving Peterborough and the train leaving Toronto.

Before his departude for Toronto, Mr. Fraser said that businessmen voted 101 to 21 for the former 9.15 a.m. arrival. With the new schedule, the train doesn't get to Toronto until 10.05 a.m.

Want Extra Time

He explained that businessmen wanted the extra time in Toronto that the earlier train would give them.

Opinions shown in the survey of the other two trains were more evenly divided. The former 6.30 p.m. departure from Toronto was agreeable to 63 while present 7.15 p.m. time was voted for by 56. The present 5.30 p.m. departure from Peterborough was voted for by 71 and the former 5.10 p.m. by 39.

A total of 124 questionnaires were returned to the chamber.

"Response from industry was excellent and included every major firm in Peterborough," Mr. Fraser said. "Many stated that several people in their plant were affected. Most said staff members and salesmen attended meetings in Toronto which started before 10 a.m.

The other two classifications, retailers and others (professional, financial, real estate, insurance, farmers, salesmen) also showed an overwhelming majority wanting the former earlier morning departure.

Also fully behind the move to regain the former morning departure is the Federation of Agriculture, representing 600 farmers in the county.

Lacrosse Team

the parade as it moved slowly up George Street through the centre of the city. As the parade passed, the throngs of people lining the sidewalks poured in behind and followed along to the Armouries.

Oldtimers agreed that nothing like it had been seen in Peterborough since Old Home Week back in 1929.

'This is a tremendous turnout," said Mr. Fraser as he caught his breath and surveyed the milling crowd at the Armouries. "I certainly take off my hat to the citizens for their enthusiastic response."

"It was a hard uphill struggle to bring this championship to Peterborough," Bob Peirson, president of the lacrosse club told the crowd. "We were given every courtesy by the people of British Columbia and I hope we can present the same team next year."

Like Supermen

Introduced by George Ludgate who emceed the reception at the Armouries as "Mr. Lacrosse." Alderman Doug Miller said "They played like supermen the last two games, displaying fantastic power and a will-to-win."

"All players acquitted themselves in a gentlemanly and sportsmanlike manner," declared Coach Don Crowe. "We were strictly the underdogs, we won, and I hope that for many more years the team will prove to be the best in the country."

Two telegrams were read to the crowd—one from the mayor of Owen Sound, the city that won the Mann Cup last year, extending congratulations and another from the Hon. Harold R. Scott, congratulating the team and expressing his regret at being unable to attend.

Each of the players made brief remarks when they were introduced and the crowd vibrated the rafters with their cheering when each player stepped to the microphone. Four players unable to be present, Ike Hildebrand, Gerry Fitzgerald, Nit O'Hearn and Don Ashbee were also given hearty cheers when their names were mentioned.

Civic Reception

From the Armouries, the players together with their wives, girl friends, members of the club executive, and some supporters, about 100 in all, went to the Empress Hotel where they were guests of the City Council at a buffet supper.

Each of the players was presented with a ring bearing the crest of the City of Peterborough. Mayor Max Swanston extended individual congratulations to the players and presented the rings on behalf of council and the citizens of Peterborough.

Wins Series Pool But Works For Money

CALGARY, Oct. 11. (CP) — Vera MacLennan of Calgary hit the jackpot Wednesday—a $48 World Series pool.

Her associates—perhaps slightly miffed—gave her the winnings in pennies—35 pounds of them.

To make matters worse the 4,800 pennies were mixed up in jelly and topped with a creamy meringue.

Miss MacLennan works in a restaurant office and the puddin' full o' pennies was the work of the head chef.

Car Casualties High For Mistaken Britons

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The British Automobile Association asked people today to quit smashing the windows of cars with "S.R." on the licence plates.

The initials, the association explained, stand for Southern Rhodesia and not for Soviet Russia.

The association said it was moved to make this formal statement by reports of car window damage recently from several South Rhodesian visitors.

The international letters denoting a Russian car are "S.U." for the Soviet Union.

Church Not Closed For Lack Of Attendance

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 11—(CP)—The Rev. Gerald W. J. Gregson, Evangelistic missionary, said Wednesday night that churches in England are not being closed because of lack of attendance.

In an address to Kiwanians Mr. Gregson claimed that various Canadian newspapers continually stress a false impression about religion in England.

Rather, he said, there is every indication of larger numbers turning toward God for salvation.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Liska and Miss Marion Sloan.

No Clear Policy

LONDON, Oct. 11 — (Reuters)—The influential London Times says today it doubts whether the United Nations or the United States government now have any clear policy on conducting the Korean fighting and cease-fire talks. "Military tactics seem to have been unrelated to any over-ding policy," The Times says. 'Indeed, it may' be seriously doubted whether the U.N. as a whole or even the U. S. government has now any clear policy at all."

Emperor Opens Japanese Diet

TOKYO, Oct. 11 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito formally opened Japan's Diet (parliament) today with an expression of pleasure on the signing of the Japanese peace treaty.

The emperor, however, made no mention of the US-Japan security pact.

The Diet will be asked to ratify both measures, signed by Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida last month in San Francisco.

Ratification of the peace treaty will meet with enthusiastic approval of the vast majority of Japanese.

The security pact, under which the United States assumes responsibility for Japan's defence until Japan can do the job herself, is controversial. The emperor carefully avoided this issued.

He said only that Japan probably would face "a great many difficulties" in taking her place in the community of nations.

Her new constitution, sponsored by the occupation, prohibits Japan maintaining armed forces.

Jockey Richards Gets 200th Win Of Season

LINGIELD PARK, England, Oct. 11 —(Reuters)— Champion Jockey Gordon Richards added another record to his collection today by riding his 200th winner of the season.

Richards now has ridden 200 winners a season for six consecutive years, beating Fred Archer's previous best of five years running, ending in 1885.

Richards has reached the 200 mark in 11 seasons all told.

Will Try To Build Airstrips In Yukon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 — (AP)—A small group of United States and Canadian army engineers will try to build emergency airstrips on the frozen lakes and shifting bogs of the Yukon Territory this winter.

The US Army, announcing exercise "Eager Beaver," said about 300 American and 135 Canadian engineers will take part.

The emergency landing fields will be constructed near Kluane Lake, about 200 miles from the Alaska border.

Initiation Service Held By CGIT Group

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 11 (ENS).—Tuesday night was initiation service for the CGIT group in the United Church. Mrs. Neil Wood, Mrs. T. Payton, Mrs. W. Tonge and Miss Margaret Calberry are in charge of the CGIT group this year.

The seniors held an Indian trial for the initiation service. Seniors taking part were Alma Cherry, Barbara Graham, Marilyn Fraser, Patsy Nickels and Nancy Doubt.

Girls initiated were: Jennifer Last, Connie Vallance, Elaine Cherry, Sandra Walker, Paddy Jakins, June Foley, Diana Peters and Marie Mason.

Handicraft classes were held and the girls were shown how to make wall plaques of plaster of paris. The enrolment is now 27 girls.

Next week a trip is arranged when the girls will go through the Dominion Woollens and spend two hours at the YWCA in Peterborough.

Lions Plan Musical Show With Cast Of 80

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 11 (ENS).—Forty Lions, with their wives and friends, enjoyed a turkey dinner at Jimmy Jones' lodge at Young's Point on Thursday night.

Folowing the diner, President Doug Davis introduced Miss Virginia Gretzner of Litchfield, Illinois, who is managing the musical comedy which the Lions Club is staging on Wednesday and Thursday of next week in Memorial Hall. Eighty local people will take part in the comedy, ranging from small children to adults.

The cast was chosen Tuesday night.

The board of directors adjourned for a business meeting, and the others enjoyed a sing song, with Jimmy Jones at the piano.

Offering Rewards

HONG KONG, Oct. 11 (AP)—The independent newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao today reported some mainland Chinese are offering rewards for the assassination of Chinese Communists. It said leaflets, sponsored presumably by wealthy landowners, offered rewards ranging from 50,000,000 Yuan (about $2,400) for the slaying of district officials to 5,000,000 yuan ($240) for any member of the Reds' Youth Corps.

School Bylaw May Be Invalid

County council are calling a special meeting Tuesday to hear legal advice on their recently-passed debenture bylaw that will finance building of the high school in Norwood. The debentures amount to $390,000.

The bylaw was passed Sept. 24 at a special meeting of council. At that time W. E. Griffith, reeve of Belmont-Methuen, and Ernest W. Seeney, reeve of Havelock, opposed it. And Mr. Griffith intimated that he might try to quash the bylaw.

He said he had already sought legal advice and said there were irregularities in its preparation.

Later, at a meeting of the finance committee, it was decided to ask an independent solicitor to review the bylaw. T. J. Carley, KC, agreed and the result of his study will be given to council Tuesday.

Under the terms of this bylaw the county uses its credit to borrow the money. Its borrowing powers are greater than Norwood village, the municipality where the school is being built; and because of these greater credit resources the county can borrow the money at a cheaper rate.

Only those municipalities in the Norwood high school area will pay for the debentures.

Poliomyelitis is prevalent in the summer and fall months and reaches its peak in August and September.

MOSSADEGH MAKES IT—Iran's ailing Premier Mohammed Mossadegh waves to the crowd that met him as he arrived in New York. He was so weak that an aide has to help him hold his arm up. At left, on hand to welcome him, is Iran's Nasrollah Entezam, president of the UN General Assembly. Mossadegh will address the UN on the Iranian-British oil dispute.

Reds Get Go-By In Norway Voting

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 11 (AP)—Norway, only Atlantic pact member on the Soviet Union's frontier, has thrown a big new bunch of Communists out of office.

Nearly complete returns from Monday's local election today cut Communist representation on municipal councils by one-third. The Reds ran a far-behind seventh, of a nine-party field

The government Labor party again was far ahead of other factions. Returns from 610 of 744 city and rural districts outside Oslo gave Labor 506,435 or 1,140,068 votes cast, and 5,299 council seats.

The No. 2 party, the Conservatives, polled 140,014 votes.

Lions Club Loses Money On Pool

Cool weather and the outbreak of poliomyelitis during August combined to set the Lions Club back $550 in the operation of their swimming pool this season.

Doug Anderson quoted the attendance figures to the Examiner today: June, 8,000; July, 12,000; August, 3,100.

Finances: June up $50; July a profit of $200; but August operations ended $800 in the red. Net loss for season was $550.

In 1950, Lions Club broke even on the use of the pool by the public. Conditions in August were somewhat similar in the two successive seasons.

Even If Wife Earning Man Pays Alimony

HAMILTON, Oct 11—(CP)—The Ontario Supreme Court has ruled that even if a wife earns enough to support herself, the husband is not freed from paying all alimony.

Mr. Justice J. M. King handed down the decision Tuesday in granting Mrs. Elizabeth Marjorie Shepherd alimony of $12.50 a week from her estranged husband, Robert Davies Shepherd.

The couple has been separated since March, 1950. Mrs. Shepherd sued for support on the grounds of cruelty and desertion.

In his statement of defence, Shepherd argued that there was no need to support his wife since she earned an income large enough to support herself.

Duke Enjoys Quebec Party But Princess Not So Happy

QUEBEC, Oct. 11 (AP)—They threw a little party for Princess Elizabeth and her husband in Quebec Tuesday night and the Duke of Edinburgh thoroughly enjoyed it.

He talked almost continuously for two hours and there was not the slightest doubt that he laughed more than anybody else present.

The Princess tried hard to enjoy it, but she obviously doesn't like parties the way her handsome husband does. She fidgeted a lot and toyed restlessly with her silverware.

She kept fussing with her evening gown of silver and grey lace and tulle. Several times she pulled at the skirt to straighten its folds and twice she adjusted the dress at the shoulders.

She had some trouble getting her long white evening gloves off because of the diamond bracelets she wore over each. Somehow one of the bracelets wouldn't come off right. Twice she reached up to make sure her diamond tiara was on straight.

Elizabeth didn't touch her wine, but Philip emptied several glasses. She picked delicately at her food and didn't seem to enjoy any of it thoroughly except her consomme and trout.

Embarrassing Moment

There was an embarrassing moment at the beginning when she failed to touch her hors d'oeuvres. Many of the guests waited for her to start, but she kept talking and the waiters began to squirm nervously. Finally, after a huddle, one of them moved over silently and removed Elizabeth's plate. The other waiters immediately moved in and took away all the hors d'oeuvres, including those of the guests who had waited.

Both the Princess and the Duke acted much like any other young couple. She made rather sharp, decisive gestures which some thought indicated a strong character.

Elizabeth and Philip were both guilty of behavior that Queen Mother Mary would not have approved. Once the Princess turned to Premier Duplessis, sitting at her left, and poked at his fish with her knife as she made some remark about it.

Philip leaned his elbows on the table, several times resting his chin on the heel of his hand. Once he flicked some breadcrumbs from the table with his fingers.

Elizabeth gave a photographer a nasty glare when he snapped her picture as she held a mirror up to see that she was getting her lipstick on straight.

When she had finished her brief after-dinner speech, Philip leaned over and congratulated her. She smiled and nodded.

Bayonets Clear Reds Off Last Ridge Peak

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Bayonets of American and French infantrymen today cleared the Communists off the last peak of Heartbreak Ridge, climaxing the longest and most costly hill battle of the Korean war. Fierce fighting continued on the northern slope below the crest. US Eighth Army officers referred to it as "mopping up." The Allies captured two other nearby peaks in the eastern Korean mountains.

Along the western front Chinese Reds hurled three attacks at the United Nations' line. Two were beaten back.

The third forced elements of the US 1st Cavalry Division to withdraw in the Yonchon sector, 25 miles northeast of Panmunjom where liaison officers were reported near agreement on reopening truce talks.

Allied planes were out in force Friday. They mounted 1,045 sorties Thursday — the highest number in four months. Four carriers sent their planes aloft, including 90 sorties off the Australian escort carrier Sydney.

Biggest Event

All battle action was overshadowed by the capture of the northernmost peak of Heartbreak Ridge.

A little band of haggard Frenchmen and Americans seized it in a night-long attack. At 8 a.m. they stood looking across the crest at the climax of 31 days of incredible fighting.

At their feet were the bodies of North Korean Communists whose fanatical defence was equalled only by the courage that won the bitter admiration of the men who killed them.

The Reds' dogged defence made the month-long battle for the four mile ridge probably the costliest Allied regimental attack of the Korean war.

Some companies almost disappeared. Some battalions were cut down to little more than companies.

The devil-may-care French battalion, which fought for the ridge with the US 2nd Division, suffered terribly.

Rounds Out Gains

Strategically, the capture of Heartbreak rounds out gains of the big Allied eastern offensive, begun Aug. 18. During the collapse of truce talks it pushed the US line 15 miles northward through rugged mountains.

The 23rd Regiment and the French fought 16 hours before they won the height.

Later Friday they were reported battling Reds protected by deep bunkers on the northern slope

Rockwood Bank Loses $2,000 To Holdup Pair

ROCKWOOD, Ont., Oct. 12 (CP)—One masked bandit and another holding his hand over his face today robbed the Royal Bank of Canada branch in this Guelph district town of an estimated $2,000.

There was more money in the bank, but Manager T. C. Winlow persuaded the bandits that they got it all.

The bandits appeared about 40 years of age and seemed "experts," the staff said. The four-member staff and one customer were herded into the vault by the robbers.

Car Vanishes

By the time they got out of the vault and into the street, the bandit's car had disappeared. Neither a description of the vehicle nor the direction in which the bandits fled was available.

Provincial police threw up road blocks around the area.

Staff of the bank included T. C. Winlow, manager; Lois Martin, ledger-keeper; Mary Lovell, teller, and Neil Lambert, junior.

William Jackson, of nearby Everton, was the only customer in the bank when the bandits walked in at 10.15 today.

West Ignores Red Objections

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The State Department gave notice today that regardless of Russian objections the west intends to go ahead with plans to revise the Italian peace treaty.

The State Department made public a Soviet note attacking the revision plan announced by the big three western foreign ministers.

At the same time, the department made it plain that Moscow's objections will not be permitted to delay western plans.

In publishing the Soviet protest, delivered Thursday in Moscow, the State Department said in a bluntly worded statement:

1. Russia failed to recognize or acknowledge that the spirit of the treaty "no longer accords with Italy's present status as an active and equal member of the democratic and freedom-loving family of nations."

UK Bettors Favor Churchill Winning

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Britain's bettors, getting down on the outome of the Oct. 25 general election, are showing increasing faith in the chances of Winston Churchill's Conservatives.

The odds against a Labor government victory shot up to 3 to 1 in one of London's leading legal handbooks today.

At the same time the big betting house—Douglas Stuart Ltd.—cut the odds against Churchill and his Conservatives to a prohibitive 1 to 4.

Last week Stuart offered 7 to 4 against Labor and 2 to 5 against the Conservatives.

4 Insane Men Escape During Hospital Riot

UKIAH, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP).—Deputies today searched rugged Northern California for four criminally insane men who escaped during a riot at nearby Mendocino State Hospital.

Some 20 to 30 other patients, most of them sexual psychopaths, also tried to escape. They were cornered by attendants.

Then guards and almost 100 policemen quelled the rioters after clearing the jammed recreation room of 200 other patients.

Several attendants were beaten by rioters armed with chair legs.

The superintendent, Dr. G. Dean Tipton, blamed the riot on "too many patients with too few employees."

Examiner Staff Men Trenton Royal Tour

Two staff writers will also report the visit.

In Saturday's paper will also appear the first installment of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill's book, Closing The Ring. This is the fifth volume written by Churchill on the Second World War.

Egypt To Call British Troops Enemy Forces

CAIRO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Official sources said today Egypt will declare British troops in the Suez Canal area "enemy forces" after parliament cancels Egypt's treaties with Britain.

Legislative action voiding the treaties is expected when parliament meets next Monday. Britain has said she would not recognize abrogation of the pacts, which let her keep troops in Egypt and provide for joint Anglo-Egyptian control of the Sudan.

CAIRO — (Reuters).— Proposals to place Egypt in an Allied Middle East Command and thus help provide for control over the Suez zone, will be presented officially tomorrow in the names of the United States, Britain, France and Turkey, it was announced tonight.

Informants said the government has completed blue-prints of measures aimed at forcing British forces from the strategic waterway. These sources said the moves—still officially secret—would include:

1. Declaring British troops on Egyptian soil "enemy forces."

2. Ordering non-co-operation with the Britons. This would cut off their drinking water, fresh food and employment of Egyptian labor.

3. Cancellation of all British privileges such as the right of Britons in the Suez area to be tried by British courts, British military jurisdiction over British forces, exemption from duty of goods bound for the British garrison and the use of "military ports" in the area.

Crowd Breaks Through Lines For Closer Look At Princess

By The Canadian Press

The Royal train bearing Britain's heiress presumptive and her consort steamed through eastern Ontario today under cloudless autumn skies and in brilliant sunshine. Fresh from two rigorous days of ceremonial in Ottawa, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh opened the Ontario phase of their month's tour of Canada with stops at Cornwall, Brockville and Kingston. And eastern Ontario—boisterously in Brockville with stiff decorum in military-minded Kingston—welcomed them as their own. The first stop of the morning was at Cornwall, 75 miles south of Ottawa which the Royal couple left at 1:06 a.m. EST. The train stopped at an isolated siding for most of the night, so the Princess and her husband could have a good night's rest.

BELLEVILLE — (CP). — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, still radiant after a tiring day of train travel and stiff ceremonial, swept Belleville off its feet today in a fast-paced 15-minute visit. Then it was off to Trenton for a two-hour stop. As in Cornwall and Brockville, they remained on the station platform throughout their brief stay. It seemed that most of the city's population of 23,000 was on hand to greet them.

That they had rested well was apparent at Cornwall, the first stop, though the Princess—as she has been throughout most of her five days in Canada—appeared somewhat nervous. The hatless, hand-waving Prince as usual appeared relaxed and apparently thoroughly enjoyed the trip.

Quiet Welcome

At Kingston they stepped from their train at 11.20 a.m. EST directly in front of a big guard of honor. A booming salute was provided by some of Kingston's several military establishments.

The Royal couple left for Belleville at 1.04 p.m., four minutes behind schedule. A huge crowd was on hand to see them off but as on the visitors' arrival, it was comparatively quiet. The only exuberance was shown by the

UK Trade Unions Backing Labor Government In Vote

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(Reuters)—Britain's powerful trade unions have thrown their full weight into helping Labor retain power in the Oct. 25 general election. They have warned supporters to "view with grave apprehension" a Conservative victory. More than 80 unions are directly affiliated with the Socialist political machine, and dues from their 4,900,000 members form a lion's share of Labor's election fund.

Also squarely behind labor is the great Trades Union Congress of 8,000,000 men and women.

Impressive donations are pouring into party headquarters from the richer unions. Hundreds of trade union leaders are stumping for Labor.

Bigger unions are financing the candidatures of 138 of their members on the labor ticket.

The militant highly-disciplined Mineworkers' Union, with 600,000 members, is sponsoring 37 candidates. The 1,200,000-strong General Transport Workers' Union, biggest in the western world, is putting up 18.

The unions have issued their own manifestos urging all-out backing for the socialists.

The Mineworkers' Union has flooded the mining areas of Wales, Durham and Yorkshire with pamphlets recalling pre-war depressions and warning that Winston Churchill's Conservative party is the "traditional enemy of the workers."

Top union leaders say this election is the most critical for years because they are convinced the Conservatives plan laws such as the American Taft-Hartley Act to curb labor.

The Conservatives have tried to ease union fears. Sir David Maxwell-Fyfe, strongly tipped as labor minister if the Conservatives win, wrote recently:

"The Conservative party recognizes the necessity of preserving collective bargaining — with its concomitant of free combination, truly independent arbitration and, in the last resort, the right to strike."

Charge Strafing At Panmunjom

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 13 (Saturday) (AP)—Hopes for reopening the Korean truce talks were rocked today by a Communist charge that three allied fighter planes strafed the Panmunjom area, killing a Korean boy and wounding another.

Allied liaison officers made a preliminary investigation of the Red accusation during the darkness Thursday night and early today and decided to resume their inquiry at 9 a.m., (7 p.m. EST Friday).

Panmunjom is the site agreed upon for possible renewal of the Korean armistice talks which the Reds suspended at Kaesong Aug. 23.

Liaison officers for both sides haggled for the last three days over such technicalities as defining the full-dress talks.

The Communists Friday night, however, suddenly telephoned the UN advance camp at Munsan and charged that a UN plane had attacked the old Kaesong neutral zone at 5:35 pm (3:55 am ST). They gave no details over the telephone.

Col. Don Darrow and Lt.-Col. Norman Edwards went at once to Panmunjom to investigate.

Say UK Health Service Reveals Harmful Defects

LONDON, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Twenty-six recommendations for reform of the National Health Service were made in a report issued today by the British Medical Association.

It concludes that the three-year working of the service, introduced in June, 1948, has revealed "defects and shortcomings" harmful to the best interests of the public and of medicine.

"To delay the implementation of reforms,' 'it says, "will inevitably cause further frustration to the profession and retard the development of the service along more desirable lines."

The Medical Association, representing four out of five British doctors, seeks a reduction of powers wielded by the Health Minister. His present authority is described as "one of the most striking and dangerous features" of the service.

Among other proposed reforms are measures to prevent "frivolous calls" by patients, changes in hospital financing and supply of free drugs for private patients.

The report, by A.B.M.A. committee set up 15 months ago, will be considered at a special meeting in December.

All political parties support the Health Service, which costs the country nearly $400,000,000 a year but is free in the sense that no fee is paid to the doctor, dentist or druggist.

The Conservatives have qualified their support by saying they reserve the right to make changes particularly in regard to hospital services.

On the same day as the B.M.A. report appeared, Dr. Stephen Taylor, former Labor member of parliament, wrote in the Liberal News Chronicle that Britain, because of the Health Service, is the best place in the world to be sick.

After Britain, Dr. Taylor said, he wouldn't mind falling ill in Scandinavia, particularly in Denmark, or in a British Dominion, particularly Canada.

Dutch Queen To Visit Canada In April

THE HAGUE, The Netherland, Oct. 12 — (AP) — Queen Juliana of the Netherlands and Prince Bernhard will pay an official visit to Canada and the United States in April, 1952, the Foreign Office announced today.

The Queen and her husband have accepted invitations from Canada's Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, and his wife, and from President Truman and Mrs. Truman.

Family Allowance 26 Million Monthly

1,910,192 Families Received Help From Government During Year

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 (CP)—The Federal treasury now pays more than $26,000,000 a month in family allowances.

A report tabled today in the Commons by Health Minister Martin showed allowance payments now amount to approximately $310,000,000 a year compared with about $173,000,000 in 1946, the first full year in which the allowances were paid.

The report, covering the fiscal year ending March 31, 1952, disclosed that 1,910,192 families with 4,367,391 eligible children were receiving allowances.

The allowances are paid at the monthly rate of $5 for each child under six years; $6 for each child from six to nine years; $7 for each child from 10 to 12 years; and $8 each child from 13 to 15 years.

From July 1, 1945, to March 31, 1951, the family allowance payments totalled $1,561,773,776.

56 Prosecutions

Only 56 prosecutions have been launched in the last year against those who have obtained family allowances fraudulently.

"From the outset the department has held firmly to the view that the mothers of Canada as a group could be trusted to see that their children got the additional advantages the family allowances were intended to ensure," said the report. "This trust appears to have been amply justified.

"For example, in the 12-month period ended March 31 last, only 1,833 cases of misuse were reported from all sources and investigation showed that 1,462 were unwarranted reports, leaving only 371 bona fide cases of misuse, or approximately one per 5,000 families.

Shift Payment

"In these cases family allowances to the parent were suspended and arrangements made for payment to a suitable relative or friend, if available, otherwise through an agency or a carefully selected local citizen."

The report showed there are 733,100 families with one child; 567,206 with two children; 292,753 with three; 148,109 with four; 77,325 with five; 42,676 with six; 23,073 with seven; 13,428 with eight; 6,823 with nine; 3,065 with 10; 1,211 with 11; 330 with 12; 77 with 13; 11 with 14 and five with 15 children.

Flames Drive 100 People From Homes During Height Of Blaze

Furniture Tossed Out On Lawn As Residents Try To Save Belongings; Truck Convoy Takes Goods To Safety

OSHAWA, Oct. 12. (CP)—An apartment house fire which drove nearly 100 persons from their homes was brought under control today, some 2½ hours after it broke out. No one was injured but one elderly resident collapsed and was taken to hospital in a state of shock. Capt. William Cully of the Oshawa fire department was overcome by smoke from the tarred roof of the three-storey Buckingham Manor apartments. The brick building was gutted.

Firemen managed to halt the fire from spreading to an adjoining apartment, the Simcoe Manor. Both buildings are on Simcoe Street North on Oshawa's north side.

No Estimate of Loss

There was no immediate estimate of the loss.

Mrs. G. Kinton, 83, was treated for shock by a doctor on the scene after she collapsed in her second-storey apartment. She was then taken to hospital.

Personal belongings and furniture rained down on the lawn from upper storeys of the Buckingham as residents tried to save them after the blaze broke out in the attic at 9:30 am.

A truck convoy was set up hastily to cart them away to safety. Residents in both the Buckingham and Simcoe first floors carried out most of their possessions. Police cleared the Simcoe Arms as a safety measure but the efforts of 47 firemen contained the blaze.

The local Hotel Association donated rooms to the 40 persons from the Buckingham Arms. Many lost everything they owned. Each building contained some 20 apartments.

RCAF Group Reaches Britain

LONDON, Oct. 12 (CP)—Airmen from the RCAF's No. 1 Fighter Wing travelled by train today from Liverpool and Southampton to set up Canada's biggest overseas air base.

Nine officers, 21 senior non-commissioned officers and 134 other ranks, largely base personnel, arrived by sea at the two British ports and then proceeded to the RAF station at North Luffenham, Rutland, their new home-away-from-home.

The total number arriving today at North Luffenham was 308—164 airmen and the rest dependents. With scrupulous exactitude, the dependents were listed as comprising 65 wives, 79 children—and one mother-in-law.

Just Mass Hysteria

KINGSTON, Oct. 12. (AP)—A sociology professor today pointed to the receptions being given Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip as "excellent examples of mass hysteria." Jan Mesel, Queen's University lecturer, sent his 53 sociology students to packed Richardson Stadium today to observe, as a class project, the actions of 7,000 students who watched the Royal couple a minute-and-a-half drive around the track during their Kingston visit.

Constable Shot By 2 Thugs Caught At Work

HAMILTON, Oct. 12 — (CP). —Two gunmen, interrupted while trying to break into a local theatre, made good their escape early today by shooting a 24-year-old police constable.

In a back alley gunfight, Constable Jack Brown was hit in the leg by one of two bullets shot at him by the fleeing men.

Eight cruisers—loaded with police officers—scoured the Westdale district for more than an hour for the two men who apparently made their escape in a car parked nearby.

Constable Brown was making his second rounds of the night when he spotted two figures crouched around the rear exit of the Westdale theatre.

He shouted: "Stay where you are . . ."

But one of the men turned and fired at him. The first shot whizzed past the officer's head. Before he could duck for cover a second shot hit him in the left leg.

Constable Brown pulled his service revolver and shot three times at the retreating figures as he raced down back alleys after them. His wounded leg kept him from nabbing the fleet-footed bandits.

Later in the morning Constable Brown examined his service trousers to find the bullet had gone in one side, through the fleshy part of his leg and then out the other side of his trouser leg.

Canadians See Land, Sea Action

TOKYO, Oct. 12. (CP)—Canadians saw action on land and sea as United Nations forces closed out the month-long battle for Korea's towering Heartbreak Ridge.

Troops of the Canadian 25th Brigade fought machine-gun duels in the darkness Thursday night, repelling Chinese Communist patrols.

The Canadians, who last week touched off the huge offensive that rolled toward the vital heartbreak hills, were the only elements of the Commonwealth Division that reported any action.

The rest of the Division reported all was quiet.

Off the east-coast port of Kojo, the Canadian destroyer Cayuga, under command of Cmdr. J. Plomer of Winnipeg, joined British and American ships in shelling Communist supply points and troop concentrations.

The naval attack opened yesterday with a "softening-up" air assault from the Australian carrier Sydney. The carrier flew 90 sorties—officially described as a possible record for a carrier of this type.

The Cayuga, the British cruiser Belfast and destroyers Concord and Comus, and the United States battleship New Jersey took over today with fire from their big guns.

Police Shot Kills "Man From Mars"

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Oct. 12 (AP)—Police finally got their "man from Mars."

A bullet ended the robbery career of Forrest Ray Colson, who won his sobriquet because of the bizarre costume he wore during holdups. He decked himself out in a plastic helmet, gas mask, high boots and cartridge belt.

Colson, 27, ex-policeman fired in 1947 for inefficiency, was fatally shot Thursday night by police.

The scene was a supermarket which the "Mars man" was leaving with $13,675 in a paper bag and two revolvers.

Soviet Asks Italy Drop Pact

Big Three Receive Second Ultimatum On Red Satellites

MOSCOW, Oct. 12. (AP)—Russia announced Thursday night that Italy must quit the Atlantic alliance and bar foreign military forces from her soil before the Russians will agree to revision of the Italian peace treaty.

A Russian note to the big-three western powers also set a second condition for Russian agreement to the treaty revision and Italy's admission to the United Nations. The United States, Britain, and France must agree to peace-treaty revisions and UN membership for Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania and Finland.

Western diplomats here predicted that, in view of the Soviet stand, the westerners now will press ahead with their plans to edit arms restrictions from the Italian treaty without Russian agreement.

Likely Retaliate

They forecast that such western action would create resentment here and that the Russians probably would seek some form of retaliation.

The diplomats expressed these conclusions after studying a Russian note which Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky handed to charges d'affaires for the western powers.

The Russian communication was in reply to a three-power western declaration of Sept. 26 proposing revision of the Italian treaty and Italy's acceptance into the UN.

The reply set forth for the first time Russia's position on the western plan to let Italy increase her arms and armed forces beyond the lightly-gunned 300,000-man limit imposed by the 1947 treaty.

No Bases Allowed

It said Russia could join in cutting arms limitations out of the treaty "only in case Italy leaves the aggresive North Atlantic bloc and does not permit military bases and armed forces of foreign nations on its territory."

(The Atlantic Pact established southern European headquarters at Naples last June. The American sixth fleet is headquartered at Naples.

(Italy also granted the United States permission last summer to set up a major American supply base at Leghorn.)

The western note had said the restrictions on arms "affect Italy's capacity for self-defence."

Revision of the Italian treaty and Italy's admission to the UN, Russia said, must be accompanied by an "analagous revision of peace treaties with Bulgaria, Hungary, Finland and Romania, and their admittance to the UN."

AT STATE DINNER—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh are seen with Governor-General Viscount Alexander and Lady Alexander outside the dining room in Government House, Ottawa, following the state dinner to the Royal couple Wednesday night. Princess is wearing one of the magnificent evening gowns she brought to Canada with the sash of the Order of the Garter and a diamond tiara. During the dinner she spoke on a coast-to-coast broadcast in French and English. It was the second broadcast of her tour.

Square Dancing Makes Hit With Royal Pair At Party

OTTAWA, Oct. 12. (CP)—Princess Elizabeth went away from the capital today with a lesson in a reviving North American custom. She learned to square-dance. So did her big, fun-loving husband, Prince Philip. They got their lesson, of all places, in swank, yet sedate Rideau Hall, the rambling 19th century home of Governor-General Viscount Alexander, as they completed a triumphant two-day official visit to the capital. The lesson came at a private dance, the Viscount's own private party for the gracious, 25-year-old Princess and her sailor husband. There were no reporters or public present; only 70 personal friends of the Viscount and Viscountess Alexander. A lone tour official reported the Royal hoedown. The National Film Board took photographs.

From all accounts, the Princess and the Duke enjoyed the evening.

Photographs of the Princess show a gay, carefree girl swinging through the brisk strains of the square-dance music. She had doffed formal, daytime attire to wear a brown-checked blouse and a steel blue flared skirt in true, barn-dance style.

The pictures were in contrast to the strained, white-faced Princess who a few hours earlier had stood for approximately an hour and 20 minutes to shake the hands of some 1,000 officials at a government reception.

The Duke put on brass-stapled blue jeans for the dance and a white-checked shirt with a red kerchief around his neck.

Those were the costumes the Royal couple wore when they slipped away from Rideau Hall about 11 p.m. to head for their 10-car Royal train at Ottawa's union station. Against the chill night air, the Princess wore a mink wrap; the Duke a blue overcoat.

Given Sendoff

More than 1,000 persons went to the station to see them off. They cheered as the Royal couple said their good-byes to Viscount and Viscountess Alexander and Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mrs. St. Laurent. They boarded the train, made one brief platform appearance, then went in for the night.

The 10-car Royal train pulled out of the capital at 1:06 a.m. EST.

As the tired but happy Princess tumbled into her berth, she took with her the mellowing memories of two days of thrilling acclaim from tens of thousands who thronged the streets to see her at every stage of the official program.

She and her Duke did about everything a tourist does in Ottawa. They visited the parliament buildings and climbed the soaring heights of the peace tower. They browsed through the public archives and sampled the French-Canada atmosphere of neighboring Hull, Que. They took a boat trip down the choppy Ottawa river.

And they delighted 14,000 Ottawa school children with an appearance in Lansdowne Park, exhibition and sports centre.

Big Welcome

It was the biggest welcome Ottawa has given anyone since the King and Queen came on another Royal visit in 1939. An estimated 200,000 persons saw the Royal couple.

That was the public's show, and the public relished every moment.

But the square dance was the Governor-General's show. He arranged it when he saw the Princess in the United Kingdom last summer. It followed a buffet supper at Rideau Hall and was a private affair with few frills.

Three fiddles, an accordion, a piano, a guitar and bass fiddle provided the music and the Royal couple danced to the swinging strains of such tunes as "Bride of the Winds," "Cattle in the Crop," "Golden Slippers" and "Devil's Dream."

The caller was Tony Griffin, 39-year-old member of the economics division of the External Affairs Department, who gave the Princess her first instruction in the North American dance at the buffet supper.

Learns Quickly

Griffin said the Princess, who is adept at the quadrilles of Scottish dances, quickly caught the spirit of the square dance.

"I've never seen anything like it," he told reporters later. "Both of them seemed to be having a wonderful time."

The dance, in the big, ivory-walled ballroom of the hall, made a colorful scene. Cowbells tinkled at the beginning and the ending of each of the squares.

The governor-general wore a green-and-white checkered shirt, with a rainbow colored kerchief, tan slacks and an Indian jacket which had been given him in Calgary.

The Viscountess wore a red blouse with white paisley kerchief, a black skirt designed in green-and-red floral pattern and black shoes.

Their guests were costumed as colorfully, with a variety of dirndl skirts and peasant blouses.

Have No Changes For Tour Plan

LONDON, Oct. 12 (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have suggested no change in plans for the journey to Australia and New Zealand next year in place of the King and Queen, a usually-reliable source said today.

Although their internal tour was expected to be more extensive than that planned for the King and Queen, the royal couple would follow the existing timetable and leave Southampton Jan. 22, arriving at Freemantle, western Australia, March 1.

The royal couple, travelling in the 15,000-ton liner Gothic, will call at Gibraltar, Malta, Port Said, and, after passing through the Suez Canal, Colombo, Ceylon, and the Cocos Islands.

London sources said this route could be varied if the Middle-East situation made it necessary.

Toronto Solves Tour Crisis

TORONTO, Oct. 12—(CP)—So the mayor apologized to the judge—and vice versa—and Toronto's latest Royal tour crisis ended happily late Thursday. The judge will close his court.

Mayor Hiram McCallum suggested Thursday that employers in the downtown area to be banned to unncessary vehicular traffic during today's visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh let their employees off at 3.30 p.m. The traffic ban goes into effect at 4.30 p.m. and will last 2½ hours.

Judge F. G. J. McDonagh of York County Court, which normally closes for the day at 4.30 p.m., took that as an edict to close his court. In effect, he told the mayor: "You cannot do that!"

The mayor hotly retorted: "What an attitude to take!"

But late Thursday the two got together over the telephone. The judge withdrew his declaration that he would defy the mayor or anyone else to close his court; the mayor said he wasn't trying to throw his weight around.

The judge said he'd close at 3.30 p.m.

Brown Outfit Suits Princess

KNGSTON, Oct. 12 (CP) — Princess Elizabeth today turned up in perhaps the smartest outdoor ensemble she has worn since landing in Canada.

Arriving here today, she was in an all-brown costume, with only the gleam of a maple leaf collar ornament for contrast.

Feminine observers in the press corps described the ensemble this way:

Her knee-length overcoat, in dark-brown beige or velour, was a fitted model with full skirt. The coat was buttoned high, and enough of the dress or suit could be seen only to determine that it was of a light shade of brown.

The Princess wore a close-fitting brown hat and carried a square brown bag. Brown high oxfords completed the costume.

When she started off for the drive through the city in an open car, an attendant brought along the Princess' hip-length mink jacket.

Egypt To Call

Other Measures

The press pointed to other measures Egypt might invoke.

The independent paper Al Ahram and the pro-government Al Misri said that to speed further the abrogation of the treaties, a special edition of the official journal containing the laws would be published Oct. 16. Under the constitution, a law becomes effective upon its publication in the journal. The next issue normally would be issued at the end of October.

Al Misri also said the cabinet would meet to study the "position of the Sudan's governor-general."

The newspaper reported the government is planning to suppress the post, which has been filled by a Briton in the past.

Meanwhile, the interior ministry banned public demonstrations throughout Egypt after anti-foreign rioting.

The ministry said it issued the ban because the "numerous and serious questions" before the government demanded its "exclusive" attention.

Howling crowds Wednesday attacked British, American and French property in demonstrations of anti-foreign feeling. Thousands paraded here Thursday in support of the government drive against the Britons, but there was no violence.

Britain and France have protested to the Egyptian government over the rioting.

Several thousand members of the Moslem Brotherhood of Egypt Thursday night demanded that Egypt declare war on Britain. The Brotherhood, second-largest political party, also called on the government to void all concessions to British firms, and oust the British Governor-General of the Sudan.

Behind Premier

All classes of Egyptians appeared to be solidly behind Premier Mustapha Nahas El Pasha's move to cancel both the 1899 treaty providing joint control of the Sudan—a cotton-growing area with a population of 8,000,000—and the 1936 joint defence arrangement with Britain. Under the 1936 treaty Britain can keep 10,000 troops and 400 planes in Egypt to guard the Suez Canal.

(Britain Thursday repeated her stand that she will not withdraw her troops from the canal zone, and warned Egypt she would be held responsible for violent acts against British subjects and property.)

The Cairo press interpreted a warning by State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States that Egypt should not denounce the treaties unilaterally as support for Britain.

"We must remember that in our struggle to get rid of the British alliance," said the pro-government paper Al Balagh, "we shall encounter the combined opposition of Britain, the United States and France."

below the towering peak. This was the "mop-up."

Tank columns blasted up Mundung and Satae Valley on either side of Heartbreak to cut off possible Red aid and shatter their gun positions.

Tanks had blasted the northern peak of Heartbreak from either side Thursday. Then fighter-bombers and artillery smothered it with another barrage.

At 4 p.m. the final assault began.

Clear Out Reds

All night long the troops worked their way up two narrow ridgelines toward the towering crest. By dawn they had cleaned Reds out of 22 bunkers.

Then came the climactic dash with fixed bayonets.

The close-quarter fight on the crest lasted until 8 a.m. Friday.

A colonel, almost beside himself with joy, screamed into a field telephone:

"We've got it. We've got it."

On the western front, the 1st Cavalry Division was involved in a bloody series of savage hill fights of its own. Defending Chinese were both fanatical and professional.

The Americans, with supporting Greek and Thai elements, found it slow going. Four Allied spearheads were beaten back Thursday. Friday, the Eighth Army announced, a Chinese "banzai attack" forced some cavalry units to retreat.

Crowd Breaks

throngs of children occupying every available point of vantage.

The Duke, who on the morning's previous stops at Cornwall and Brockville wore civilian dress, was in his lieutenant-commander's naval uniform for the tour of Kingston whose military history goes back long before the war of 1812. Part of the tour here included an inspection of the Royal Military College which trains officers for all three services.

A quiet crowd of several thousand—a contrast to the noisy thousands massed at Cornwall and Brockville railway stations—watched the Royal arrival. The throng was held back about 500 feet from the red-carpeted area where the Prince and Princess alighted from their train.

Following the consistent one-color line of her dress, the Princess wore a smart all-brown ensemble with a knee-length fitted coat and a dress of a lighter shade peeking from beneath. On the left side of the coat's high, buttoned collar was a double clasp of maple leaves in diamonds.

Estimates Vary

Estimates of the crowds at the two station appearances—15 minutes at Cornwall and 15 minutes, five more than were scheduled, at Brockville — varied. Local observers at the former place, a city of 32,000 composed about equally of English-and French-speaking Canadians, said between 15,000 and 20,000 persons were crowded about the railway station. Press observers with the tour, who have seen the crowds at Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa, placed the number at 35,000.

The press train estimate of Brockville's turnout was 40,000 There, in a city of only 13,000, the crowd was swelled by thousands from the surrounding farming area and from United States points across the St. Lawrence River. Many in Brockville appeared at the station as early as 6:30 am for the scheduled 10:10 o'clock stop.

There was an unscheduled incident at Brockville when the 10-car royal train—which arrived in the station five minutes ahead of schedule, thus permitting a 15-minute stop—stopped for water west of the station after pulling out. The eager crowd broke through police lines, ran several hundred yards up the track and surrounded the last car, on the rear platform of which the Prince and Princess were standing. There was no disorder, however, and after taking water on the train left for Kingston.

Compared to the crowds at Cornwall and Brockville, that at Kingston was quiet. Stiff formality, with the military note predominating, prevailed. For it was largely a military show in that city where Defence Minister Claxton presided as the Federal cabinet minister with the party. Earlier, Transport Minister Chevrier had performed the introductions.

Inspect Guard

The Princess and her husband stood beside the gently waving ensigns to meet Kingston's Mayor C. A. Curtis, Brig. A. F. B. Knight, area commander, aldermen and other leading residents.

Then, while the band played "The Maple Leaf Forever"—the first time they have heard that distinctly Canadian piece since their arrival at Montreal Monday — they inspected the guard of honor from the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

After a 10-minute welcoming ceremony, during which the Princess was presented with the key to the city, the royal couple left the station for Richardson Memorial Stadium where thousands of children were assembled to shout and wave their greeting. From the stadium, the royal visitors drove to the city hall, whence they went to the Royal Military College. Then they drove around the city first settled by Indians in 1672.

The welcoming crowd at Brockville broke through the police barriers to surround the Princess and the Duke when their train made an unexpected stop for water as it was leaving.

For a few minutes a dense throng swirled about the last car as the Princess and her husband stood on the observation platform waving.

The Princess and her ever-smiling husband walked about the long platform after the official welcoming ceremony was over. Both spoke to several persons in the crowd and the Princess expressed regret that she was unable to see the Thousand Islands, famed scenic stretch of the St. Lawrence west of Brockville.

Two wounded Second World War veterans in wheel chairs, Dave Rodger and Ernie Fox—the latter lost both legs—were introduced to the Princess and her husband as they walked along the platform.

The Princess was heard to say that she "would have liked to have mixed with the children," of whom some 2,500 were gathered in a special area.

Plowing Match Nears End, To List Awards

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 12 (CP)—The 38th International Plowing Match winds up tonight with awards of overseas trips, medals and trophies. The two top plowmen, one winning with horses and the other with a tractor, will receive free trips to Great Britain to show their skill in matches there.

Some 45,000 persons Thursday thronged the farms near here where the matches and displays were held. Officials expected as many today to watch the finals of the biggest event of its kind in the world.

Traffic jammed every main highway and sideroad leading to the plowing match area, and even a special squad of provincial policemen had difficulty preventing tie-ups.

Those who reached the area had a chance to see two plowmen from York County win the inter-county competition against six other county representatives. The two, Eugene Timbers of Milliken and Merle Timbers of Aurora, both near Toronto, triumphed over entrants from Haldimand, Wentworth, Victoria, Brant, Grey and Middlesex.

A young lady from Waterford, Betty Opersko, walked off with first prize in the girls 13 to 18 years class. She took top honors in this class Tuesday.

Placed Last

William C. Humphrey from Missouri, United States contour plowing champion, Thursday came last in a field of seven in a contour match. Judges explained to him that the Canadian climate demands a different type of furrow from the Missouri model.

Humphrey made up for his loss by winning the farm welding competition which a friend persuaded him to enter. The welding event was seen for the first time at the International Match this year, replacing the old horse-shoeing contest.

This year was the first time the match had been held in Oxford county since 1921. It was centred this year on the farm of John Hargreaves five miles southeast of here, and took in a number of surrounding farms. Hargreaves himself is a five-times champion at the International.

Oxford county farmers took the opportunity of the International to show off their Holstein, Ayrshire and dual purpose Shorthorn cattle for which the county is famous. The cattle and various exhibits of farm machinery kept hundreds of visitors in the tent city which holds the displays, stretching over 22 acres.

Chrysanthemums Weekend Treat

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 12.—An autumn floral treat for the thousands visiting this world-famous resort centre this weekend to greet Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will be the annual chrysanthemum display at the school of gardening four miles north of the city on scenic Niagara Parkway.

Close to 6,000 plants will be massed in the display, which is open to the public.

The 3,000-acre parks system is an all-year centre for plant and flower lovers with its beautifully landscaped grounds and floral displays.

Blossoming in more than two acres of flower beds, the huge chrysanthemums, autumn's favorite flower, will be greeting visitors and sightseers throughout the fall season. Delightful summer flowers still in bloom at the gardening school include petunias, spider plants, snapdragons, begonias, salvias and dozens of other beautiful varieties.

Begins Convalescence

LONDON, Oct. 12. (Reuters)—The King, well on the way to recovery after his serious lung operation, may soon be ready to start his convalescence, it was learned tonight. He will probably go to his Parkland home at Windsor, 22 miles from London.

Market Closes Early Due To Royal Visit

TORONTO, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Floor traders worked feverishly today to clear orders by the exchange's 1 p.m. deadline. The market closed early to observe the Royal visit to Toronto.

Industrial issues pushed higher to continue an early upswing. Liquor and retail stores continued strong while utilities, refining oils and foods drew mounting support. Banks, steels, papers and agricultures weakened. Textiles, constructions and manufacturing companies showed little trend.

Trading was again heavy with demand centred in specultative western oil and penny gold stocks. Volume for the session was 5,262,000 shares.

Western oils weakened after a first-hour climb to another record high on the exchange's index. Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Decalta, East Crest, Gridoil, Juniper, New British Dominions and Redwater-Piccadilly edged upward. Central-Leduc, Sapphire, and United Oil eased.

Senior golds held gains and losses in balance. In secondary issues, American Yellowknife continued a feature as it climbed about 15 cents in a turnover of more than 500,000 shares.

Base metals remained mixed and irregular. United Asbestos, Ascot, East Rim and Golden Manitou edged higher.

US Opinion Now Backs Canada's Production Plan

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Charles Sawyer, United States secretary of commerce, says general opinion in American circles now backs the production in Canada of as much aluminum as possible.

This is a change from the view of a year ago. Then, strong interests favoring concentration of American aluminum production were responsible for the United States staying out of the present aluminum development in British Columbia, southeast of Prince Rupert.

There, the Aluminum Co. of Canada, Ltd., has started a $160,000,000 first-stage development, scheduled to go into production in 1954; and of it, Mr. Sawyer commented yesterday:

"Thank God Canadians went ahead anyway."

He was speaking to newspapermen in Toronto in amplification of his address to the American Life Convention.

In his address he referred back to his testimony last February to the house of representatives subcommittee on monopoly, when he said:

"All the information which has come to the national production authority and other bureaus of my department indicates that demand, both civil and military, for aluminum, will far exceed any present available supply—even including everything which the Canadians as well as Americans can supply.

"My opinion, in brief, is that we should get all the aluminum we can, as fast as we can, as cheaply as we can, and from wherever we can."

To newspapermen he added:

"Today it is generally agreed that that is the only thing to do."

Asked if this meant that the United States would place orders for BC-produced aluminum, Mr. Sawyer replied:

"If we can get it, there is no doubt about it."

The Aluminum Company spent more than $1,000,000 in preliminary work in British Columbia before it even decided to go ahead; and it was generally considered that lack of assistance or orders from the United States was holding up the decision.

However, without United States participation, the decision to go ahead came last April. Almost simultaneously came announcement that the British Ministry of Supply would advance $40,000,000 against unsecured interest-bearing notes maturing 20 years from Jan. 1, 1954.

In return the British ministry will have first call on an additional 50,000 metric tons of annual production, bringing to 250,000 tons its total first call on production.

Present production, in the province of Quebec, is about 400,000 tons a year. The BC first-stage project and an expansion underway in Quebec, will add another 150,000 tons, of which 80,000 to 100,000 tons will come from BC.

PETERBOROUGH UTILITIES COMMISSION

Driver Fined After Accident

Miss Alice Johnson, 303 Pearl St., was convicted on a charge of careless driving by Magistrate W. R. Philip in police court Thursday and fined $10 and $18.25 in costs.

A plea of not guilty was entered by Alex L. Elliott who appeared for Miss Johnson. The charge was laid as the result of a collision between a car driven by Miss. Johnson and another vehicle driven by Lorn McGee, 177 Bethune St. which occurred at the intersection of Aylmer and Sherbrooke Sts. January 12. Miss Johnson was seriously injured in the crash and although she was in court she did not testify.

"She is not in any physical condition to give evidence," said defence counsel Elliott. Mr. Elliott did not call any witnesses and let the case rest on the evidence of Constable Gordon Trennum, Lorne McGee, Sam Anderson, 514 Edison Ave., who witnessed the crash and Roy Cochrane, 549 Steele Ave., a passenger in the McGee car who all testified for the crown.

Didn't Stop

Anderson, a bus driver for the city bus lines, said he was coming north on Aylmer St., and was about "two bus lengths" south of the intersection when he saw a car approaching from the east along Sherbrooke St. "It slowed up but didn't stop and continued into the intersection," said Anderson.

"I saw the southbound car (driven by McGee) coming into the intersection and stopped about 30 feet south of the corner when I saw the collision."

There are stop signs on Sherbrooke St. Aylmer St. is a through St.

Magistrate Philp disagreed with Mr. Elliott who claimed that "many of the bus driver's statements were carelessly made . . . and that considerable doubt was thrown on the accuracy of his statement by his willingness to make estimates."

In handing down his verdict of guilty, Magistrate Philp said, "Bus drivers are generally considered to be fairly observant. In my opinion there is reason for a conviction on the evidence of Anderson alone and I see no reason why it should not be accepted."

Urge Speedy Approval Of Japanese Treaty

TOKYO, Oct. 12 — (AP) — Premier Shigeru Yoshida today urged "speedy deliberation and approval" by the diet of the Japanese Peace Treaty and Japan's Security Pact with the United States.

Yoshida made his statement in report to the extraordinary session convened to consider action on the two measures.

"From the Japanese standpoint," he said," the contents of the Peace Treaty may leave many things to be desired. But the fact remains that it is a fair and equitable Peace Treaty without parallel in history."

Mounbatten Gets Mediterranean Job

LONDON, Oct. 12—(Reuters) — Admiral Earl Mountbatten, cousin of the King, will take over as commander-in-chief of the Mediterranean Fleet next May, it was announced Thursday night.

He succeeds Admiral Sir John Edelsten, for whom no new appointment has yet been announced.

Mountbatten served as the last Viceroy of India and when it was granted Dominion status in 1949 he was its first governor-general.

His naval career, begun 38 years ago, has often led him into the thick of battle. He was dragged out of an oil-laden sea in 1941, when his destroyer, the Kelly, was sunk in the Battle of Crete.

He planned successful raids in German-occupied Norway and France when he was chief of the British commandos.

He was named Southeast Asia commander in 1945.

Simonds Confers With Eisenhower

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Fontainebleau, France, Oct. 12—(Reuters)—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, Canadian Army Chief of Staff who arrived in France Thursday, conferred today with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on the imminent arrival of Canadian forces in Europe.

Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, commander of the 27th Canadian Brigade due to disembark at Cherbourg next month, accompanied him to the conference with the Allied supreme commander.

The two officers were to leave Paris for Germany tonight. They will spend most of their time in the Hanover region, British zone, where the brigade is to be stationed, to make araringements for quartering.

The men to be put up will number between 6,000 and 7,000 before the end of the year, Finance Minister Abbott said yesterday.

The first of 11 Canadian fighter squadrons also was due "in a matter of weeks," he said.

Street Cleaners Out In Force In Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Toronto's street cleaners were out in force early today in preparation for the arrival late in the day of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Clad in dazzling, white coveralls— just the regular uniform but evidently freshly laundered — cleaners chased leaves, paper and other litter along downtown streets through which the Royal Party will pass on their trip from Malton airport and tour of Toronto.

"We'll be after it all day," said Grant Taylor, deputy street commissioner. "Of course, it's pretty hard with all those leaves blowing down. . ."

Left-Wing Deputies Won't Be Freed

ATHENS, Oct. 12 — (Reuters) — Seven left-wing deputies of the Greek parliamnet, elected while exiled on the Aegean Island of Aghios Evstratios, will not be released.

The States Judicial Council, advisory body whose rulings are binding on the government, decided Thursday night against the release of the deputies.

Prime Minister Sophocles Venizelos explained the ruling means that a decision of the electoral court ratifying the election of the deputies, would be necessary to release the seven.

They include Lt.-Gen. Stefanos Sarafis, former commander-in-chief of left-wing resistance forces; Maj.-Gen. Michael Tsimicalis, and the former Agrarian party leader, Constantine Gabrielides.

British Liberals Declare Themselves

A fortnight ago today we published an editorial in this space in which we expressed the opinion that the stand which the Liberals took in the British election would be of the utmost importance in deciding its outcome. At that time we thought that the Liberals would side with the Labour Party. But in his first campaign speech at Kingsway Hall, in London, the Liberal leader, Mr. Clement Davies, put his party firmly on the Conservative side. The Labour Party had, he said, "deliberately, in malice, sitting down in caucus in London, attempted to destroy Liberalism as certainly as Lenin ever sat down to destroy freedom in Russia." It must be repeated here that the Conservative Party has been insistent and rancorous in its suggestions that the Liberal Party disappear from the British political scene; if the Liberals prefer the Conservatives to Labour, what lies behind it?

* * *

Let us do a little guessing: it may very well be that the Liberals are convinced that if Labour goes back into power, it will be with Aneurin Bevan as Prime Minister. Bevan split the Labour Party and has since then shown great strength; he has resumed relations with Mr. Attlee for the duration of the election, but it is not a permanent alliance. There is nothing in Aneurin Bevan's program or past record which could attract a genuine Liberal, except his championship of the National Health measure, and that contained matter which was illiberal in spirit, though its general tendency was good. With Bevan as Prime Minister, the Liberals in Parliament would be a forlorn fragment of the Opposition, facing a doctrinaire government. And so the Liberals have decided to throw their weight on the Tory side. It is doubtful if they will put many candidates in the field, and votes which would ordinarily go to them will go to the Conservative candidate in two-party contests. This is guess-work, but we think that it contains elements which recommend it.

* * *

The election trend, which wavered for a week or two, now seems to be set in favour of Winston Churchill. The humiliation which Britain sustained in the dispute over Persian oil has done the Labour Government much harm. It would be unwise, however, to overestimate the influence of this factor, for in order to take a strong line with Persia, Britain would have been forced to risk a war; the British people do not like to be humiliated, but they are in no mood for war, either. The impudence which the Egyptian government is now giving Britain, and the cancellation of the mutual defence treaty, is a result of the Persian victory, and Britain does not like it. If Mr. Churchill is successful in persuading the country that it has sustained a needless loss of face because of governmental weakness, he will gain many votes.

* * *

The ineptitude of Dr. Hugh Dalton, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer (until he was relieved of his post for indiscretion) has made enemies for Labour. Dr. Dalton has been advising the housewives of Britain that they should buy less; his words have been reminiscent of the speech in which our own fiscal wizard, Mr. Abbott, has urged women to avoid "thoughtless" buying. Dr. Dalton's advice has brought the anger of the housewives down upon him, as well as that of some manufacturers, especially manufacturers of textiles. Housewives want to know how they are to get along without buying things they badly need; manufacturers want to know why they are urged to make more goods, if people are to buy less; textile workers want to know if they are to be laid off at the mills (and in point of fact textile workers in Dr. Dalton's own district have been forced to work a shorter week); and retailers say that Dr. Dalton's accusations of "price rings" in the woollens industry have no root in anything but the official price schedules of the Labour Board of Trade. Dr. Dalton continues, it appears, to have one foot in his mouth and the other on a banana skin.

* * *

The outlook for the Conservatives is improving. But to predict a victory yet would be rash. The least vocal part of the population has received many benefits under the Labour regime, and may rally to the Labour call on voting day.

Preparing for the election, Mr. Attlee will make 53 speeches in ten days. This is the type of tireless orator that Canadian luncheon clubs are looking for.

No Wires Around The City Hall

An enthusiastic reader of this newspaper called on us a fortnight ago to ask: "Have you looked at the back of the new City Hall from the street?" We said we had. "Have you looked at the front of the new City from the street?" We said we had. "Didn't you notice the difference?" We said that we had noticed that the front had pillars and a clock, the back barred windows of cells. "No, no—didn't you notice how nice and open and clean the back looked?" And really, unaware of the reason for it, we had sensed that there was a lack of clutter at the back. "It's the wires. All those wires drooping along the front of George Street; none at the back along Water. The front would look really nice if those confounded wires were out of the way. Why weren't they put underground?"

That was a fortnight ago. Since then the Utilities people have got rid of the wires and poles in front of the new Hall and the front now looks as uncluttered and open as the rear. Whether the wires went underground, across the street or into wireless, we do not know. At any rate, the appearance of the building is greatly improved.

As the reader left with warm praise for our editorial promotion of underground wiring for Peterborough—we have been urging this reform for many years—we began to jot down a list of the advantages which underground wiring has. Here is our list; checked against a similar list compiled by the editor of the Brandon Sun who has also been adding up the benefits. Our visitor had given only one—improved appearance of the streets.

2. Fire-fighting is less hazardous and easier when there is no overhead wiring.

Interruption of electrical service on pole lines passing burning buildings is avoided.

3. All electrical services are made immune from wind, lightning and sleet storms.

4. There is no danger to the public from falling wires and poles.

5. Overhead wires interfere with radio reception; this is avoided by putting wires underground.

6. Underground wiring permits of modern and flexible street lighting systems, and fire alarm and police signals systems.

7. All underground installations are completely waterproof.

We invite the advocates of lurching overhead wires and leaning poles to submit lists of the advantages of these. We wager that they'll not find as many and as good reasons to support the poles as we have to bury the wires.

Going To Toronto By Train

Far and away the best service which the railway companies provide for Peterborough passengers is the C.P.R. run to and from Toronto. We have in the past been critical of even this service, citing the dirt of some of the Friday afternoon carriages and the perennial tardiness of the noon train from Toronto to the city. But on the whole the Peterborough-Toronto service is good, and the best in the entire local railway schedule. The C.P.R. quite properly is anxious to maintain the reputation—and business—of the Toronto passenger run. Thus it has altered the morning schedule of the 'local'. That train now leaves Peterborough at eight; formerly it left at 7:10.

We are rather surprised that various groups are complaining about the eight o'clock schedule and stating their preference for the earlier leaving. This can only mean that industrial executives, business men and farmers, going to Toronto to transact business, pay little attention to the eight-hour day and five-day week. They prefer to get up early enough to catch the 7:10 (even in dark winter mornings?) so as to get to Toronto at 9:15. They begin their workday early.

The railway company is wisely considering these preferences wanting to make the best of this good run. When the Toronto subway becomes a reality, the advantages of travel by train to the Queen City will far out-run the private car. True, some car drivers do the run in two tense hours, whereas the train takes two hours and five minutes, but the bother of operating a car in Toronto, already great, will appear greater in contrast with travelling in Toronto by the speedy Underground.

And actually, if the railway company really puts its heart and steam into it, the Toronto train run can be done in less than two hours. The rail route is the shortest we have.

It is a military axiom to reinforce success. The C.P.R. on its direct Toronto line has an advantage over both bus and private cars, in the shortest route. If it streamlined its service between Toronto and Peterborough, put fast inter-urban specials on the line (after the pre-war German pattern), it could get Peterborough people to and from Toronto so fast, so easily and so conveniently, that nobody in his right senses would think of driving by private car.

The C.P.R. has a good thing in its Toronto run. Let it make the most of it (and the lucrative business it provides) by outpacing all other means of transport between this busy, growing city of commerce and industry, and Toronto.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: Your note last week on the styles and titles of the royal couple now touring Canada prompts me to ask this question: Is the present Duke of Edinburgh the first Duke of that name?

ANSWER: No. The dukedom was first created in 1726 for Prince Frederick Lewis, eldest son of the then Prince of Wales who became George II. This Duke died in 1751 in the lifetime of his father and left a son George, Prince of Wales, Duke of Edinburgh, who became George III in 1760. In that year the dukedom of Edinburgh was merged with the Crown.

However, it was called out again four years later in favour of the King's brother, Prince William Henry, who was created Duke of Gloucester and Edinburgh and Earl of Connaught. The title became extinct with his son in 1834.

It was revived again in 1866 when conferred upon H.R.H. Prince Alfred (later Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha), second son of Queen Victoria. He married morganatically, without approval of the Queen, and on his death in 1900 the title again became extinct until conferred on Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, K.G., R.N. on November 19, 1947.

NINETEENTH CENTURY PENICILLIN: An interesting tid-bit of medical folk lore came to my ears recently. The late W. J. Kent, well-known former druggist of George Street who died a year ago at an advanced age, cut his foot severely with an old ax when he was a child on the parental farm. His grandmother took the boy down cellar, opened a jar of jam which had become blue-moulded on top, and sloshed the mould over the badly-injured and bleeding foot. This antiseptic and curative use of mould locally some seventy years ago, suggests that although medical science of that day did not know of or recognize penicillin (which is got from a kind of bread mould), home-cures with lore handed down from generation to generation had foreknowledge of it. Science today is less scornful than it used to be of "quaint" remedies, and homely rules-of-thumb and sayings about soil, weather, and social relationships. Had Sir Alexander Fleming, the discoverer of penicillin, had a grandmother with the lore of Mr. Kent's grandmother, perhaps the clinical use of penicillin would not have been delayed until 1941.

DEAR SIR: I am a recent British immigrant to this country. I am not yet a Canadian citizen. Do you know whether I can vote by proxy in the coming British elections?

ANSWER: No—but you can vote, by virtue of your residence in Canada and your British citizenship, in Canadian elections, even though you cannot yet take out a Canadian passport.

Mr. Anthony Eden remarked whimsically on his recent visit that nearly everybody to whom he spoke on board the Canada-bound ship, was a lost Conservative vote. I don't know whether you are among them.

Citizens of the United Kingdom now in Canada can vote by proxy in the October 25th British elections only if they are here on government affairs or commercial business of a temporary nature. They can apply to be treated as absent voters. Holiday-makers and emigrants are excluded from proxy voting.

To qualify to vote you must have your name on the current electoral roll—qualifying dates are 20th of November, 1950 (England and Wales), 1st December, 1950 (Scotland) and 31st of December, 1950 (Northern Ireland). You have to apply to the electoral registration officer in your riding, complete the forms, and return them to him before October 15th.

The days are gone when Oxford and Cambridge graduates, wherever they might be and whatever their nationality, had the right to vote for a University member. These parliamentary seats were abolished by the Labour Government after the war. Perhaps if Mr. Churchill's party goes into office, they will be reinstated. The Universities' seats put many brilliant, independent parliamentarians into the Commons through the centuries. The last Oxford member was Sir A. P. Herbert.

ALPHA: Why are people from the Maritimes called Blue Noses?

ANSWER: The phrase refers only to people from Nova Scotia. Presumably from the purple tinge not infrequently seen on the noses of the inhabitants of that damp, cold and raw area. There is a potato grown down there called blue-nose, but the potato is named after the Nova Scotia nose, not the person for the potato.

POOR LINGUISTS: I was in company of a dozen others on Wednesday evening when Princess Elizabeth's brief state dinner address was broadcast from Ottawa. Everyone listened intently until she broke into French—fluent and idiomatic French it was, too. Then the party became a babble of general conversation and the usual quips were made "Might as well turn it off now; I studied French at school but don't understand a word of the Frog-language". Needless to say, no one had paid any attention to the closing phrases of Viscount Alexander's toast, also delivered in stylish French.

What a bunch of dunderheads we are! Nearly everyone in that room had had four or five years' French at school; some were university graduates, and yet none admitted to understanding the other official language of this country, and the mother-tongue of more than a third of all Canadians. Are the schools at fault, are we lazy, or are we smugly complacent in having only one language on our tongues? Anglo-Saxon people may be poor linguists, compared with, for instance, the Dutch. (A Dutch friend of mine once apologized to a Dane who was visiting me for being unable to speak Danish "although I studied it for three months several years ago".) Princess Elizabeth and the Governor-General show us that Anglo-Saxons can speak French understandably and well.

I suspect that the root of English-speaking Canadians' failure to learn and use French is provincialism and mental laziness. There is a kind of peasant belief that people who do not speak our tongue as their own are somehow very odd and obviously inferior. To learn their tongue is lowering.

Foreign languages have other than dollar uses. Charles V used to say that he would talk Spanish to the gods, Italian to ladies, French to men, German to soldiers, English to geese, Hungarian to horses, and Bohemian to the devil. A prominent philologist of the last century said that if he wished to court his mistress he would address her in French; if he had an audience of the King he would speak to him in English, but in approaching his God his language would be Gaelic. A learned Presbyterian, no doubt.

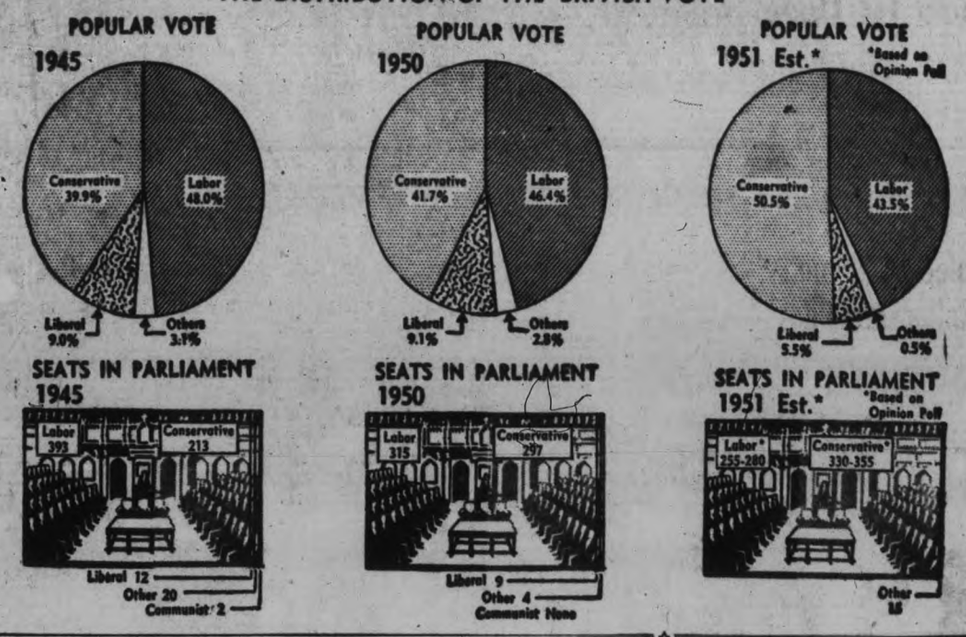
SIR: Why are the high-school students favoured more than the low schools? A student may get into a theatre at night alone. A child cannot get into a theatre on a week-day afternoon, unless an adult accompanies them. Is it because a grade pupil gets more homework—No! It isn't fair.

ANSWER: Down with tyranny, favouritism and nepotism; hurrah for liberty, equality and fraternity! The reason, my dear lower-former, is that Peterborough has a curfew, legal and binding even upon movie houses. According to that civic by-law, unaccompanied children and youths must be indoors by nine o'clock at night. The police do not enforce it strictly, but if ever gangs of youngsters wander around recklessly and recklessly after dark, the curfew law is the teeth behind the policeman's order to 'Go home'. The movie houses undoubtedly have a sense of civic responsibility, and even without the curfew, would bow to civic custom and cater to young people's well-being by refusing, as they now do, admittance of unaccompanied children to evening shows. I presume that it is a matter of managerial principle that children are not allowed into movies on school afternoons; the managers know that no matter how good their bill-of-fare, school and not a movie-house is the place for pupils on week-day afternoons.

❖ ❖ ❖

FOR THE RECORD: The Peterborough Lacrosse team has, as everyone knows, come back this week from Vancouver bearing the Mann Cup and the Canadian championship. Thus it will go down in history and have a footnote in the sporting records section of the World Alamanac. Last year's senior champions were the Owen Sound Crescents. Last year's American national open champions were the Mt. Washington Club, Baltimore, Md. and the U.S.A. national intercollegiate champions, the team from Johns Hopkins University.



SEEING THINGS

A man entered Hyde Park one evening, followed by two pink elephants, ten blue cats, a lavender giraffe, and forty spotted mice. When he noticed this motley troupe he tried to wave them away, but they continued to trot along behind him.

He paused several times, looked back and cried "Shoo, all of you." But in vain. The fantastic company crowded in his wake, jostling each other and treading on his heels.

At last the man stopped dead, faced them, and said in a loud, fierce voice: "Now, then, all of you....get this. If you don't leave me alone I'll take two aspirins and make you all disappear!"

THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE BRITISH VOTE

Dr. Schacht's "Black Record"

(By R. G. In THE OTTAWA CITIZEN)

THE "black record" of which Dr. Hugh Keenleyside has accused Dr. Hjalmar Schacht was not overtly criminal enough to establish guilt in the trial of the German financier before the international tribunal at Nuremberg in 1946. But it certainly seems to deserve the contempt Dr. Keenleyside, the United Nations' director of technical assistance, showed the other day when he declined to shake hands with Schacht at a social gathering in Jakarta.

Even by close associates, Schacht was never trusted; the best a friendly witness could say was that he was always a puzzle, a man "of contradictory nature". A clever defence counsel made good use of these contradictions, of the point that many observers outside Germany spoke well of Hitler in the early days, and of Schacht's break with the Nazis in the end. The defence concluded: "We can only raise—and even that only in the vacuum of abstraction—a political reproach against the Schacht of the years 1933-37."

Dr. Schacht fell into political error rather promptly and with astounding simple-mindedness, if his motives were as pure as he claims. Early in 1933, Hitler, already Chancellor and facing a crucial election, asked Schacht to be his banker, and "I had no reason for refusing to do that." Hitler then met with Schacht and a score of industrialists.

He declared, in a classic statement of fascism, that "private enterprise cannot be maintained in the age of democracy, it is conceivable only if the people have a sound idea of authority and personality." He revealed an intention to destroy all opposition and restore the German war machine. The meeting then agreed to raise an election fund.

SCHACHT was, he admitted, disgusted with the German republic, on economic grounds; as head of the Reichsbank, he had opposed foreign borrowings. But he had no interest in politics, he said. His democratic principles did not permit him to join the Nazi party. Nevertheless, they evidently did permit him to help destroy democracy.

This aloof banker saw "nothing criminal" in Hitler's book, "Mein Kampf". He found in it some "foolishness," "some sensible ideas," and many mistakes—"because it always toyed with the idea" of expanding Germany's living space in Europe. Schacht thought it "rather strange" that German Jews were to lose civil rights but "reassuring" that they would have as much legal protection as "other foreigners". Though parliament was to be ditched, he noted (doubtless with relief) that the Fuehrer's continuance in power would be dependent on plebiscites "of a democratic nature".

SCHACHT hoped, he explained at Nuremberg, to direct Hitler's power for the good of Germany. As Reichsbank head, minister of economics, and secretly-designated plenipotentiary for the war economy, he financed rearmament, but only for "defence," and simply to make the Allies agree to disarmament. But the Allies "disappointed" him—did nothing at all "to stop Germany's rearmament"—and Britain even made a naval agreement permitting Germany to break the Treaty of Versailles. Schacht was, he insisted, a life-long pacifist, a convinced Christian, with a love for all mankind. But he did consider that "soldiership conscious of its responsibilities is the highest calling."

When Roehm and many other Nazis were killed in June, 1934, Schacht protested. He told Hitler there should have been "at least a summary trial of some sort." He began to waver in his faith that Hitler would establish "good order" and "a respectable atmosphere"! In 1936, Schacht came to regard Himmler and Goering as dangerous. His decisive change of attitude, which, he truthfully remarks, "did not come with lightning speed," was provoked by the removal of Von Blomberg, Von Fritsch, and Beck in 1938. Hitler, Schacht saw then, had brushed off all conservative influences, and aimed at war. "I certainly consider myself deceived, swindled and cheated by him to the highest degree," Schacht told the court.

Schacht was falling from favour; dismissed in January, 1938, he took part in plottings against Hitler. He continued to be minister without portfolio until 1943; after the attempted coup of July 20, 1944, he was put in a concentration camp. Unlike millions of other Nazi victims in the years when he was working with Hitler, Schacht emerged alive.

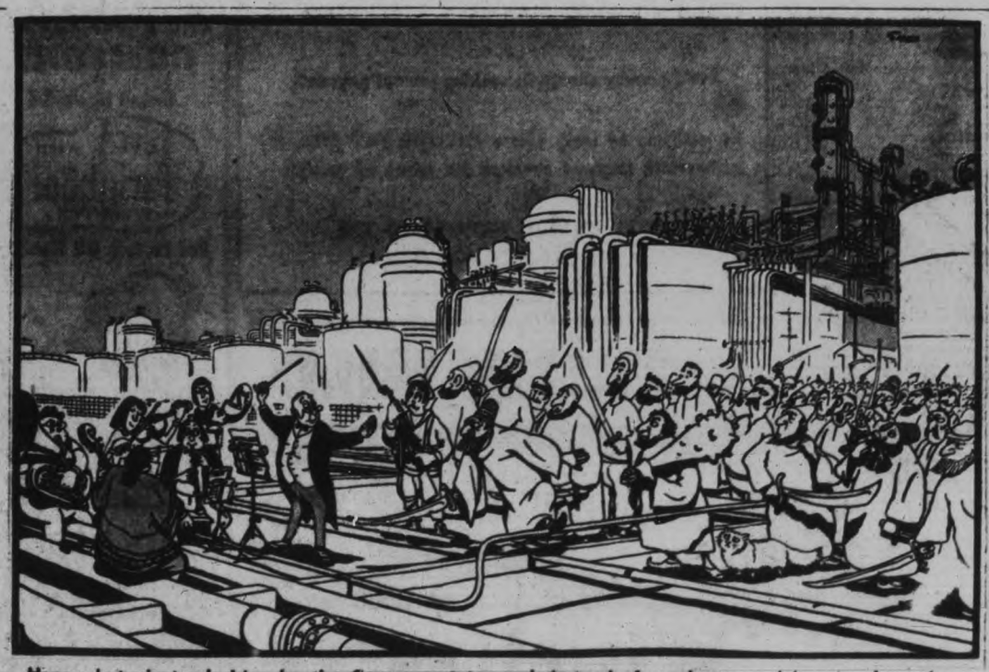
Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass, as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee. And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off: and they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.

And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that, as they went, they were cleansed. And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God, and fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks: and he was a Samaritan.



And Jesus answering said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine? There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger. And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way: thy faith hath made thee whole. (Luke 17: 11-19.)

Letter To The Editor

WHY WERE THEY THERE?

Sir: May I have a small space in your paper to ask a question of the citizens of Peterborough? Wednesday night thousands of them got in their cars about seven-thirty and came down to the main street to line both sides of it solidly from the C.P.R. station to the Armouries. The writer joined in the scramble to get a parking place and felt elated that such a fine reception was going to be given the Lacrosse team on their arrival from Vancouver where they brought honour to themselves and to Peterborough by winning the Dominion championship in Lacrosse. The boys arrived and the parade began but why did the citizens appear? So far as the writer knows, and my hearing is quite good, there was not an automobile horn blown, not a cheer, not even a handclap and an effort on my part to liven up those immediately around me was met with a cold stare. Did the citizens come down just to stand and stare, and if so, why?

AM. GENTSAR.

Happy last-minute decision by the Government to send, instead of gun-boats, a delegation from the British Council to teach those Persians how tough we British can be.

Chefs for 25 Years, 2 Men Buried In Peterborough

Peterborough was home for Hum Hing, proprietor of the former Louis Cafe on Charlotte St., who died in Kingston General Hospital Tuesday, after a short illness.

When his body was brought to the Belleghem funeral home, Hunter St. yesterday, it was placed in a mortuary room adjoining which the funeral service for George Chew took place Thursday afternoon.

Chefs in Peterborough for nearly a quarter of a century, death came to them almost within the same hour. Mr. Chew had been for years private chef at the home of Mrs. R. R. Hall, K.C., Reid St., and known to comparatively few people.

Ran Restaurant

Hum Hing had served thousands in his time at the Charlotte St. restaurant, not a few of them lacking the innate decency and the good manners of the Chinese behind the counter.

Extraordinary coincidence brought them together in the Hunter St. funeral home. The bier of George Chew was banked with flowers when the Rev. Ivan Morgan of Murray St. Baptist Curch began the service. Many of the cards on the floral tributes were written in Chinese script, remembrances from his fellow countrymen of other and happier years of youth in the Orient.

Prominent Citizens

Other wreaths were from quite a number of prominent citizens of Peterborough. All that beauty reflected the diversity of regard for the chef whose long engagement in the home of one of this city's lawyers, the late Mr. Hall, suggested worthiness of trust.

The sentiment of the Chinese of Peterborough, of the same national origin, was something to be expected, but the sympathy indicated by other citizens manifested their own kindly spirit to one who had come here as an alien. Probably none of them had ever heard of Hum Hing, in the adjoining room.

Hing's contacts had been mostly with another class, including some who presume coarse privilege in cafe properties that mistakenly admit them. He had gone to Napanee two years ago and opened a restaurant there, after business changes on Charlotte St. had forced him to vacate. Henley Hum, a partner, searched vainly for other premises, and died. Hum Hoin, short and stout member of that trio, is now operating a cafe in Hastings.

The three of them had been years together, friendly, obliging men who greatly appreciated friendliness when they received it, —Henley, Hoin and Hing of the vast Hum family.

Hing had been only briefly ill in Napanee, was taken to Kingston General Hospital and died there. In his wish to be buried in Peterborough there appeared to be a note of attachment signifying his feeling toward the community he had adopted. Years of work and service, conspicuously downtown, had left a wide regard for Hing and Henley as decent, honest citizens.

Quebec Snowmobile Popular In Lapland

MONTREAL (CP)—Snowmobiles built in the province of Quebec are putting reindeer sleds out of business in the Norwegian Lapland.

Prof. Trevor Lloyd told members of the Arctic Institute here that the Lapps are now using the Quebec machines as their chief means of conveyance. Prof Lloyd, who spent seven months on research work in Lapland said that 20-seater snowmobile buses run on a regular schedule from the interior to the coast. This has made a great change in the economy of the region, he said.

Prof. Lloyd was Canadian consul to Greenland 1944-45 and is now returning to Dartmouth University as head of the department of geography. He said that renewed efforts should be made to strengthen cultural and scientific ties with Greenland and the Scandinavian countries. Canada is well-liked by these countries who share a common geography and have similar problems, he said.

Mink Trapping Developing A New Trend

NORTH BAY, Oct. 12 (CP)—A new trend in trapping has resulted from a Northern Ontario trapper's knowledge of the varying temperaments of the male and female mink.

The result may be a longer and more productive life for the female and more profits for trappers of the valuable furbearing animal.

Because the male and female mink vary greatly in temperament, Jack Burnham, a district trapper, seems to have found a way to catch the male almost exclusively, and officials of the Ontario Lands Department hope to see to it that his method is widely adopted.

"You can tell their temperaments vary by mink's tracks. The smaller, female tracks show that she wanders aimlessly in a limited area, dragging her stomach as though she is afraid to venture far. The male is a traveller who knows where he is going. So you set the snare for him," Burnham explained.

Conservation officers were surprised two seasons ago when Burnham brought in 33 mink and only seven were females. Last year he got 19, with only one female.

This was something new. Not only was the bearer of the litter spared, but the males, who have a nasty habit of killing the young, were being thinned out.

Forestry officials listened with interest when Burnham explained his method. He said he got the males by deliberately setting his traps a long distance from the breeding places, along straight stretches of creek or river, under banks and roots of trees.

Henry Haskins, chief wildlife inspector here, said the forestry department endorsed Burnham's method and that it was being explained to other trappers in the district at meetings.

Mr. Justice Ralph Maybank on Thursday at Winnipeg reserved decision on the application by Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League for a permanent injunction restraining Armstrong from playing for another club. Defence counsel claimed Armstrong had repudiated the contract because there was a condition attached to the renewal.

Major League Ball Teams Busy Trading Players

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP). — Major league teams, especially the also rans, have launched their 1952 rebuilding programs and it appears that one of the most spirited trading sessions in years is on tap.

No "big deals" have been completed yet but a number involving name players are expected. Most teams are on record as saying they will trade anybody in order to strengthen.

The biggest deal brewing involves Ned Garver, the brilliant 20-game winner of the tail-end St. Louis Browns. Both the champion New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox are supposed to be dickering for Garver's services.

Reports persist that the Yanks made a down payment on Garver when they sold outfielder Cliff Mapes to the Browns on waivers during the season. Second baseman Gerry Coleman and three other Yanks along with a bundle of cash are supposed to complete the transaction.

The rumors say that the White Sox will send a number of players including Jim Rivera, a rookie who burned up the Pacific Coast League and cash to the Browns. Rivera played for Seattle under Rogers Hornsby, the Browns' new manager.

Stocking Up

Meanwhile the Browns have been stocking up with minor leaguers. They purchased pitchers Hal Hudson and Johnny Hetki from their Toronto International League farm club and yesterday obtained infielder Leo Thomas from Portland of the Pacific Coast League.

Thomas, a former Brown, was obtained for cash and pitcher Fred Sanford and infielder-outfielder Jack Maguire. Sanford was traded by the Browns to the Yanks in 1949 for $100,000 and three players.

The White Sox also reached into the minor leagues the other day for help. The Sox obtained pitchers Marv Grissom and Hector (Skinny) Brown from Seattle for five minor leaguers and cash.

Grissom, a 20-game winner, is a former Detroit Tiger. Brown was drafted from Seattle last year but was returned when he failed to click.

The White Sox also reportedly have the inside track in a deal that will procure third baseman Hector Rodriguez from Brooklyn's Montreal International League team. Rodriguez was the International's rookie of the year.

The Chicago Cubs, National League tail-enders, have been the most active in the senior circuit.

The Cubs obtained outfielder Bob Addis Thursday from the Boston Braves in exchange for slick fielding but light hitting shortstop Jack Cusick. Shortly after the season closed the Cubs swapped outfielder Bob Barkowski and catcher Smoky Burgess to Cincinnati for catcher John Bramesa and outfielder Bob Usher. The Braves also released veteran catcher Ray Mueller Thursday.

The heaviest trading session is expected during the major league meetings in New York in December. There also may be some action during the annual minor league player draft in Cincinnati next month.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Toronto Ryerson plays the Peterborough Orfuns under the arcs in Morrow Park tonight. It's an ORFU senior "B" grid fixture, and a four-point one, the only appearance of this Toronto pack here in the regular schedule. Frank Gnup's revamped Orfuns have to win this to keep up in the race, so they won't be fooling after the kickoff. As a win tonight is as good as two ordinary victories, the game is most important from a Peterborough standpoint. Football followers are sure to see a hard-hitting and lively struggle, and they should cash in on the chance in large numbers. After all, the grid season is a short enough one.

* * * * * *

Down there tomorrow aft, two rugby matches are on tap. First one at 1.15 is a lakeshore "B" contest betwixt Cobourg and St. Peter's High School juniors. Right after that, Whitby's senior "B" squad goes against St. Peter's seniors in an exhibition. The Saints haven't lost yet this semester and haven't been scored upon to date. Come out for these if you like wide-open high school football. PCVS junior "A" and senior "A" teams are in heavy action Saturday in the Motor City in loop tilts. Juniors meet Oshawa Central and the seniors go against the Combines, made up of two collegiates there.

Jim Coaches IOOF Juves

Manager Jim Foskett of the juvenile puck Oddfellows—who were Eastern Ontario champs last season—tells us that Jim Munroe (of the senior "B" Eagles) has been appointed coach for this winter. A fine puckist, Jim has had plenty of experience. He was playing coach of Swansea Sentinels in the senior THL before going to war, where he saw hockey action as captain of the Victoria Army team and toured Nova Scotia. After discharge, he was playing captain of the Dundee Tigers before returning to play for Swansea. Transferred on his job to Peterborough last year, he shone with the Eagles and is with them again this campaign. A first-class choice as coach of this good club. The gallant IOOF has purchased new equipment (other was lost in the fire) for the juves and juniors, and drills will commence soon.

General opinion of hockey fans with whom we've talked is that Kingston Nylons got what they deserved. Meaning the suspensions handed out by the OHA for their intent to drop a group series last spring to the Petes in semi-finals. The Petes most likely would have beaten 'em, anyway, but Nylons plotted to "throw" the series, if it became necessary. Nylons didn't want to win and have to go senior "A"—they preferred a long and profitable group final series with Belleville. The Petes knew nothing of this plan at all. We have no sympathy for athletes, pro or amateur, who don't play the game to win, at all times. Few scandals hit sports but those that do are dealt with harshly and promptly. Which is the way it should be.

Sullivan With Bruins

Boston Gardens-Arena Corp. has purchased Boston Bruins of the NHL for about $187,680. Art Ross will continue as general manager and Lynn Patrick has a year to go yet on his coaching contract. Dit Clapper is a director of the Bruins. George (Red) Sullivan, from over Ashburnham way, recently signed a contract with Bruins and saw action last night for them as they were edged 1-0 by the Wings in Detroit to open the long hockey grind. The redhead was brought up from Hershey last spring and went good in playoffs for Boston. He spent last summer here, helping Orphans win out in the men's softball circuit. Looks like George will stay up in the big time.

Lefty Bill Dadson has been chosen as most valuable player for 1951 with the senior baseball Petes. He gets the Jack Legris Trophy, the voting being done by Alex Kay, Ray Pammett and this writer. Bill was not only the best pitcher on the Petes' staff but he was well up with the leading hitters and was the fastest base-runner on the club. A fine fellow and valuable team player. Previous winners of this trophy were Joe Stewart and Al Menzies. The cup will be presented at a club windup party at Wallace's Point on Saturday evening, players and wives leaving the YMCA at eight of the clock. The Petes led the Viaduct Loop most of the season but fell in playoffs to Oshawa, the OBA champions.

BAUER'S HOUR—Yankee manager Casey Stengel shouts with joy with the hero of the last series game, Hank Bauer, in the dressing room after the Yanks downed the Giants, 4-3, to win the series. Bauer's sixth-inning triple drove in three runs to send the Yanks in front for good, and his catch in the ninth inning saved the game.

Monopoly Evils In Baseball Will Be Studied

By BARNEY LIVINSTONE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP). —Baseball's bosses and hired hands, along with assorted fans and sports writers, are going to get a chance starting Monday to speak their piece on baseball's monopoly evils—if any.

The forum is being provided by a House judiciary sub-committee resuming hearings on the US national sport and the federal anti-trust laws. Sessions have been scheduled for Oct. 15-24.

Committee counsel Ernest Goldstein said lawmakers will go into a huddle later with Department of Justice attorneys and lawyers for organized baseball to see if Congress needs to pass a law.

There are several bills pending before the House which would exempt all organized sports from the anti-trust laws. These laws say there may be no business monopolies in restraint of trade.

Can't Decide

Lawmakers agree baseball is a business. But they haven't decided whether it needs curbing or protection.

It was pretty much agreed by committee members that blanket exemption of organized sports from the Clayton and Sherman Anti-Trust Acts was too far-reaching.

Primarily, the committee is (1) the baseball player reserve clause and (2) the territorial franchise rights by which major league clubs have preserved the status quo.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, will be the first witness.

Others scheduled to be heard Monday are umpire Bill Stewart, J. C. Taylor Spink of the Sporting News, former player Cy Block, and Leslie H. O'Connor, an attorney for the Pacific Coast League, former aide to the late Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Among others who have been invited to testify are Phil Wrigley, president of the Chicago Cubs; Larry McPhail, Branch Rickey, and players Fred Hutchinson of Detroit, Phil (Scooter) Rizzuto and Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees and Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion launched his sophomore term with Montreal Canadiens right on Wednesday night by pacing Montreal to a 4-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks in the Canadian opener of the National Hockey League.

His two-goal performance netted him a place in a four-way tie in the infant scoring race with Montreal's Elmer Lach and Bert Olmstead and Chicago's Doug Bentley who each chalked up a brace of assists.

The leaders:	G	A	Pt.
Geoffrion, Montreal	2	0	2

Layton Pitted Against Zorra

It seems early in the season for wrestling fans to demand a special match but that is what happened. After seeing Zorra in action local fans asked that he be pitted against Lord Athol Layton next Tuesday at the Brock. Their request has been met and the above pair will headline next week's card.

Layton, although losing some of his popularity, has lost none of his ability and is just about the most outstanding matman in the business. He will meet a smart grappler in Zorra, the French Tarzan, who displayed plenty in his bout here this week. It will be a sizzling encounter when these two giants tangle.

A newcomer, Lou Sjoberg will test the popular Indian grappler Chief Suni War Cloud in the semi-final. Sjoberg is a powerful wrestler and will give the Chief plenty to worry about.

Bill Stack and Dan O'Connor will open this all-star card.

ONE OUT—Yogi Berra is a force-out in the first inning of the fifth series game, on Joe DiMaggio's grounder. Eddie Stanky takes Alvin Dark's toss for the out, with umpire Joe Papparella calling the play. The Yanks humbled the Giants, 13-1.

OHA Juniors Open Long Season

By The Canadian Press.

The 1951-52 edition of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series takes the stage tonight for a 21-week run.

Barrie Flyers, last season's league and Memorial Cup champions, will take the leading role tonight, playing host to Waterloo Hurricanes. St. Catharines Teepees will visit Guelph Biltmores while Windsor Spitfires open at Kitchener against the Greenshirts.

With only four holdovers from last year's champion Flyers on hand — goalie Lorne Howse, Chuck Woods, Danny O'Connor and Paul Emms—Barrie fans are wondering if coach Hap Emms' squad can repeat as league champs.

With the return of Howse, plus several promising acquisitions from juvenile and junior B ranks, Emms feels he has another strong contender.

Hurricanes boast seven players with junior A experience. Coached by Bob Kinnear, the Waterloo team has several promising candidates up from the juvenile and junior B ranks.

Red Wings Blank Bruins 1-0 As Canadiens Hammer Black Hawks 4-2

By The Canadian Press

Two of last year's top National Hockey League teams took two of last year's bottom teams for a ride Thursday night as the NHL season officially got under way. The defending champion Detroit Red Wings blanked fourth-place Boston Bruins 1-0 on a first-period goal by Glen Skov in Detroit and Montreal Canadiens, who lost the Stanley Cup last year on a seventh-game overtime goal, defeated sixth-place Chicago Black Hawks 4-2. Maurice (Rocket) Richard, last year's second-place scorer, got one goal for Canadiens. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion fired two and Jim McPherson the other.

Roy Conacher notched the first goal for the Black Hawks when his team was down three goals. Bill Mosienko scored the second a little more than a minute from the end of the game.

The pace of both games slowed slightly from time to time but all four teams showed bursts of mid-season speed in stretches. The Canadiens put on a more finished show than the Black Hawks and the Red Wings demonstrated better control than their opponents but the play of both winners tended to be scrambly.

Shot Deflected

Red Wings got their marker when Sid Abel dug the puck out of a corner and fired it to Ted Lindsay in front of the net. Lindsay's shot was deflected by Skov between goalie Jim Henry's legs.

Canadiens took a wide margin over Black Hawks in the shooting as they peppered goalie Harry Lumley 37 times. They took only 18 shots in return.

The Montrealers appeared at full strength. Hawks were short Bill Gadsby, Max McNab and Fred Hucul, all with pre-season injuries.

Five NHL games are scheduled for the weekend. Bruins will play a home-and-home series with Canadiens at Montreal Saturday and in Boston Sunday. Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs will entertain Black Hawks Saturday at Toronto and will play Red Wings Sunday at Detroit. New York Rangers will play Hawks Sunday at Chicago.

Reports last night had it that Fleming Mackell and Howie Meeker would be doubtful starters in the Leafs' games this weekend. Mackell injured several ribs during a scrimmage this week and Meeker's duties as Progressive Conservative member of parliament at Ottawa will likely keep him out of action.

Bruins' Stock Changes Hands New Agreement

BOSTON, Oct. 12 (AP). — Arrangements for the purchase of a 60-per-cent controlling interest in the Boston Bruins National Hockey League club were completed Thursday by the Boston Garden-Arena Corporation.

For all practical purposes the deal, which has been in the making for about six months, was settled when Weston W. Adams resigned the club's presidency in favor of Walter Brown, general manager of the Boston Garden-Arena Corporation.

In a joint statement, Brown and Adams explained that it called for the purchase of 16,320 of the club's total of 27,200 shares of stock held by a comparatively small group.

"We hope each of the Bruins' original stockholders will sell 60 per cent of his present holdings on or before the Oct. 25 transfer date," Brown explained.

"But if some do not see fit to do so, Mr. Adams and one other stockholder will turn over the 16,320 shares from their own holdings."

Brown added that the contracts of general manager Art Ross and coach Lynn Patrick would be assumed by his organization. Ross, who introduced professional hockey to Boston in 1924, is starting the fourth year of a five-year contract and Patrick's continues through the 1951-52 season.

Founded by the late C. F. Adams, the Bruins, after their initial season, were a profitable organization until 1950-51, when the club lost about $80,000 while suffering a 20-per-cent drop in attendance. The younger Adams was given the club by his father about 15 years ago.

The council also approved of Peterborough county issuing a debenture for $390,000 for the erection of the new district high school at Norwood.

Council accepted the assessor's roll for 1952 and set October 24 at 10 a.m. as the date of the court of revision.

Discover Missing Hunters Spent Weekend In Jail

STURGEON FALLS, Oct. 12.—Two Falconbridge hunters, missing since Monday, were located here this afternoon. Their bag? A couple of five-day jail terms.

And while the would-be nimrods listened to charges in court, provincial police instituted a search for them and their car. The car was located behind the town police station.

The missing men were listed as Harry Collins and John Gillis, both 21, and both Brantford residents. They headed here last Saturday for a weekend's hunt, but ran into the bottle before the bush. Subsequently, they became entangled in a restaurant squabble and ended up Saturday night in jail, charged with creating a disturbance while intoxicated, and aiming a few haymakers at town police in the process.

Languished in Jail

They languished in jail while their Falconbridge employers and friends wondered and worried. From Sudbury police came a query Thursday. Where were Collins and Gillis? They happened to be in magistrate's court — pleading guilty to the disturbance charge. That brought each of them fines of $13 with the option of five days in district jail at nearby North Bay. They temporarily chose jail. The magistrate allowed suspended sentences on the assault charges.

Eliminating Fire Hazards In Your Home May Save It

You don't have to be a detective to discover a fire hazard.

Most home fires are caused by a few well known hazards. Once you know what these hazards are you can increase your fire safety by taking a few simple steps.

Just open your purse or reach into your pocket, you will probably find a pack of cigarettes there. They look harmless but those cigarettes and the matches you use to light them keep the fire department busy. They cause a third of all fires.

It is not necessary to stop smoking, but keep in mind that a smouldering cigarette can destroy your home as surely as a stick of dynamite.

Here is how to prevent that:

Keep ash-trays handy in all parts of the house and use them. Never smoke in bed.

When emptying ash trays make sure every cigarette butt is out. Never toss a lighted match away, hold it for a moment after you have used it then put it in the ash tray, do not toss it into a waste-paper basket. Inspect your kitchen and living room before retiring or going out at night, see that no cigarette butts are left burning in ash trays, put them out.

The Basement

The basement is another bad place for fires to start. Inspect your furnace and pipes and have them cleaned regularly. Replace all damaged or old smoke pipes Don't leave rubbish or kindling near the furnace. Check to see if the ceiling and walls near the furnace or pipes feel hot to your hand; if so, use some insulation to keep them from charring or catching fire.

Use covered metal cans for ashes. Never use paper or wooden boxes or baskets for ashes. Don't leave paints, oils, turpentine or other such materials near furnace. Don't use a blow torch or any open flame to thaw frosted pipes. Use hot water or call a plumber. Be sure you are using the proper size fuses. 15 amp fuses are recommended for most household circuits.

The Kitchen

Stove ovens should be cleaned out regularly to avoid an accumulation of grease. If a grease fire does start while you are cooking, cover the burning pan with a large flat cover or smother it quickly with ordinary baking soda. If you use a gas stove, keep it clean.

Don't let window curtains or hanging towels blow over the flames. If you use a coal or wood stove check the clearance between stove and walls. Clearance should never be less than 9 inches, pipes should be 1½ times the diameter of the pipes away from all wood or combustible material. Never use coal oil or gasoline to start a fire in the stove. Place all ashes in covered metal container, never use wood or paper boxes or baskets.

Attic

Clean out old pieces of furniture put there with the intention of someday repairing it. Also get rid of bundles of old papers, old Christmas decorations, old clothing, mattresses, old pictures. If they are of no value put them in the garbage.

The wiring in the attic: look it over, maybe an extension cord is used to locate something with. If the cord is hanging on nails or over hooks, tie some good cord or string on the extension cord and loop the string over the nail. The outer covering of the extension cord will in due time become hard or will fray and crack, causing wires to become bare. To be safe, call in an electrician and have him install a light and a wall switch.

Precaution Tips

Never leave children alone in the home. Numerous fires have taken place all over the country and children have lost their lives by being left unattended. If parents must go out they should arrange to have a dependable baby-sitter stay with the children. And they should also give instructions on what to do in case of a fire.

Don't use candles at children's parties. If used on a birthday cake make sure there is an adult present when they are lit and when they are blown out. Don't allow children to play near or around bonfires.

If a fire does start in your home there are two very important things to do immediately:

First—Get everybody out of the house.

Second—call the fire department. Close all doors as you leave. Don't try to fight the fire yourself before calling the fire department, because little fires become big fires in a hurry.

The fire department is ready to serve you at all times, the only thing they ask of you and your neighbor is to co-operate with them by keeping the fire hazards down to a minimum.

Ontario Fire Losses Increase Every Year

In the past decade fire losses for the Province of Ontario have been steadily increasing and last year destroyed property valued at $22,619,343 says Fire Marshall W. J. Scott.

Much of this increase is due to increased cost of replacement of both building and contents, but part of it is due to the increase in the number of fires occurring and the delay in giving alarms to the fire department.

Don't gamble with fire? Follow the simple rules of fire prevention and safeguard those you hold dear. To stop financial loss when fire does attack, invest in a sound insurance policy now.

Danger Of Fire May Be Built Into Your Home

Many homes are menaced by "built-in" fire hazards. This is the warning sounded by Ontario Fire Marshall W. J. Scott during the present Fire Prevention week.

"Built-in" is the term used by the Fire Marshall to describe structural hazards in homes—defective chimneys and heating apparatus, combustible wood shingle roofs and faulty electrical wiring and equipment. Official figures show that approximately 50 percent of all residential fires result from these causes.

Official records also provide the basis for this startling statement by the Fire Marshall: Thousands of homes are destroyed or damaged by fire every year because of failure to eliminate structural hazards.

Removing Some

The Fire Marshall sees greater hope for the future, however, because many home owners who are preparing to remodel or make repairs can plan now to knock out the built-in hazards which otherwise might destroy them and their homes.

Here are some fire safety recommendations to include in remodelling plans:

1. The heating plant should be enclosed in masonry or some other fire-resistant wall; should stand on a concrete foundation; and the ceiling above the furnace should be covered with plaster, gypsum board or asbestos material. Make repairs promptly and clean yearly.

2. Masonry chimneys should rest solidly on the ground and be free-standing. That is, they should not lend support to or be supported by the house. The chimney should be built of solid masonry units or concrete at least four inches thick and lined with fireclay or fire-brick. There should be separate flues for each heating device. Clean the chimney once a year.

3. Use fire-resistant roofing such as asphalt shingles. Dried, curled, combustible wood shingles are good tinder for a spark from a chimney or other sources.

Electric Wiring

4. Overload electrical circuits are a serious hazard. Before adding a new electric range or other appliances, check the wiring to be sure it is adequate. Have plenty of outlets to eliminate long extension cords. Keep appliances clean and in good working order.

Fire Marshall Scott warns that "hollow walls form a flue through which fire races from floor to floor." To prevent this he recommends fire stops of metal, asbestos or gypsum board at the top of the foundation wall in the basement, and non-combustible insulating material blown into the walls.

Potato Shortage

LONDON, Oct. 12 (Reuters).—Communist-ruled Poland, which has been suffering from a severe meat shortage, now is threatened with a potato shortage, Warsaw radio reported today.

Can Prevent Every Fire Says Chief Smith

Every fire has a cause, so every fire can be prevented. That's the slogan suggested by Fire Chief George Smith during Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13.

During the first nine months of this year fire in the city of Peterborough has claimed four lives and caused $391,074 damage to buildings and contents.

This damage is more than 1½ times what it was in 1950 but this appalling statistic is accounted for by the disastrous Zack's block fire. Three firemen and a volunteer were killed on May 19 when caught by a falling wall and ceiling.

Property damage in that one fire has not yet been assessed correctly. The tentative estimate is $217,000 to the building and $140,485 to the contents, a total of $357,485.

Had it not been for that one fire the loss for the first nine months would have been $4,194 less than for the same period in 1950.

Comparisons

Here are comparative Peterborough figures for the last three years:

1949—74 fires, loss $42,251.
1950—78 fires, loss $56,698.
1951—(9 months) loss $391,074.

In 1949 there were 18,906 fires in Ontario bringing a toll of 140 deaths and $20,237,894. (Noronic figures not included). And in 1950 there were 19602 fires with 115 deaths and $22,619,343 property damage.

During the first nine months of the year there have been 12,532 fires in Ontario, a decrease of 227 for a total loss of $13,301,573, a decrease of $2,362,596.

Chief Coroner Smirle Lawson has personally paid tribute to the efficiency and resourcefulness of the Peterborough firemen. But as Chief Smith points out: it takes the co-operation of every householder, every factory worker, every businessman to cut down on the annual fire loss.

Legal Clinic Opens

TORONTO, Oct. 12 — (CP) — A legal aid clinic, at which some of Toronto's ablest legal minds will be on hand to give assistance to persons who need a lawyer but can't afford one, is scheduled to open here Monday. Clinics will be held every week. Their establishment is part of the province-wide Ontario legal aid plans established this year by the Law Society of Upper Canada.

No Inflation For Lions Yet In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12 (AP)—Here's one ray of hope in the fight against inflation: you can still hire a Hollywood lion for $100 a day, the same price as in 1927.

This encouraging news comes from Melvin Koontz, the man who supplies lions, tigers, panthers, leopards and mountain lions for the studios. He was relaxing on the set of "The Lion and the Horse," for which he provided Pasha, a 'trained" lion, and Jackie, a "tame" lion.

You Test Them

What's the difference?

"A trained lion is one which will follow certain directions, but cannot be worked close at hand; it has to be handled with a whip and chair. A tame lion can be petted and it will work at close range with the actors."

He admitted that there is some debate whether a lion is every really tamed, but he added he he hasn't lost an actor yet.

In 20 years of working with cats Koontz has been injured only once—a slashed hand which he extended too far into a cage.

"To get a tame lion, you have to start at least at the age of three weeks," he said. "If you wait any longer than that, the lion's fangs start to develop and it learns how to use them."

Steady Work

Koontz and his cats are working almost steadily. As soon as he finishes his current film, he moves over to "Androcles and the Lion." And there are two other films waiting for him. In addition to top films, he can almost take his pick of jungle pictures and television subjects.

Koontz said most of his casting calls are for lions. He has worked on only two pictures in which tigers were the principal animals. "I can't figure it out," he said, "unless maybe the lion, with his big head, is more glamorous."

Acquitted of Rape

BRAMPTON, Oct. 12—(CP)—A Supreme Court jury Thursday acquitted John Rowan, 21, of nearby Malton, on a charge of rape. The complainant was a 20-year-old Malton girl. Rowan, at present serving a term at Guelph reformatory for jail breaking and theft, was brought to court from the reformatory.

OTTAWA OFFICIALS join Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent in welcoming Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to the capital city. But it was nothing to the spontaneous and friendly welcome the people of the city gave them.

ALBANY, NY, Oct. 12 (AP). — Dr. James M. Hersey, of Regina, today was appointed medical defence hospital consultant in the New York State Health Department.

Dr. Hersey, 51, will assist hospitals in developing emergency plans for use in case of an atomic attack, Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, State Health Commissioner, said.

The salary for the new post is $9,160 a year.

Dr. Hersey has been assistant deputy and director of regional services for the Saskatchewan department of health.

White-Faced Princess Exhausted By Reception

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 — (CP) — A white-faced, obviously tired Princess, who had asked for a simple, informal Royal tour, stood for more than an hour Thursday night to shake hands with a thousand-and-one strangers from Ottawa's officialdom.

It was the government's official reception for Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. Members of the commons and the senate, cabinet ministers, and diplomats and other officials eagerly responded to the invitation to meet the Royal couple.

For them, once they met the Princess and the Duke, it was a gala occasion. They were shepherded into the spacious ballroom of the uptown Chateau Laurier—the official meeting was in an ante-room—where refreshments and food were served aplenty. For the Royal couple, it meant standing for approximately an hour and 20 minutes to shake hands with a lot of people they didn't know. They didn't even get a drink.

When the reception was over, they headed to Government House for a buffet supper at 8 pm.

The government reception was a 5 pm-to-7 pm affair. The Princess and the Duke arrived about 5:20 pm.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mrs. St. Laurent, the official hosts, stood with them in the receiving line.

Looked Weary

This correspondent, perhaps the 800th in line, found that the Princess looked pale and tired. After meeting some 799 others, she shook hands mechanically and murmured something which sounded like "how do you do."

Other guests, some of whom had seen her Wednesday at a Government House reception, agreed. Still others—among those early in the queue—felt she looked more vivacious.

The Princess wore a brown satin cocktail dress with a large velvet applique of flowers and a large bow effect in front of the skirt. She wore brown accessories.

Drivers Refuse Help Nude Hitch-Hiker

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Oct. 12—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Steffen, 29-year-old blonde, had a couple of complaints for police Thursday. One was that she stood at an intersection for quite a while trying to flag a ride, but nobody would stop. Not even to look at her.

Police said that was surprising, in a way, since Mrs. Steffen was nude.

Her most important complaint was that a "very handsome man" whom she met in a restaurant complimented her on her "interesting conversation," then drove her to a river bed and ripped off all her clothes.

She lost consciousness, she said, and was alone and unclothed when she came to. Heading for a near-by street, she tried to get some one to assist her, but the cars kept breezing by.

Finally, a fellow and his girl friend stopped. The girl friend gave her a coat to wear, and they drove her to a police station.

Held In Robbery

NEWMARKET, Oct. 12 (CP)—Francis Samuel, 38, of Pickering, Thursday was charged with the armed robbery of the Dominion Bank in suburban North York township Sept. 3. He was remanded without bail to Oct. 19. Three men wearing painters' caps held up the staff of the bank and escaped with $8,029.

Veterinary Dies

OTTAWA, Oct. 12—(CP)—Dr. Harold N. Howell, 61, a veterinary doctor in Ottawa for 25 years, died in hospital Thursday. A native of Vernon, Ont., he graduated from Toronto's Veterinary College, setting up an office here in 1926, after practising in Toronto and Eastern Ontario centres.

Plastic Bomb Blast

PARIS, Oct. 12—(Reuters)—A plastic bomb exploded today in the French-Soviet library here, the Agence France-Presse reported. French counter-espionage agents and police have been hunting persons responsible for seven bombings in Paris in two months. All the blasts have been caused by plastic bombs weighing about two pounds, of the kind used by the French resistance for sabotage during the German occupation.

New Association

TORONTO, Oct. 12 (CP) — A new education association known as the Ontario Association for Curriculum Development may grow out of a gathering this week of 225 educationists and parents meeting to study Ontario's education methods. The four-day conference, which opened Thursday, has drawn teachers from both elementary and secondary schools, parents, administrators, inspectors, trusteees and university professors.

Must Make Change

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—A committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association says an increase in Western Union press messages rates will force newspapers to seek other methods of transmission or cut the volume of their news handled this way. The Federal Communications Commission has authorized an increase in both press and non-press Western Union message rates, effective Sept. 1.

Tried By Reds

MONTREAL, Oct. 12—(CP)—Msgr. Gustave Prevost, 38-year-old priest from nearby St. Eustache, is awaiting trial by the Communists in Shanghai, relatives said Thursday. Officials of the Foreign Missions Society of Quebec, with whom Msgr. Prevost is associated, said they did not know what the charges consisted of but they believed he was the only Canadian in the region.

Princess Charming Hairdresser Says

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Harvey Delorme got closer to Princess Elizabeth Thursday than perhaps any other Canadian.

And he saw her let her hair down, then helped her to put it up again.

The 34-year-old beauty parlor operator was summoned to Government House Thursday morning to do the Royal tresses for Thursday's events on the Royal visit here.

When the 90-minute hair-dressing session was over, the breath-taken Mr. Delorme told reporters:

"She was very, very nice. She was very friendly. She was charming."

He said the Princess asked him scores of questions about the capital, talked about her children — Princess Anne and Prince Charles—and said her father is improving rapidly.

"The Princess talked about Ottawa. 'How nice and clean and pretty your city is,' she said.

"Then she said: 'And Hull, it is a most interesting industrial city.' "

Likes Autumn Colors

The Princess confessed a fascination for the changing colors of the russet-hued autumn leaves.

"Such wonderful colors," she exclaimed. "I am amazed at them."

Mr. Delorme said the conversation inevitably turned to the Princess' family and she spoke fondly of Prince Charles, who will be four in November, and Princess Anne, one year old.

"I miss them," the Princess told the hairdresser.

He inquired about the King's health and she replied: "The King is really getting along fine and is much better."

She added that the additional week she remained in Britain before leaving for the Canadian tour had been a much more satisfactory arrangement all around.

Of the Princess herself, Mr. Delorme said her skin is "beautiful."

"I had a good chance to see it, of course, and it is flawless. Her skin is so beautiful as to seem transparent." As to her hair, "it is very good. It is extremely light brown, but it is not blond. It has a very nice texture. She also has a natural wave of her own.

"She had a permanent before she left, but this was just at the end of her hair."

And the Royal figure, Mr. Delorme said, is "very dainty."

Save To Beat Inflation Y's Men Told

"Every dollar saved is a step towards licking our dollar depreciation."

This statement was made Thursday night by Wilson Gemmell, guest speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Y's Men's club at the YMCA. The speaker's topic was, Business Trends of Today.

Mr. Gemmell enumerated three ways that present inflationary trends could be curbed: 1, increased production at present costs; 2, the completion of the government's armament program followed by the settling into peacetime production: 3, all out public purchase of Canada Savings bonds.

The speaker explained that today's inflation had developed as a result of the Second World War. The government had been forced to do extensive borrowing and people were forced to save money because at that time desired commodities were not available.

With the return of these commodities to market after the war there was a great deal of spending and little saving which gave an immediate impetus to inflation.

The government passed the new credit laws to try and curb this inflation. These laws pinched a little, but Canadians can adjust to the situation.

"Inflation must be beten and a great part of the responsibility rests with the individual," Mr. Gemmell concluded. "The individual can best help by buying bonds. These bonds are our best security because they stand for tremendous wealth in the natural resources of our country."

The speaker was introduced by Stan Johnston and thanked by Grant Gillespie.

Miss Judy Welsh and Miss Margaret LaFeve entertained with several tap and toe dance numbers.

Billy Rose Gets Lockout

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 — (AP)— Showman Bily Rose got the lockout treatment Thursday from his shapely wife, Eleanor Holm, in a little drama at his plush 33 Beekman Place Mansion.

As stories continued to fly that the two have separated and are headed for the divorce court, the 50-year-old producer appeared at the mansion in a chauffeur-driven Cadillac.

Keys jingling, he tried the door. No luck. "Wrong key," he explaind to reporters.

Fifty minutes later he returned. The key went in— but the door wouldn't open. Rose rang the bell furriously. A window opened upstairs. A maid stared at Rose. He looked at her. The window closed. He rang again. No answer. Rose departed. He wasn't without a place to sleep— he has an apartment in his Ziegfield Theatre.

A butler, Murray Mackay, told reporters Eleanor was away during the incident.

13 Suckling Pigs Believed Poisoned

Poisonous weeds eaten by a sow are believed to have caused the deaths of 13 suckling pigs belonging to a farmer in the Pontypool district.

Although the cause has not been definitely established, Ivan Kellett, owner of the small pigs, says he believed some deadly weed eaten by the mother was responsible. She is very ill, but is expected to recover.

When a few of the pigs which were born last Thursday died, Mr. Kellett called a veterinary but soon all the pigs were dead.

Parties Prepare Election Drive

TORONTO, Oct. 12 (CP)—Most of the approximately 275 candidates for the Nov. 22 Ontario general election are expected to be chosen by the end of next week when campaigning will be on in earnest.

Premier Frost is scheduled to speak on Oct. 17 in Stratford in the Perth riding held in the last Legislature by J. Fred Edwards, Progressive Conservative. He speaks Oct. 18 at Ilderton in the Middlesex North riding held in the last House by Progressive Conservative Thomas L. Patrick.

Liberal leader Walter Thomson will probably start his campaign at the Durham nominating convention in Orono Oct. 15. That seat was held in the last House by Reform Institutions Minister Foote.

Mr. Thomson will speak at the Bruce convention in Southampton Oct. 16 and at the Grey South meeting that night. Farquhar Oliver, former Liberal leader, has represented Grey South for 25 years.

CCF sources said CCF leader E. B. Joliffe's campaign program likely will be made known early next week.

Salary Increases Promised At McGill

MONTREAL, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Moderate salary increases will be given McGill University personnel in December in cases where such action is appropriate in the light of existing circumstances, Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor, announced Thursday night.

He said the wages must bear a reasonable relationship to those earned by industry or government employees.

Present salaries were not disclosed.

University Tradition Nearly Crumbles

TORONTO, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Tradition came close to crumbling Wednesday night at the University of Toronto's Hart House. A woman reporter was the cause.

Blonde Denise Richard of The Varsity, university paper, was assigned to cover a debate at this university men's club.

A woman has never been admitted to a Hart House debate since they began 27 years and 100 debates ago.

Speaker J. H. G. Morden said Miss Richards was a member of the press. Therefore her sex didn't matter. Because of that, if she were to stay, he didn't have to declare her sex masculine or neuter (but not feminine)—as one member suggested.

Reporter Richards stayed, blushing.

Ontario Cattle Prices Hold Steady During Week

TORONTO, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Cattle prices were steady to strong this week at the Ontario Stockyards on the few good to choice cattle offers, but were weak on others. Calves, sheep, and lambs were unchanged while hogs sold at last week's closing low level.

The cattle run of 6,000 head was added to 1,800 carried from last week. Included in the fresh supply were 1,600 Westerns, mostly stockers. A heavy holdover of plain cattle was anticipated this week.

Good to choice cattle sold readily. Top for weighty steers was $37 for four head. Others sold from $36.25 downward to $30. Common to medium light steers and heifers were $25-$32.50. Good heifers sold in small lots at $33-$33.50. Medium to good cows were $26-$28.50. Canners and cutters sold from $14-$22, bulk $18 up. Good heavy bulls were $28-$29, with one at $30. Common light bulls sold from $23-$26. Good to choice fed yearlings were $35-$37, mediums downward to $31.

Stock calves were in demand at $36-$39.25, with one full load at $40.75. Ordinary stockers weighing 600-800 pounds sold at $32-$35 for medium to good quality with common downward to $25.

Calves totalled 2,200 head. Prices were steady at $37-$38 for choice vealers. Common to medium vealers sold for $30-$36 cwt. Grassers for slaughter were $18-$23.

Hogs totalled 2,300 head. The market settled at $29.50 for Grade A, with sows at $24 dressed.

Believe King Farouk Key To Solving Suez Crisis

By FRED ZUSY

CAIRO, Oct. 12—(AP)—The biggest factor in the Anglo-Egyptian quarrel over evacuation of British troops from the Suez Canal zone may prove to be 31-year-old King Farouk.

The difference between's Britain's dispute with Egypt and her oil fight with Iran is the Farouk still holds actual power in Egypt.

The Shah no longer does in Iran. Power was transformed on a tidal wave of a fanatic nationalism to the frail shoulders of Prime Minister Mossadegh after an assassin's bullet killed the Prime Minister, General Ali Razmara, last March. Since then the Shah has ruled in name only.

Things are different in Egypt. Because they are, it may mean a possible compromise solution to the impasse over Egypt's insistent demands that British troops clear out of the Suez Canal zone.

Uses Strong Hand

Farouk rules with a strong hand. Informants say the Egyptian Prime Minister, Nahas El Pasha, and other Egyptian political leaders have learned the King's word is law.

Farouk, as a King, is reported to have no desire to break with the West.

He has not taken a public stand on the Suez question, possibly because he does not want to antagonize his subjects.

But this does not mean that the King doesn't want to end the occupation.

Britain left a bad taste in his mouth during the war when Sir Miles Lampson—later Lord Killearn—clanked up to Abdin Palace in downtown Cairo surrounded by tanks.

Sir Miles ordered Farouk to install a pro-allied government. This happened when General Rommel was beating on the doors of Alexandria and Britain suspected some Egyptian leaders of pro-axis leanings.

The King, only 22 then, has never forgotten this.

Faces Facts

But persons in a position to know say that he recognizes the facts of life which many Egyptian politicians choose to ignore: that the world is divided into two camps and Egypt sooner or later must choose sides.

The pashas in the government now shouting for British evacuation abhor Communism. They refuse to recognize, however, that a split with the West would leave Egypt open to Communism.

Those who know Farouk guess he favors Egypt's joining a middle-East defence command which would make Egypt part of an international partnership on the side of the West.

Guilty of Murder

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 12—(CP)—Ivan Karvonen, 68-year-old truck driver and farm laborer, Thursday was found guilty of murder in the fatal shooting Aug. 16 of John Pursiaien, 36. Mr. Justice W. R. Treleaven sentenced Karvonen to be hanged Dec. 4.

Gets 5-Year Sentence

TORONTO, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Mrs. Henriette Hirtzy, 56, Thursday was sentenced to five years in prison after a jury found her guilty of procuring an illegal operation for an Oshawa woman. Alex Jacobs, found guilty of the same offence, was sentenced to one year.

Board Of Education Asks $250,000 Debenture For Ashburnham School

Will Have 8 Classrooms, Kindergarten On McFarlane Ave. To Take Overflow From King George

City Council will be asked to issue $250,000 in debentures to cover the cost of building and equipping the nine-room public school planned for Ashburnham. This was decided Thursday night at the October meeting of the Board of Education. Already the accommodation committee has had to revise its plans and increase the size of the school that will be built on McFarlane Ave. Next September there will be 150 more pupils in Ashburnham than King George school can accommodate. And there will be a 250-pupil overflow in two years.

"There will be eight classrooms and a kindergarten," said G. Wilson Craw, chairman of accommodation. "We feel that is the minimum number of rooms for us to build considering the crowded situation at King George. Even then it will not be too long before the rooms are filled."

"We are asking for sufficient money to complete the job this time," stated Mr. Craw.

Cost Estimates

The committee arrived at its estimate by assuming that each room would cost about $22,000 plus 15 per cent. That is the cost of Prince of Wales rooms 18 months ago; and the 15 per cent was added to take care of increased costs of labor and materials.

The site is an expensive one to develop because of a hill there. To cover the cost of levelling and grading—development generally—the board has included an item of $25,000 in its estimates.

Trustees feel that the debenture issue of $250,000 should be sufficient to complete the job. This time they don't intend to return to the city council and ask for more money.

School Board Employees Ask For Raise

A request for a meeting with the committee on appointments of the board of education was received from the secondary school teachers Thursday night and requests for salary increases were received from the public school men teachers, the public school women teachers and the caretakers and maintenance staffs.

The board took for granted that the requested meeting of the PCVS teachers was on the salary subject and set Tuesday night next as the time when the various groups will be heard.

Commencing with January 1 last the board then initiated a new salary schedule and at the same time granted $400 increment instead of the usual $200. It is believed that many of the teachers with their increment due next January will be at the new maximum.

Mother Snatches Sons From Bear In Front Of Home

With a big black bear looking on less than 25 feet away, a frightened Apsley mother picked up her two small sons who were playing in the yard of their home early Thursday evening and rushed them into the house.

About 6.30, Mrs. Dennis Monahan went out to get three-year old Don and Pat aged four who were playing about 100 feet from the Monahan house.

When she rounded the corner of the house, she saw a big bear watching the children.

"He looked just like one of those gorillas in the movies," Mrs. Monahan told the Examiner today.

"He saw me, he grunted twice, stood on his hind legs and walked away. I don't know how I got to the children but I did."

After her experience Thursday evening, Mrs. Monahan is convinced she never wants "to come near a bear again unless he's dead."

War Memoirs Of Churchill Start In Weekend

The fifth volume of Winston Churchill's dramatic history of the Second World War, Closing the Ring, will be carried in the next five editions of the WEEK-END that comes with your Saturday's Examiner.

Here in the words of the wartime leader, one of the chief planners of allied strategy, will be told in the first instalment the story of the winning of the battle against the German U-boats, the invasion of Sicily, Mussolini's fall, and the conference at Quebec city where the invasion of the French coast was planned.

Pictures taken as the history happened will bring your memories of the battles surging back to your mind. Looters sack the Sicilian port of Catania after it fell in August, 1943. Mussolini talks excitedly to Hitler as he sees the end of his infamous career looming in front of him.

Dam buster, Wing Commander Guy Gibson who led the attack on the Ruhr dams that flooded the key German valley still looks boyishly incapable of his dangerous feat.

How are the two Royal children of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh being brought up? Charming WEEK-END color photos of young Prince Charles and Princess Anne show how every effort is being made to give the Royal youngsters as natural and happy childhood as possible.

Canada has started a $200,000,000 shipbuilding program. In Halifax at one yard Canadian-designed sub-chasers are being built. How they are designed and constructed is shown in an interesting picture story of the work.

Mexican Fiesta

Have you ever seen a Conchero Fiesta? Do you know what it is? In Mexico, natives dance for two days in a celebration of the triumph of Christianity over paganism. Striking photos record the ceremonies through the two days.

One of the big questions in the enterainment world is whether Barbara Ann Scott will replace Sonja Henie as queen of the blades. Andy O'Brien, WEEK-END's sports editor thinks she will. The reason:

Sonja Henie is 37 and Barbara Ann is 23.

A judge who has to deal with youthful criminals every day in family court in Toronto tells in a story by Jacqueline Moore some of his experiences and says there is no simple formula answer to juvenile delinquency.

"We are trying to cure social ills," said Judge Hawley S. Mott as he related the many stories of broken homes, poverty and criminal parents who form the background of youngsters in trouble.

Four-year-old Bobby Barre of Montreal can hit a tennis ball with as much power as many adults. A series of pictures show how the youngster enthusiastically wallops the ball about the court.

City Staff Starts To Shift Equipment To New City Hall

These are moving days for the city hall staffs and members of the council. Council chamber in the new city hall will not be used until the formal opening. The session Monday, Oct. 15 will be held in the large committee room on the second floor, according to the announcement City Clerk Outram has mailed to the members.

The municipal business will be transferred from the old corner at Simcoe and Water Streets on Monday at 8:30 a.m.

The public is requested to use the Murray St. entrance for the present until the lobby floor map in tile is completed.

People who have ever had to move their household goods can appreciate the upset condition, hardly turmoil, in the domestic order of the old offices. This week there has been a sifting of accumulated stuff now of no further use, and fit only for the furnace or the dump.

Some of the city's trucks have been carting the smaller items of furniture up to the new place, but the desks, tables, counters and the heavier articles are being moved by one of the vanning concerns.

All Tagged

Every item has been tagged for its exact destination, City Engineer's 'impedimenta' will arrive in his office; the city clerk's furnishings and fixtures are marked for his office, and so on. The transport job has been carefully planned.

Former members of the council may be interested to know that the group pictures, which used to be the result of almost annual sittings at the Roy Studio, will be switched from one vault to the other. Those pictures go away back to the days of W. H. Taylor, Malcolm McIntyre, Fred Tuggey, Herb McCannan, Senator Duffus, George A. Macdonald and so on. They are still confined to the limbo of the vault, and they'll be lucky if eventually, in some later dispensation, they don't land in the big fire as having no further value or interest.

Last Meeting

The last meeting of any group of the council was last night, a session of a special committee to consider housing.

There is to be no sign or ceremony of departure except the mover's vans, backed up against the curb line on Simcoe St.

By Monday, the Utilities Commission staff will have the old premises entirely to themselves.

DONALD WHATLEY, RCAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gar. Whatley, 231 Westcott St., is one of the men chosen from the RCAF station in Aylmer to form part of the guard of honor to be inspected by Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh when they visit the air station at Trenton today.

Six City Policemen Help Out At Trenton

Six Peterborough policemen will be on duty in Trenton this afternoon to assist in handling the crowds during the Royal visit.

Deputy Chief John Naples said that the men were sent at the request of the Trenton Police Department.

Sergeant Percy Sexsmith headed the delegation of four constables and motorcyle policeman Acting Sergeant Harold Mesley.

The four constables are: Dennis Traynor, William Scott, Sherman Keliele and Andre Dalton.

They left for Trenton at 9 o'clock this morning.

Obituary

HARRY EDGAR HEDGE

An employee of the Quaker Oats Company for 20 years until he retired ten years ago, Harry Edgar Hedge, 693 Water St., died in hospital Thursday morning after a lengthy illness. He is 78.

Born in Bantey Bay, Ireland, Mr. Hedge came to Peterborough from Chatham, Kent, England and has lived here for the past 45 years.

He was the son of the late William Hedge and the late Eliza French and is survived by his wife, the former Elizabeth Griffiths and one granddaughter, Grace Lang of Peterborough. A daughter, Norah, died in 1930.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Hedge joined the 93rd battalion and later transferred to the 21st battalion.

He was a member of the Salvation Army.

The funeral will be held from the Kaye Funeral Home Monday October 15 at 2 p.m.

Senior Captain D. Sharpe of the Salvation Army will officiate.

Interment will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Children's Aid Society Economically Run

The Peterborough Children's Aid Society is one of the most economically run in the province, a table compiled by the Ontario Municipal Association indicates. Comparative figures were for 24 Ontario cities.

Average cost of maintaining a child is $1.12 a day in Peterborough. In only five other municipalities is the daily rate lower.

Some comparative figures: Fort William, $1.12; Kingston, $1.19; Oshawa, $1.10 (an application has been made to have the rate boosted to $1.35); Galt and Kitchener, $1.31.

The rising cost of living in looking after Peterborough wards is indicated in the daily rates: 1948, 96 cents; 1949, $1.03; and 1951, $1.12.

Miss Rachel Young is the superintendent.

Suggest Kenner As Name For New School

The Board of Education may honor the late Dr. H. R. H. Kenner by naming the new collegiate after him. This suggestion was made Thursday night at the October meeting of the Board.

Dr. Kenner was a teacher on the staff of the collegiate for 50 years and for the last 35 years was the principal and administrator. In doing so he achieved a provincial record.

"It is a suggestion; think it over," said G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the accommodation committee which was given the responsibility of choosing a suitable name.

The collegiate could be named Kenner Memorial Collegiate or possibly Kenner Collegiate.

On Staff 50 Years

"Dr. Kenner was on the staff for 50 years as a teacher and 35 years as principal," said Mr. Craw. "He made a mark and he is remembered by many men and women who attended the school. We think it would be a fitting way to remind the citizens of Peterborough of the very excellent work that Dr. Kenner did."

"The committee should be commended for the suggestion," commented Mrs. Paige Rowell.

Born In England

Dr. Kenner was born in Cornwall, England, and came to Ontario while still a child. He received his primary education in Hamilton and London; his secondary education at Oakwood and Port Perry; and his university education at the University of Toronto.

He obtained a high school assistant certificate and taught in Listowel, Fergus, Caledonia, and Orillia. In 1893 he was graduated from the University of Toronto with first class honors in classics.

At the beginning of the school year in 1893 he joined the staff of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute as head of the classical department. In 1908 he became principal and he remained at the head of the Collegiate until he retired in 1943. He died in 1945

He taught Greek and Latin and Roman history, and English history. He was also interested in Peterborough sports, particularly in the city's "golden era" around the beginning of the century.

Parish Honors Rev. F. K. Malane

A presentation was made Thursday night to the Rev. F. K. Malane who is leaving the staff of St. Peter's Cathedral to be parish priest at Bowmanville and Newcastle.

The presentation ceremony was in St. Anne's School, and was attended by the staff of St. Peter's Cathedral, several sisters of St. Joseph and representatives of the laity. P. F. Burke was chairman for a program of singing and piano music.

An address to Father Malane was read by John Hallihan and a purse of money presented by John O'Neill.

Msgr. P. P. Butler spoke, expressing gratitude for the work of Father Malane at the cathedral.

In the afternoon, the children of St. Anne's school made a presentation, represented by Douglas Frost. An address was read by Nelson Hickey, and a brief address was made by the priests of the cathedral.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Be Allowed Parade

Jehovah's Witnesses were given permission by the police commission to hold a parade Friday between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m., Oct. 26.

The sect had asked for permission to hald a parade Saturday. The request was made to the city council who turned it over to the police commission after some council members expressed the opinion that a parade Saturday afternoon would interfere too much with heavy traffic.

The parade will be in connection with a three-day Jehovah's Witness Convention being held here that week-end.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Four Teams of Juniors Going to O.A.C. Oct. 19 . . . Annual Meeting of Junior Farmers Tuesday, Oct. 16 . . . Harold Lewis Complimented by Federation Directors . . . Federation Zone Meeting at Brighton Oct. 19.

Peterborough will be represented by four teams in the inter-club competitions at Ontario Agricultural College Friday October 19. Winners qualify for the Canadian finals at the Royal Winter Fair next month.

The local teams are composed of seven boys and one girl who were high in the local club Achievement Day program and tests, concluding this season's work for boys and girls of the county.

Walter Clark of Norwood and Dorothy Chambers of Otonabee of the East Peterborough Dairy Calf Club will be a dairy cattle judging team.

The west side club could muster only one member old enough to qualify for the OAC events. He is Jack Sargent, who is just 16. None of the others was advanced in 'teen-years to be admitted to the provincial finals.

Neil Whitfield of Fraserville and Archie Davidson of Keene will be the wheat judging pair. Incidentally, Neil's brother, Garnet Whitfield, was on the winning grain judging team from Durham County seven years ago. That team carried off the Dominion grain judging title.

Archie Davidson was high boy in the junior division of Peterborough Exhibition, was second from the top in the East Peterborough Dairy Calf Club, and was also on the grain judging team that competed at the Quinte Seed Fair last March.

Two Otonabee boys will be the local beef cattle judging team. They are David Stewart, son of Reeve Dick Stewart, and Arthur Dawson, son of Harold Dawson.

Chosen for the tractor maintenance team are Henry Guyatt and Allan Bell, both of Smith. Both Frank C. Paterson and his assistant, Robert Bell, will accompany the young folks to Guelph.

Coaching Program

In the meantime there is further coaching lined up for them. Saturday, October 13, the dairy team will look over and place nine classes of dairy cattle. Their program follows:

9:00 to 10:30 — Two classes of Holsteins and one of Guernseys at N. W. McConkey's farm.

10:30 to 12:00—Two classes of Holsteins at Stan Wood's place.

1:00 p.m. to 2:15—Walter Clark and Dorothy Chambers will resume their training with two classes of Ayrshires from the Earl Rosborough herd in Smith; and they wind up with two classes of Jerseys at the Bamforth-Kelly farm in North Monaghan.

In a neighborly spirit, Mr. Bell has invited teams from Victoria, Durham, Northumberland, Prince Edward and Lennox-Addington to take part in the day's preliminary work.

The grain team, Davidson and Whittington, had a session with Mr. Bell Wednesday evening at the agricultural office. It is expected that Stuart Bowman will take them in hand early next week. There is also coaching in store for the beef cattle club.

Farm Editors Observe Soil Recovery

Field studies in strip farming and its contour plowing as a means of preventing soil erosion were submitted to 35 editors and publishers of farm papers, and also officials of the Grand River Valley Authority in a rural tour near Guelph, Sept. 28.

The three farms which were visited had been at one time in decline from soil and nutrient loss through moderate erosion, and had been brought back to a more fertile and productive state by sound conservation practices.

At the farm of H. A. Smallfield the visitors found what can be done to cut down soil runoff through a program of strip cropping. Pointing out that it requires up to three years to switch over from the "square" type of farming to "strip" farming, Mr. Smallfield showed the group three and five-year rotations, the three-year contour consisting of wheat, spring grain, and clover in soft strips. With the strips of crops planted on the slopes of fields at right angles to the flow of water down the slope, erosion had been halted to the point where it was practically nil, whereas nine years ago there were many 6" gullies on the same slopes. Among the mechanical advantages of such a form of cropping, according to Mr. Smallfield, were the fewer turns required in gathering the crop (with an important saving of 10 per cent on fuel, besides less wear on machinery), and less loss of crop in combining owing to the area on each side of a strip being clear after the neighboring crop had been removed.

The next farm visited, that of Warren Parkinson, about five miles north of the city, had the problem of steep slopes to contend with, a slope of 22 per cent being evident in some cases. Some indication of what soil loss had been in the past was revealed when a post-hole dug at the bottom of the slope showed 34 inches of dark top soil having been washed down to that level from the slope over a period of years. Subsequent measurements taken on ascending the slope revealed a quickly declining amount of top soil, until the top of the slope showed only four or five inches.

Starting a program of contour strip plowing and seeding about two years ago, Mr. Parkinson has succeeded in halting to a measurable extent the flow of water off the slopes. Mr. Parkinson uses a five-year rotation consisting of wheat, spring grain and hay, in strips 60 feet wide (the steeper the slope, the narrower the strip). On the very steep section of the slope he has planted a permanent hay pasture.

Arrival at the farm of Ted Coles found students of the Department of Agricultural Engineering of the OAC laying out a four-year strip crop rotation project. The farm was purchased by Mr. Coles about seven years ago in a greatly run-down condition.

The last farm called on was the Soils and Agricultural Engineering Farm, located on No. 7 highway east of the College grounds. Here the visitors found projects underway covering 20 acres containing 363 plots on which are growing various types of grains tested for nutrient response to different applications of potash, borax and lime.

Watson Porter of Farmer's Advocate said much study on the subject of conservation had been carried out by such bodies as the Grand Valley Authority and the Select Committee on Conservation, and many fine recommendations had been made as a result of such study.

"So far," said Mr. Porter, "how much action has been taken? Very little. Everyone seems to want to wait for something. We want to wait for a provincial election, and when the provincial election is over we think we might wait for a federal election. In the meantime, tons of productive soil are being carried away, and problems such as river pollution, water shortages, and increased demands for food are becoming more acute every day. The time for action is not at the next election but now."

GRANT FROM FEDERATION

Peterborough Federation recently granted $100 to the Holstein breeders for the Black and White championships here next Wednesday. Officers were congratulated on their enterprise in setting up and attending a Federation booth at Peterborough Exhibition. Most of the directors were present at this meeting, but the only woman present was Mrs. Lorne Reynolds.

DAIRY BARN VENTILATION

Outlet flues in the dairy barn must be warm, or the air will not rise in them and moisture will not be removed. These ventilation ducts require insulation for satisfactory operation, says Wm. Kalbfleisch of Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Size of the flue is determined on the basis of 32 sq. in. cross-section for each 1,000 lbs. of livestock in the building. Accordingly, 21,000 lbs. of livestock, or about 21 cows, require a vent measuring 32 x 21, or 672 sq. inches.

An out-take vent consists of five parts: (1) four corner posts; (2) a covering of lumber placed on the posts to form a rectangluar box; (3) a layer of vapour-proof paper to keep moisture out of the insulation: (4) an insulation cover to keep the flue warm; and (5), a cape or hood for the top of the flue.

Tar paper is not satisfactory as a vapour-proof material. For this purpose use rolled, tarred roofing material or a genuine vapour-proof paper. Insulation should consist of at least two layers of insulation board one-half inch thick or an equivalent amount of insulation material.

Always place a vent in a warm part of the barn. Warm air will rise in a shaft but cold air will not. Use only one out-take vent in a barn.

For additional information on barn ventilation write Information Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for Bulletin 589, "Principles of Barn Ventilation."

A. H. RUNIONS DEAD

Allan Hubert Runions who died recently in Brockville was the father of the late Prof. Arthur D. Runions of O.A.C., and at one time agricultural representative in Peterborough county. He was 73.

Mr. Runions was born on the family homestead north of Cardinal in 1878. He devoted his entire life to the breeding and training of horses, and was well known in agricultural and harness racing circles in Eastern Ontario and New York State. Mr. Runions spent considerable time and effort in reviving the sport at Cardinal, and acted as manager of the local track during the past season, as reported in the Ottawa Journal.

He leaves one grandson, James Allan Runions who is a student at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and one brother, Edwin A. Runions of Ottawa. His son, Prof. A. D. Runions died in Guelph July 26 last year. Burial took place in the family plot in Mainsville cemetery.

RAY HERGOTT FIELDMAN

Ray Hergott of Waterloo has been appointed to the field staff of the Ontario Federation to assist in developing county programs.

The O.F.A. bulletin says: "Mr. Hergott has served well in several capacities of the farm movement, and is well fitted for the job. Within the next few months he will attempt to make contacts with the secretaries or fieldmen of county federations in order to become more familiar with the joys and sorrows peculiar to each county. While Ray's field of operations is not restricted, it is intended that most of his activities will be confined to the western half of the province.

William Legault of Moose Creek will soon be engaged in similar activities in the eastern section of Ontario. He is a member of the O.F.A. executive.

✦ ✦ ✦

TRACTOR CLUB WINNERS

Results of the boys' tractor maintenance club tests at the local Achievement Day have been received by F. C. Paterson from OAC.

Highest score was made by Henry Guyatt of Smith with 859 points of the possible 1,000. Second was Walter Clark of Norwood with 857. He was also a member of the east side dairy club. The others were: Allan Bell, Smith; James Green, Otonabee; Francis Walsh, Otonabee; Howard Johnston, North Monaghan; James Kempt, Otonabee; Ray Allen, Douro; Elwood Begg of Asphodel.

Ralph G. Gregg of the engineering department of OAC was district supervisor of tractor clubs which featured not only care of the machine but also the element of safety in their operations. Irvine McIntosh was club leader.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED

Peterborough Federation directors recently complimented their fieldman, Harold Lewis, on the resultful work he has been doing. Mention has already been made of the series of Saturday broadcasts, 12:15 to 12:25 p.m. which he has succeeded in maintaining from early spring without any interruption.

Mr. Lewis says that obviously his effort would have failed if he had not received the co-operation of the women and men who accepted radio appointments. His fall program includes missionary work to increase the number of Peterborough farm radio forums. Promotion of Kawartha Medical Services is another of his activities.

✦ ✦ ✦

HOOTON WINS AGAIN

William Hooton fashioned his furrows into another prize at the Northumberland-Durham plowing match last week on the Stanley Allin farm north of Newcastle.

The old Cavan veteran placed first with horses in sod, winning from Will Allin of Newcastle and James McGowan of Fraserville.

The owner of the farm won the tractor-two furrow class in sod, followed by Glen Allin of Newcastle and Earl Linton of Cobourg.

Mr. Hooton was awarded the Esso and Trent Valley Bakeries trophies. Alex McKinney of Brampton was the guest speaker at the evening dinner.

✦ ✦ ✦

JUNIORS' ANNUAL

Peterborough Junior Farmers begin their fall series of meetings Tuesday Oct. 16 in the office of the Department of Agriculture. This is really the annual meeting with nomination of directors for 1951-52. John Edmison is president.

TRIP CANCELLED

The proposed bus trip to the international plowing match Thursday had to be cancelled. Only fifteen applications were reported up to noon Tuesday. Twice that number, at least, were required to pay for transportation.

✦ ✦ ✦

ASSISTANT APPOINTED

Fred M. Campbell, agricultural representative in Kent, has been appointed assistant manager of Ontario stockyards.

✦ ✦ ✦

SOIL CIRCULAR

Farmers may think that the subject and advice of maintaining soil fertility receives too much emphasis, but evidently OAC would not agree with that opinion. The College has issued a new circular entitled, "Is Your Soil Healthy?" Copies may be obtained from OAC or at the office of F. C. Paterson, agricultural representative.

Five bulls averaged $417; 35 milking females $573; 14 breed heifers $488; two open heifers $362; and one heifer calf $275.

DATE NOT YET SET

Plans by Federation of Agriculture and Chamber of Commerce for luncheon with Dr. H. H. Hannam as speaker halted temporarily this week in quest of an open date.

Tuesday Oct. 23 was proposed in discussion, and appeared to be acceptable to everybody until it was learned that the Empress was booked for that date. Latest report is that the dinner will have to be postponed until early in November.

Dr. Hannam is president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. Peterborough remembers him as a young farmer of ideas and ability to express them, and especially a conviction of rural unity.

Red and White Holsteins Established As New Breed

The Ayrshire Post, Scotland (Sept. 21) says a new Red Friesian Society has been formed to register the Friesian cattle in red and white herds as well as the red calves which are born to black and white dams.

These red and white calves have never been eligible for registration in the Herd Book of the British Friesian Society before, and this step means, in effect, the establishment of a further cattle breed.

The Post mentions breed changes down the years. "No one ever thinks about the Craven cattle of Yorkshire or the Dutch cattle introduced there some time in the 1600's. Regarding the last named breed, there is little wonder that they have been forgotten since a description of their descendants of the 17th century tells that they "were more like an ill-made black horse than an ox or cow".

At these times there were no Herefords with distinctive white faces, and the Angus cattle were not polled, but there were Angleseys and Red Glamorgans, Middle Horns, Norfolk Horns and Longhorns all of which have now been submerged in the struggle for supremacy in which superiority of type and performance had to prevail.

"These changes in the breeds of cattle are now comparatively slow, and at the same time may be regarded as merely minor improvements compared with those of the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries.

This is not the case in all countries. In the southern United States wide crosses of Indian cattle—Brahmans and Scindis—are being made with European cattle in an effort to arrive at a fairly stable breed type to suit the semi-tropical heat of the Gulf of Mexico . . ."

The Red Trondheim cattle of Norway descend directly from Ayrshires imported from Scotland in the 1850's and 1860's.

The Post refers to a Russian announcement of a new Soviet breed called the "White-headed Kazakhstan".

"When one enquires a little more deeply into this amazing feat of Russian ingenuity, one finds that this breed arose from the purchase in 1932 of Hereford bulls from Britain and Uruguay. Local cattle were upgraded by direct crossing with these Herefords, and inbreeding to at least the third generation."

"No acknowlergment is of course made to this country. However, it is a comforting thought that the Russians intend to populate the whole area from the Volga to the borders of western China with this "new" breed of Hereford mongrels."

Arms Chief Quits Tries Hand At New Job

TORONTO, Oct. 12 (CP). — Canada's arms production chief is giving up his job to become president and general manager of Avro Canada Limited, which manufactures jet aircraft at nearby Malton.

It was announced Thursday night that Crawford Gordon Jr., 40-year-old former president of the English Electric Company of Canada and executive vice-president of the John Inglis Company, will leave the government service to take over the Avro position.

He will have responsibility for hurrying into production the Orenda jet engine and the aircraft it powers, the CF-100 long-range all-weather fighter.

Begins Monday

He steps into his new job Monday, succeeding Walter N. Deisher, 61, who has been vice-president and general manager of Avro Canada almost since its inception in 1945. A company announcement said Mr. Deisher is retiring for reasons of health but will remain a member of the board of directors.

Sir Roy Dobson, until now Avro Canada's president, becomes chairman of the board, a position vacant since the death recently of J. P. Bickell, financier and industrialist.

As co-ordinator of defence production, Mr. Gordon Since February has been second only to the Minister, C. D. Howe, in the defence production department.

New Sleeping Pill

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—(AP)—A safe new sleeping pill doesn't cause drug-addiction or hangovers, and apparently couldn't cause suicides, medical reports announced Thursday. It puts people to sleep in a half hour or less, with no bad effects noted yet, the announcement said. The drug, Dormison Aktradename, is a liquid in a green capsule.

213 Holsteins Entered District Show Wednesday

Holstein cattle worth at a rough estimate $200,000, probably more than that, will be assembled here for the East-Central Ontario Black and White Championships at Morrow Park Wednesday Oct. 17.

Gerald E. Nelson, Holstein fieldman, reports that 73 exhibitors have entered 213 select representatives of their herds. To qualify for the championships they must be winners at their county Black and White days.

The judge will be Professor Gordon M. Cairns of Maryland State University. The first class will be brought into the ring at 10 a.m.

The public is invited to Morrow Park. There is no admission. Catalogues will be distributed, and a broadcasting system will keep spectators informed of the progress of the show in the main building. Seats will be provided at the ringside, and dinner will be served by the women's auxiliary of the local Holstein Breeders' Association.

For the first time in the history of this show (this is its tenth year) breeders will compete for a county herd trophy that has been donated by F. Roy Ormiston of Brooklin, former fieldman who is expected as one of the strong group of breeders from Ontario county. It will be awarded to the winning county herd.

The Murco Farms Trophy, given by W. J. Murphy of Lindsay, goes to the owner of the best uddered female.

Mr. Nelson says: "Holstein cattle owners and enthusiasts should not miss this opportunity to see top quality cattle on display. This is an important educational event."

Interest will be particularly focussed on one of the final classes of the program, the county herd award, which Ontario breeders have taking home with them in recent years.

Two Men Wounded In Korean Fighting

OTTAWA, Oct. 12—(CP)—The Army yesterday issued the 62nd casualty list of the Korean war, reporting two men killed in action, another dead of wounds and six others injured.

The list brought to 328 the number of casualties suffered so far by the 25th Canadian Brigade in Korean action. They include 74 dead, 228 wounded, 25 injured and one missing.

Those wounded in action included:

Connell, James Alexander, Lieut.; RCIC; next-of-kin, Dr. Ebgert W. Connell (father), 262 Willingdon Ave., Kingston.

Nott, Glyn Vernon, Spr.; RCE; Cambridge, N.B.; next-of-kin, Mrs. Evelyn Gladys Knott (wife), 1904 Harriot Street, North Bay.

Hamilton Store Cuts Prices; Buyers' Spree

HAMILTON Oct. 12 (CP). — A Hamilton department store is all set for a customers' buying spree today.

The Right House, controlled by United States interests, announced in a half-page newspaper advertisement Thursday that some merchandise usually sold at prices set by the manufacturer will go on sale today at sharply reduced prices. The sale will continue until existing stocks of the marked-down items are sold out.

Right House president K. Bond said in an interview that the move followed announcement in the speech from the throne at the opening of parliament Tuesday that the government plans legislation forbidding manufacturers to fix the retail prices of their products.

Mr. Bond, whose store also has an outlet in Brantford, said:

"Price-cutting has been done before by smaller places, like electrical appliance shops, without advertising. Why shouldn't we do the same thing and advertise, too?"

No price reductions were announced by the Brantford store.

Some Offerings

Some offerings for today (with the regular price shown in brackets):

Mixmasters, $39.95 ($73.95); tooth paste, 51 cents (60 cents); electric irons, $11.95 ($16.25); electric tea kettles, $12.95 ($16.-50.)

General Electric Company, some of whose products are affected by the Hamliton cuts, said in Toronto that it has made no reductions at the manufacturers' level.

Inquiries at various retail storcs in Toronto failed to reveal any plans to follow the Hamilton action, at least at present.

In Montreal, Hugh Crombie, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Thursday said that outlawing retail price fixing by manufacturers would not be to the benefit of consumers, retailers or manufacturers.

Mr. Crombie said he could only reiterate the stand taken by the CMA in its submission to the MacQuarrie Commission on combines legislation earlier this year that retail price maintenance by the individual manufacturer does not lessen competition, enhance prices or limit production, but is beneficial to the public, the dealer and the manufacturer.

Mr. Crombie said that without such price fixing, retailers could also boost their prices in times of short supply.

Hope Dwindles For Seaway Help

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Hopes that the United States would participate in the building of the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway project dwindled today and it appeared apparent that Canada would have to build it alone.

This was the view of officials here following action Thursday by the US public works committee in Washington to postpone a meeting on draft legislation to authorize the $700,000,000 project until after Jan. 1 next.

President Truman had told Prime Minister St. Laurent that he would approve of an all-Canadian construction only as "second best" choice, if Congress did not soon approve of joint Canada-US participation.

The committee's action, reported in a dispatch from Washington, now will leave Mr. Truman free to approve of the second choice, one official said.

It also will pave the way for immediate consideration by Washington of granting approval to New York and Ontario to develop a multi-million dollar power project on the St. Lawrence.

Power Costs Up

TORONTO, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Ontario industry will pay more for its power if the St. Lawrence Seaway doesn't go through, Robert Saunders said Thursday. In an address to the Empire Club, the chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission warned that failure to go through with the project will mean that steam generating facilities must be increased.

Attlee Declares British People Eating Well

LONDON, Oct. 12 — (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee contended Thursday night that the British people are better fed now than before the war, despite the country's post-war difficulties.

Continuing a whistle-stop campaign, the Labor Party leader spoke at Hyde and Ashton-under-Lyne.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, speaking at South Lewisham, a London working-class district, said the Conservative Party probably was to blame for Egypt's demand that British troops quit the Suez Canal zone.

He argued that Egypt had been encouraged by the Conservatives' insistence that Britain was weak under Socialist rule.

Criticizes Policies

For the Conservatives, Deputy Leader Anthony Eden spoke at Cardiff, criticizing the Labor Party for its policies with regard to the Iranian oil crisis. Earlier in the day Conservative Leader Winston Churchill, stumping his own constituency for the October 25 general election, told a rally at Woodford that Britain faces a new economic crisis which he blamed on Labor's "extravagance and mismanagement."

Attlee, referring to Tory charges that Britain's economic life is hampered by too many government controls, told his audience:

"When the Tories talk about throwing off the controls, they are simply talking from the depth of their experience. They would find it necessary to keep a great number of the controls they now clamor to lift."

"They are two years old and the property of Dr. McGirk, veterinarian of Dauphin. They are trained to the leash and were a common sight in that Manitoba town.

"Their names are Peter and Paul, and I am told they don't agree on religion, one being a Roman Catholic and the other a Prostestant. You can prove this with a feed of fish.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Many Tasty Ways of Serving Cauliflower To Family

By KAY REX,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Cauliflower and cabbages — did you know they were related? The cauliflower in fact is described in the dictionary as "a cabbage with a large fleshy, flow head."

No matter its ancestry, the point is that this vegetable may be served in a variety of ways; more ways than the average housewife possibly realizes. While it's near the end of the season for the home grown variety, imported cauliflower can be bought practically the year round.

Cauliflower with cream sauce or just with a pat of butter on top —these are the two most widely known ways of serving. But cauliflower French-fried or fried and sauted with fine herbs, also makes a tasty dish.

The experts recommend cooking the cauliflower, leaves and all. In effect, this gives two vegetables the white curd together with the greens.

It is one vegetable that should be cooked in the shortest possible time, in an uncovered vessel, and in a large amount of water.

If the head is whole, allow 25 minutes; if separated, 10 to 15 minutes.

No Trimmings

Did you know that the cauliflower may also be eaten raw?

Separate the head into "flowers" of reasonable size. Drain. Remove imperfections. Sprinkle with salt. Chill one-half hour in the water. Drain. Impale on toothpicks and serve with mayonaise.

The mayonaise may be made with: one egg yolk; two tablespoons vinegar; one-quarter teaspoon mustard; three-quarters teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; one cup salad oil.

Beat egg yolk and add one tablespoon vinegar. Add mustard, salt and pepper. Mix well. Drop oil a teaspoonful at a time into the egg mixture. Beat constantly until four tablespoons of oil have been added. Then add oil in larger quantities, beating thoroughly after each addition. As the mixture thickens add the remaining vinegar a little at a time.

Chilly Mornings

There's nothing like a breakfast of pancakes these crisp autumn days.

Ingredients: 6 cups sifted flour; 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt; 2½ teaspoons baking soda; 1 quart buttermilk.

Sift the dry ingredients and add well-beaten egg and buttermilk. Drop into hot greased pan. When full of bubbles and brown on one side, turn over.

RCAF Girls Become Rescue Teams

JASPER, Alta—(CP)—The air force calls them ordinary Canadian girls, but they're a lot more than that.

The girls who are members of the RCAF parachute rescue teams are trained to parachute into the wildest bush country without regard for life and limb in their mission of bringing resuce and relief to persons in difficulty in remote sections.

They can hop backwards down the steepest cliff faces, negotiate rivers by raft or canoe, handle an axe with the dexterity of any man, cross any glacier or wrest a living from the bush if necessary.

There were five of them originally, but one is temporarily out of action with injuries.

All are RCAF nurses. PO (nursing sister) Marian Frances Neily, 22, of Middleton, NS, was the first air force nurse to parachute from an aircraft in Canada. Nursing Sister Anna Louise Peden 30, of Victoria, BC, is a sister of the famous six-day bike racers Torchy and Doug Peden. Nursing sister Luella Marion MacDonald, 26, of Vancouver, is a sister of Harry MacDonald who won the military cross overseas during the Second Great War. Nursing sister Jean Isabelle Thomson, 23, came from South River, Ont.

The fifth, nursing sister Muriel Beaton of North Bay, suffered a broken leg as a result of a parachute jump at Namao airport near Edmonton recently.

All Volunteer:

The girls, all volunteers, with two doctors and eight medical assistants are taking the special parachute rescue course at Edmonton and Jasper. It is the first time women have been trained for this type of work in Canada.

The idea for the para-rescue course was conceived during the Second World War by the famous bush pilot W. R. (Wop) May, at that time associated with the RCAF.

Objectives are three-fold:

1. To give the pupil a sound knowledge of the technique and application of bush lore, mountain climbing, travel afoot in rough terrain and survival practices.

2. To train pupils in the use and maintenance of life saving, supply dropping and rescue equipment.

3. To impart to the pupil a knowledge of the correct methods of parachute jumping under favorable or unfavorable conditions for rescue purposes.

Tough Training

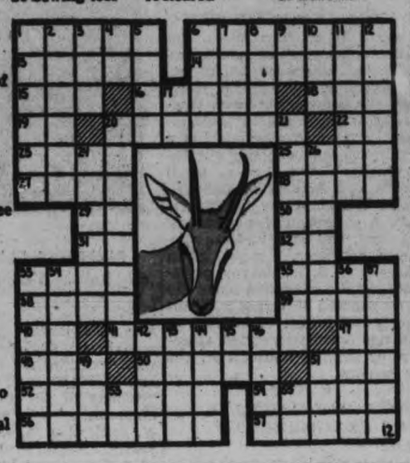
Training is intense. It includes 401 hours of practical and classroom training, of which 65 hours are devoted to physical training. The keynote of the whole school is physical fitness. It results in 2½ hours of PT a day.

The women are expected to hold their own with the men—both in training and in the field. So far, they have compared well in training.

It's Wonderful

Do the girls like the work? Miss MacDonald, after completing a jump at Henry House field, near Jasper, said "Oh, my goodness, that was wonderful."

Why do the girls go in for this kind of work? "It sounded like a good chance to see some of the country and to do things other people don't do."



Parachute jumping holds little terror for the students—male or female—and is considered the least dangerous part of the work. Cliff descent—or cliff repelling as it is called—causes the most anxiety. The cliff gives a sensation not experienced in a plane.

HealthTalk At Omemee H&S

OMEMEE, Oct. 12—(ENS)—Dental health for children was the subject for consideration at Omemee Home and School, Thursday evening. The guest speaker was Dr. S. J. Graham of the Peterborough Dental Association. Mrs. Graham was also a guest.

During the opening exercises special prayer for the King was led by the president.

The high school for the second month in succession won the shield for highest parent attendance. The next meeting, which is to include a pot-luck supper, was announced for November 13. Other announcements were: a local paper drive Saturday October 13, bundles to be set out for collectors, and the Regional Conference to be held October 27 in Queen Mary School, Peterborough.

On motion of Mrs. R. Kenny and Mrs. R. James $5 was granted Mrs. Hicks for publications expenditure.

A musical film was shown after which the speaker was introduced by L. M. Curtis. Mr. Graham prefaced his address with a dental film, "Something to chew on", which demonstrated the need to take every precaution to prevent poor dental health in children.

He said the dental health program was directed entirely to children, as the only hope lay in preventative measures. In the First World War 40 per cent of the applicants for overseas service were turned down for physical unfitness, and one half of those rejections were for poor dental health. The harm was done, he said when the teeth were being formed. Caring for baby teeth is very important since infection in the baby tooth spreads to the root which is also the root of the permanent tooth.

There is a definite relationship between diet and dental health, said Mr. Graham. The necessary vitamins can be supplied by following the Canadian food rules, he said, too much starch and sugar is not good.

He also dealt with some causes of crooked teeth and advised the use of a space maintainer where a tooth has been lost too soon.

Mrs. W. Wedlock moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Graham. Lunch was served by social convener Mrs. C. McGill and her committee.

High Necklines Demand Careful Hair Grooming

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.

LONDON (CP).—As if choosing clothes and accessories weren't enough, women nowadays must also match their hair styles to the latest thing in necklines.

With the current choice running to giraffe-necked styles and smooth-lined mandarin collars, untidy hairlines with shaggy ends will not do.

For instance, it's no longer the thing to wear a swathe of hair touching one, or both, shoulders of a tailored suit. The hairline should sweep upwards in a smooth, blown effect around the edges of a small, neat hat.

As long as it's short and tidy, however, there are plenty of styles you can pick to wear with classic lines of tailored clothes. The trouble starts when your choice in necklines runs to the funnel form, the high Eton collars and polo-neck styles that are the latest Paris trends.

There's no sense for instance, in spoiling the effect of a beautifully-cut high neckline by loose hair covering the back and swinging as you turn your head. Better by far to pick the styles worn by Christian Dior models and smooth the hair backwards into a Helen-of-Troy top-knot.

Edwardian Hair-do

If your features are not suited for this severity of line, the soft upsweep of a short-cut Edwardian hair-do is the choice of Jacques Fauth. This is a perfect combination with tiny, head-hugging hats and the high postilion collars of heavy winter coats.

One such style is "Festivana," a new look that brings back memories of the wartime upsweeps. Accent is on a long, crescent-shaped parting supported by a lightly-waved fringe. Hair from the temples is swept upwards and back into a crest that gives a Grecian profile.

The "Astrakhan Look," is another sure winner for high collars trimmed with fur of the same name. This is an oblique look with kiss-curls coming from a soft forehead wave to the tips of the ears. The covered ears and straight, semi-shingle back recalls the 1930 look, with an up-to-date slant that loses nothing of its fiminity in the boyish cut.

The latter are just two of the styles shown in London as entries for the International Gold Star Festival, one of the hairdressing events of the year. There were exotic, elaborate or fantastic styles shown. The main object was to find something a woman could wear on all occasions.

Current Events Club Given Basic Outline of Canada '51

Initial meeting of a club planned for the study and clarification of current events took place Thursday evening at the YWCA. Planned for the convenience of business girls and men, it was preceded by a buffet supper, served sharp at six o'clock in the library, and hearty approval was given this arrangement.

For anyone interested in the events that are taking place in today's world there are many sources of information, so many in fact that many young people in business are collecting only a smattering of knowledge about them. In this Current Events Supper Club will be discussed the highlights of the month preceding the meeting with each member contributing information. There will also be a speaker on a subject of special interest, and it is suggested that members themselves may give short talks on certain events.

Mr. Charles Hurst gave at this first meeting a specially prepared paper outlining the factors that are affecting life in Canada this year, as a basis for the intended study. First he mentioned interesting events on the domestic scene and secondly dwelt on a few significant trends in foreign affairs.

Subjects closest to the average wage - earner's heart, inflation, wage and price control, credit restrictions and their affect on business and the consumer were included. There was speculation as to legislation to cover payment of the old age pension; the probability of Canada's going ahead with the St. Lawrence seaway, and a club discussion of the project brought out background details of the work in re-establishing the flooded-out areas that are not realized by many persons. Mr. Hurst said he believes it is "quite within Canada's possibilities" to put the seaway through.

Developments in progress in the natural resources of the nation were mentioned; recent discovery of almost unlimited high grade iron ore which may lead to expansion of the steel industry; development of a new aluminum plant in Western Canada and the Alberta oil fields; uranium sources in Canada.

Turning to the field of foreign affairs the speaker pointed out that Canada now has representatives in almost every capital of the world, and is represented on most international organizations. Keystone of its foreign policy is support of the United Nations, he said. Comment was made on the Japanese peace treaty and its contents, with speculations as to what British Columbia may do about the article relating to fishing. He also discussed Canadian-American relations, pointing out that drastic measures may be taken to conserve American dollars since Canada's balance of trade with US is getting more and more out of equilibium.

Mention of some thorny problems facing the present session of Parliament at Ottawa concluded the coverage.

The speaker was thanked by Miss M. McIntosh, who chaired the meeting as representative of the YW public affairs committee which is sponsoring the club.

Those present expressed the feeling they would enjoy this type of study club, and a meeting was planned for November 8th. Subject for discussion will be the municipal election set-up and regulations, and a speaker will be contacted.

Woman Devotes 25 Years To Helping Boys On Farm

MITCHELL (CP).—The story of an elderly woman who has been mother to a thousand sons is about to end.

Since 1925 Miss Baker's farm in Fullarton township has been home at one time or another for more than 1,000 boys who have made false starts in life. Cared for by the kindly woman, the majority, committed to the farm by various welfare authorities, have returned to society cured of anti-social tendencies. Few have failed her.

At present Miss Baker has seven boys on her farm, but it may be that these are her last. A quarter century devoted almost exclusively to the work of rehabilitation hasn't been easy.

Hattie Baker's interest in boys' welfare can be traced to her father who opened his farm for youth in need of a home. His daughter continued the tradition and often had as many as 60 boys under her care both in her home and at the homes of neighbors. The young Miss Baker acted as welfare officer, visiting foster homes to check on conditions and treatment.

Work Important

Miss Baker's rehabilitation program centres around work and education. She claims that once you've taught a boy to work you've taken the first steps in saving his soul.

Sticking to her philosophy, she has the boys get up between seven and eight o'clock, according to their ages, and help with the house and farm chores before going to school. Children of public school age are then taught by Miss Ethel Kennedy on the farm while the others attend Mitchell high school.

No boundaries are placed in the way of the boys while they are on the farm. On its 150 acres they help in sowing and harvesting the crops and each has his daily assignment.

All this Hattie Baker, farmer, social worker and educationist accomplishes with plenty of hard work and what she terms "the help of the Lord."

Teen-Age Marriage Hits Snag Ten Years Later

DEAR MISS DIX: I am in a very confused state of mind, and hope the full story of my difficulties will help you advise me. I am 26 years old, my husband is 33 and we have been married ten years. We have one child, 4. My childhood was very unhappy and I married at 16, having known my husband just a short while. We had just a few weeks happiness, then Mac began to change. He seemed to resent being tied down and we quarreled continually. He went into service, and when he came out I asked for a divorce. He was greatly surprised at the suggestion, but it gave him a shock and he began to be his old, kind, considerate self again. Since then, he has been everything a wife could ask in a husband. He works steadily, spends all his free time with me and our child and gives us everything we need or want. But I am not content with him. The bitterness of our early wedded years seems to linger on, and I cannot forget the mean things he did then. I want to keep our home together, but I do not love Mac, nor ever will again, I am sure. There is no one else!

Dorothy Dix

ANNETTE

ANSWER: You have reached a serious crisis in your life and one which, you should not try to solve alone! If you contact the Family Counselor Service in your city, or the nearest large one, you will be able to discuss your problem with a trained worker who can give you more assistance than is possible by mail.

All marriages require adjustment on the part of both parties to make them successful, but the marriage of a teen-ager propounds a double problem. A bride of 16 must grow up, making the transition from adolescence to womanhood, in addition to suddenly acquiring the wisdom to become a wife and mother. Sometimes it works out all right, but more often the results are pretty disastrous.

Separation Is No Solution

You have faced the facts of your marriage very well, and your letter, which I have had to shorten, indicates character and intelligence. You'll need these qualities to cope with the situation you are facing. Separation from your husband is not the solution, in my opinion. A good husband is a jewel without price and incompatibility is not sufficient cause to break up a home. So you see, as usual, the salvation of the marriage is up to the wife. You must face the future with complete awareness of your own shortcomings, and with, as I have suggested, the aid of expert counsel.

You have brooded too much on your own feelings—not with pity, but with more introspection than is good. Even though you do not love Mac, the cause is not lost. You do admire and respect him, and be assured, this is a better foundation for mutual happiness than the reverse. Accept, with gratitude, the efforts he makes to create a happy home, extend all possible co-operation, and stop worrying about your minor faults.

A larger family would unboubtedly help. If you can't have more children of your own, why not consider adopting at least one more? With the established nucleus of a growing family, you should have a happy future.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 16 years old and have been going with a boy 20 for a year. I know I love him, and he loves me. We want to get married but he has one more year to go in school and I have two. My family thinks I am too young to be married, but does age really matter if we love each other?

MARIA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Age matters very much indeed! You should at least finish school before you marry, not only because it will give you a chance to mature and develop sense, but the education will be a great advantage to you. In fact, it is impossible to acquire too much. Your boy friend, too, needs all the schooling he can get. He will be making a living for himself and family in a competitive world where training is important. Don't make him give up his chance to learn.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend is in the service, and truly loves me. Recently he sent me his service pin. Does the acceptance of this pin signify "going steady?" What would sending him my sorority pin signify?

ANN C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The exchange of pins would certainly signify "going steady," especially when you have already declared your love for each other.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Husband Asks For Recipe For Hot Relish

QUESTION: I am still enjoying your column as much as ever, and am looking forward to many more delightful recipes.

Would you happen to have a recipe for "Hot Picalilly Relish" on hand? My husband bought a bottle of it and has been asking me to make it up ever since he finished it, which was in a week's time. Would you also have a recipe for "Sweet and Sour Pickles", I am sorry I did not write sooner . . .

P.S.: I like your family too.

ELEANOR A.

ANSWER: Now what a charming way to get a quick reply! You like my family too. As I typed that Pete walked in from school, with a Cheshire grin on his face. I said "What are you grinning at?" He said "I'll tell you if you'll tell me why you're looking so happy". Then I showed him your letter. He said "Mom you're a pushover for your kids." (He had just gotten a date with his favourite girl to go to the canteen.)

Hot Picalilli Relish

Seven pounds green tomatoes, 2 small heads cabbage, 6 large onions, 6 cucumbers, 2 green peppers, 3 red sweet peppers, 1 hot red pepper, ½ cup salt. (If desired the cabbage and about half of the salt may be omitted and 1 bunch celery sliced and added.) Seed the peppers and pull all of the vegetables through medium coarse knife of food chopper. Let stand 4 hours with ½ cup salt sprinkled through them or overnight, then drain well. Mix together 2 tablespoons mustard seeds, ¼ cup grated or prepared horseradish, 1 teaspoon celery seeds, ¼ to ½ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 teaspoon black pepper, 1½ lbs. brown sugar and 1 quart vinegar. Bring the vinegar mixture to the boiling point, add the drained vegetables, bring to boiling point again, but remove from heat at once—or crispness will go out of vegetables. Pour into ½-pint or 1-pint jars which have been sterilized and seal.

Note: More hot pepper may be added and a very little more cayenne if desired. On the other hand for the other readers who see this it might be too hot. If so, leave out hot red peppers and cayenne.

Sweet And Sour Pickles

Use cucumbers of slicing size and peel them if preferred, but they are better looking not peeled. Cut into lengthwise strips then into shorter pieces. (Small whole cucumbers may be used.) Put the prepared cucumbers into 10 or 12 pint-size jars which have been sterilized. (If you would like to add other vegetables such as cut up celery, strips of sweet red pepper or hot cooked cauliflower flowerettes you may). Heat to boiling point 1 quart vinegar, 1 cup sugar, ½ cup salt and 1 pint water. Pour over the cucumbers in the jars and seal. The jars should be placed in a pan of hot water to prevent them breaking when the hot vinegar is poured over.

Pickles must be closely packed in the jars for this amount of liquid to be enough to cover all of them. Sliced onions may be added if desired.

QUESTION: Would you please send me the amounts required for a dinner for 75 guests of the following items: Cottage Roll, Scalloped potatoes, vegetable salad, ice cream, cookies, rolls, coffee. Mrs. G. K.

ANSWER: Sixteen pound piece cottage roll will slice generously to serve 75 people; 3 or 3½ pecks of potatoes for scalloped potatoes; 12 cans peas, corn or beans serve 75; 8 quarts salad; 3 gallons ice cream serve 75 liberally; you will need 150 large size cookies; 7 dozen rolls (or 8 if many of the guests are men); 1½ cups fine grind coffee serves 75 ed with a little whole milk and evaporated milk, about 1½ lbs. cube sugar.

if boiled, and 3 pints cream mix-

Home Games Best For Kiddies

LONDON—(CP)—Don't throw away your old hats, worn-out handbags and odd scraps of materials, says Britain's health ministry. Give them to the children for a "dressing-up box".

The ministry offered this advice in a handbook on how to keep children happy at play.

Dressing up, the handbook says, helps to satisfy the child's desire to be grown up and stimulates conversation with other children.

A "junk box" is another good idea. Filled with old screw-top jars, empty thread-reels and other odds and ends, it will teach a child 'to use reason and imagination in adapting things for the particular purpose it has in mind."

The handbook warns that too many fairy tales can frighten a sensitive child. "Real life stories, preferably about people of the listener's own age, are much better."
